Letters to the Editor

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Through the medium of your "Sunbeams" column, we had two telephone calls from residents of Quincy who donated their wheel chairs for our Nursery School purposes. Actually only one of the wheel chairs was acceptable for our needs.

A very prominent citizen of Quincy has offered to purchase for us a new wheel chair as a result of reading your newspaper. It is very encouraging and heartening to know that there are many people who will help a cause whenever the need is known. Of course, the medium of communication in this instance was through your very worth while periodical.

Best wishes for your continued success and for the spirit of cooperation which has marked your career as a newsman.

World Affairs Lecture Focus On China Jan. 9

"China's Cultural Revolution" will be the subject of the fourth in the current series of free public World Affairs Lectures sponsored by the United Nations Council of the South Shore which will be held at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 9 in the United First Parish Church opposite Quincy City Hall.

Co-sponsors of this meeting will be area League of Women Voters.

The address will be given by Dr. Merle Goldman (Mrs. Marshall Goldman), Professor of Economics at Wellesley College and Associate of the Harvard Russian Research Center. Mrs. Goldman has been a lecturer in Chinese History in the Graduate School of Northeastern University, a member of Harvard's East Asian Research Center, and a Fellow at the Radcliffe Institute for Independent Study. She is the author of numerous articles on modern China and of the book, "Liberary Dissent in Communist China," which was published last year by Harvard University Press.

The meeting will be preceded by a catered dinner at 6:30 p.m., reservations for which should be made no later than Monday, January 6 through one of the following: Miss Vera Call of 55 Spear St.; Miss Edith Coulman of 20 Woodward Ave.; or Mrs. Viola Ellis of 18 Terne Rd., all of Quincy.

Junior College Loan

Congr. James A. Burke (D–Milton) has announced that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Office of Education has approved for the establishment or continuation of the National Defense Student Loan Program to Quincy Jr. College in Quincy.

The amount of the approved allocation is $50.

Sunbeams

Rep. Joseph E. Brett reportedly is starting the new year with "the bug"--not the Hong Kong flu but the "Beacon Hill Fever."

Although he himself is pretty mum about it, close sources say he is seriously considering a bid for Lieutenant governor in 1970.

The outspoken Quincy Democrat, starting his sixth term in the House, has long been an active and popular figure in Elks circles which would serve as a very helpful launching pad for a state-wide office campaign.

Whether Brett actually tosses his hat into the ring remains to be seen.

If he does, it could upset the political plans--or at least political thoughts--of three other Quincy figures.

Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre, Dist. Atty. George G. Burke and former Lt. Gov. Francis X. Bellotti, all have their eye on state-wide office.

But, for geographical balance, four Quincy men will never wind up on the same ticket. Nor for that matter, will three or two. One might.

Which one would it be?

If all four are serious contenders, there will no doubt be a local "summit" meeting among the four to decide which one would be the most likely to succeed on the 1970 Democratic ticket.

FRESHMAN Rep. Clifford H. Marshall wants to keep in close touch with his constituents. He is planning to set up office hours at City Hall to meet with residents of Wards 2 and 3 who are interested in discussing pending Beacon Hill legislation.

"I want them to have the opportunity to talk things over and to let me know how they feel about bills affecting them," explains Marshall.

Not many residents, he notes, have the time to make the trip to the State House to be heard. But City Hall is "just up the street" for them.

TOGETHERNESS: When Dist. Atty. George G. Burke went to Quincy City Hospital to meet his new daughter, Debra Lynn (fourth girl, fifth child), he also got acquainted with his new niece. In the nursery side by side, were Debra Lynn and his niece Lynn Mulkerrin, second daughter of his sister, Mrs. Kathleen Mulkerrin of Lincoln Ave.

INSIDERS still think there will be a major personnel change or two around City Hall during 1969. Go ahead and guess.

THE DEATH of Patrolman William Muir takes from the Quincy scene of those rare "real nice guys" who just don't come along often enough in a lifetime. Bill always had a smile and a nice word for everyone. He did his job quietly, but effectively. He never tried to push anyone around because he wore a badge. In fact, he bent the other way to give them a break. He'll be missed.

IF YOU'VE ever served on jury duty, you might appreciate this one from the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association newsletter. Seems the jury was unable to agree upon a verdict and the judge rebuked them because, said he, it was a very clear case.

He sent them back to the jury room to deliberate and warned they were going to stay there until they did reach a verdict. "If you don't reach an agreement before evening, I will have 12 suppers sent into you," he said.

"May it please your Honor, "spoke up the foreman in an irate tone, "you had better make it 11 suppers and – one bundle of hay!"

SMILE DEPT: Times certainly have changed muses Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board. He over-heard his 13-year-old son, Dick, warning his five-year-old brother, Tom: "If you're not a good boy, Santa will leave coal in your stocking." To which Tom, quite puzzled, replied: "What's coal?"

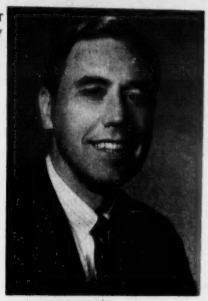
Teen-Age Model City Council Reaches Booster Stage

Plans are underway on a school-wide level for organization of the Youth Council first proposed by City Council president J. Vincent Smythe.

Substantial progress in the innovative approach to student participation in municipal affairs was reported by Councillor Arthur H. Tobin.

Councillor Tobin, chairman of the City Council Youth Committee, noted that school administrators and faculty had evidenced support for the political education project in a series of recent meetings.



Following a meeting with Acting School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, Tobin reported that a principal's conference would take up the matter of Youth Council organization.

"We feel with the enthusiasm and support of school officials combined with the City Council, this could be a meaningful and significant undertaking," Tobin said.

Dr. Creedon will discuss organizational plans with the principals of the high schools, four junior high schools and Woodward School, Tobin asserted.

Under consideration are plans to select single Youth Council nominees to represent Broad Meadows, Quincy Point, Sterling, Central, Atlantic and Woodward schools and two from Quincy and North Quincy High Schools.

Under standard Council procedure the Youth Council would be composed of ninth graders as junior high representatives, and 10th, 11th and 12th graders, on the high school level.

COUNCILOR TOBIN

Teacher-controlled ballots will be marked, tabulated and turned over to school principals. Following municipal procedures, ballots will be submitted to City Hall election officials.

Tobin praised the attitude of interested students organized as United Students For Youth Govt. A delegation of the students met with him in the Quincy High School library to discuss the Youth Council formulation, Tobin said.

To be eligible for Youth Council nomination, students must obtain 50 student endorsement signatures and signatures of five major subject teachers.

Tobin emphasized that the student action program was not designed for student utilization as "political pressure groups or to serve individual or partisan interests."

The principal purpose is to achieve higher levels of student knowledge of government and a transmission of this knowledge to other students, Tobin pointed out.

He cited similar Youth Councils in other communities as an example of increasing interest and active participation of young people in state and municipal elections. The candidates supported by individual Council members reflected interest in major figures from both principal parties, Tobin noted.

Momentum for Youth Council policies and programs will be initiated by students and faculty and not by the City Council who will follow a "hands off" policy in the internal affairs of the Youth Council. Both groups are expected to coordinate in opening up broader channels for youth participation in municipal government.

The youth legislature is expected to be modeled after the municipal branch, however, with counterparts named to fill Councillor, Councillor-at-large and Council president seats.

Tobin, also a state representative, said he would make a progress report to the City Council following the meeting between Dr. Creedon and school principals.

The project has been enthusiastically received by Mayor James R. McIntyre and the Quincy legislative delegation, in addition to the City Council and school officials.

"They are 100 per cent for the youngsters," said Tobin.

Beth Israel New Officers

Newly elected officers of Beth Israel Synagogue were installed on Sunday morning with Rabbi Jacob Mann officiating.

Honored on this occasion was Benjamin Bean for his 25 years as treasurer of the Synagogue.

Guest speaker was Rabbi David H. Weisenberg from Hull.

Services were held at 9 a.m. followed by breakfast in the vestry of the Synagogue. The installation was held following the breakfast.

The new officers are as follows: Morris Silverman, president; Jack Klaver, vice president; Emanuel Kaplan, secretary and Hyman Asnes, treasurer.

Trustees are Saul Kurlansky, Louis Steinberg and Jack Krasnigor.

The annual Chanukah breakfast was held at the Synagogue on Sunday morning, December 22. Services were held at 9 a.m. followed by a traditional breakfast served by The Women's Council and Brotherhood. Each child present received a gift.

Santa Brings Joy To Two Families

Santa left joyful Christmas bundles--a boy and a girl--for two Quincy families on Dec. 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Penniman, 63 Davis St., were the happy parents of a new daughter, born at Quincy City Hospital.

The Christmas of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Moreschi, 58 Standish Ave., was brightened unforgettably with the birth of a new son, also at Quincy Hospital.

The Penniman have two other daughters, Melisa, 6, and Kelli, 3.

The Moreschis are the parents of three other children, Peter, 10; Anne, 9 and May, 5.

A DOOR INTO THE YEAR

A new year is just about to come upon us. Have you given much thought to it in the midst of your Christmas celebration? Did you, for instance, ever stop to think how January, the month of beginning, received its name and whether it has something to put into your life?

Alice Greer Kelsey, in her book, "Story Sermons for Juniors," tells about the naming of the month of January. She says that is happened long ago even before Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea. The thinkers of Rome and Greece were busy explaining things. They made up stories to explain the sun, the moon, the ocean, the seasons, the thunder and all things that made them wonder because they had no books of science or the Bible. We call these stories the myths of ancient Greece and Rome.

Janus was the mythical god for whom the month of January is named. Janus was the Roman god of doorways. In earliest times each family had its own Janus guarding its doorway or gate. As time went on, Janus was thought of as the god of all doorways, but particularly of the Arch of Janus in the City of Rome.

Pictures of Janus show him as a man with two faces, one looking forward, one looking backward, the better to see what was happening on both sides of the gate. In time Janus was looked upon as the "god of all beginnings." So it was natural to call the month that began each year by the name of Janus -- the god of the doorways and beginnings.

The Romans created their gods to suit and meet their needs. But God created his Son whose birth we just celebrated to meet our needs; One Who is greater than Janus to help us in the new year. That is Jesus, not Janus. Jesus one time said, "I am the door". Since He was "the door of the sheep", people can enter, go in and out and find pasture, -- that is food for the needs of the heart. Through Him, "The Door", we find food that sustains the human spirit in fair or stormy weather. We find love, forgiveness, mercy, hope, peace, inspiration, insight, faith in the future, and a better understanding of God's will as well as our fellow men. Jesus is "The Door" through which all can enter a better life.

Will you make use of the proper "Door" this year; not Janus but Jesus, who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life? Will you use "The Door" to enter a great new experience for 1969? For this Jesus has only one face -- the face of God, the light which men need only to see to walk safely into the future.

Air National Guard Honors Sgt. Huhebaus

Chief Master Sergeant Thomas F. Hurlebaus of Quincy was honored last week by members of the Otis Ang Base at a retirement party at the Sierra Room in Bourne. Sgt. Hurlebaus has been a member of the Massachusetts Air National Guard since 1934 and an employee of the military division of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for 30 years. He has been the Sergeant Major of the 102d Tactical Fighter Wing since its formation in 1946. The wing recently relocated from Logan Airport to Otis Air Force Base, Falmouth.

He served five years during World War II as an inspector with headquarters of the Tactical Air Command and was recalled to active duty in 1961 when President Kennedy ordered units of the Air National Guard to Europe immediately after construction of the Berlin wall.

He is a life member of the American Legion and a twice past commander of Houghs Neck American Legion Post 380.

Sgt. Hurlebaus resides at 25 Shennen St., with his wife, Laura, a son Thomas who is in the Mass Ang and a son, Richard, a student at Quincy Vocational Technical School. After retiring he plans on returning to college and to associate himself with the real estate business.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

Did you make a New Year resolution? Sad but true, even the best intentioned resolution is often broken within a few days or few weeks, causing jeers to replace cheers. Why is this?

Can it be due to an attitude of, "Oh, what's the use?" Most resolutions recognize an existing personal fault with an intention for improvement. Self improvement is elusive when one frets over failures or frustrations. If there was a use or purpose in trying in the first place, then surely there is equal use and purpose in trying again.

Any or all New Year resolutions are unnecessary if we forget the calendar date and view every day as a New Year's Day. The slogan, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again" is the best day by day resolution any one can make. As we meet the challenge of every new day, a circumstance may tend to knock us down in disappointment or despair. To keep the "Try, try again" resolution requires our getting up once oftener than we fall down. It is really quite simple. But it requires pluck, not luck...

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf

Pediatrician

(Dr. John McIver, noted Ophthalmologist, is guest columnist today for Dr. Charles Djerf. His subject is "The Lazy Eye".)

The most frequent cause of one-sided blindness is the so-called "lazy eye". Professionally this is known as "amblyopia exanopsia". Freely translated this means poor vision through lack of use.

Actually, the deficiency is not in the eye itself but in that part of the brain which interprets what the eye sees. Organically, the eye is normal.

How does this poor vision come about? When an eye turns off-line with its fellow eye, double vision results. The two images are not of equal clarity; that of the straight eye will be clear, or at least much clearer than the image of the crossed eye. Double vision is a most distressing condition so the brain immediately begins to suppress or ignore one of the two images. Naturally, it ignores the blurred image of the crossed eye.

No organ or function will develop normally if it is not used normally. This applies to the act of vision. So, if the suppression of the image of the blurred eye begins at an early age and remains untreated until, as early an age as four years, it is for all practical purposes, impossible to restore normal vision.

Happily, there are a great many youngsters with a crossed-eye to whom the above does not apply. These are children with what is called "alternating vision". It would serve no really useful purpose to try to explain what causes one child to "alternate" while another does not. Suffice it to say that these children always have good vision in each eye, rarely require glasses and can only be straightened surgically. They use only one eye at a time, but each eye is used at least part of the time. They do not have double vision because their brains lack what we call "fusion". Like color blindness or tone deafness a lack of fusion is untreatable. Probably twenty-five percent of crossed-eyed children are "alternators".

A second and less common but more insidious cause of one-sided blindness is what professionals call "anisometropia". Here the refractive state of one eye is relatively normal, while its fellow is either very far-sighted, very near-sighted, or very astigmatic. Here again the brain is presented with one clear and one blurred image and suppresses the blurred one. These cases are much more difficult to detect early than are those of the cross-eyed children. Usually these eyes are straight and with good central vision in one eye the child is unaware of any handicap. As a rule this condition is first noticed when the child goes to school. By then it is often too late for treatment.

Why are some children cross-eyed?

(1) The "alternators" have no fusion, and, therefore no stimulus to hold the eyes parallel.

(2) THE MOST COMMON SINGLE FACTOR or cause IS a large or moderate amount of FARSIGHTEDNESS.

Naturally parents want to know how to detect the crossed eye, or the eye with such a large refractive error that suppression follows. How? Briefly, as follows: the child with a large degree of turn is no problem. These children should be seen reasonably soon after the turn is detected, no matter how young this may be.

Family history is extremely important. Any child who has a grandparent, parent, aunt or uncle with poor vision in one eye, dating from an early age, should be examined by the age of one year.

I do not mean to imply that all cases of crossed-eye which are detected early have a successful outcome. There are an enormous number of factors involved in treatment and unfortunately early detection and treatment does not always insure a happy result. However, nearly all crossed-eyes due to a large amount of farsightedness can be straightened by proper strength eye glasses. Many of the cases with rather large differences in the refractive state may also have a good result if given proper glasses.

Regardless of results it is important that parents know whether or not the child has a "lazy eye".

Participation in sports, choice of career, and other factors will be influenced by the fact of one-sided legal blindness.

From Quincy Fire Dept.

Holiday Lighting Safety Hints

The Christmas season is a time of happiness and people should be continually aware of fire dangers that could suddenly bring on sadness and tragedy, reminds Quincy Fire Chief Edward F. Barry.

It is time now for everyone to take a look at the natural Christmas tree that was once fresh-looking and firm-needled for it has begun to dry out.

Even though it does not take up water as easily as it first did, the water level at base stand should be constantly checked daily.

Any branches that may have sagged should be kept away from radiators, hearing pipes or other sources of heat.

Supports for the tree should be checked to make sure the tree will not topple over.

Lights should be checked to make certain that they have not changed their position and are now in contact with branches or plastic ornaments.

Light sets should again be inspected for frayed wires, loose connections or any type of strain on the wires.

All tree lights should be turned off before retiring or leaving the house. Artifical and metal trees should be inspected for possibility of burning or for a shock hazard, Chief Barry advises homeowners.

Other Safety precautions are added. "Now that the presents have been opened be sure that gift wrappings have been removed and that there are no hazardous gifts beneath the tree. Do not allow any smoking near a Christmas tree and keep matches and lighters away from the children.

If it is possible keep the doors closed to the room where the tree is located. In case of fire the closed doors may confine the fire in the room briefly and permit people to escape to safety.

Above all, have a fire emergency plan. Figure alternate escape routes out of every room and have the children be made aware and take part in drills in the form of a game. If fire strikes, clear everybody ouf of the house, then call the fire department," says Chief Barry.

"As soon as possible remove the Christmas tree from the house. An easy way to do it is to trim the branches off with a pruner or lopping shears and place them in an old sheet on the floor. Then the sheet can be gathered together and the branches removed to the outside. In this way the needles do not drop all over the house. Do not store the tree in the cellar nor leave it near the outside of the house.

If it should be set afire it would burn fiercely so keep it well away from the house or garage. It is even a good thing to wet it down while it awaits removal by the rubbish disposal contractor."

"Remember", says Chief Barry, a Christmas tree adds a fire hazard to the home and citizens please never allow a moment of carelessness with it. Exercise care so that you can remember a happy and fire-safe Christmas for 1968."

Recreation Skiers On Indoor Slopes

Ski instruction is underway indoors at the Wollaston School gymnasium under the direction of the Quincy Recreation Dept.

The four scheduled lessons have been condensed into three lessons, Ryan said, in order to take advantage of outdoor skiing on Heavnly Hill, Furnace Brook Guld Club, when a suitable snowfall permits.

The course is still open to new participants who are Quincy residents. Ski instructor is William O. Ellis. The following schedule is being followed in the current series.

Pre-school through fifth grade, 2 p.m., sixt through ninth grade, 3:30 p.m., continues Saturday, Dec. 28 and Jan. 4. High school students meet Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m.

A new series for adult skiers will begin at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 26.

Marshall Seeks Flood Area Legislation

Freshman Rep. Clifford H. Marshall's "maiden" legislation is aimed at correcting flooding conditions in Quincy Point and South Quincy.

The young Democrat who will represent Wards 2 and 3 on Beacon Hill has filed his first bill seeking state action to prevent a recurrence of last spring's floods in those areas.

His bill would direct several state agencies to "investigate and study" the problem "with the intent to correct existing flooding conditions".

The agencies are the Health Department, Division of Waterways, Department of Public Works, Department of Community Affairs and the Metropolitan Area Planning Council.

He would have those agencies work with city officials in solving the problem.

He noted that the Bower Rd., and Dysart St., areas in Quincy Point and the Brook Rd., section in South Quincy were badly flooded last spring.

Marshall called it "a serious health hazard".

"Something has got to be done," he said. "I hope state money can be made available to do what needs to be done to keep this catastrophe from happening again."

James F. McCormick Named DuPont Associate Manager

James F. McCormick, Sr., will become associate manager of the Francis I. duPont Co., Quincy office effective Tuesday (Dec. 31).

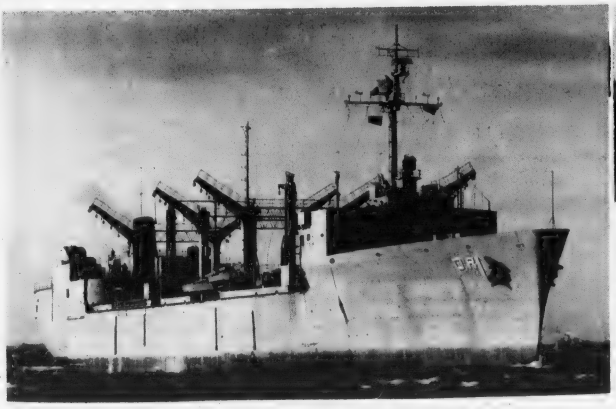
Mr. McCormick has been manager since 1962 when the investments office was that of the A.C. Allyn Co., and since then greatly expanded the business and saw the staff increase from four to 16 members.

He will be succeeded as manager by Charles S. Cox of Medford.

Mr. McCormick asked to be relieved of his duties as active manager of the Quincy office "in order that I may better personally service my increasing clients."

A Quincy school committee member since 1959 and a former chairman of that board, he is now chairman of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board and assistant treasurer of the Cerebral Palsy South Shore Area, Inc. He has been active in other civic causes.

Mr. McCormick, a career investments broker, who worked his way up through the ranks, went to work at age 16 as a page boy in the Boston Stock Exchange.



At that time it looked like a short career. The day after he reported to work in 1929, the stock market crashed.

But he remained on and became a messenger for brokers in 1930, an order clerk in 1932 and a trader from 1935 to 1937.

He became secretary of the Boston Securities Traders Association in 1937 while manager of trading department of the Mixter Co. of Boston.

He served as manager of the Mixter Co.'s trading department until 1945 and the following year until 1948 was allied member on the New York Stock Exchange for that company.

He then joined the A.C. Allyn Co. as a trading department salesman and became manager of its Quincy branch, at 1 Chestnut St., Quincy Sq., in 1962. When that company was taken over by Francis I. duPont in 1963, he remained on as manager, expanding the office to its present size.

NAVY'S NEWEST – First of a new class of United States Navy supply ships, the USS WICHITA (AOR-1) headed to sea from the Quincy shipyard of General Dynamics for her maiden trials. The 659 foot long vessel displacing 37,360 tons when fully loaded, is designed to replenish operating forces at sea with petroleum products, refrigerated and dry provisions, consumables and ammunition, including missiles. Named after Wichita, Kansas, the ship was launched March 16, 1968. She is the first of six ships of her class to be built by the Quincy division of General Dynamics.

The Quincy Fathers' Club will honor the high school football squads at its 15th annual banquet Saturday night, January 18, at the Vocational School.

The club, which has done a great deal for the high school football teams since its formation in 1954, had been restricted to fathers of present and former players until this year when the mothers were admitted.

"Actually it is now a parents club but we continue to call it the Fathers' Club," President Dave "Buddy" Page said. "The women are doing a good deal of work in preparation for the banquet.

The Fathers' Club was organized by Bill Sullivan, Huck Listman, Will Farrell and others in 1954 and has staged a banquet annually for the football squads. It presents several special trophies to the senior squad members.

The principal speaker this year will be Gay Salvucci, a former Quincy standout and the successful football coach for the past several seasons at American International College.

Among the invited guests will be the mayor, chief of police, high school principal, director of athletics and others.

Trophies will be presented to all sophomore players, jackets to all juniors and this season blazers will go to all the seniors.

"In the past the seniors were given a trip but it was decided this year to present them blazers," Page said.

Page explained that the annual banquet is the highlight of the club's activities and it sponsors a number of events during the year to raise money for the big event.

"We hold whist parties, dances and other events and this year sponsored a professional wrestling show which drew a fine crowd," Dave added.

The top award each year is the Jack Granville Memorial award to the outstanding player in the Thanksgiving game with North Quincy. This award honors a former Quincy star who was killed in the service of his country.

The other awards include the George Underwood Award to the best interior lineman, the Primavera Award to the most improved player, the Moscardelli Award to the best offensive back, the President Kennedy Award to the best defensive lineman and the President's Award to the top defensive lineman.

"A former Quincy player, Paul Grasso, was killed in Vietnam and his classmates got together and raised money for an award in his memory to the unsung hero," Page continued.

The banquet committee is made up of all officers, Page, Vice president Victor Craig, Treasurer Martin Morrill, Secretary Frank Osborne, Directors Huck Listman, Americo Speranzo, George Bucavalas, Dante Lauretto, Norman Johnson, Frank Hand and Mario DeGrasse, also Arthur Richards, Mrs. Berry McDevitt and Mrs. Carrera.

Quincy, North Hoop Teams Face Stern Tests Friday

The Quincy and North Quincy basketball teams face big Greater Boston League tests Friday night when the Presidents face Everett at Quincy and North travels to Somerville. Junior varsity action in each case gets underway at 6:30.

Tuesday night it will be Quincy at Malden, while North rests up until Friday, January 10 when it plays at Quincy.

Bob Nolan's North club will be opening its league season after breaking even in two non-league games. After an opening night loss to Brockton, the Raiders came back to hand a powerful B. C. High team its only loss, 61-51, thanks to a strong zone press. B. C. High had scored 98 points in its first game and 83 in its other game.

Bob Sleeth had 18 points, Mark Jellison 17 and Tom Flynn 11 for North.

Nolan expects a busy night Friday. Somerville, a perennial league power, won its first three games, two in the league.

Marty Finnegan's Presidents, hit by the ineligibility of a promising 6-4 transfer, injuries and flu, dropped their league opener to Revere, 70-63 with several players sidelined, and were walloped by unbeaten Weymouth, 81-58, in a non-league game.

Against Revere, after Finnegan had found that Charley Holmes, the big transfer, was ineligible, he lost George Davey, 6-5 center, to the flu and as a result Quincy had plenty of trouble on the boards. Quincy also lost starter Chuck Walter on fouls early in the second half.

Dave Pettinelli had 21 points and Luigi Eleuteri 16 for Quincy, while Tony Sandonato did a good job spelling Walter.

Weymouth's powerhouse led all the way after the first few minutes, adding to its lead in each period.

For the Presidents Walter had 14, Sandonato 13 and Davey 12.

Met Action Resumes

Quincy Faces North On Track Saturday

The Quincy and North Quincy track teams will face each other in Division Two of the Met League Saturday at noon at the MIT indoor track.

The league, forced to run at three sites this year, then will have a two week layoff before resuming activity on January 8 when Quincy will face Somerville and North will take on Milton.

Gene Macomber's Quincy team broke even in its first two meets, losing the opener to Milton, 48-38, as the Whiz Kids ran their unbeaten streak to 24 meets, then coming back to defeat Newton South, 46-40.

Against Newton, Quincy's Hynes won the 1000, Chris Potter the 600, Plant the two-mile, Rich Menchi the shot put, Ken Prouty, the hurdles and Reardon the dash.

Bob Gentry's North team, hampered like all other teams by lack of work, lost to Rindge Tech, 48-38 (Rindge then snapped Milton's long two-year win streak), and bowed to Arlington, 46-40.

In the Arlington meet, North's Roger Conboy was a double winner (high jump and dash,), Steve Poore won the 600, Cullen the 300 and the relay team won.

Ice Prospects Good

The Quincy and North Quincy hockey teams will be in action Friday night in Met League games at Boston Arena.

The first game of the regular four-game program gets underway at 6:30. Unbeaten Quincy faces Don Bosco in the night's opener at 6:30 and North faces Revere at 8:30.

Bob Sylvia's Quincy team impressed in its first three games, topping rival North Quincy, 6-1, and tying Everett, 2-2, in league games and romping over Dennis Yarmouth, 10-2, in a non-league game at Hyannis.

Despite losing a 2-0 lead against Everett, Sylvia was happy. "If my players play as well all year as they did in this game, I'll be happy," he said. "Everett's goalie (Jerry O'Hearn) was outstanding and made some great saves. I was worried about their greater size, but our kids overcame it the way I wanted, by skating faster than they did."

Another pleasing aspect of the game was the work of Tapio Juvonen in goal. He had little action last year but came up with some terrific saves against Everett.

Chuck Condos scored in the first period and Kevin Grogan made it 2-0 in the second period. After that the Presidents had several chances but were turned back by O'Hearn. Everett scored twice in the second session to tie it.

In the league opener against North, Condos and Wayne Milford had two goals apiece, while Jim Cedrone and Phil Rugg had the others. Pat McCormack scored for Bob Laing's Raiders.

At Hyannis, Quincy exploded for seven goals in the opening period and breezed the rest of the way. Condos and Steve Ceilmola each had two goals, to spark the attack.

North has had its troubles, bowing to Quincy and lightly-regarded Chelsea, 5-3, in the league, and to Barnstable, 4-0, at Hyannis.

Laing has been using a number of sophomores, skaging five against Chelsea and four against Quincy. "It is pretty rough when you have five varsity players with no game experience," he said. The brightest spot in our games so far has been the tremendous performance of Kevin Colleran in goal. He has made some remarkable saves and has not been given much help from the defense."

Colleran came up with 19 saves, many of the spectacular variety, against Chelsea. North's goals were scored by Bobby Pierce, Brian Colleran and Bill Gardner.

If Quincy continues to play as it did in its first three games and if North's sophomores improve with experience, it might not be a bad season for the local teams in the strong Met League.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox

THE NEW DAYS

It's really a great time to be alive ... and unless I misread all the signs "the new days" ahead will be even greater. As I am writing these lines our three astronauts are circling the moon ... the most incredible achievement of man ... I understand there is already a long waiting list of people who have made "reservations" for a trip to the moon. As romantic as I am under a beautiful full moon, I'm not sure I would enjoy it any more there.

One of these "new days" there will be peace again in our world ... for this warring against one another is as OBSOLETE for our times now as the village blacksmith. I believe it may not be too long before we'll quit trying the military method of solving human problems ... it just no longer works ... and it is now a matter of survival.

Before long every kitchen wil have a dish washer ... disposal .. fast hot plate and oven. Before ten years we will have cures for heart disease ... cancer ... arthritis ... and fast public transportation to the tip of Cape Cod. The population increase will see one great city through all New England (including Cape Cod). Sorry ... but the process has already started. We have learned more in the last twenty years than in all human history before World War II ... and we will double that body of knowledge in the next ten years. Institutions will change ... indeed they are already changing ... and some will be obsolete before long because they no longer meet human needs. "The new days" ... just ahead.

Edgar Guest has a poem about "The New Days". Onestanza goes like this:

"The new days, the new days,
of them I want to sing
The new days with the fancies and the golden dreams they bring;
The old days had their pleasures, but likewise have the new
The gardens with their roses and the meadows bright with dew?
We love today the selfsame way they loved in days of old;
The world is bathed in beauty and it isn't growing cold;
There's joy for us a-plenty,
there are tasks for us to do,
And life is worth the living, for the friends we know are true."

LOVE ... BEAUTY ... JOY ... FRIENDS ... LIFE ... all strong words and Edgar Guest believed in all of them. Do you? You do if you are set free from the old days which bind people to the past.

Those who look for "the new days" are asking "WHAT'S GOOD FOR PEOPLE?" They employ their science ... they demand of their leaders ... they ask their preachers to show us "what's good for people?" They will not be bound with the rules of the past when they no longer fit ... the rules which make people hate instead of love ... which make city slums ... which make people kill with words and bullets ... which destroy relationships. Those old rules must go ... from the home ... from the church ... from our cities ... from our relations with other nations. A new set of priorities of values are demanded. "The new days" require new and more creative thinking.

"The new days" place emphasis upon STRENGTHENED RELATIONSHIPS between persons ... and we might as well start the repairing work between husbands and wives ... parents and children ... in the home ... because when there is frustration and unhappiness in the home it reflects in all of human life. There is a lot of unnecessary separation in the old days ... love unites at constructive level and hatred separates ... and separation is hell. Let go the ten - twenty - thirty-year-old hates ... the old hurts ... the old grudges ... they only embitter and destroy. Join "the new days" ... where the world is bathed in beauty ... where life is worth the living."

Parents Join In First Head Start Conference

A new dimension was added to the Quincy Head Start program on Saturday when a Parent Conference convened at the Broad Meadows School.

Also participating in the program were many of the Head Start children who were enrolled in the educational classes last summer.

Featured for the youngsters was a play produced and performed by the Jewish Community Center Children's Players group and directed by Mrs. Ruth Coran.

The parents' conference, involving adult members of Head Start families, was conducted in an afternoon session at Broad Meadows. During the conference, a gymnasium program was conducted for the youngsters by Robert Norton of the Community Action Organization.

The conference was the first of its kind in Quincy inviting the recommendations and suggestions of Head Start parents for formulation and evaluation of programs.

About 105 Quincy children from 4½ to 5½ participated in last summer's Head Start program.

The conference, an innovative approach, was conducted by the Head Start Policy Advisory Committee, a nine-member committee established to make recommendations to the School Committee for administrative decisions.

The session also featured guitarist Robert Forman and Spanish dancing selections. Gifts for the children were distributed and a story hour was presented.

Future Head Start plans include a Spring meeting with parents of children who will be enrolled next summer. The conference was conducted to increase the involvement of parents in Head Start activities. Purposes are to provide educational benefits at an early age for economically disadvantaged children.

Quincy has been participating in the federally-funded program for the past four years.

HONORED — Mrs. Alice Hallisey and her husband, Leo, of Adams St., Quincy, both employees of Curtis Farms Markets, were honored at the annual Christmas party of the firm at The Surf, Nantasket. "Closer To People"

McDonald Proposes "On Road" Meetings

New Norfolk County Commissioner George B. McDonald of Quincy would like to "bring county government closer to the people."

McDonald said he believes this could be done by having the commissioners hold some of their meetings in various communities.

The commissioners now meet in Dedham, the county seat.

"County government is a mystery to most people" McDonals said. "People don't have the opportunity to get to Dedham to become acquainted with the functions of county government.

"I believe we should bring the government closer to the people by holding commission meetings in various communities."

One of those communities, he said, should be Quincy—the largest in the county.

McDonald said he will discuss the possibility of "on the road" meetings with his colleagues, Commrs. James J. Collins of Milton and Thomas K. McManus of Norwood.

Thre three commissioners, all Democrats, will be sworn into office by Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren, probably Jan. 8.

It is believe to be the first time in the county's history that all three members will take their oath at the same time.

Finn: "Reaches All Ages"

Quincy Drug Problem 'Critical'

Police Chief Francis X. Finn last night stamped the drug problem in Quincy "critical", citing an alarming 1000 per cent increase in arrests last year.

The city's top law enforcement official noted that drug violations soared from 11 in 1967 to 112 in 1968.

"The situation is bad and reaches all areas and all ages in the city," Finn said. "The problem in my opinion is critical."

Chief Finn said those involved in the problem range from fifth and sixth graders sniffing glue through high school and college students and adults experimenting with halucinatory drugs.

Finn said the Police Department with the cooperation of other departments and agencies is organizing a new Community Services Unit to launch "a complete new attack on the drug problem."

The program, he said, will be a two-pronged one of sophisticated education and enforcement.

Cooperating are Mayor James R. McIntyre, who recommended the new unit in his mid-term address, the City Council, School Department, Health Department, Quincy District Court and the South Shore Mental Health Association.

Chief Finn's assessment of the Quincy narcotics problem as "critical" was made when asked for comment on a drug report Tuesday by Judge Kenneth L. Nash, chief justice of the Massachusetts District Courts and presiding justice of Quincy District Court.

The report, for the judicial year of July, 1967 to July 1968, ranked the Quincy court as the sixth highest of the 72 Massachusetts district courts in the number of drug cases.

The Quincy court, which served Braintree, Cohasset, Holbrook, Milton, Randolph and Weymouth, in addition to Quincy, had 203 cases during the 12-month period.

Only courts higher were Brighton, 347; Cambridge, 335; Lynn, 297; New Bedford, 286; and Springfield, 223.

Totally, there were 4,057 drug cases in the 72 district courts during the 12th month period.

Judge Nash, in his report, noted:

"Because of the great concern in the problem of the illegal use of opiates and harmful drugs, it seemed wise to assemble some factual data concerning these

Mid-Term Address Highlights:

Mayor Promises Continued Fight Against Revaluation

Plus and minuses in Quincy's municipal future were computed by Mayor James R. McIntyre in his mid-term address to the City Council Monday.

The Mayor's address opened with a somber warning of a "fiscal storm" in 1969–the major minus. McIntyre predicted a severe setback for taxpayers was possible and blamed "court-ordered revaluation" and "anticipated losses in state aid."

He pledged a continued legal fight against the city-wide reassessment "to alleviate the impact ... on the small homeowner."

Stressing that the "long range picture was not all dark," the Mayor tabulated these municipal pluses:

–An $11.8 million record investment in private construction in 1968--contributing to an overall $100 million" on and off drawing boards. Additions included Jordan Marsh, Ledgewood Park and Kasanof Bakery projects.

–Proposals to acquire the 50-acre Black Creek area for a central-location open-space facility.

–A proposed Cunningham Park landtaking in West Quincy for recreational purposes.

–Creation of a police department Community Services unit for advanced evaluations and pre-arrest approaches to emotional and domestic problems.

–Advancements in Quincy school participation in national scholastic research projects.

But the Mayor reserved large areas of his major summary to warn of rough fiscal seas ahead.

He noted:

–"The infamous local aid funds has become a millstone around the hopes of municipal officials and homeowners."

–He called the welfare system "antiquated" and charged it with "stripping tax receipts."

–The Mayor called public law enforcement "a problem of increasing concern for all citizens."

–He singled out "drug abuse" and noted a 1000 per cent increase in drug arrests.

The MBTA came in for a dark view of its present impact on the city.

But, McIntyre pointed out, "I have done everything in my power to insure that the MBTA will be a positive force in our community."

He predicted on a hopeful note that given a successful line, Quincy's MBTA deficit "should be minimal."

Expanded services and facilities for the aging came in for special praise. Three hundred new units for the elderly are planned.

Summing up, McIntyre termed the future "sound and stable." He urged a redoubled effort to "insure that full value is received for every tax dollar spent."

Graham Reports Blight Progress

Progress in a demolition program to remove blighted buildings in the neighborhood, has been reported by Ward One Councillor Edward S. Graham.

Graham reported that bids have been received on the demolition of six buildings under condemnation in his area. Removal will take place shortly, Graham said.

Graham pointed out that Ward One residents had expressed concern about unsightly and hazardous conditions in the area. He noted that the building and property neglect represented a threat of injury to children playing in the area.

Notification that remedial action was being taken has been received from the Building Dept., the Councillor reported.

Sunbeams

As Mayor James R. McIntyre delivered his second mid-term address this week, a number of City Hall observers were wondering if it might be his last.

Within a few months, he will decide whether he will seek re-election or call it a career at the municipal level.

Close sources report he was seriously considering making a bid for attorney general in the 1970 state election but Elliott Richardson's departure to Washington probably has changed that.

With House Speaker Robert Quinn, a fellow Democrat, in line for the job, it is doubtful McIntyre would oppose him in the 1970 election. The mayor of course, could retrain his sights on another state post–like lieutenant governor.

Will he run for a third term as mayor this fall? He probably doesn't know the answer to that question himself right now. The change in the state political picture may have a bearing on his decision.

There are a few other reasons why he may stay on. Like seeing the MBTA rapid transit extension completed and pushing through his proposed multi-million dollar government center.

If he does decide to step down, there may be more candidates running than buses in the city. Among the names that keep popping up are City Council President J. Vincent Smyth, Councilors John J. Quinn, Arthur Tobin and Walter J. Hannon, and Asst. Dist. Atty. Richard W. Barry.

Insiders think there might also be a strong darkhorse candidate. His initials are R.J.K.–like in Richard J. Koch.

Never a dull moment, politically.

DEDICATION: City Councilor Albert R. Barilaro deserves the Dedication to Duty Award of 1968. The final council meeting of the year was scheduled for 5 p.m. Dec. 31, with an important agenda–including the city employe raises. At 6 p.m., his daughter, Ellen, was to become the bride of Eric Tait. What to do? Well, fortunately, Barilaro has an understanding daughter. He asked her if she would mind moving her wedding hour to 8 p.m., so he could help finish up the city's business for 1968. "Sure, Dad," she said. So Barilaro attended the council meeting, finished the agenda and then dashed off to perform his more romantic duty of giving the bride away.

SAD NOTE: The Senior Citizens of the Quincy Drop-In Center have lost two good friends in the deaths of Mary Bertocchi and Larry Brown. Both were ardent bowling enthusiasts. Mary never bowled herself but was always on hand Friday noons at the Quincy Wonder Bowl rooting for senior citizens who did bowl there. And she was often seen on television cheering from the front row during the Candlepin Bowling Stars matches filmed at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome ... Larry was one of those Mary cheered for as he whizzed the ball down the alley for a spare or strike. He won a few trophies in his day. And both he and Mary were award winners in the nice-people department.

MILESTONES: Mrs. Harriet Ranson of 55 Glover Ave., North Quincy, a young 89 ... And early best wishes to Capt. Thelma Williams Brown of 37 Cherry St., Quincy Point, who has a birthday coming up Jan. 18. She's a retired Army nurse who saw 19 months service in Korea during the war– within a mile of all the action.

FAMILIAR SCENE – There are three things you can be sure of–the sun will rise, the sun will set and Percy Lane will be re-elected clerk of City Council committees. Percy, now almost 73, was sworn in this week for the 31st consecutive time after again being re-elected unanimously by the council. Though no one has opposed him since he took over the job, Percy says he "always runs scared." Some politicians would love to be that scared.

Quincy Drug Problem 'Critical'

MAYOR James R. McIntyre warns of fiscal storm in 1969 from anticipated losses in state aid and court-ordered revaluation in mid-term address in City Council Chamber, Monday.

cases in the district courts.

"It is the first time these cases have been separately reported and shows the total number of drug cases this year to be 4,057."

Thirteen boys and two girls were involved in the 203 cases brought to Quincy District Court.

One girl was charged with two complaints and nine boys with 13 complaints.

The statistical breakdown of the Quincy court juvenile drug cases:

Offense	Girls	Boys
Glue sniffing	0	6
Present where narcotics kept	0	1
Selling narcotic drugs	1	4
In company of person in possession of narcotic drug	0	2
Illegal possession of harmful drug	1	0
Totals	2	13

Judge Nash said "no doubt the number of cases have increased" since July.

In his mid-term address delivered Monday, Mayor McIntyre cited the drug situation in Quincy as one of the city's major problems. He said:

"Public law enforcement has become a problem of increasing concern for all citizens. Today, the growing national menace of drug abuse among young people is a real and serious problem in our community. In 1968 we saw a 1000 per cent increase in arrests for drug violations.

"Programs initiated by the Police and School Departments have met with some success, but I must regretfully forecast a growing problem in Quincy unless further steps are taken to educate our young people to the deadly future facing those who would experiment.

"I stand wholeheartedly behind the efforts of the police and other agencies to combat drug pushers and sellers and shall support, with additional manpower and equipment, their efforts to rid Quincy of the criminal drug element.

"In addition, I am recommending the creation of a Community Services Unit within the Police Department. This unit is broader in scope than any current program and will be staffed with officers especially trained to recognize emotional, mental and family problems before they reach the arrest stage."

Mayor McIntyre commended Norfolk County Dist. Atty. George G. Burke, former City Council president, for his efforts in combating the drug menace, but said the city itself must undertake a greater program to win the battle locally.

Blue Ribbon Committee

A city-wide crackdown on drug use has been initiated with the establishment of a blue-ribbon policy committee to combat the growing problem.

Top law enforcement and health officials discussed plans to curb drug abuse at a recent meeting at the John F. Kennedy Health Center.

A three-pronged approach to evaluation and solution of drug problems will be channeled through legal, health and educational resources.

The organizational committee includes Dr. John T. Foley, health commissioner; District Attorney George G. Burke, Dr. Brooks S. White, Quincy Court Clinic; Police Chief Francis X. Finn, Edward McDonald, Quincy Police Dept.; Dr. Arne Korstvedt, Michael Pugliese, Stanley Sacon, South Shore Mental Health Association; Dr. Alfred V. Mahoney and acting Quincy School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon.

The anti-drug program will encompass areas of education, prevention and treatment for persons involved with narcotic drug use.

The program will focus on the apparent increase of narcotic drug use by teen-age and yound adult groups in Quincy.

Rehabilitation methods were discussed by the policy committee which will meet again next week. Representatives of each group involved will present evaluations of the special assistant that is available through the community resources and services they represent.

Hancock Bank Earnings Rise

The Hancock Bank and Trust Company reports net operating earnings after taxes of $530,403.01 equal to $1.89 per share for the year ended December 31, 1968.

According to William E. Kelley, president, this represents a 16.7% increase compared to the combined earnings of $454,362.92 or $1.62 per share realized during 1967 by the Quincy and Dedham Trust Companies.

These two banks merged their 12 offices throughout Norfolk County on January 2, 1968 to become Hancock Bank and Trust Co.

Re-elected Council President

Smyth Asks For Public's Aid In Solving Problems

Ward 6 Councilor J. Vincent Smyth, re-elected to his second term as president of the City Council this week, appealed to residents for their support in helping to solve serious municipal problems facing the city in the months ahead.

In his acceptance speech following his nomination by Councilor Arthur Tobin and unanimous re-election, Smyth said in part:

"In retrospect, the achievements of this City Council in 1968 are a matter of public record. Collectively, we deliberated before acting in order to attain the best benefits for all concerned."

"With diligence and careful scrutinization of the record 1968 budget, the council was able to keep the city tax rate to below $100. Several bond issues were passed to enhance not only the solid growth but also to insure the continued prosperity of Quincy."

"We have supported programs for our Senior Citizens. The Quincy Youth Council which I proposed a year ago is now on the threshold of becoming a reality. In this community, public sentiment is everything. With public sentiment nothing can fail; without it, nothing can succeed. Consequently, we, as a body, endeavor to mold public sentiment in addition to enacting statutes and pronouncing decisions. This effort, I firmly believe, makes statutes and decisions possible or impossible to be executed.

"I echo the thoughts of Mayor McIntyre concerning the numerous, complex and serious problems facing this administration in 1969 as they relate to the economic and social welfare of our citizens.

"The members of the City Council are cognizant of the many far reaching decisions which face them in the months ahead. Today, we, your elected officials beseech Almighty God for His divine guidance and request the support of our citizens to help us achieve a just solution to those problems.

"I pledge continued and vigorous support for the safe, social and economic betterment of our citizens.

"I shall try to correct errors when shown to be errors and will adopt new views as fast as they shall appear to be true views."

Plan Memorial For Rev. Sawyer

A memorial tribute to the late Rev. Victor V. Sawyer will be established by the parishioners of the Wollaston United Methodist Church.

Church-wide contributions will be donated towards a special stained glass tower window to honor the Rev. Sawyer's 29 years of service as pastor.

Approval of a nine-section window memorial was voted by the Board of Trustees. A letter describing the project and requesting contributions will be sent to church members and friends of the late pastor.

Eastern Nazarene College Receives $50,604 Grant

Congressman James A. Burke (D–MILTON) announced the National Science Foundation has awarded a grant of $50,604 to the Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston.

The college will use the grant in the planning and implementation of improvements in school systems in the immediate geographical region, in the science and mathematics offerings. Affected by this grant will be the Junior high School Sciences (intermediate Science Curriculum Study Materials).

Immediate plans include a six week summer program from July 7 to Aug. 15, requiring 30 meetings and involving 40 junior high school teachers, plus students for demonstration classes from schools of Quincy and Stoughton Public School Systems.

State Tax Form 1A Is Available Now

Sen. James R. McIntyre announces that State Income Tax Return Form 1A is once again available, which will help to reduce the sales tax cost to a person whose total income subject to taxation was less than $5,000. per year.

"Under the law, a qualified tax payer is allowed a credit of $4. plus $4. for his spouse plus $8. for each dependent," McIntyre said. "If you are married, the husband and his spouse both must sign the Form 1A."

"I have distributed Form 1A to some of the Senior Citizen Groups and I will be delighted to furnish forms if requested by anyone who has not already received the forms. Please write to Senator James R. McIntyre at the State House, Boston, Massachusetts 02133."

New Law Adds Education Aid For Veterans

Veterans separated from service after January 31, 1955, were reminded today by the Veterans Administration that they are now entitled to one and one-half months of educational assistance – up to a maximum of 36 months – for each month of military service.

A law which has just become effective liberalizes the previous Post-Korean G.I. Bill limit of one month of educational assistance for each month of service for veterans with at least 181 days of service, including some after January 31, 1955.

Another provision of the law which went into effect December 1 grants veterans with at least 18 months of continuous service after January 31, 1955, who have satisfied their military obligation, the maximum of 36 months of educational assistance entitlement.

Thus, for example, a veteran who may have entered service before the official end of the Korean Conflict (January 31, 1955), but had only 18 months of Post-Korean service, will still be able to get four academic years of VA educational assistance.

Plan Memorial For Rev. Sawyer

A memorial tribute to the late Rev. Victor V. Sawyer will be established by the parishioners of the Wollaston United Methodist Church.

Church-wide contributions will be donated towards a special stained glass tower window to honor the Rev. Sawyer's 29 years of service as pastor.

Approval of a nine-section window memorial was voted by the Board of Trustees. A letter describing the project and requesting contributions will be sent to church members and friends of the late pastor.

Eastern Nazarene College Receives $50,604 Grant

Congressman James A. Burke (D—MILTON) announced the National Science Foundation has awarded a grant of $50,604 to the Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston.

The college will use the grant in the planning and implementation of improvements in school systems in the immediate geographical region, in the science and mathematics offerings. Affected by this grant will be the Junior high School Sciences (intermediate Science Curriculum Study Materials).

Immediate plans include a six week summer program from July 7 to Aug. 15, requiring 30 meetings and involving 40 junior high school teachers, plus students for demonstration classes from schools of Quincy and Stoughton Public School Systems.

State Tax Form 1A Is Available Now

Sen. James R. McIntyre announces that State Income Tax Return Form 1A is once again available, which will help to reduce the sales tax cost to a person whose total income subject to taxation was less than $5,000. per year.

"Under the law, a qualified tax payer is allowed a credit of $4. plus $4. for his spouse plus $8. for each dependent," McIntyre said. "If you are married, the husband and his spouse both must sign the Form 1A."

"I have distributed Form 1A to some of the Senior Citizen Groups and I will be delighted to furnish forms if requested by anyone who has not already received the forms. Please write to Senator James R. McIntyre at the State House, Boston, Massachusetts 02133."

New Law Adds Education Aid For Veterans

Veterans separated from service after January 31, 1955, were reminded today by the Veterans Administration that they are now entitled to one and one-half months of educational assistance -- up to a maximum of 36 months -- for each month of military service.

A law which has just become effective liberalizes the previous Post-Korean G.I. Bill limit of one month of educational assistance for each month of service for veterans with at least 181 days of service, including some after January 31, 1955.

Another provision of the law which went into effect December 1 grants veterans with at least 18 months of continuous service after January 31, 1955, who have satisfied their military obligation, the maximum of 36 months of educational assistance entitlement.

Thus, for example, a veteran who may have entered service before the official end of the Korean Conflict (January 31, 1955), but had only 18 months of Post-Korean service, will still be able to get four academic years of VA educational assistance.

Young Democrats Programs

The Young Democratic Club of Quincy, at its recent annual meeting, elected the following officers for the year 1969.

President William S. Grindlay, 92 Brook St.; first vice-president Miss Judith Butler, 12 Homer Rd.; second vice-president Miss Ellen Helfrich, 231 Everett St.; secretary, Miss Linda Lovell of 30 Langley Circle; treasurer, Miss Ruthann Cavallo of 71 Lake St., Weymouth.

Elected to the board of directors were Joseph P. Shea, Dennis Leahy, Richard Deady, all of Quincy, Patrick Hurley and Joseph P. McParland of Braintree and Charles Harding of Boston.

Grindlay, in addition to his duties as president of the Quincy Young Democrats is first vice-president of the Young Democratic Clubs of Massachusetts. He is vice-chairman of the Ward Five Democratic Ward Committee and treasurer of the Quincy Citizens Association.

He is a tax consultant with offices in Wollaston and Somerville.

In discussing plans for the up coming year, Grindlay stated that the Young Democratic Club of Quincy must strive to work with the Quincy Democratic City Committee and the Quincy Democratic Women's Club to build a stronger Democratic party in Quincy.

He stated that the club will offer to its members a varied program of social, political and educational activity in order to achieve that goal.

Grindlay noted that for the first time this year the club will present an award to the person who contributes the most of his time and energy to the club during the year.

The award will be named the Rose Marie Dirksmelier Memorial Award in honor of the former tresurer of the organization, who passed away recently after a long illness.

In announcing the award he noted that during her service she contributed greatly to the club in many areas.

HOUSE CALL

INANITION

Daily pleas for the starving children of Biaffra with the death by thousands, and the imminent, irretrievable thousands doomed, is indeed a sad commentary on the progress of the human race. No wonder Mark Twain had such a low regard for pretending man. That the innocent should suffer in a world of plenty is an indictment of man's progress both politically and religiously. Yet he goes blithely circling moons.

In the midst of our own stupendously wealthy nation, it is alleged that starvation exists in many and widely separated areas. This means starvation due to inadequate food supply as in Appalachia. There is also a statistical study being made to CONVINCE Congress that malnutrition is much more widespread (especially among the dieters, pregnant women and the teenagers). The well-to-do are not excluded from this element.

There is the other extreme- obesity - exemplified in an army draftee weighing 250 pounds, hospitalized for three weeks on a 500 calorie diet, who lost twenty pounds. (He admitted he sneaked in a few pizzas on the side.) Consider the cost to the tax payer for a loss of twenty pounds and three weeks hospitalization.

Starvation, or inanition due to inadequate food supply has been studied among volunteers, political martyrs and dogs and in nations such as the Netherlands, during World War 11. In 1920 the world was a witness to the seventy day fast of Terence McSwiney, Mayor of Cork, who died for his cause. The length of one's survival depends a great deal on the physical structure, general health and age of the individual. Women, as usual more hardy, survive longer than men. The limit of endurance seems to be about nine-to ten weeks. A week only if no water is available.

Our daily food provides energy for the maintenance of our immediate bodily wants and functions - or metabolism, and then the rest is stored for periods of need. Except for the minerals and vitamins, the essential foods are carbohydrates, fats and proteins. The carbohydrates are converted into glycogen. The conversion of this glycogen, on demand, to energy-needs keeps us going. During starvation this supply is first used up, then the fat is called upon and lastly the proteins. The body weightloss is not evenly distributed. The skin fat (subcutaneous fat) is first observed to go. The water depots are early deprived. The brain and heart are the last to be effected again demonstrating the wisdom of nature toward survival.

How many calories do you suppose we use up in an ordinary day? Firstly, children because of their activity, use more than grown-ups; for example- thirteen year old boys use more than their fathers- perhaps 5-6000 calories. On a visit to the Air Force Academy I was told that a Cadet would take as much as 7000 calories daily. The average range is from 2500 to 6000 calories depending upon the kind of work an individual does.

To have an idea of what you eat and the potential calories ingested, look at the following list:

1 quart of milk 640 calories.
1 slice of bread 70 calories
1 level teaspoon butter-45 calories
1 egg 75 calories
½ cup cooked cereal 70 calories
¾ cup dry cereal 70 calories
1 slice bacon 45 calories
1 small orange 40 calories
1 small apple 40 calories
1 small potato 70 calories
1 slice pie (1/7th) 345 calories
1 slice pizza 185 calories
1 small banana 70 calories
1 ounce of meat 75 calories
1 ounce of fish 75 calories
5 shrimp 75 calories
2 level table spoons peanut butter 75 calories
1 level teaspoon mayonnaise 45 calories.

OBSERVE:

1 Manhattan 145 calories
1 bottle of ale or beer, 170 calories.
1 average candy-bar. 275 calories.

It should be mentioned that malnutrition predisposes to infections and infectious diseases which probably are the immediate cause of death - the major diseases being pneumonia, t.b. and boils.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

"What can I do to help you"..and.."What's in it for me"..are two opposing attitudes. "What's in it for me" is a self centered demand, lacks every altruistic and lofty purpose.

The "What's in it for me" attitude has identified people in the past just as it labels people today. Judas received his infamous thirty pieces of dirty silver by dramatizing the thought in the lowest and crudest form.

Gradually and happily, it does seem at times that a better philosophy is taking hold. More and more we hear incidents, we see examples of "Can I help you"...Strangely enough, (or is it so strange?) the "Can I help you" attitude has a wonderful way to remove the fatal flaw of greed. More often than not, the "Can I help you" attitude provides us with an ample answer to "What's in it for me"....

some things cannot be planned in advance

But, knowing who to call can relieve you of much worry and expense.

When a death occurs in another city, for example, a single telephone call to the Keohane Funeral Home assures immediate and competent representation wherever needed. It assures you, too, of responsible handling of every detail to your complete satisfaction.

That is possible through our close contacts with qualified funeral directors throughout this country and abroad. Their services are available on a moment's notice from us.

So while neither time nor place for such emergencies can be anticipated, it is good to remember that a telephone call to the Keohane Funeral Home, day or night, assures you of complete fulfillment of your responsibilities.

Presidents "Not Quitting"

Rolling Raiders Face Zero Quincy Friday

LINEUP at baseball banquet honoring Morrisette Legion Post Eastern Massachusetts champs and state runners-up included, from the left, seated: Roland DuBois, Past Comdr. Francis E. Mullen, Comdr. Nicholas Malvesti, Toastmaster Dennis F. Ryan and Robert Quintiliani. Standing, Dick Volpe, Chuck Gosselin, Bill Landis, Red Sox pitcher; Carl Lindgren, Dennis Finnegan and Biff Bacher. The six youths completed their team membership last season.

North Quincy's basketball team, proving it is the team to beat for the Greater Boston League title, plays at winless Quincy Friday night and on Tuesday will be home to Medford.

Meanwhile, Quincy, struggling along with an 0-3 league mark and 0-4 overall record, will be idle Tuesday, playing at Chelsea in its next game on January 17.

Bob Nolan's North team came up with its greatest win last Friday, handing Somerville its first loss, 77-76, at the Somerville court. A win at Somerville is always a big one for any team.

The Raiders are 2-0 in league competition and 3-1 overall, winning three in a row after an opening night 52-47 loss to strong Brockton in a non-leaguer.

"This was a great victory for us, our biggest by far of the season," said a happy Nolan after the Somerville thriller. "They came too close to pulling it out, though."

North led throughout the game and had a 59-50 edge going into the final period.

Missed foul shots nearly proved fatal for the Raiders as Somerville began deliberately fouling with a minute left and trailing by five. North missed its shots and the Highlanders closed it to 77-76 and had the ball out of bounds. However, they couldn't get the ball in play in the required time due to a strong North press and the Raiders regained control and ran out the clock.

Mark Jellison's 27 points sparked North, while Bobby Sleeth had 16, Rich Sprague and Tom Flynn 13 apiece. North had 42 rebounds to 27 for Somerville and continually had two and three shots at the hoop.

Making the night complete, North's junior varsity, under new coach Joe Amorosino, won, 65-56, to make its record 4-0. Bob DeRosa had 15 and Dick Sanderson 11 for North.

Marty Finnegan's Quincy team lost to Everett, 63-44 as it trailed throughout the game. Bob Pettinelli led the Presidents with 19 points and was the only player in double figures.

"I know we have a better team than our record shows," Finnegan said. "We are just having trouble putting everything together on the same night. But the boys are not quitting and I am confident we will start clicking."

Previously North had walloped Chelsea, 65-36, with a great defensive show, as 10 of Nolan's 11 players scored. Jellison was the only scorer in double figures with 10 points. Quincy was shocked by Medford, 93-52, as it had a bad shooting night, hitting only one for 11 in the first period and not much better the rest of the way. Tony Sandonato had 20 points, including 12 in the final period, but gave Finnegan his only chance to smile.

Quincy's jayvees, coached by Fran Conroy, have been doing well and topped Medford, 66-55, with Bob Pike scoring 23 points.

Morrisette Honors E. Mass. Pennant Winners At Banquet

Members of the Morrisette Legion Post baseball team, Eastern Massachusetts champs and state runners-up, were honored recently at a banquet at the post home.

Dennis F. Ryan, clerk of Quincy District Court, was toastmaster and City Council President J. Vincent Smyth brought the greetings of the city.

John Lane, Norfolk County Legion athletic officer, presented Morrisette Coach Connie Carlozzi with the District 6 Trophy.

All members of the Morrisette team were presented Legion Department of Massachusetts certificates by Thomas Murray, state chairman of American Legion baseball. Each also received a medal from Rev. J. Irving Fletcher, chaplain of the 40 & 8.

Vincent O'Connor, state Legion commander, presented the runners-up plaque to Francis Mullen, past commander of Morrisette post.

Jackets were also presented to the following team members:

Dennis Finnegan, Biff Bacher, Charles Gosselin, Gerry Connolly, Roland DuBois, Craig Bergosian, Carl Lindgren, Steve McDevitt, Steve Carrera, Steve Brustin, Bob Quintiliani, Ted Meyers, Peter Cochrane, Allan Gollota, Ron DiNardo, Ray Gregory and Dick Volpe.

Athletic Director Robert Osborne and Frank Osborne, scorer, also received jackets.

Past Commander Mullen presented certificates of appreciation to Richard J. Koch, executive secretary Quincy Park-Recreation Board; John Reid, park department foreman, and James D. Asher, Kenneth P. Fallon, Jr., Albert J. Tinson and Roy A. Lind of WJDA.

The speaking line-up at the banquet included Bill Landis, Boston Red Sox; Wilbur Wood, Chicago White Sox; Carl Leone, North Quincy High School football coach and former outstanding catcher for Morrisette Post in 1947-48; Morrisette Post Comdr. Nicholas Malvesti, Harold "Bootus" Chapman, Fire Chief Edward F. Barry, Police Capt. Frederick Tighe and Coach Carlozzi.

Rev. John J. McMahon, pastor of St. Mary's Church, gave the invocation and Rev. Walter Flaherty, curate, the benediction.

Bill Veeck To Be Honored By Montclair Men's Club Jan. 18

Bill Veeck, new president of Suffolk Downs and colorful former major league baseball executive, will be honored at the Montclair Men's Club annual awards dinner Jan. 18, 7 p.m., at the clubhouse, Holbrook Rd., North Quincy.

Joseph Gildea is dinner chairman and club President Raymond J. Cunningham will be toastmaster.

Committee members assisting Gildea are:

Previous award winners in past years have been:

Grutchfield Steps Down At Belmont

Doug Grutchfield, one of North Quincy's all-time basketball greats, surprised his colleagues this week when he resigned as Belmont High basketball coach to accept a position in private industry.

Doug, an all-scholastic at North and an all-Yankee Conference forward at the U. of Massachusetts, was in his fourth season as Belmont coach and had a 21-23 Middlesex League record. He had previously coached for three years at Amherst Regional for three years, winning the Western Mass. "small schools" tourney championship in his final year there.

Grutchfield decided to accept a sales post with an Arlington firm which, in a friend's words, presented an opportunity too good to pass up.

The 29-year-old former Raider star also coached cross country and was a football assistant at Belmont.

North Takes City Championship

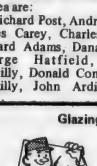
North Quincy's track team has no chance of winning the Met League's Division Two crown, but it does own the city championship following last week's 46-40 win over rival Quincy at the MIT Cage.

The league now is inactive until January 18, when North faces Milton and Quincy meets Somerville at Harvard.

Bob Gentry's North team, winning its first meet, took six first places, including the relay, while Gene Macomber's Presidents took four first places.

The Raiders' winners were Tom Affsa, mile; Steve Poore, 600; Reardon, 300; Panarelli, shot put; Dick O'Hanley, hurdles, and the relay team.

Winning for Quincy were John Haconda, 1000; Hynes, two-mile; Kevin Lugelle, high jump, and Bud Petrilli, dash.



North also took six second places and three thirds, while Quincy had three seconds and six thirds.

North had been credited with a 46-40 win over Somerville, but a scoring error was detected and Somerville declared the winner.

Met League Action

Quincy, North Icemen In Tough Tests

Quincy's hockey team, thanks to a shift by coach Bob Sylvia last week, apparently has found the necessary scoring punch to make it a solid contender once again for the Met League crown, and apparently will need it Friday night when it meets powerhouse Malden at Boston Arena.

Meanwhile, Bob Laing's young North Quincy team, improving every week as his many sophomores gain needed experience, faces a busy night when it takes on defending champ Christopher Columbus.

Malden and Columbus are both 4-0 while Quincy is right behind with a 3-0-1 mark. Malden has scored 40 goals.

Quincy exploded for an 8-2 win over Don Bosco last week as Sylvia returned Jimmy Cedrone from defense back to his old spot on the first line. He moved Harry Bertoni from forward to defense and Sylvia explained, "Rather than weakening ourselves, I think we are stronger."

The first line scored six of the Presidents' eight goals with Chuck Condos scoring three goals and adding three assists to run his season's total to 11 points.

Sylvia feels the competition Chuck receives from his father, Pete, a former Quincy star himself, has played a prominent part in his success.

"We have a get-together every Monday night with former players and fathers of the present players, for a scrimmage," the Quincy coach said. "Chuck and his dad really go at it. They have tremendous competition and I think this has to be a reason for Chuck's steady improvement. His father knows the game and is a good teacher."

Condos scored in the first period and the score was 1-1 after the period, but the Presidents then exploded as Condos scored twice more, Cedrone scored the first of his two and Chuck Peterson added one to make the score 5-1 after two. Dave Mariano, Bobby Ahola and Cedrone scored in the finale to complete the rout. Peterson had four assists, Cedrone three, Condos three, Dave Flaherty and Russ Barry two each.

North Quincy, with its sophs coming along well, gained its first point of the season with a 2-2 tie with Revere, as Cliff MacDonald scored with a half minute left to play. Earlier Bobby Pierce had scored to tie the count at 1-1 after Revere had taken the lead in the opening period.

Ken Kline assisted on the winning goal and MacDonald and Tom O'Malley had assists on Pierce's goal.

Laing was extremely happy after the game and said, "This is something you like to see. These kids come in here game after game and knock their heads against the wall. Tonight they kept hustling and it paid off."

With no junior high hockey, Bob is forced to go along with several inexperienced boys each year and, despite noticeable improvement over the second half of the season, have had losing seasons.

"These sophomores are coming through faster than I thought," Laing stated. "Every year we win more than we lose in the second half of the schedule and we might win, or at least do better than expected, before this half is over. I was especially pleased with our offense and also with the fact we are making less and less mistakes. Our team play is also improving considerably."

He praised sophs O'Malley and Neil Cronin and the first line of Pierce, Kline and Pat McCormack. And he praised the continued excellent play of Kevin Colleran in goal.

In its previous game Quincy had topped weak Chelsea, 5-3, despite what Sylvia called "our worst game. We really looked bad in that game."

North bowed to Everett, 4-1, but Laing was pleased with the continued improvement shown by his youngsters in that contest.

Altrusa Club To Present 'Opera Highlights'

The Altrusa Club of Quincy will sponsor a series of three operatic programs at the Thayer Public Library, Washington St., Braintree. The programs will be conducted on January 28, February 11, and March 25, at 8 p.m.

The non-profit series, dealing with various phases of opera, is designed for appreciation value by persons at all levels of opera interest and knowledge.

Conducting the programs will be Professor Leo Snyder of Northeastern University, composer, lecturer, musician and critic. He will present and interpret "Opera Highlights," with the aid of records, piano, and occasional soloist accompaniment.

The series is presented by the Altrusa Club as a community service project for opera introduction and to enhance opera appreciation. It will precede the Boston Opera and Metropolitan productions in Boston.

A nominal admission charge will be made with special student rates available. Reservations will be limited due to a limited capacity for enrollment.

Application for course reservations and additional information may be made to Mrs. John W. Jacobsen, 236 Eliot St., Milton.

The Altrusa Club is an organization of executive business and professional women and is the oldest classifed women's service club in the country. It was founded in 1917 and now numbers 17,000 members in more than 500 clubs in 11 countries.

92 Teenage Volunteers Cited For Work At Happy Acres

Ninety-two teen-agers who spent last summer as volunteer assistants at the Quincy Recreation Department's Happy Acres Day Camp for retarded children are receiving an official "thank you" from the city.

Forty youngsters were presented certificates of appreciation by Mayor James R. McIntyre at a reunion and party recently at the Furnace Brook School.

Mrs. Kathleen Mitchell, camp director, presented volunteer junior leader badges to those who have given 100 hours or more to the program.

Certificates and junior leader badges are being mailed to the other volunteers who were unable to attend the party, Recreation Director William F. Ryan announced.

Earl E. Vermillion and Miss Mary M. Kenney who supervise a Saturday morning program for the retarded during the winter, were hosts for the party.

Participating in the event were:

President Walter Martinson and Paul Ricciardi, Edward Wolper and Harry Ostrander of the Quincy Kiwanis Club; Acting School Supt. Lawrence P. Creedon, Sam Mele of the Boston Red Sox, Richard Sutherland, camp staff members Joyce Jenkins, Richard Ericson, Annette Goode and Charles Alongi and North Quincy High School students.

This apparently will be the last year for the Neighborhood School Center.

The program at Quincy Point Junior High School, is federally funded and its three year tenure has run out. There are no prospects of attaining additional funds.

Principal Ted Silva says the program has been very successful in terms of the number of people it has reached and the benefit it has brought to its participants. "The program covers a wide variety of interests and hobbies as well as being helpful to students having problems in particular subjects," noted Silva.

The Neighborhood School Center is part of President Johnson's Aid to Education Program. The major objectives of the program are to provide more imaginative individualized educational experiences, remedial aid, and increased self-expression.

Skilled supervision is offered in Acrylics, Archery, Arts and Crafts, Bowling, Chess, Cooking, Drama, English, Guitar, Gym, Golf, Horseback Riding, Library, Math, Model Building, Painting, Photography, Piano, Reading, Sewing, Shop, Silk Screening, Spanish, Typewriting and Weightlifting.

Larry Maloney, an instructor in gymnastics and weightlifting, is one of the many who is sorry to see the program come to a close. "It gave the kids a chance to channel their energy into something worthwhile and constructive," stated Larry. "I hope," he continued, "that we will be able to get some money from the state or the city to continue the program, but as of now prospects don't appear too good. It's really a shame."

Historic Elderly Housing

226-Unit Addition Gets Final Go-Ahead

Quincy's 1000 Southern Artery senior citizens landmark will soon rank as number one nationally – the largest such facility in the country.

Contract-signing ceremonies this morning (Thursday) for construction of a 226-unit addition will assure the Quincy facility's position as the nation's largest, according to the Rev. Bedros Baharian, executive director of the non-profit project.

"It will be the largest non-profit senior citizens facility in the country with its new total of 442 apartments," the Rev. Baharian said.

The original unit was opened under the auspices of the Quincy Point Congregational Church in May, 1966.

The record-breaking addition is expected to be ready for occupancy by April 1, 1970, the Rev. Baharian said.

In addition to its size distinction, the enlarged facility, according to the Rev. Baharian, will:

Produce tax revenue in excess of $80,000 and add $2 million of 'disposable income' to the Quincy community.

Increase 'hidden' tax revenue to the city by $16,000 as the result of transfers of homes from senior citizens over 70 in a tax-exempt status to taxpaying owners in younger age groups.

The Rev. Baharian paid tribute to city officials for the cooperation received since the inception of 1000 Southern Artery nearly three years ago.

"We feel we are helping the city to build first class apartment buildings," he commented.

The contract execution will bring together trustees of the church homes and HUD, the federal funding agency. The contract finalities had awaited clearance of an additional $275,000 loan for the addition. A total of $3 million has been allocated for the new construction, the Quincy Point Congregational Church Pastor said.

The church trustees, organizing body for the landmark housing, were called "an excellent team" by the Rev. Baharian.

He noted that at present there is a waiting list of 450 senior citizens for accomodations. Applications may be made at the 1000 Southern Artery office between 8:30 and 5 p.m., Rev.

Graham Proposes Ward One Committee To Meet Problems

City Councilor Edward S. Graham is planning to organize a Ward 1 Civic Committee to consolidate efforts to determine needs and solve community problems in that area.

Graham hopes to have representatives from each of the approximately 27 different groups in Ward 1 serve on his proposed committee.

"I think more could be accomplished for the ward – and the city, too – if these worthwhile groups rowed together. United we would be a stronger voice."

Graham said some of the problems affecting the area include air pollution, oil pollution, blight, lighting, street and sidewalk construction, curbing, sea wall construction, youth recreation.

"Most of the various organizations have worked on one or more of these problems," said Graham. "But I think more could be accomplished if we all worked together."

With representation on a central committee, he noted, each of the groups would become acquainted in detail with the problems existing in other sections of the ward.

Ward 1 is the second largest in the city both in area and population. Registered voters number 10,991. Only Ward 5, with 11,066 voters is larger in population.

Graham said he has sent letters to the heads of the various organizations asking them to designate a representative to serve on the new committee.

Among the groups are the Houghs Neck Community Council, Germantown Community Council, Harborview Residents Committee, Adams Shore Improvement Association, Merrymount Improvement Association, Presidents Hill Association, Baker Beach Association, Gull Point Yacht Club.

Graham said he hopes to hold the first meeting before the end of the month.

Quincy Shore Project Draws Brett Rebuke

Rep. Joseph E. Brett is opposing the expenditure of $900,000 for the relocation of a section of Quincy Shore Drive as "ill-advised and wasteful".

In a communication to MDC Commissioner Howard Whitmore, Jr., the Quincy legislator declared:

"In my opinion, which is shared by many of my fellow citizens, the expenditure of $900,000 for this purpose is both ill-advised and wasteful.

"The reasoning behind the

Hong Kong Flu Clinics Set For Senior Citizens

Hong Kong flu vaccine clinics for Quincy senior citizens are being held this week.

Dr. John T. Foley, City Health Commissioner, said clinics at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., are from 10 to 11 a.m.

Other clinics, in cooperation with the Quincy Council on Aging are being held Thursday, 12:30 p.m. at the Quincy Senior Citizens Drop-In Center, 24 High School Ave., and Friday noon at 1000 Southern Artery. The latter clinic will also serve residents of the Quincy Point area.

The new vaccine, Dr. Foley noted, will supplement the more than 2,000 doses provided by the Quincy Health Department this winter.

Dr. Foley urged senior citizens or residents with chronic illnesses to take advantage of the available vaccine.

Building Permit Dollars Climb

A net increase of $523,589.00 in total dollar volume of building permits, has been disclosed in figures from the Quincy Building Dept.

The increase was noted in comparison figures between total amounts in 1965 and 1968.

The net comparisons excluded the sums represented by municipal building projects. In 1965 these projects totalled nearly $4 million more than the 1968 figure. The principal difference was represented by the vocational school construction.

Total Building Dept. receipts in 1968 were $21,641.50 and in 1965, $18,131.20, the report noted.

Neal To Relate MBTA Benefits

Forrest I Neal, Jr., an MBTA director, will discuss the advantages of the Quincy-South Shore rapid transit extension at a meeting of the Quincy Center United Methodist Church Men's Club, January 29, 6:30 p.m.

Neal, president-treasurer of Old Colony Laundries Inc. of Quincy, and former president of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce will tell how Toronto benefited from rapid transit.

Among other things, Toronto has seen considerable new valuation resulting from new construction near the rapid transit line.

Woodward School Celebration Outlined

Reversing a tradition of 75 years, Woodward School will admit, starting this semester, a limited number of qualified girls who have been born outside of Quincy. In the past, eligibility has been limited to girls born in Quincy.

The announcement was made by Chairman of the Board of Managers, Mayor James R. McIntyre, and highlighted plans for Woodward's Diamond Jubilee celebration this spring.

Faculty and Alumnae will conduct a public information program to acquaint area residents with the new opportunity at the local college preparatory school for girls. Two Open House parties for prospective parents and pupils will be held.

The celebration program will include, Founder's Night, Pops Concert, and School Fair. Other themes will emphasize Woodwards historic academic background and special learning opportunities.

Recalled was the old "Quincy-born" stipulation in Dr. Woodward's 1869 will to save for "the daughters" of his "well-loved town" an opportunity for a free high-school education for girls.

In recent years, his unusual specification has denied this educational facility to many Quincy-resident high school girls, as their place of birth very likely has been far away, it was pointed out.

Announcing the decision of a joint meeting of the Board of Managers and the Board of Supervisors with Miss Katherine Bacon, principal, Mayor McIntyre said:

"Under a new interpretation, and with a dual tuition schedule, it will be possible for all qualified Quincy and South Shore girls to apply for the benefits of a low-cost private school education, and the small classes and individual attention that Woodward has to offer".

Veterans, Widows Must File Income Or Lose Pensions

The new year could begin with a financial jolt for thousands of veterans and widows on the Veterans Administration's pension rolls who thus far have failed to return their annual income questionnaire to VA.

Totally and permanently nonservice-connected disabled veterans and wartime veterans' widows who meet income limitations are eligible for pensions.

The law requires these beneficiaries to report their income each year in order that the VA can determine the amount of pension, which is related directly to income, to which they are entitled. The questionnaire requesting data on 1968 income received and 1969 income estimated was sent to 2,033,000 pension recipients about the first of November. Deadline for returning the questionnaire to VA was set at January 15.

Approximately 645,000 pensioners have not returned the questionnaire.

Marines Seek 2-Year Recruits

James R. Laskey of the local Marine Corps Recruiting Office, Post Office Building, 45 Washington St., Quincy, announced today that immediate openings are available for the Marine Corps "Two Year Active Duty Program".

The Recruiting Office will be open from 8 until 4:30, Monday through Friday and 8 until 12 noon Saturday for the convenience of young men and women interested in obtaining information about the Marine Corps Programs.

Sgt. Laskey also announced that under a new age requirement, the Marines will accept only those applicants who have attained the age of 17 years and 8 months on the date of enlistment. The only exception to the age rule is the Guaranteed Aviation School enlistee, who will be accepted at age 17.

Mrs. J.R. Smith Installed President

Mrs. John R. Smith of First Presbyterian Church was installed as president of Quincy Church Women United at the annual meeting held at Atlantic United Methodist Church. She succeeds Mrs. Frank Bartlett of First Baptist Church, Wollaston, the group's new leadership training chairman.

Mrs. Clarence A. Dauber, president of Massachusetts Church Women United, also installed Mrs. Gunnard Skoog as first vice president; Mrs. Lillian Pokarski, second vice president; Miss Mildred DeBoer, recording secretary; Miss Lydia Randall, corresponding secretary; Mrs. James Morrison, treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Jack, auditor.

The 1969 committee chairmen are Mrs. Stephen W. Brown, spiritual life; Mrs. Ernest I. Poland, Christian world relations; Mrs. Bruce D. Randall, Christian social relations; Mrs. William Newcomer, Christian world missions; Mrs. Harry Culbertson, finance chairman; Mrs. Harry Maki, nominating chairman; and Mrs. Richard Wainwright, public relations.

Rev. Eugene Langevin, Norfolk County Juvenile Court officer and pastor of the store front church in North Quincy, was the speaker.

Sunbeams

Quincy's four state representatives have drawn some key committee assignments on Beacon Hill.

Rep. Joseph E. Breet has been named chairman of the Committee on Urban Affairs and a member of the Committee on Social Welfare.

Rep. Walter J. Hannon will serve on the Committee on Election Laws, Rep. Arthur H. Tobin, Committee on Public Safety and Committee on Public Service and freshman Rep. Clifford H. Marshall the Committee on State Administration.

If you have any thoughts on those legislative matters, they're the men to see.

IF YOU HAPPEN to see Quincy High School students strolling the streets during school hours next week, don't worry about it. They're not skipping school. It's mid-year exam time. This year, the exams are being set up on a college-like basis. For each class, the students have an hour and a half test. During classes with no mid-year exam, or during study periods, the students are allowed to leave the school building to relax a little before the next exam.

QUINCY DOGS have lost one of their best friends with the resignation of James MacKay, long-time city dog officer. Jim treated stray pooches so well at the pound, most of them hated to return home after being claimed. During Christmas he gave them presents - like yum-yums and gaily decorated the pound with Christmas lights. He even had miniature fire hydrants in the runways so they wouldn't get that confined feeling.

CAN YOU SPARE one night a week - or a month - to help youngsters? The Sgt. Lawrence Grenham Youth Center in Houghs Neck needs more adult supervisors. If you're over 21 and would like to donate a little time, telephone 471-2322. Unless more supervisors step forward, this very worthwhile center may be forced to close down two or three nights a week ... Incidentally, the center can also use such games as checkers, monopoly, parchesi, backgammon, chess. You'll be helping to keep youngsters off the streets at night.

Benefits For Veterans Dental Care

A new policy on dental care recently adopted by the Veterans Administration will extend treatment to Viet-Nam era veterans on a more liberal basis.

VA provides treatment for dental conditions that originated or were aggravated during military service if veterans apply during the first year after release from service.

Until recently, all ex-servicemen had to support their requests by military records.

Under VA's new policy, dental treatment may be provided without supporting military records.

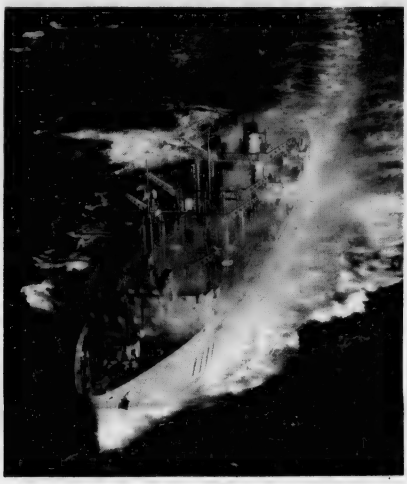
Christening Friday For Navy's Milwaukee

Mayor and Mrs. Henry W. Maier of Milwaukee, Wisc., will be the principal participants in the christening Friday of the United States Navy oiler Milwaukee at the General Dynamics Quincy shipyard.

Mayor Maier will speak at the ceremony in which his wife, Mary Ann, will christen the ship named after Wisconsin's largest city and the Milwaukee River.

Four hundred guests, including a delegation from Milwaukee, state and local leaders from Massachusetts, and Navy officials, are expected to attend. The christening will take place at noon.

Milwaukee is the second of a new class of Navy supply ships – replenishment fleet oilers (AORs). Her primary mission will be to supply combat ships with petroleum products, refrigerated and non-refrigerated provisions, ammunition and missiles. She has an overall length of 659 feet and a beam of 96 feet. Her fuel carrying capacity will be 9.6 million gallons and she will have a full load displacement of 37,360 tons.



The $27 million ship has the most modern rapid cargo transfer equipment and a landing-launching platform for supplying distant ships and land stations. Her capability of a sustained speed of 20 knots will permit her to operate independently or with a fast replenishment task group.

The first ship of the class, USS Wichita (AOR-1), was launched here in March, 1968.

Kansas City (AOR-3) and the as yet unnamed AORs 4, 5 and 6 also will be built by the Quincy division of General Dynamics.

NAVY CEREMONY — A reception honored Rear Admiral Joseph C. Wylie , USN, new First Naval District Commandant shown with Mrs. Wylie, shortly after he relieved Rear Admiral Roy S. Benson. Among those attending were, left, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Connors of Wollaston. Mr. Connors is chairman of the Federal Executive Board.

SCRUBDOWN — not afire, but washing herself clean of simulated radioactivity is the Navy replenishment fleet oiler USS Wichita (AOR-1) during her first voyage from the General Dynamics Quincy Division shipyard. The 659-foot ship successfully completed tests of all her major systems during three days of builder's trials off coast. The Wichita, first of six new class ships to be built at Quincy, will carry a variety of supplies including 8,900,000 gallons of fuel.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

In both the Judaic and Christian doctrine of morality, of goodness versus sin, we accept the teaching when we do wrong against man, we also sin against God. In today's world, different and strange concepts claw society's acceptance of morality as it was taught to us. There are those who say crimes against the state are the only sins for which man is inanswerable. Even some educated sociologists and psychiatrists who profess a belief in an Almighty theorize misbehavior is primarily a social disorder. Too many people seem willing to alibi or excuse wrong thinking, wrong behavior of man against man.

Somehow, somewhere, these people have discarded eternal truths. Our Old and New Testaments teach us wrong thinking and wrong behavior can and should be restricted and rejected by each of us individually. For those who would substitute old thinking with new, it may be a sobering thought to remember that on the Day of Redemption, each of us must face judgement individually for our individual conduct.

The Good Book existed long before the 20th Century. So it will be useless to rely on, or plead for mercy on some mistaken 20th Century concepts of right and wrong...

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

A ganglion is a cystic tumor which usually can be found intimately associated with tendon or joints. You undoubtedly have seen one at the back of a friend's wrist ranging in size from a pea to a walnut, smooth and round. They also occur at the front of the wrist, ankle, bottom of the foot and in the palms close to the fingers. They may be tender and even interfere with the bending of the wrist or joint involved.

Ganglions have also been called "Weeping Sinews", because of the belief that the tumor was a tear in the tendon lining. Since injury or trauma is not accepted as the cause and since these cysts occur near but not necessarily of the tendons, this name, despite its descriptiveness, is erroneous.

The material in the cyst is a thick mucinous fluid. Joint cysts, called synovial cysts, arise from the lining of the joints and are hard to distinguish from ganglions. Children have such a cyst behind the knee known as a "Bakers" cyst.

What causes a ganglion? As stated before, it has been suggested that it is a result of a weakness of the sheath, or tendon lining, but injury is probably not involved.

A ganglion in its position and growths may be intertwined with tendons and joint linings making surgical removal ticklish and tedious. Careful dissection is required and unfortunately ganglions often recur.

The Bible or Book treatment sounds and is barbaric. The sudden expeditious clout with an object like a book can break the cyst but even with such a reverent approach the thing can again pop its node up again. I have, on occasion, been able to reduce a ganglion with my thumb to the astonishment of my guests but have never been invited to try it again – because it hurts.

Girls you did it again! Ganglions are more apt to be found in females in the second, third or fourth decades. Slightly built women, at that!

Once in a while these benign but annoying tumors disappear spontaneously. If they do not, consult your surgeon. Surgery is still the best method for their removal.

In view of the State Department of Health prediction that a second wave of the Hong Kong Flu is imminent and may arise in February or March, I recommend that those who have not had it, get a shot. The vaccine is now more plentiful. The cardiac, asthmatic, bronchial, elderly or chronically ill should especially take advantage of its probably usefulness. The same afflictions among children should indicate the need for an injection of flu vaccine.

Montclair Men To Honor Max Zides

Max Zides, well-remembered as the "Hum" of the former popular radio and night club duo, "Hum and Strum", will be the recipient of a special award at the annual Montclair Men's Club dinner at the clubhouse, 93 Holbrook Road, Saturday night.

Max, who with talented partner Tom Currier, entertained thousands during the popular music decades, will be cited for his civic endeavors and accomplishments as Quincy Bowling Leagues Youth Director.

Head table guests will include former major league baseball club owner, Bill Veeck, now Suffolk Downs president and Boston Globe sportswriter Ray Fitzgerald.

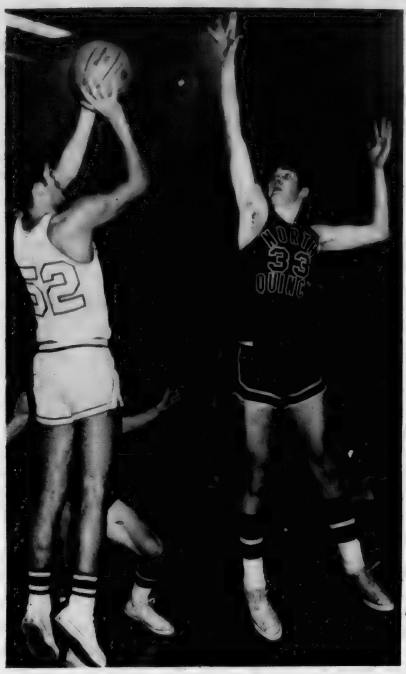
Other head table luminaries will include Mayor and Sen. James R. McIntyre, Norfolk County District Attorney George G. Burke, Rep. Joseph E. Brett, former Lt. Governor Francis X. Bellotti, Patriot-Ledger sports editors Pres Hobson, raconteur and humorist Charlie Conway and Henry Bosworth, Quincy Sun publisher.

Raymond J. Cunningham, club president, will serve as toastmaster. Dinner chairman is Joseph N. Gildea, assistant press steward of the Boston Patriots.

Students Receive Inside Info On College Life

"A great success", is the way Miss Sylvia Stern, a counselor at Quincy High, described the recent Guidance Homecoming in the Vocational Technical School library.

Approximately 300 high school juniors and seniors discussed college life with some 75 college freshmen representing some 26 different colleges.



This was the first such meeting in recent years at Quincy High, but Miss Stern, who is the organizer of the student "talk", sees a continuation of the Guidance Homecoming in the next and following years. Both the college and high school students felt as strongly as the guidance counsel on the importance of the meeting.

At this time of the year students find it hard to imagine just what to expect from college life, but conference with college freshman, relieves some of the fear on the part of the seniors.

Although the senior is directly concerned with the need to know college life, the junior must be considered too. In the future Homecomings, the professional staff at Quincy plans to include juniors in the forum.

Perhaps a high school senior who remarked, "I wish this had been offered when I was a junior", summed up the importance of junior guidance as well as the importance of the Guidance Homecoming.

QUINCY'S Bob Pettinelli takes aim and scores over defensive outstretched hand of North's Dick Sprague in city rivals action. But Raiders won the game, 73-60.

It looks like a happy season for North Quincy's basketball team and one of the more frustrating ones for Quincy.

Bob Nolan's North team, which had a 3-0 Greater Boston League record and a 4-1 overall mark going into Tuesday's big game with unbeaten Medford, will be host to strong Everett Friday night and also will be home to Malden Tuesday night in league games at the North gym.

Marty Finnegan's luckless Quincy five, which was idle Tuesday, takes to the road Friday and again Tuesday, playing at Chelsea Friday night and at perennial powerhouse Somerville Tuesday night.

North again displayed fine balance last week in topping Quincy, 73-60, at the Presidents' gym.

Quincy made a gallant effort and gave the potent Raiders all they could handle but turned the ball over 16 times in the first half, most of them in the second period. After a 16-16 first period, North moved ahead, 35-26, and led the rest of the way.

"These kids really play well together and the balance is great," Nolan said. Bobby Sleeth and Rich Sprague, playing his best game ever, had 16 points apiece, Mark Jellison 15, Tom Flynn10, and Don Constantine nine.

North's board strength and strong defense ruined Quincy. The Raiders consistently had two and three shots at a time while the Presidents had to be satisfied with one shot at a time.

"North really has a good team with a tough defense," Finnegan said. "They have to be good to be battling for the title as this is the best league in the state."

Bobby Pettinelli had 14 points and Steve McDevitt 11 to spark the Quincy attack.

North's undefeated junior varsity team continued to roll as Dick Sanderson led a thrilling 52-51 win.

Earlier in the week Quincy lost to Malden, 69-52, doomed by a horrendous second period when it was outscored, 22-8. This gave Malden a 36-20 halftime lead.

"We are just not finishing off our plays," said the disappointed Finnegan. "Of all the things that's what hurt us the most. We'd shoot and their two big boys (Paul Agare and Jim Paglieciu) would take the ball away from us. We have been hurting off the boards all season as the other clubs are just too tall.

"It is getting pretty frustrating but I've never coached a team that I've been any prouder of. They go out and give it all they have plus more but have nothing to show for it. But I think we will come along and win some games before this thing is over."

No one hit double figures for Quincy as 10 of its 11 players scored. Lou Eleuteri and Kevin Ryan had nine each to lead the way.

Skiing Family Fun On Snowless Slopes

Despite the lack of snow for skiing at Heavenly Hill at Furnace Brook Golf Club, the Quincy Recreation Dept. instructional ski program has more than 500 participants at this time, according to Recreation Director, William F. Ryan.

Indoor classes for four divisions have been held at the Wollaston School gymnasium under the supervision of William Ellis. He said that, "The participants taking the three required indoor lessons are all new skiers and now as we enter our third series of indoor classes, we are getting new people, who as individuals, or as an entire family, are taking the course."

Ryan and Ellis started the program 11 years ago as a pilot project of the original Recreation Commission, now the Park Recreation Board. Through the years, thousands have enrolled in the course to learn the fundamentals of the increasing sport of skiing for all ages, Ryan noted.

New indoor classes are now in progress for beginners and persons interested in skiing who are Quincy residents.

Four divisions have been scheduled for the third indoor session. The adult and senior high group will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m., January 16. The second lesson for pre-school, elementary and junior high groups, will be held at 2 p.m. on Saturday. All sessions are held at the Wollaston School gymnasium. A new ski film, "Snow Pic", will be shown at the January 16 session. Participants of previous programs are invited back to view the film.

Track Action Saturday

The Quincy and North Quincy winter track teams will seek their second Met League wins of the season Saturday at Harvard when Quincy meets Somerville and North faces Milton.

The league took a day off last week and several members took part in the annual BAA meet at Boston Garden.

Quincy's Mike Reardon placed third in the 50-yard dash and Kevin Lugelle tied for fifth in the high jump.

The Presidents and Raiders are 1-3 in league competition.

School Hockey Hurting At Junior High Level

Quincy's hockey teams have had good luck in the past few years, while North has been struggling and the plight of the Raiders emphasizes a big weakness in the city's hockey program – the lack of a junior high program.

Bill Hutchinson resigned as Quincy coach a few years back after several years at the Presidents' helm and gave as a major reason the lack of junior high hockey and no prospects of such a program in the offing.

Earlier this year North Quincy was upset by Chelsea, annually the doormat of the Met League, and coach Bob Laing, although admittedly disappointed, said he was not surprised.

"The situation here could get worse before it gets better," Laing said. "I skated five sophomores in that game who had played in their first organized hockey game only three nights previously.

"Imagine that, having five varsity players who have never experienced game conditions before. And as far as our future is concerned, and I mean the future of the entire city, it looks dismal."

Next year Medford and Somerville will join the Met League and both have extensive junior high, freshman and junior varsity schedules.

"Everett and Malden, presently in our league, are progressing very rapidly," Bob went on. "And Revere has begun an ambitious program. Only Chelsea and the city of Quincy are without extensive junior high programs.

"And this could mean serious injury to some players, if you have an inexperienced player being hurt is much greater."

Even most of the smaller schools in the South Shore area have a much more extensive program than Quincy. Such schools as Scituate and Cohasset have freshman teams with regular schedules and separate coaches. Hingham has strong freshman and junior high teams playing regularly in league competition.

Although his teams have done well for the past few years and is strong again this winter, Quincy coach Bob Sylvia admits the city is hurt by the lack of a junior high program.

"We have one great advantage and that is our boosters club, known as 'Friends of Quincy High Hockey'," Sylvia said. "This club is growing all the time, transports players to practices, helps to train younger players and really does a good deal for our teams. Many of the men are former players themselves and help our players considerably."

Actually things are looking up a bit in Quincy with many informal junior programs underway. Bob Hayes is one of the city's greatest boosters of junior hockey and he brings a group of youngsters each week in the wee hours of the morning to Ridge Arena in Braintree. Other men have programs of their own.

But, despite these junior programs, it is clear that Quincy needs junior high hockey.

Despite North Quincy's slow start, Laing is pleased with the steady improvement shown by his many sophomores. "These kids are coming through faster than I thought," he said. "Every year we win more than we lose in the second half of the season. But we might do better than expected before the first half of our schedule is over this year."

Each team turned in an outstanding performance last week, although each lost. Quincy suffered its first defeat, 4-0, to a big, strong Malden team, which Sylvia calls "the best team I've seen in my three years in the league."

Malden, now 5-0 and tied with defending champion Christopher Columbus, had scored 40 goals in four games, including 12 in each of its two previous games, but was contained pretty well by the Presidents.

"Their two big defensemen, (Phil) Shea and (Pete) Hanifan, made the difference," Sylvia said. "We just couldn't bull our way through those boys and they blocked at least 17 shots. Malden isn't too strong in goal and if we could have driven through those defensemen and had more shots, I'm sure we would have scored. I can't remember the last time we were shut out."

Quincy had a wide edge in territorial play but just couldn't finish off its plays because of the brilliant Malden defensemen.

"I was encouraged by the play of Tapio Juvonen in goal," Sylvia went on. "He hadn't been tested until this game and he did an outstanding job."

North Quincy dropped a 4-1 decision to Columbus but Laing called it "our best game of the season. We are finally beginning to finish off plays."

The Raiders have been scaring teams with a relentless offense and some fine forechecking.

"This is encouraging and we are getting many more shots on goal and following up much better," Laing said. "I was especially pleased with the play of Don Smith, Cliff MacDonald, Ken Kline and Sophomore Tom O'Malley."

North had an edge in territorial play in the first period and the scor was tied, 1-1, at the end of the period. Pat McCormack scored the tying goal, assisted by Kline. However, North was foiled after that by the best goalie in the league, Columbus' Chuck Renault. Meanwhile the unbeaten co-leaders added two in the second period and one in the finale.

Friday night both Quincy teams will be favored as the Presidents meet Revere at 6:30 and North faces winless Don Bosco at 8:30 at Boston Arena.

NORTH QUINCY Boosters Club officers looking ahead to 12th year of activities are, seated: Bob Colleran, president; Lois Munson, recording secretary; Beverly Riley, treasurer; Dan Dieso, membership chairman. North Quincy Boosters Seeking New Members

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy Boosters Club, one of the most active clubs of its kind on the South Shore, is currently in its 12th year and can look back with pride on its many accomplishments on behalf of North Quincy High school athletes.

The club, whose purpose is to promote sports boosters at North, is in need of new members and Daniel J. Dieso, Sr., the membership chairman, is busy spearheading a membership drive.

"We need a little help in our efforts," Dieso said. "I have sent out two sets of letters, one to the parents of North Quincy High students, the other to Alumni of North, wherever they may be. I've sent letters to such places as Hawaii, California, Florida and Texas."

The letter to parents explains that a drive is underway by the club for 100 per cent enrollment of parents of high school students. It goes on to explain the many functions of the club and points out that all parents, even those whose children do not actively participate in sports, should join.

"They are still in one way or another involved even as spectators and we need the help and cooperation of all parents," the letter states.

The letter goes on to explain that the club meets on the first Monday of each month in the North cafeteria at 8 p.m. and enclosed with each letter are two membership cards and a self-addressed envelope for the parents' convenience. The cost is one dollar a year per person.

The letter to Alumni all over the world explains that successes of North teams and Dieso says, "I feel sure you share the pride we have in the successes of our sports activities. Especially during the last few years, we have had teams that have caused us to be the envy of other towns."

"We are trying to enroll all alumni of NQHS who may not be on our roster," the letter continues. Membership cards and self-addressed return envelopes also go to the Alumni.

Among the many projects of the busy club are the Walter "Cap" Bryan trophy to the outstanding senior who has contributed the most to sports, two $100 scholarships and the annual Jack Donahue Award (wrist watch) to the outstanding North player in the Thanksgiving game with Quincy.

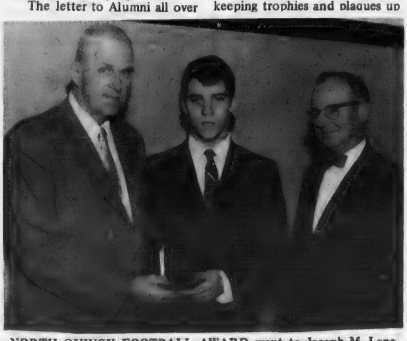
Also, trophies or plaques to all lettermen in six major sports and cheerleaders, a banquet for every athlete (including girls) and baton squad) and every coach in every sport in the school, awards to any team that has a winning season, providing oranges for all athletes, buses to out-of-town games, Tech Tourney buses to Boston Garden, gifts and bouquets to the football queen and the two runnersup, pom-poms to every cheer leader for the Thanksgiving game, keeping trophies and plaques up to date in the school trophy case, and taking an annual ad in the school yearbook.

"The Boosters' program is to try and raise the $2000 required for all of these occasions," Dieso said. "Among the many events we hold are blast-off dance, spaghetti dinner dance, football queen's dance, Thanksgiving dance, alumni basketball game, boosters' social dance, sports dance night and awards banquet night."

The six major sports are football, baseball, hockey, basketball, track and soccer.

Robert J. Colleran is the current club president and the other officers include high school principal John Walsh, vice president Sam Meyer, Dieso, recording secretary Mrs. Lois Munson, corresponding secretary Mrs. Rita Henderson, treasurer Mrs. John C. Riley, program chairman Allen McIntyre and publicity chairman Mrs. Richard W. Poore.

Incidentally, a tip of the hat is due Mr. Dieso, who is continuing in his role of membership chairman despite an accident four months ago which left him an amputee. He was forced to have his right hip and leg amputated, leaving him presently totally disabled, but continues his all-out efforts to gain new members for the club.



"With God's help I will soon be on my own again," he said, "I went to all the North football games this fall through the help of my good friend, Sam Meyer, in a wheel chair. The day North beat Chelsea, I was presented with the game football and was very proud that the players would honor me in this fashion.

His son, Steve, a standout center on this year's football team, was named to three all-scholastic teams, the only North player to be named on all three teams.

Last year Dieso broke the record for new membership and this year, despite his inability to get around, is still ahead of last year.

The North Quincy Boosters Club has done much in the past 12 years for North athletes and deserves the support of all parents and Alumni.

With Daniel J. Dieso, Sr., as an inspiration, how can the club be anything but a success?

NORTH QUINCY FOOTBALL AWARD went to Joseph M. Lane, selected as the star of annual Thanksgiving Day game. The eighth annual Donahue Award was presented by, left, former football coach Jack Donahue. Observing is Principal John W. Walsh.

Shorebank Inc., New Corporation, Adds Directors

Shorebank Inc., has announced an official opening of operations as of December 31, 1968, with South Shore National Bank at present, the only subsidiary of the newly formed one-bank-holding company.

While no agreements have been made to acquire other firms, the management of the new corporation stated that several areas closely related to banking are under study and preliminary discussions are in progress with several firms.

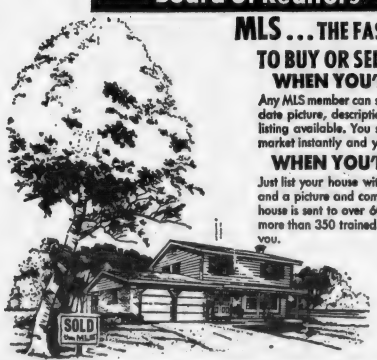
It is anticipated that Shorebank Inc. will proceed toward the acquisition of its first subsidiary (other than the bank) during the first quarter of 1969, after prior approval of the Comtroller of the Currency in Washington, D.C.

Stockholders of the South Shore National Bank will receive stock of Shorebank, Inc. on a share-for-share basis. South Shore National now has outstanding shares of 398,067.

Bank earnings for 1968 increased 35% over 1967, earning $2.57 per share for the year, and the bank's resources jumped from 135 million to 153 million in the same period.

It is believed that Shorebank, Inc. is among the first one-bank-holding companies now operating in Massachusetts or New England.

Directors of South Shore National Bank will serve as directors of the new corporation, and officers of the new corporation are Robert L. Blair, president; William J. Martin, Jr., treasurer; Eugene Piazza, comptroller; Winthrop Sargent IV, vice president; and Samuel W. Sinclair, vice president.



Friendship Dance For Edward Graham

A Friendship Dance honoring Ward 1 Council Edward S. Graham will be held February 18, at the Quincy Armory.

The dance, featuring the music of Dick Kelly's orchestra, will be from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Committee co-chairmen are Robert Foley, 3 Grace Road, and John Comer, 45 Lancaster Street.

WHAT MAKES "BIG MIKE" STAND A LITTLE TALLER?

He's a Quincy Yardsman. Big deal? He thinks so. He knows that at Quincy; he's doing the top work in his trade. Getting the top dollar for it. Sure, there are guys with softer berths. But they don't get his rewards.

Beyond the top dollar, "Big Mike" gets benefits that cover his pension (company paid), holidays and vacations (company paid) and help with schooling to sharpen his skill. Mike can see a lot further than most, too. Our backlog of contracts (which includes the recently awarded $97.8 million contract to build three unique sea barge carriers for Lykes) promise a farsighted future.

How does your job stack up against Mike's? Think about it. And maybe come in and see us. Tomorrow.

YMCA NOTES

Helping Keep America Strong

By Adele Wilson
YMCA Women's Council

Three times a week at the Quincy YMCA, fitness classes are conducted for any or all male "Y" members wishing to participate in the year-round Fitness Program. New men entering the program are kept on progressive exercise and jogging schedules throughout their first 12 weeks. At the end of each 12-week period, a man must jog a non-stop mile under 10 minutes to qualify for the advanced part of the program. Two Fitness Testing Clinics were held during September and December, with tests including heart EKG's, vital capacity output, step testing, body measurements, and flexibility and strength tests. Information about membership and the Fitness Program may be obtained at the front desk of the "Y".

WOMEN'S AND GIRLS' DIVISION
Alice Beagan, Director

Under the top-notch coaching of Frank Rull and Assistant Coach May Jackson, for 10 years the Quincy "Y" has boasted a top Girls' Swim Team. Competitive meets are held with eight other "Y's" in the New England area, with 73 girls swimming for Quincy. By-products for these young swimmers include a spirit of teamwork and healthy competitiveness along with disciplined fun and good fellowship.

A popular teen organization for girls in the Quincy "Y" is the Tri-Hi-Y Club, sponsored by the Quincy YMCA and affiliated with the New England Area and the National Council of YMCA's. Approximately 300 girls are members of the 12 Quincy "Tri" Clubs, with each club responsible for at least one service project a month. Money for service work is earned by the members of each club through bake and candy sales., car washes, etc.

On Feb. 11 and 12 the annual Tri Variety Show will be presented, with all Tri girls participating and with all proceeds turned over to the Tri scholarship fund. Each year two scholarships are awarded to a senior from Quincy High School and a senior from North Quincy High School. Under the capable director of Mrs. Roger "Jackie" Whitcomb, Tri-Hi-Y Coordinator, the following service projects were completed during November: Probus Club assisted with candy sale for Retarded Children's fund-raising; patients in children's ward of Quincy City Hospital given Thanksgiving party; packages of toilet articles collected and mailed to our boys in Vietnam; food baskets, with turkeys, donated to "Friends of the Quincy YMCA," the Salvation Army, and the Quincy Welfare Department; eight needy families cared for at Thanksgiving; 4000 balloons inflated and sold during local Christmas parade, with proceeds given to Quincy High School's American Field Service Club; worked on AFSC parade float, which won the Chamber of Commerce trophy.

Sponsored by the New England Area Hi-Y/Tri-Hi-Y Cabinet of the New England Area Council of YMCA's, a Personal Development Laboratory for high school students was held in November at the Hartford YMCA Outdoor Center, North Colebrook, Conn. Accompanied by Mrs. Whitcomb and Tri Advisors Miss ToniRisio and Mr. Alfredo Peterson, the following Tri delegates attended and represented the Quincy YMCA: Mary Curry, Debra Eagles, Michelle Bini, Rose Gentile, Patricia Petitti, Andrea Vitagliano, Gail Massey, Christine Finnegan, Claudia DiGuisto, Kristin Regan, Barbara Senter, Laurie Gamsby, Nadine Lundsgaard, Penny Petrakos, Susan Murphy, Deborah Dahlquist, Maureen Morahan, Barbara Adams, Andrea Baldi, Sandra DiVencentis, Debbie Spanks, Debbie Felton, and Quincy High School's foreign-exchange student, Guadalupe Silva.

proposal is extremely vague as to any benefits to accrue from the project.

"Among the reasons given in support of this project are improved traffic safety by eliminating a curve in the roadway; the creation of more beach and parking spaces; and the solution of periodic flood problems in the area.

"In answer to these assertions, may I respond that there is no record of high accident frequency along the stretch of road included in the relocation plan; more beach and parking spaces (both of doubtful necessity or benefit) can be provided without any relocation of the road; and the solution to the flooding problems has no relation whatsoever to the proposed relocation.

"A further reason for not undertaking the proposed relocation under present plans is that it would destroy seven or eight acres of unspoiled salt marsh which has been declared valuable for conservation purposes by the Department of Natural Resources.

"I respectfully urge you and your fellow commissioners to consider this matter carefully and, if you find there is merit to my arguments, take the necessary steps to prevent the wasteful expenditure of more than a million dollars of taxpayers' money for an utterly useless project."

Housing Project Moves Ahead

Baharian said.

The Quincy unit has operated at 100 per cent efficiency for the past two years. The peak efficiency rate has been instrumental in providing a maximum coordination with the Housing and Urban Development Dept.

The new unit will include a 300-capacity auditorium. The complex includes among its many accomodations a lounge and kitchen space.

Contract terms will be completed at a 10 a.m. signing at 1000 Southern Artery.

Florida Paper Names Plaisted To Top Slot

R. E. PLAISTED

Former Quincy newsman Robert E. Plaisted has been named managing editor of the Sun-Sentinel, Pompano Beach, Florida.

Plaisted, former city editor of the Patriot Ledger, joined the Sun-Sentinel as telegraph editor in 1966 and later was elevated to news editor.

A Quincy native, he began his 12-year tenure with the Patriot-Ledger following graduation from Boston University and service with the Air Force.

Plaisted, 39, resides with his wife and three children in Holiday Village, Lauderhill, Florida.

Jazz Festival Combination

Taken separately, a Dave Brubeck or a Gerry Mulligan is enough to tune in any jazz buff. But when these two giants of jazz go on stage together, in the same tightly-knit group, it's bound to be the high note of any musical season, as it will be at the fourth annual Boston Globe Jazz Festival, at Boston's War Memorial Auditorium on Friday, Jan. 31 and Saturday, Feb. 1.

Produced by Newport-famous George Wein and sponsored by the Globe, this mid-winter mixed bag marks the first local appearance of the newly-formed Brubeck-Mulligan aggregation. Brubeck pioneered taking jazz onto the college campus 17 years ago, and by now has travelled more widely around the world than any other modern jazz musician.

Requests Up $4 Million

City Faces Record-High Budget

QUINCY POINT native, the Rev. Fr. Charles G. Crowley, presently of the Immaculate Conception Church, South Boston, was greeted by old friends and neighbors, City Clerk and Mrs. John M. Gillis. A reception honored Fr. Crowley at the Gillis home on Richard St. following his recent return after 13 years in Iraq. From left are Mr. and Mrs. Gillis, Fr. Crowley, Mrs. Thomas M. Gorman and Mr. Gorman, retired Quincy Fire chief.

Municipal department budget requests are up approximately $4 million over last year representing, if approved, a $20-to-$30 impact on the present $98.90 tax rate.

But Mayor James R. McIntyre, wielding economy-honed pruning shears, has already slashed $1.5 million from the requests and vows to cut them all to the bone as much as possible without jeopardizing essential services.

However, with uncontrollable factors involved, the 1969 budget is certain to be a record-breaker, topping last year's $32,491,244 figure.

"We are going to cut every bit of fat from the budget that we can," Mayor McIntyre said last night. "But the financial picture looks real bleak for this year–much of it in areas over which we have no control."

The Mayor estimated the $4 million increase if not substantially cut, would have meant a $20 tax hike under the present financial structure.

Or, he said, a $30 increase, if the city loses an anticipated $2 million in state aid.

In addition to the loss in state aid, McIntyre cited two other areas as those over which he has no control:

--The autonomous school department budget is an estimated $1.5 million over 1968– approximately 80 per cent of it representing teachers' salaries.

--The budget requests do not include $409,000 in city employe pay raises passed by the City Council over his veto.

Several department appropriation requests have not yet been received Among them is the City Hospital's, expected to run about $1 million higher than last year's.

McIntyre hopes to submit the 1969 budget to the City Council Feb. 17. That body's Finance Committee will then scrutinize the figures for possible more trimming.

"By the time the budget is presented to the council there won't be much left beyond necessities to cut," the Mayor vowed.

The 1968 budget submitted by the Mayor was $33,724,939. The council trimmed it to $32,491,244 before final passage.

The Mayor and his pruning team–Executive Secretary James J. Ricciuti and City Auditor Alexander Smith–lopped off $1.5 million in a 25-hour weekend marathon budget session.

Biggest singled sum cut was $225,000 sought by City Clerk John M. Gillis for voting machines.

Other trimming involved the health, police, fire and personnel departments and the assessors', treasurer's, building inspector's and plumbing inspector's offices.

Requests of several more departments will be given a close look-over this week.

The Mayor said he hopes the City Council will retain the yet undetermined cost of a drug education program in the city.

In his mid-term address, McIntyre cited an alarming 1000 per cent increase in drug arrests during 1968 and recommended the creation of a Community Services Unit to combat the menace.

"Programs initiated by the police and school departments have met with some success, but I must regretfully forecast a growing problem in Quincy unless further steps are taken to educate our young people to the deadly future facing those who would experiment," he declared.

Palmer St. High-Rise Called 'Unacceptable'

Opposition to a proposed 16-story high rise apartment on Palmer St., has been expressed by Ward One Councillor Edward S. Graham.

Graham said that a contemplated complex by the Marine Basin Developers at the site of the Adams Shore Boat Yard "is completely unacceptable to the Ward One community."

Graham said that such construction would involve a future recommendation for a new fire station in the Sea St., Curlew Rd. area.

Graham said that the additional fire protection would be requested by Fire Chief Edward F. Barry, who expressed such a recommendation in the event of future high-rise construction on Palmer St.

Public safety factors were cited by Graham in his opposition to the apartment complex. He charged that a presently serious traffic situation would be aggravated.

The new Adams Shore Library will attract over 450 children in the area of the proposed complex, Graham noted. He also cited the residential character of the neighborhood. He described the area as one composed of "ninety-nine percent single family dwellings."

"I do not think it right that big real estate developers can march into our city and make a profit at the residents' expense. Our homeowners are the backbone of our city and they certainly should receive first consideration," Graham contended.

Graham added that he was in favor of new construction, but high-rise buildings should be built "in their proper locations".

Planning Board Urges Council Take Black's Greek Marsh

The Quincy Planning Board urges that the City Council take the Black's Creek marshland for open-space and conservation purposes.

George C. Smith Jr., vice-chairman, expressed the support of the Board for what he termed: "One of the highest priority open-space areas in the Boston Metropolitan area. Both the Department of Natural Resources and the Metropolitan Area Planning Council have designated the Black's Creek marsh as a vital conservation area, and it is now our responsibility to move ahead with the acquisition."

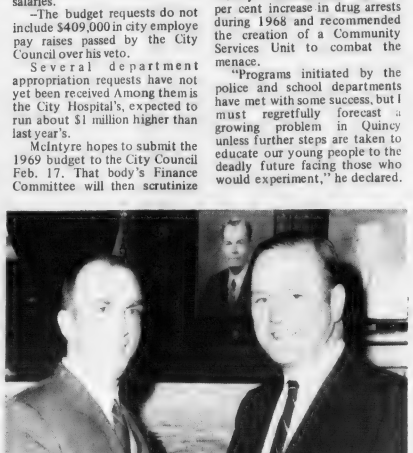
"The Federal Open-Space programs will assist us with $47,000 and the State will provide funds also but the City should move on this project as soon as possible."

The vice-chairman noted that the Planning Board has worked closely with Mayor McIntyre on the acquisition of the marshland as part of Quincy's City-wide Beautification and Improvement Program.

Quincy Wins Top Boating Award

Quincy will receive a national award in New York City Thursday in recognition of its boating safety program.

On hand for the presentation will be Mayor James R. McIntyre, City Recreation Director William F. Ryan and James F. McCormick, chairman of the Park-Recreation Board.



While in New York, McIntyre will meet Friday with officials of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to discuss the city's urban beautification, workable and North Quincy improvement programs.

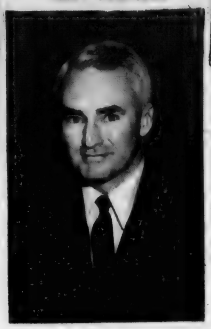
Burke Urges Step-Up To Curb Crime Trend



District Attorney George G. Burke, of Norfolk County, stated that felonies increased by forty two and one-half percent in 1968, in Norfolk County and a record number of criminal entries totaling 2257 were entered in the Norfolk Superior Court. This is the first time that criminal entries have exceeded the 2000 mark, Burke said.

In five years the amount of criminal entries in the Norfolk Superior Court have nearly doubled, the Quincy attorney said.

Burke said that an all out war against crime must be commenced to stem this alarming increase in crime in our society. The public is no longer safe to walk the streets or to feel secure in their homes. Law enforcement agencies must renew their efforts, so as to secure these rights in society. Local Mayors and selectmen should, wherever possible, increase the personnal and budgets of their Police Department, so as to combat this tremendous increase in crime.

"The Police Department are doing an outstanding job, while understaffed and lacking modern equipment," Burke commented.

William E. Kelley Heart Chairman

William E. Kelley, president of the Hancock Bank & Trust Co. of Quincy, will be the regional chairman for the 1969 Heart Fund campaign.

Announcement of the appointment was made by Sen. William D. Weeks (R-Cohasset), 1969 campaign chairman of the Southeast Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association Inc.

Mr. Kelley, as regional chairman, appoints three sector chairmen to assist him in the communities of Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Randolph, Hingham, Holbrook, Hull, Cohasset, Norwood, Walpole, Canton, Sharon, Medfield, Medway, Millis, Norfolk, Franklin, Foxboro, Bellingham, Wrentham and Plainville.

Campaign goal in these communities is to raise more thatn $74,600 to wage the medical and research battle against diseases of the heart and circulatory system.

"I am happy to accept this challenging assignment," said Mr. Kelley, " and to actively participate in this health crusade which is saving hearts in our own community and throughout the nation."

The annual campaign opens Feb. 1 and concludes on Heart Sunday, Feb. 23.

A resident of Cohasset, and the father of five, Mr. Kelley was formerly active in the United Fund and is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and the Massachusetts Bankers Association.

Sunbeams

Charles L. Shea, former City Council president and state representative, reportedly giving serious thought to returning to the political arena this fall.

The popular pepper-pot, who has always had a strong following, got a big reception the other night at the Quincy Fire Fighters Association, Local 792 installation dinner.

Shea, according to close sources, is thinking about running for City Council-at-large seat.

But, they think, he would run only if there is an open seat. He wouldn't oppose the present three at-large incumbents–John J. Quinn, George B. McDonald, Arthur Tobin–who are personal friends.

If Mayor James R. McIntyre decides not to seek re-election this year, there no doubt will be open at-large seats for Shea to make his move.

Quinn and Tobin are considered pretty much sure contenders for the mayor's office when McIntyre steps down.

And some political observers think McDonald, now a county commissioner, might possibly give up his council seat.

Shea, never a shrinking violet, would certainly liven things up if he does return to the political wars. And there are a lot of people who would like to see him back.

• • • • •

FORMER Lt. Gov. Francis X. Bellotti who appears to be warming up for another bid for governor, also got a royal welcome at the fire fighters dinner.

Incidentally, Bellotti, still lean and fighting trim, has a new look: has let his crew-cut grow in with matching sideburns. Quite becoming.

THE QUINCY–BUILT SS Manhattan, this country's jumbo merchantman, is to be used as a sea-going trail blazer. The vessel will serve as a test ship to determine the feasibility of transporting Alaskan crude oil to the East Coast via the Northwest Passage. The Manhattan, delivered by the Quincy shipyard in January, 1962, is the largest commercial vessel ever built in the U.S. Her king-sized statistics: 108,590 dead weight, 941 feet long and 132 foot beam.

INCIDENTALLY, did you know that the USS Fudge was also built at the Quincy Yard? Seems the sponsor, as the story goes swung the traditional bottle of champagne to christen a ship. "I christen thee," she said, and as the bottle missed the bow–"Oh, Fudge!"

Shipbuilders Co-op Elects New Directors

JOHN W. BLAKE

STEPHEN T. KEEFE JR.

ALEXANDER SMITH

Three prominent Quincy residents were elected directors of the Shipbuilders Co-operative Bank at the annual meeting Monday.

The three are John W. Blake, co-owner and treasurer of Colony Inc., Quincy; Atty. Stephen T. Keefe, Jr., former assistant city solicitor, and City Auditor, Alexander Smith.

Francis X. McCauley, re-elected president and trasurer, presented his report to the shareholders and cited new highs for the bank in total assets, savings deposits, mortgage loans and net income.

During the past year, he noted, Shipbuilders Co-operative Bank also became on the first Co-operative banks in the South Shore area to offer term deposit accounts and daily interest accounts to its depositors.

Re-elected to the Board of Directors were:

Francis Duggan, John W. Kapples, Jr., William J. Martin, Sr., and Benjamin Rappaport.

Judge Kenneth L. Nash, Dr. Richard J. Larkin and Mr. Martin were re-elected vice-presidents.

Marion F. Osborne was re-elected assistant treasurer.

Re-elected to the bank Security Committe were John F. Cronin, Allan F. MacDonald, Anthony D. Losordo, Mr. McCauley, and Mr. Rappaport.

Dr. Larkin, Mr. Duggan and Mr. Kapples were re-elected to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Blake is a graduate of Phillips Academy, New York State Maritime Academy and Harvard College. He is vice-president and a director of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce, a director of the Quincy Rotary Club, a member of the Advisory Board, Salvation Army and was chairman of the 1968 Greater Salvation Army Building fund drive.

Mr. Keefe is a graduate of Arlington High School, Suffolk University and Suffolk Law School. He served in the U. S. Air Force during World War II and in Korea.

He is now a colonel in the Air Force Reserve serving as director of operations assigned to the Alaskan Air Command.

Vice-president of the Quincy Bar Association, he is Quincy chairman of the 1968-69 Massachusetts Bay United Fund.

Mr. Smith, a graduate of Quincy High School and Bentley College of Accounting and Finances, is chairman of the Quincy City Retirement Board, member and treasurer of the Quincy Lions Club, and former Quincy school committeeman.

Contract Covers Granite Bridge

The Board of Directors of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority today approved the award of a $2,342,546.20 contract to International Railway Automated Machinery Co. (RAMCO) of Chicago, Ill., for trackwork for the South Shore rapid transit extension.

The contract award is subject to approval of the U.S. Department of Transportation.

The work under this contract consists of constructing two rapid transit tracks, using concrete rather than wood ties, between the portal of the Cambridge-Dorchester rapid transit line in South Boston and the Granite Street Bridge in Quincy, a distance of 6.3 miles.

Use of concrete ties will mark a "first" for the Authority. They are being installed, however, on two rapid transit lines being built by the Chicago Transit Authority and have been used by railroads throughout the world for several years. RAMCO, whose plant is at Lamont, Ill., is also the contractor for the CTA projects.

The MBTA chose concrete crosstie over wood after an evaluation of the relative merits of both by the Engineering and Construction Departments as well as by design engineer, Thomas K. Dyer, Inc.

Advantages ascertained were:

–Two block concrete tires give more lateral resistance, have a larger effective bearing area and are heavier, all of which allows greater tie spacing. As a result, less ties are required to install and maintain, better anchorage and stability is obtained for the continuous welded rail to be used on the South Shore line and for maintaining better line surface.

–Periodic spot replacement is practically eliminated because the life of concrete ties is more uniform in length.

–The rail fasteners for the concrete ties give a more secure and permanent attachment to the ties resulting in less maintenance, holds the rail to gauge and grade, and eliminates the use of rail anchors. This is particularly important when using continuous welded rail.

–Properly manufactured and cured concrete ties are uniform in quality, have longer life than wood, are inflammable and are not subject to damage by insects, dry rot, water, freezing, most chemicals or by tie plate cutting.

Baby Shower In Germantown

Friends and neighbors of Mrs John Morrissey of Doane St brought double cheer at a baby shower held in honor of a new daughter. It was the eleventh child for the Morrisseys.

Mrs. Morrissey, who is presently recuperating for a broken ankle bone suffered in a recent fall, was the surprise recipient of three gift boxes. The gifts featured a new electric dryer presented at the home of Mrs. Joan Petersen, 112 Doane St.

About 50 persons contributed to the neighborhood shower and about 35 attended for the presentation of gifts on January 13. The Morrisseys welcomed their new daughter on December 11.

Miss Mildred B. Harrison To Be Honored At Reception, Dinner

Miss Mildred B. Harrison, recently retired as Director of the Department of Guidance and Research of the Quincy Public Schools following a long career, will be honored at two social affairs.

A reception honoring Miss Harrison will be held Jan. 30 from 3 to 5 p.m. in the cafeteria of the Atlantic Junior High School, 86 Hollis Ave.

A dinner in her honor is set for Feb. 26 at the Neighborhood Club, Quincy. Reservations for the dinner may be made through the office of Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, Director of Pupil Personnel Services, Quincy Public Schools.

Both events are being sponsored and planned by the guidance staff of the Quincy Public Schools with Dr. Griffin serving as general chairman. Reception chairman is Miss Florabel Stevens. Dinner chairman is Miss Mary Catherine Iannoni. Both events are open to the public.

Seminar Series On Marriage At Bethany Church

Monday seminars on "The Enrichment of Marriage" are continuing at the Bethany Congregational Church.

The six seminars which started on Jan. 13 are being conducted by Robert Taylor, director of the Protestant Social Service Bureau, Central to the discussions are a series of recordings originally transcribed at a Michigan seminar of husband and wives participating in similar discussions.

The seminars are of interest and importance to married couples of all age ranges, it was emphasized. The programs will be held in Agnes Ruggles Allen Parlor at the church.

Women Of Moose Unite

The annual mid-winter conference of the Women of Moose will be held on March 12 in Dedham with the Jamaic Plain Chapter as hostesses. Quincy Chapter 77 will participate in the balloting ritual.

The next meeting of the Quincy Chapter will be conducted on Feb. 12 at 8 p.m. at the VFW Hall, Braintree. Mrs. Eloise Spear, senior regent, presided at the meeting held last week. Serving as hostess was Mrs. Florence Stewart. The attendance prize was awarded to Mrs. Signe Whitehouse.

Members have been asked to bring donations for a special sale at the next meeting when Hospital Chapter night will be observed.

Union Church To Discuss New Budget

A covered dish supper will precede the annual meeting of the Union Congregational Church at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 30.

The 1969 budget will be presented and reports will be submitted by church organizations. The nominating committee will make a report and a number of important matters will be discussed.

Issues slated for discussion include 1969 financial prospects, the Sunday worship and study schedule and opinions on a future shared ministry.

In charge of the supper are Mrs. John Wilson and Mrs. Charles Balkam.

TRIBUTE to retired Quincy Building Supt. T. Frank White included a hearty handshake from toastmaster and former Quincy Public Works Commissioner Charles R. Herbert, now Newton Building Commissioner. Mr. White, shown with Mrs. White, was honored for 32 years of municipal service at Sherry's Restaurant.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

Victory vs. defeat. Victory is not always commendable. And surely, defeat need not be disgraceful.

In human experience, there are levels in both victory and defeat. For example, when we see a bewildered man defeated because he lacked the courage to win, we pity his pathetic picture. But, when we see a courageous man going down to defeat after trying his best to win, we glory him in defeat. At times it can even be a tragic defeat. This is especially true if a principle of justice, integrity, fair play or personal honor is involved.

None of us can win every time. How we lose is often more important than how we win. To succomb or be subdued because we lack the courage for the struggle to win is the only time disgrace can be linked to defeat. Actually, it is possible to win when one loses...

YOUNG MEN OF ACTION

Chapter Set To Meet Urban Area Challenge

By James H. Doyle
President, Quincy Jaycees

Quincy Jaycees are celebrating their 19th birthday–a junior edition of the parent organization which is noting its 49th anniversary.

Our chapter had its beginning in 1950 when Maurice "Mike" Grossman and a group of young businessmen founded the local organization.

Nationally, the Jaycees have grown from modest beginnings in the midwest to an organization with over 5,000 chapters.

Locally our present membership includes Robert Rosenberg, president of Dunkin Donuts, Inc., State Rep. Walter Hannon and Robert L. Williams manager of Scott-Williams, Inc.

One of the members, David L. Hurley has moved on to serve the State Jaycees as vice president, national director and state membership chairman.

We are proud of the fact that the Jaycees follows an objective credo. It does not support any particular party or single interest group. The Jaycees are dedicated to significant community programs for overall benefit.

Our members range in age from 21 to 35 and their educational level ranges from high school to a doctorate in education. The one common denominator is that each individual member has a sincere desire to improve conditions in Quincy and gain at the same time practical leadership experience.

Many citizens of Quincy are familiar with the programs that are traditional to the Jaycees, such as our Christmas tree sale and shopping tour, the Miss Quincy pageant, the outstanding young educator and our Distinguished Service Banquet.

These programs have been supplemented with other programs that were needed to fulfill current demands of the city.

For example, two years ago we commented on the educational plant facilities report which was prepared by Arthur D. Little Company.

The goals of this year's administration are to continue many of the traditional programs and supplement them where necessary and provide a meaningful internal program to acquaint the individual Jaycee member with the problems of the city and give him the opportunity to take advantage of the leadership, management and social programs offered by our organization.

We have just completed our Christmas tree sale and shopping tour; we are now involved in this year's March of Dimes program and we are currently planning for our Distinguished Service Award Banquet which will be held in late winter.

We are currently considering programs involving the MBTA, consumer protection and drug education. This year the National Jaycee organization has instituted a leadership training program which we will conduct in Quincy. We are also involved in a "Speak-Up" program which is designed to improve the individuals public speaking skills.

While we are pleased with our past accomplishments, we are always searching for new projects to tackle and we are trying to give every young man of Jaycee age the opportunity to view our organization and take advantage of the benefits that it offers.

City of Quincy
Massachusetts
Office of the Mayor

James R. McIntyre
Mayor

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the civic bodies and service organizations of our community and the departments of the local government recognize the great service rendered to this community by the Quincy Jaycees, and

WHEREAS, the United States Jaycees and its affiliated state and local organizations have set aside the week of January 19 through 25, 1969, to observe the founding of the Jaycees and to promote the activities of the Jaycees, and

WHEREAS, this organization of young men has contributed tremendously to the betterment of this community throughout the year,

NOW, THEREFORE, I, James R. McIntyre, Mayor of the City of Quincy, do hereby proclaim the week of January 19 through January 25, 1969, as and urge all citizens of our community to give full consideration to the future services of the Jaycees.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of Quincy, Massachusetts to be affixed this nineteenth day of January, 1969.

James R. McIntyre, Mayor

A Salute

In Honor of Our Jaycees

We salute the Jaycees for their broad scope of work in our community . . . for their belief in its future. It is a privilege to join with them in doing our part.

Jaycee Image Changing

The popular Jaycee image is fast-changing as they meet the growing crises of the cities and the restive problems from which leadership is created.

One analyst capsuled the popular conception of Jaycees as "A bunch of youthful eager beavers who crown beauty queens, organize anti-litter campaigns and grow beards for local centennials."

Youthful (21-35) and eager they still are but the heredity of hilarity and innocuous civic diversion is being filtered out of the species. More and more Jaycee chapters are trimming civic chauvinism and going where it's at. Many of the big-city chapters are nose to nose with grinding anti-poverty problems.

A New Orleans Chapter recently assigned its members to visit almost every building in the city's slum districts. Their reaction to some unbelieveable filthy conditions produced some immediate pressure on city authorities to bring delinquent property owners into line with health and sanitation regulations. Human dignity benefitted.

Quincy Jaycees boost underprivileged youngsters every Christmas by sponsoring a free one-hour shopping tour in a downtown store. Not a bulging-treasury organization, such Jaycee benevolences are funded from the annual Christmas Tree sale. The proceeds are assigned to charity projects.

Now in the planning stage is an MBTA forum program to provide public information on regional transportation plans. The Jaycees hope to organize a top line panel of officials to explore and explain developments.

One of the more significant dates on the crowded 1969 Jaycee calendar is the Distinguished service Award Banquet in March.

Previous recipients have included Dr. Charles W. Djerf, prominent pediatrician and educator; the Rev. Bedros Baharian, civic planning official and Dr. Edward S. Mann, college president.

Female Jaycee? Never!

The males-only Jaycee tradition has persisted since Henry Giessenbier founded the organization 49 years ago. But the foundation shuddered slightly recently when the Houston Chapter nearly added a 30-year-old female to its roster.

Mrs. Joan Lockman, a public relations executive, was billed for $15 in dues-in error. She compounded the mistake by promptly paying up and then waging a campaign among Houston businessmen to change the all-male rule.

Jaycees the country over breathed easier when she relented in the face of unswerving opposition and took her "refund."

Jaycees Call Tulsa Home

National Jaycee headquarters are located in Tulsa, Oklahoma. A second home, the original Jaycee operations were conducted out of St. Louis until 1944.

A modern, two-story glass and concrete building, a $750,000 complex, now houses operations.

There is no formal tie – despite popular misconceptions – with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Saluting the Jaycees

Jaycees Lead By Serving!

Our congratulations to the young men of the Jaycees, who are learning to be tomorrow's community leaders by their service today in building our town.

Members Attain Prominence On Local, National Levels

Some of the world's most famous men have risen to prominence through the Jaycee ranks. An outstanding example is the 37th President of the United States–Richard M. Nixon.

Jaycees represent virtually every area of business and government. Jaycee alumni have made their mark in every top echelon of leadership. Former vice president Hubert H. Humphrey is a former Jaycee and still plays a prominent role in their activities. Etching outstanding American success stories have been former Jaycees John F. Kennedy, Nelson Rockefeller, Dr. Tom Dooley and Henry Ford, II.

The world of sports boasts such distinguished former Jaycees as golf king Jack Nicklaus, a former Junior Jaycee Golf champion.

Closer to home, the positions of responsibility and leadership offer examples of Jaycee training and motivation. Among a legion of Quincy Jaycee alumni are Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre and Robert M. Rosenberg, president of Dunkin Donuts.

Mayor McIntyre's fellow Jaycees included present Norfolk County District Atty. George G. Burke, Asst. Dist. Atty. Richard W. Barry, State Rep. and City Councillor Walter J. Hannon.

McIntyre, Hannon, Burke, and Rosenberg were elevated to the elite 1965 list denoting "Outstanding Young Men of America."

The former Jaycee quartet gained the distinction of being selected by a National Board of Editors. Their names were placed in national nomination by their fellow Jaycees.

Since their founding in 1920, the Jaycee organization has distinguished itself in the production of national and executive leaders.

In addition to the former Jaycee now in the White House, Jaycee alumni are sprinkled throughout both the Senate and House branches. Some of the nation's highest legal and judicial posts are occupied by one-time Jaycees.

In the past decade, Jaycee membership ranks have swelled more than 50 per cent–to 285,000.

As Robert Cronk, Jaycee national executive vice president, notes: "We don't kid ourselves that all our members are going to wind up president of their company. But our service projects serve as a vehicle for individual development."

Jaycee Creed

We believe:

That faith in God gives meaning and purpose to human life;
That the brotherhood of man transcends the sovereignty of nations;
That economic justice can best be won by free men through free enterprise;
That government should be of laws rather than of men;
That earth's great treasure lies in human personality;
And that service to humanity is the best work of life.

7 Reasons why President Chevrolet can save you money on a good used car

1) THIS IS THE BEST TIME TO BUY – When it's cold; when you're looking at a car under the worst possible conditions. If it performs well now, it's not apt to let you down when the weather gets mild.

2) WE'RE LOADED: OVER 100 ON OUR LOT. So far, we've been lucky with the weather. No snow yet, but we don't relish the job of digging out 100 cars. Anything we don't have to plow around is going to be sold...and we'll make it worth your while to buy.

3) WE'VE CUT PRICES. If you read our second reason, you know why. In addition, with our volume business you'll find a selection of cars priced to fit just about every budget.

4) YOUR CAR IN TRADE IS WORTH MORE RIGHT NOW. Need we say more?

5) WE SELL CONDITION...NOT MILEAGE! We have some excellent values in specially serviced high mileage cars. They're in good condition...covered under our RR Warranty. (Ask us about it.)

6) THE EXCISE TAX IS LOWER on a used car. (And, your first car payment isn't due until March 1).

7) EVERY CAR IS COVERED BY A 25 MONTH OK WARRANTY – and, thoroughly inspected, winterized, and ready to go.

So, don't be left out in the cold! Move up to a good OK used car now...one you can count on. See us today or tonight.

HOUSE CALL

COMMUNICABLE DISEASES

One of the most common questions asked in the office concerns the probability of contracting infectious diseases. How vulnerable are my children? - or what is the chance that my youngster will get this illness? The emotions are often very profound and the concern great!

Let us enumerate some of these to relieve you of the besetting worries.

CHICKEN POX is contagious just BEFORE the pimples arrive, because the child may have an upper respiratory infection and during the development to the height of the rash. Theoretically a week is considered the quarantine period. The other children in the family are not quarantined until they come down with the Pox. The involved child can go into circulation after the week (unless feverish), even if the scabs last for several weeks. At present we do not have a prevention or modification, although Immune Globulin is given by some doctors to infants or the feeble. It has not proved very effective in my experience. No age is immune to the disease, but once infected it is a life-long protection.

Scarlet fever hits the involved one usually in two-to five days after exposure. He is infectious during the rashing phase and while the throat is inflamed. This disease, being caused by a Streptococcus, can be transmitted by contacts who may not become infected themselves. It is a disease to respect and for which precautions should be taken. Penicillin or other anti-biots should be administered immediately to the sick one.

What a difference penicillin has made in mortality and morbidity! In my childhood it was feared terribly. The drugs have made the difference but the patient should be checked after the illness for complications, which still may arise, despite the treatment. If your child has been in contact, consult your physician for his advice. Do not dismiss Scarlet Fever lightly! Siblings of the sick child who are under penicillin are also supposed to be out of circulation for two or three days during their treatment.

Measles is now practically eliminated, thanks to the vaccine. Exposed infants and sick children can be protected by Immune Globulin. Contacts in the presence of true Measles can be exposed before the rash, during the coughing, running-nose state, and during several days of the week quarantine.

German Measles is communicable for about three days or just before the rash too. Fortunately this is a mild disease except for a pregnant woman who gets the illness during her first ten weeks. The unborn child may develop the illness and distribute it to the unprotected attendants (especially the pregnant women) in the nursery. Urgent consultation is encouraged for the carrying mother with her obstetrician. It is not beyond reason to consider interruption of the pregnancy if the mother gets German Measles. I leave the morality and judgement to those involved. I recently saw a child as the result of such a complication with cataracts and a congenital heart. It is true that the probability of such a complication is said to be 30 per cent.

Meningitis frightens people above any other illness. Generally indirect contact is not a concern except with SPINAL Meningitis, and conversation with your physician will most likely result in your taking Sulfa for several days. This works! The more common meningitis in children is Influenzal and this is NOT communicable. Precautions for the other forms such as pneumococcus (the pneumonia bug), streptococcus or staphylococcus need no more than commonsense depending on the intimacy of the contact.

Impetigo is contagious but even children in the same home may not get it. There is no special prevention. Treat it if it comes and stop worrying. It is homely but I personally feel that there should be no quarantine in this disease, even if it is caused by a Staph or Strep. Treatment is easy if not fast.

Ring worm is contagious but if the afflicted one is treated properly he should be allowed to attend school. This is a stubborn condition but modern treatment is effective.

The Grippe, flu, common cold, cold sores and diarrhoea are best avoided but I know of no special treatment outside of hibernation, and who wants that?

Any exposure to tuberculosis should have investigation. This is one disease that can be treated early and adequately if frequent search is made.

Mumps can be prevented in adult males if exposure is detected within a day or two. Orchitis, if if occurs can now be minimized with Immune Globulin.

Refer to my earlier column for a discussion of the Mumps Vaccine.

Multi-Million Racial Program Topic Sunday Of Wollaston Guest Minister

At the 10:45 service Sunday in the Wollaston United Methodist Church, the Rev. Gilbert H. Caldwell, Jr., Superintendent of the Boston District of the New England Conference of the United Methodist Church, will be the guest preacher.

Following the service of worship, there will be a coffee hour during which there will be opportunity for fellowship and discussion.

Rev. Caldwell was appointed in 1965 to serve as the New England Conference Consultant on Civil Rights. He has served as vice-president of the Massachusetts Unit. Southern Christian Leadership Conference and vice-chairman of the Boston Opportunities Industrialization Center, Inc. He was appointed by Gov. John Volpe as Commissioner, Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination. He is a former chairman, Boston Conference on Religion and Race, New England Conference Board of Christian Social Concerns, Boston Branch NAACP, and secretary of the National Committee of Negro Churchmen. Rev. and Mrs. Caldwell live in Boston with their two boys, Dale 8 and Paul 5.

Rev. Caldwell will interpret the present four year program of the United Methodist Church known as the "Bishops' Fund for Reconciliation".

The aim of the Fund is to raise $20,000,000 within the next four years to engage in constructive social change, with emphasis on poverty, race problems and ghetto existence in America.

The New England Conference of the United Methodist Church voted in June 1968 at its annual meeting to raise over the next four years $1,500,000 as its fair share in the great program of reconciliation throughout America.

Fifty-percent will be retained for use in New England and 50 percent will be sent to the church at large to be used for emergency needs in United States and overseas.

On Sunday at 3 p.m. there will be a Boston District Rally of all District United Methodist Churches at Union Church in Boston, at which local church members and leaders are invited.

A play "The Insurance Company" will be part of the program presented to inform and inspire those in attendance to help in many ways.

On Sunday, Feb. 9, there will be a Conference-wide pulpit exchange to emphasize the Bishops' Fund for Reconciliation and once more present its implications and challenges.

On Monday, Feb. 10, there will be a sub-district Workshop for all Quincy Churches at the Quincy Center United Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m.

Church visitors and leaders will be given instruction as to techniques and presentations of the challenge of the Fund for reconciliation, designed to bring about new friendships and understanding among races.

Solicitations of all church members and friends will be carried on by mail and personal contact be specially trained visitors during February and early March.

Sunday, March 23, will be Reconciliation Day at which time there will be a dedication service for visitors at the close of the service, after which visitors will contact parish members and friends.

March 30 will be "Report Sunday" when reports of progress and response will be announced to the congregation.

"Let's eat someplace different."

Quincy Sizzles On Ice, North Still Frigid

Quincy's hockey team, which proved last week it is still a solid threat in the Met League, faces a big test when it meets defending champion Christopher Columbus at 6:30 and North Quincy, still winless, goes against the league power, unbeaten Malden, at 8:30 at Boston Arena.

Bob Sylvia's Quincy team, beaten by Malden two weeks ago for its only loss, rebounded with a vengeance to bomb Revere, 9-0, while Bob Laing's North club suffered its most disappointing defeat, 2-1, to previously winless Don Bosco.

Quincy's romp gave it a 4-1-1 record, leaving the Presidents' behind Malden (6-0-0) and Columbus, which bowed to Malden last week, 3-2, runnerup with a 5-1-0 mark. North is all alone in the cellar with an 0-5-1 record.

Chuck Condos, Quincy's top scorer with 13 points, had three goals against Revere, with Dave Flaherty, Bob Ahola, Wayne Milford, Hal Bertoni, Kevin Grogan and Chuck Peterson scoring the others.

Sylvia gives a good deal of credit for Quincy's improvement to its booster's club, The Friends of Quincy Hockey.

"The club has been marvelous all year and some, especially Russ Erickson, have been outstanding," Bob said. "Russ coached the boys in summer and fall programs without pay and sometimes in a tight time situation when he had other commitments. But he managed to do it and the team's improvement shows.

"Other fathers also have been great. Condos' father, Pete, and his uncle, Jim, have been very instrumental in Chuck's progress. Peter is a good player himself so he can talk to Chuck and know what he is talking about. Chuck has improved because he has skated more and in so doing has gained confidence. His passing, shooting and everything else has improved tremendously and he has acquired good hockey sense."

Condos' linemates, Jimmy Cedrone and Peterson, have started to score well along with Chuck and Cedrone show signs of breaking out of a frustrating slump.

Bertoni has been a key performer and has adjusted well on defense since moving back from forward. "He is not just a forward or a defenseman, he's a real hockey player," Sylvia explained. "He can step into any position and has one of the coolest heads on the ice and we don't panic with boys like him and Ahola on the ice." Bertoni had three assists in addition to his goal last week.

"This was our worst game so far," said a disappointed Laing following the loss to Don Bosco. "They came here fully expecting to win and they didn't.

"We were killed by a lack of positioning. We were constantly bunching and everything is affected by this. Our shooting was good but, because of the bad positioning nothing would go in. We weren't in position to shoot."

Laing, however, was pleased with the improvement in the overall skating of his players.

Kevin Colleren turned in another of his outstanding performances in goal, while Don Smith scoring North's lone goal with an assist from Bob Frizzell.

Although there is little doubt that Quincy hockey is hurting because of the lack of an interscholastic program in the junior high schools, both high school coaches came to the defense of their assistants, who also handle the junior high programs, following our story last week about Quincy hurting at the junior high level.

Sylvia praised his aide and junior high coach, Ray Brown, while Laing also had kind words for Kenny Hayes, goalie on his first North team, who handles the same duties for Quincy.

We heartily agree with both coaches and didn't mean to slight these dedicated men. We were trying to point out how much Quincy needs a full interscholastic hockey program in the junior highs as most other cities have.

"Almost every player we have has come up to us through Ray Brown's junior high program," Sylvia said. "He does a lot for us in the way of extras, things he doesn't have to do. He is a good coach and a hard worker and I want to thank him for all he's done.

"Kenny Hayes has been tremendous," said Laing. "He comes to all our varsity practices to help out, then coaches the junior high teams. He does a lot of work, some of which is far beyond what he is required to do, but he wants to do it. And he doesn't get the credit he deserves. We have five sophomores on the team that may develop into pretty fair players and they all are products of Kenny's junior high program."

Laing earlier had lamented the lack of a full junior high program, explaining that his sophomores moved up to the varsity without any previous game competition.

Brown and Hayes are doing outstanding work in the junior high school but high school hockey in Quincy will continue to have troubles unless a full interscholastic junior high schedule is started.

State Track Warm-Ups For High Schools Feb. 1

The Quincy and North Quincy track teams won't return to Met League competition until Saturday, Feb. 8, at MIT when Quincy meets Arlington and North takes on Newton South at noon.

However, the Presidents and Raiders won't be idle, as several will be competing in the state meet trials on Saturday with hopes of qualifying for the finals at Boston Garden on Feb. 1.

Harvard and MIT will be the sites for the trials Saturday. Class A and Class C will compete at MIT, while Class B and D will be in action at Harvard.

The change in format was necessitated when it was discovered the Garden will not be available on Feb. 1 until noon. In the past action began early in the morning.

Having only the semifinals in the dash, hurdles, and 300 and finals in the other events at the Garden should make for a more interesting meet for the fans, who will find it easier to tell what is happening.

The relay remains an open event and any coach can enter a four-man relay team so that the best runners at each school will have the chance to run at the Garden.

Bob Gentry's North team and Gene Macomber's Quincy club continue to have rough going in the league and following last week's meets at Harvard each has only a 1-4 record in Division Two.

North last week lost to Milton, 51½-34½, while Quincy bowed to Somerville, 49-37.

North's winners were Steve Poore in the 600, Paul Affsa in the 300 and Dick O'Hanley and McCall, tied in the high jump. Seconds were taken by Mike Noonan, mile; Richie Yee, 1000; Jackie Yee, two-mile; John Panarella, shot put; O'Hanley, hurdles, and Cullen, dash. Thirds were taken by Jeff Strungis, 600; and Steve Dieso, shot put.

Quincy's winners were Mike Reardon in the 300, Pete Laing in the two-mile; Kevin Luggelle in the high jump and the relay team. Taking seconds were Pat Grimes, mile; Rich Hynes, 1000; Chris Potter, 600; Luggelle, high jump, and Ken Prouty, dash. Thirds were taken by John Bonfiglioli, 300, and Egershein, 600.

Junior College Quintet Faces Emerson On Feb. 6

Bob Basiliere's Quincy Junior College basketball team has a break in its schedule for exams and won't return to action until Thursday, February 6, when it meets Emerson College at Boston Latin High school at 6 p.m. The following night Quincy will play Newton Junior College at Newton High.

Basiliere's team will be trying to bounce back following two losses last week.

Friday night QJC dropped a 91-89 heartbreaker to strong Massasoit, dropping its greater Boston Small College League record to 5-3 and overall mark to 9-4.

Quincy made a fine comeback as it trailed by as many as 18 points in the first half and with 30 seconds to play had a three-point lead.

Paul Beston scored 24 points and Al McLaughlin 20. Quincy had a 25-15 edge from the foul line.

Earlier in the week, Quincy lost to Bryant and Stratton, the league leader, 82-71, at Quincy Vo-Tech gym.

Jernegan New BoSox Prexy

Coaches Consensus:

Quincy Agrees North Good GBL Title Bet

There are several reasons why North Quincy's basketball team is riding high at the top of the Greater Boston League with a 5-0 record (6-1 overall) going into Tuesday's game with Malden and also a number of reasons why Quincy is floundering along with a 1-5 league mark (1-6 overall).

Both coaches are quick to list the reasons for their team's good and bad fortunes.

"The big reason for our success is our balance," North coach Bob Nolan said. "We have a balanced scoring attack and a strong bench. I can insert a reserve without fear of weakening the team."

In a couple of games North ran into foul trouble and Nolan was forced to rest a few starters. However, the reserves carried on well and the Raiders did not suffer on either offense or defense.

"We have good height, although we were at a disadvantage a few times, and we have experience, which is a big help," the North coach added. "And, thanks to that experience, the boys don't panic when they are down."

In a big 77-66 win over Medford last week, North trailed by eight points in the first period but kept its cool and concentrated on closing the gap.

As a result of a poised, methodical effort, the Raiders tied it and went ahead and stayed in front.

"They are very businesslike," Bob said. "I used 10 players in that game and most player last year. They are now a year older and know how to play together."

"Another reason for our success is the boys' willingness to sacrifice. Medford had a much taller team and we knew we would have to block them out. Each of our boys had the job of containing his man and some of them gave away four to six inches. Some kids might balk at covering a man five or six inches taller, but our boys aren't like that. Everyone works together and they are a real team. I can't single out any one boy when they all do what they are supposed to do."

Against Medford Tom Flynn, at 5-11, covered Medford's Bill Deehan, who stands 6-5, and did an outstanding job.

"It takes a lot of guts to stay up there and take elbows and bumps and all the rest that goes with it," Nolan continued.

North's scoring, as stated before, has been well-balanced with Rich Sprague, Bobby Sleeth, Mark Jellison and Don Constantine consistely in double figures.

Also, playing prominent roles in North's unbeaten league record are Ralph Jackson, Steve Brutsin, Flynn, Bruce Healey, John Holleran and Dan Zink, among others.

"I don't see why we can't continue winning over the second half of the season if we just keep playing together as we have been," Nolan concluded. "However, we have some really tough games coming up and everyone will be gunning for us."

Among the coaches who feel North has an excellent chance of winning the GBL championship is Quincy's Marty Finnegan.

"They have an outstanding all-around team and it is going to be awfully hard to defeat them," Marty said.

Finnegan, who admits he expected the Presidents to be better than their 1-6 record, said he is more frustrated for his players than for himself.

"I really feel sorry for the boys, who have never given up for one minute and have given me 100 per cent and more in every game," Marty said. "I've never been prouder of a team and just hope we can get clicking during the second half of the season."

Finnegan is not one to alibi but it is a fact Quincy suffered two big losses just before the season opened.

Charlie Holmes, a 6-5 transfer from Dorchester, figured to be a key man in Quincy's plans, but after playing and looking great in pre-season scrimmages, he was declared ineligible. Due to a mixup in his transfer papers, it was believed he was eligible but the error was discovered just before the season opened.

Then, Finnegan lost Jimmy Furfari, a fine six-footer who was the leading rebounder, with a broken hand just prior to the season's opener.

"With these two boys, both strong rebounders, missing, we have been hurting badly off the boards," the Quincy coach said. "When I lost them, I was forced to make some changes and had to move George Davey, a 6-5 junior into the starting team. I didn't want to start him so soon as I wanted to bring him along. He was unable to play last year due to an injury and it is just like having a sophomore in there. However, he has been coming along very well and should help us over the second half of the schedule."

Joining Davey in the starting lineup have been forwards Bobby Pettinelli (6-2) and Chuck Walter (6-0) and guards Capt. Luigi Eleuteri (5-10) and Kevin Ryan (5-9).

"With Holmes and Furfari in the lineup, we beat Rockland badly and also defeated Wellesley, which is undefeated after eight games, in scrimmages and beat a strong Alumni team," Finnegan said. "Some of the coaches must be very surprised at our record."

Finnegan listed three major reasons for Quincy's failure to win:

1--Rebounding. "We have been getting only one shot at a time while the other teams have been getting two and three," Marty said. "We have been trying to block out their big men but have had our troubles."

2--Poor shooting. "We have been averaging only 33 per cent from the floor and I expect we would hit on 40 to 45 per cent," Finnegan explained. "We must improve on our shooting."

3--Turnovers. "We have been making far too many turnovers and giving up the ball too much," the coach continued. "This has really hurt us in most games."

Marty pointed out that Quincy is working on blocking out the opposition's big men giving them fewer shots, working hard on their shooting and working on ball control in an effort to cut down on the turnovers.

Finnegan expected Furfari back this week and hoped to use him sparingly until he is back in shape.

"His return should help us and I just hope we can cut down on our many mistakes

North Sails Along, Quincy Wins

North made it 5-0 in league play last Friday with a 69-48 romp over Everett thanks to another excellent defensive performance. "Anytime you can hold Everett under 50 points you are playing a good game," Coach Nolan said.

The Raiders again had a well-balanced attack with Constantine, playing what his coach called "By far his best offensive game," scoring 16 points, Sprague 12, Jellison and Sleeth 10 apiece.

North's junior varsity continued to roll merrily along with a 74-31 breeze over Everett to run its season's record to 7-0. Bob DeRosa scored 16.

Quincy finally entered the winners circle with a 59-57 overtime squeaker at Chelsea and Coach Marty Finnegan was extremely happy despite the close game against a winless foe.

"We've played better, much better, but these kids deserve the win, no matter about the play," Marty said. "It was a team win and it mirrored the spirit that the whole group has shown through all our problems. They just plain didn't quit and I hope this is the start of better things for them."

A key point in the game came in the third period when Davey fouled out after battling 6-5 Al Harvey and 6-4 Bill Hill of the boards. His replacement was Rick DeCristofaro, 10 inches shorter than Davey, so Finnegan switched from a zone to a full court press and it paid off.

The winning basket was scored by Walter with only seconds left in the overtime period. The extra session started with the score 53-all and Walter scored first. Chelsea tied it and Eleuteri put his team ahead, 57-55, only to have the Red Devils tie it again with 34 seconds left. Then came Walter's winning hoop.

Eleuteri scored 20 to pace the Presidents' attack, followed by Pettinelli with 15, Walter and Ryan 10 apiece.

Each club faced a major test Tuesday night when North was home to big Malden, 4-1, in league play, while Quincy faced the unenviable task of playing perennial league power Somerville at Somerville. Friday night North plays at Revere and Quincy is host to Boston Tech in a non-league game. Tuesday it will be Quincy at Revere and North will be idle.

WHAT MAKES "BIG MIKE" STAND A LITTLE TALLER?

He's a Quincy Yardsman. Big deal? He thinks so. He knows that at Quincy; he's doing the top work in his trade. Getting the top dollar for it. Sure, there are guys with softer berths. But they don't get his rewards.

Beyond the top dollar, "Big Mike" gets benefits that cover his pension (company paid), holidays and vacations (company paid) and help with schooling to sharpen his skill. Mike can see a lot further than most, too. Our backlog of contracts (which includes the recently awarded $97.8 million contract to build three unique sea barge carriers for Lykes) promise a farsighted future.

How does your job stack up against Mike's? Think about it. And maybe come in and see us. Tomorrow.

Electronics Firm Hailed

$6 Million Complex For Quincy

ARTIST'S SKETCH OF $6 MILLION RESEARCH COMPLEX PLANNED FOR ECHO LAKE

A large electronics research and development laboratory complex, costing an estimated $5-to-$6 million, will be built in the Echo Lake area of Quincy Point.

Hazeltine Corporation of Little Neck, N.Y. informed Mayor James R. McIntyre it has acquired the necessary land and will proceed with plans to construct an eventual 210,000 square foot facility.

The company is a developer and manufacturer of highly sophisticated electronics equipment much of it for the government.

The new laboratory, when completed in three stages, will consolidate the company's Massachusetts facilities now in Braintree and Avon and allow the firm to expand its capabilities in anti-submarine warfare systems and underwater acoustics.

An estimated 800 persons, mostly highly skilled engineers and researchers, will eventually be employed there representing a multi-million dollar annual payroll.

Hazeltine's decision to locate in Quincy was hailed as a major progressive milestone for the city by Mayor McIntyre, Councillor-Rep. Walter J. Hannon, chairman of the Quincy Development Commission, Commission Executive Secretary John J. Cheney, William A. O'Connell, executive vice-president Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce; Councillor-Rep. Clifford H. Marshall and Rev. Bedros Baharian, chairman Quincy Planning Board.

They, Public Works Commr. John M. Browne, City Engineer Henry F. Nilsen and other city officials played key roles in bringing Hazeltine to Quincy.

Hazeltine's decision to locate in Quincy climaxes more than a year's negotiations between the firm and the city.

Mayor McIntyre was informed of final go-ahead plans in a letter yesterday from Stephen F. Harran, director of facilities planning for the company.

Harran notified the mayor the company had acquired 13 acres of land from Joseph Bates adjacent to its present sonar testing facility at Echo Lake.

Ground breaking for the first phase, a two-story, 65,000 square foot structure, is scheduled for early March. Actual construction will start in April with December the completion target time.

According to the plans, the facility will be expanded to 210,000 square feet over a five-year building program.

Estimated cost of each building phase is approximately $2 million representing a total price tag of about $6 million.

The first phase structure will have manufacturing development space on the first floor and office accomodations on the second.

'No Snow' Winter Saves City A Cool $100,000

If you're a skiing enthusiast, it hasn't been much of a winter so far. But taxpayers haven't had it so good in a long time.

The virtually snow-less winter has meant an approximate $100,000 saving to Quincy, estimates City Public Works Commr. John M. Browne.

He notes the city, as of mid-week, had spent only $4,800 this winter for four "sanding" storms. This includes sand, salt and labor.

The storms were light snow and freezing rain. Two of the storms required sanding of every street in the city.

"I would say we have saved a possible $100,000 over the same period last year," Browne said.

The city, he said, has not had to hire any private equipment so far. A two and a half inch snow forecast ordinarily signals the call for private contractors to augment the city's snow-fighting fleet.

"We've been very lucky so far," said Browne. "Even if we get a big storm in February we would still be ahead. The days are getting longer. More hours of daylight mean more natural melting of snow and ice."

The city's snow-fighting fleet has been ready for two and a half months but outside of the sanders, has seen no action.

The equipment, numbering 32 pieces, includes 11 Walters snowfighters, six Bombardiers for sidewalk plowing and six Oliver tractors for general post-storm "dressup".

Browne reminded residents to keep automobiles off streets when a snow storm does hit.

Members of the police department will again team with his department in clearing autos. Police will knock on doors or use bull horns asking residents to move parked cars. If they are not moved, they will be towed.

Browne estimates that last winter, 500 cars were moved voluntarily and 100 towed during storms.

The city is unlikely to escape a major storm this winter but with spring only 48 days away, it shouldn't be too hard to take.

Single Family Home Image Is Vanishing

Quincy is losing its long-time image as a community of single family homes.

This was noted by City Building Inspector Allan F. MacDonald in his 1969 department budget request submitted to Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Comparing new construction trends in Quincy since 1956, MacDonald observed:

"It is readily evident that the single family house is being phased out; with it goes the relatively easier methods of wood frame construction and in its place will be the multi-unit dwelling (medium or high-rise), business and industrial structures by whose very nature--and also the dictates of the Quincy Building Code--must adhere to higher categories of construction."

MacDonald referred to the situation as an "irreversible trend--in fact not a trend but a positive position."

The city assessors' office estimates the number of single family homes in Quincy today as about 13,500. The number of apartment buildings which have been "coming fast the past few years" has not yet been pinpointed.

MacDonald's figures show that in 1956 there were 184 new units built in the city of which 93 per cent were single family.

The single family percentage has been virtually steadily downward since. Last year of 833 new units constructed, only three per cent were single family. In 1967, 13 per cent of 305 new units were single family.

The swing away from single-family houses, MacDonald said, will continue because of the following reasons:

--Expanding population pressure--with the reaction felt here soon because of, among other things, the MBTA extension'

--Dwindling supply of good land for single family homes.

--New federal programs intended to expand the supply of housing.

--New techniques such as precast components and mass produced items whose maximum economical advantages can be realized only through medium and high rise development.

Burke To Discuss Drug Problems In County

Norfolk County Dist. Atty. George G. Burke will discuss the drug problem Feb. 5 at an open meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association.

The meeting will be at 8:15 p.m. at the Montclair Men's Club, Holbrook Rd., North Quincy.

The Citizens Association, citing the growing drug menace, extends an invitation to residents of all ages to attend the meeting.

Burke, former City Council president and state representative, has been waging an effective battle against narcotics since becoming district attorney.

His anti-drug campaign recently brought an invitation from the legislature of the Virgin Islands to spend a week there lecturing and conducting seminars on narcotics.

The regular monthly meetings of the Quincy Citizens Association are open to the public. All registered voters of the city are eligible to join the association.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I hope the congratulations and plaudits never cease for your bold, exciting and commendable endeavor to bring Quincy news to Quincy neighbors.

As one who was born and raised in Quincy and left eight years ago, I always carry Quincy on my sleeve. Those of us who do leave have many friendships and memories--it takes little to re-kindle them.

I for one like to keep in touch but at times can't always do that. But now, every Thursday, I can pick up my copy of The Sun from the mailbox and read of my friends and read of the happenings of my hometown.

If your purpose is to present Quincy to Quincy, you have succeeded. If your purpose is to inform Quincy of Quincy, you have succeeded.

Hopkins Is Named Asst. Controller By Entwistle Co.

Donald R. De Ciccio, executive vice president of The Entwistle Company, announced this week that Charles W. Hopkins of Quincy has been appointed Assistant Controller of the company.

De Ciccio noted that this post has been created due to the company's continued expansion and organizational development.

Hopkins, his wife Marjorie, and their three daughters live at 102 Piermont Street, Wollaston. He graduated from Boston College in 1961, attended Bentley College and was a military marketing analyst for Entwistle prior to his promotion to Assistant Controller. Before joining the company in 1967, he was an auditor with the Department of Defense and controller for the Development Corporation of America of Boston.

The Entwistle Company, whose corporate headquarters are in Providence, R.I., designs and builds machinery for the wire and cable industry and is a prime contractor for the Department of Defense, specializing in aircraft launch and arresting systems.

In addition, the company operates the Federal Division in Hudson, the Nelmor Company, a builder of machinery for the plastic converting industry in North Uxbridge and Millville; the Dietz Machine Works, a builder of paper converting machinery in Camden, N.J.; Van Zelm Associates, a research & development firm specializing in arresting systems for aircraft and automobiles in Providence, and Precisioneering, Inc. in Orlando, Fla.

City Tributes To Crofts, Bates

Two prominent Quincy civic figures were cited in resolves submitted by the Quincy City Council.

Retirement tributes were paid to Russell T. Bates, noting 40 years of city, state and county government service, and Quincy YMCA leader Gilbert L. Crofts. The YMCA official is concluding a 39-career in the youth leadership field.

The official votes of thanks were submitted for the official records by City Councillor Clifford H. Marshall, Jr.

Sunbeams

Eddie Scolamiero, the West Quincy barber, has sent a gift subscription of The Quincy Sun to his long-time friend, Billy DeWolfe, out in Hollywood.

"Now he can keep up to date on what's going on in his hometown," says Eddie who used to usher with Billy at the old Quincy Theater back in the 1920's.

The theater, torn down a few years ago for expansion of the Sears Roebuck store, was then a silent movie and vaudeville house. And the big names of the day played there. Among them: Sophie Tucker, Milton Berle and Natacha Rambova--Rudolph Valentino's wife.

The Sheik was the nation's heart-breaker in those days and his wife's appearance in Quincy caused quite a stir.

And before she left here, young Eddie became somewhat of a celebrity himself. He happened to strongly resemble Valentino and, as the story goes, had Natacha swooning over him. As Eddie recalls it:

"I was polishing the brass railing around the orchestra pit when she walked in. She took one look at me and fainted. We had to get a doctor."

When Natacha came to, she mumbled: "I thought he was my husband."

Muses Eddie: "I guess the shock of thinking she was seeing Valentino polishing brass was too much for her."

The incident made newspapers across the country. Natacha was held over and the Quincy Theater happily hung out the SRO sign.

The incident also turned Eddie's life into a nightmare for awhile. One night the girls tore his usher's uniform off him and he had to have a police escort home.

Eddie, who was only 21, fled Quincy for New York and decided to become a barber. While serving his apprenticeship there, curiosity got the better of him and he telephoned Valentino's hotel.

Valentino's wife had told the matinee idol of the Quincy Theater episode and apparently curiosity had got the better of him, too. He invited his look-alike to his suite.

Valentino was taller and broader than Eddie but he looked at the Quincy youngster and said:

"Everybody has a double. I guess you are mine. With high shoes, some padding and a little makeup you would pass for me."

Valentino offered Eddie the job as a stand-in in Hollywood, but Eddie turned it down.

"I wanted nothing to do with movies or show business," Eddie recalls. "That incident in Quincy was enough for me. Being a celebrity was too dangerous."

So Eddie became a barber. And his young usher sidekick, then known as Billy Jones, became Billy DeWolfe and a celebrity.

Whenever Billy returns to Quincy, as he did last summer, the pair get together and reminisce about their days at the old Quincy Theater. Especially about the day when Eddie made Valentino's wife swoon.

AS ONE OF the great shipbuilding centers of the world, Quincy's General Dynamics Yard should be humming with work in the future if Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, Chief of Naval Operations, has his way. At a recent hearing by the Special Subcommittee on Sea Power of the House Armed Services Committee, Moorer warned of Russia's threat to the United States supremacy at sea.

He pointed out that 58 per cent of the U.S. Navy's ships "are at least 20 years of age" and that "less that 1 per cent of the Soviet Navy's surface combatant ships and submarines are 20 years and older."

He called for an expanded ship replacement program for the years ahead, specifically: "In the 1970-1980 time frame, I believe that the Navy needs a balanced fleet of about 350 capable ships . . . "

Youth Council Candidates Set For Feb. 5 Primary

J. Vincent Smyth

Nominations have been completed for the first election of a Quincy School Youth Council.

High school and junior high primary elections will be conducted on Feb. 5 to qualify contenders for the city's first teen-age model City Council. Final elections will be held on Friday, Feb. 7.

The Youth Council--an original proposal by City Council president J. Vincent Smythe--attracted 71 nominees from Quincy and North Quincy high schools, Broad Meadows, Sterling, Central, Quincy Point Junior High schools and the Woodward School For Girls.

Single representatives will be elected from each of the schools following the preliminary election. Two council members will be elected from Quincy High with representation included for the Vocational-Technical School.

Smythe praised students participating in the Youth Council project for "their great interest and enthusiasm."

"It is very gratifying to note that nominations were submitted from each eligible school participated. This interest in municipal government procedures is an outstanding example of student citizenship in action."

The City Council president also commended Acting School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, principals and school staff for supervising and coordinating the project.

Working with school officials in organizing the Student Council elections was City Councillor Arthur H. Tobin, chairman of the Council's Youth Committee.

The Youth Council will comprise ninth graders as junior high representatives and 10th, 11th and 12th graders from the high schools.

Election results will be announced on Feb. 10.

The following graded candidates will compete in the Feb. 5 primary:

Quincy High: Steven Raser, 11, David D'Olimpio, 10, Paul Kodgis, 10, Deborah Kallio, 11, Mark Leinonen, 11, Eric Johnson, 11 and John Rodman, 12.

State Sen. Beryl Cohen will be the guest speaker at the annual joint Men's Club dinner at the First Baptist Church, Wollaston, Feb. 18 at 7 p.m.

He will speak on "Social Welfare in Massachusetts Today." Host for the dinner meeting will be the Rand Class.

Readings By Poet John Beecher

The Adult Discussion Group of the United First Parish Unitarian-Universalist Church in Quincy is sponsoring "An Evening With John Beecher" in the Parish Hall of the Church on Tuesday evening, Feb. 4 at 8 p.m. The public is invited as guests of the congregation.

John Beecher, contemporary poet of protest and prophecy, will read from his books of poetry including "To Live and Die In Dixie", "And I Will Be Heard" and "Here I Stand" According to contemporary critics: "He belongs in the same company as Thoreau, Emerson, Whitman, Melville and Robert Frost."

In the past two years, John Beecher has given some 200 public readings of his poetry on college and university campuses, in churches, high schools, bookstores, coffee houses, conferences and mass meetings throughout the United States and Canada.

A great-great-grandnephew of the abolitionist Henry Ward Beecher and Harriet Beecher Stowe, John Beecher was brought up in Birmingham, Alabama where his father was an executive vice-president of U.S. Steel.

He was educated at VMI, Cornell, U. of Alabama, Harvard and University of N.C. He has taught at Dartmouth and Wisconsin.

For eight years, he administered programs in the South, dealing with the rural and urban poor, migratory laborers and Negroes discriminated against in employment.

Beside his activities as a poet, Beecher is an associate of "Ramparts", a contributor to national magazines, and is writing a study of the contemporary South which Macmillan will publish.

Rummage Sale Aids Project

Sixth Graders Look Forward To Return Trip To Capitol

A rummage sale Thursday and Friday, Jan. 30 and 31, will play an important part in financing an educational trip to Washington, D.C. for Daniel Webster School sixth graders.

The sale will open at 10 a.m. on both days at 10 Depot St., next to City Hall. Proceeds from the benefit will support the four-day trip to the nation's capitol on April 29.

Accompanying the 58 students from the school's two sixth grade classes will be teacher Miss Irma Salvucci and Arthur Foster. It will be the second such trip for the young students.

"It was such a rewarding educational experience that we decided to go again this year," Foster said.

Highlights of the first trip included a personal welcome from Congressman James A. Burke. The group lunched in the Capitol Building and enjoyed a ride on the Senate subway.

"We also visited the White House and the grave of President Kennedy."

Carol Mariano, a member of last year's class reported that the trip was something she'll never forget.

"The City is very beautiful" reported Carol, "and Congressman Burke was very nice to us. We had our pictures taken with him. Each of us received a picture, it is a very nice memento of the trip. I hope to go again some day."

In order to prepare for the trip Miss Salvucci and Mr. Foster are teaching the students the history of Washington, D.C. An educational experience of this type is phenomenal," stated Foster. "The youngsters actually get to see what they have read about. We are able to sit in on sessions of the House of Representatives and the Senate. As a teacher I can't help but feel that this is a great inspiration to my students. I only wish it could be done every year. It is a task, however to raise the money," he noted.

Miss Salvucci and Mr. Foster have joined with parents in order to finance the trip. The parents pay most of the costs, but in order to defray expenses, projects have been undertaken to raise money.

Cookie and submarine sandwich sales have raised some funds but not quite enough.

The group hopes to make most of its money on the forthcoming rummage sale.

The students urge friends and neighbors to come to 10 Depot Street today and tomorrow to support a very worthwhile cause.

Complex Gets Go-Ahead

A new 60-foot wide access road will be constructed at no cost to the city from Bower Rd. off Quincy Ave. to the facility site.

The present open water test site at Echo Lake, spring fed water-filled former granite quarry, is used for testing and calibration of underwater acoustic devices and systems.

In its former days, Echo Lake was a favorite swimming haunt for generations of Quincy youngsters and occasionally a dumping place for victims of gangland murders.

Now it is a well guarded site where considerable classified work is carried out on Navy and other government contracts.

The Quincy facility will enable Hazeltine to expand its ASW capabilities which includes airborne, surface ship, submarine and surveillance sonar and underwater acoustics development.

Hazeltine Corporation's decision to build its new multi-million dollar research complex in Quincy was warmly greeted by city officials. Sample reaction follows:

MAYOR MCINTYRE: "This is a great thing for the city of Quincy. It will mean a tremendous amount of tax revenue to the city and upgrade the area in which the complex is located.

"The new jobs, possible 800 when the plant is completed, will greatly aid the economy of Quincy and the South Shore. It will be a big plus for the city."

"I commend highly, John Cheney and Rev. Bedros Baharian for their efforts in diligently working on this proposal for more than a year and successfully bringing it to a conclusion in the best interests of the city."

WILLIAM A. O'CONNELL, executive vice-president Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce: "The Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce is pleased to have been part of the team that worked so diligently and cooperatively with Hazeltine to convince them to locate in Quincy."

"The competition from other communities was terrific. In the final stages, it was the outright effort of the mayor and other municipal departments that clinched the site in Quincy."

"Quincy's present image is certainly one of progress. Our goal to make Quincy the educational, commercial, industrial, cultural, government and legal center of the South Shore must continue."

"The ultimate prospective payroll of 800 people will represent a multi-million dollar payroll to the South Shore."

WALTER J. HANNON, city councillor and chairman Quincy Development Commission: "I think it is a great feather in our hat that Hazeltine is coming here. I think it is a tremendous contribution to the city. It reflects a decent administration, good government and a good business climate."

CLIFFORD H. MARSHALL, city councillor in whose ward the complex will be located: "John Cheney, the Mayor and all others involved in the detailed planning should be congratulated for a truly outstanding job."

"The Development Commission played a large part in selling the assets of the City of Quincy and the benefits of this site to the officials of the Hazeltine Corporation. The construction of this facility will eventually bring approximately 800 employees plus a multi-million dollar complex with room for future expansion. This construction will open up this area for further development as well and certainly brightens the prospects in this area.

The faith that the Hazeltine Corporation has exhibited in the City is deeply gratifying to us all."

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf

Pediatrician

(William Rossi of Hingham, noted authority on footwear is guest columnist today for Dr. Charles Djerf)

The Marvel Of A Child's Foot

It takes 20 years to grow a foot. In babyhood it starts as a bone-less, arch-less, fragile structure. Over the young years the bones will gradually harden, arches take shape, muscles and ligaments strengthen. That growing foot needs attentive care in those early years. Over a lifetime it will have to carry the individual some 175,000 walking miles, a distance seven times around the earth.

A pair of feet contains 52 bones, one-fourth of all the bones in the body. It has an ingenious network of dozens of small but powerful ligaments and muscles. They keep the bones, joints and arches intact as a unit, yet permit enough "stretch" for flexibility. That's very important because those feet must bear a walking work-load of 1,000 tons a day.

Sometimes mothers are concerned about the way their children walk, especially in the early years. We're asked, "Shouldn't the child walk with toes straight ahead? Isn't that the correct way?"

The answer is no -- unless it is the child's natural way to walk. The great majority of people--children and adults alike--walk with the feet pointed out a little. A tiny minority with the toes turned in a little.

A child's gait is as individual as its fingerprints. Never try to correct or "teach" a child to walk with the feet in any particular stance, such as toeing straight ahead. The child will adopt its own natural gait. However, if the toeing in or toeing out appears extreme, then see your doctor.

Mothers ask about their children's arches. Is there a "correct" height or shape for a child's arch? No. The arch can be high or medium or low, or even flat, and still be normal. All babies, for instance, are born with "flat" feet. By about the third year the arch has begun to assume its natural shape.

If a low or "flat" arch is accompanied by what is called a "pronation" of the heel, this is a sign of a faulty or weak arch. This can be medically corrected, especially if attended to while the child is young.

Shoes are very important to healthy child foot development. Mothers ask, "Is there some kind of 'correct' shoe that a child should wear?" No. There is no one special last or style or type. But there are certain rules that should be observed.

First, of course, the shoe should fit properly. Not just for length and ball width but also at the heel or backpart, at the instep, under the arch, at the outer side and tip of the little toe, etc. The competent shoe fitter is best qualified to judge shoe fit.

You'll be interested to know that shoes are made in a combination of nearly 300 different sizes and widths--about two-thirds of them in children's sizes alone.

One of the chief causes of foot ills in childhood is outgrown shoes. Surveys show that nearly half of all children habitually wear outgrown shoes. The shoe when new starts out correctly fitted. But children's feet grow in erratic spurts, and the shoe can become quickly outgrown.

Such shoes should be instantly replaced with new ones of correct size and fit, regardless of the "good wear" still in them. Mothers should make it a habit to check the fit a month after the shoes are purchased. Most shoe stores will do this without charge or without trying to sell you a new pair, if not needed.

However, beware of "over-fit" -- buying a shoe too long or too large for "economy's" sake. This means that the child starts out with a misfitted shoe. Avoid the "rule" of a thumb's width of free space at the end of the toe. That's about an inch, equal to six half sizes. It's too much.

For a baby shoe the sole should be soft and flexible. As the child gets older, the sole should be firmer but still reasonably flexible. But never stiff or rigid. A child's foot is flexible. A rigid or stiff sole is never indicated in childhood and should never be worn. The shoe should be the same to permit needed foot movement and exercise inside the shoe.

The shoe upper materials should "breathe" -- meaning to permit foot moisture to evaporate through it. The feet of an active child give off a half pint of perspiration a day, or nearly two quarts a week. Shoes obviously need constant airing. This is why it's a good idea to have the child alternate shoes, giving each pair a chance for a good airing.

If the shoe fits properly and is of good construction, any one of a variety of styles is all right. It can be an oxford, sandal, boot, tie, loafer or slipon, etc. Also, children's shoes don't have to be heavy or the excessively "sturdy" type. Nor should they have built-in "arch supports". The single most important feature is foot freedom inside the shoe.

There is no advantage to a high shoe over a low one other than difficulty for an infant or child to remove the footwear.

The expensive shoe isn't necessarily the best shoe. Good quality is important, but it can be found in moderately priced as well as in higher priced shoes.

A good shoe is really a work of art and a masterpiece of engineering. So is a child's foot. Parents should treat both with that kind of appreciation.

Maintaining Skating Rinks 'Natural' For Park Dept.

By RICHARD J. KOCH, Executive Secretary, Park-Recreation Board

Never was an adjective more descriptive than the word "natural" when used in natural ice skating. Although the Park Department floods 14 of the 16 natural ice skating rink during the winter, the Department is at the mercy of the elements in properly maintaining these areas.

Probably the greatest number of natural ice skating days were enjoyed during the 1962-63 season, over 35 days of good ice for skating was recorded, because total accumulation of snow for that winter was only 13 inches and the temperatures hovered around the teens. The above conditions resulted in the longest and best skating season ever recorded by the Park Department.

Skating areas at Manet Lake, Houghs Neck, Tree Pond, Faxon Park and Furnace Brook Parkway adjacent to the School require several continous exceptionally cold days for an eight inch solid freeze to form in the ground creating a natural hard pan for the flooding.

If only two inches of frost is in the ground, when the area is flooded, the water with a higher than freezing degree of temperature melts the existing frost and makes natural drain into the unfrozen ground, where the water quickly disappears and a false or white ice forms on the

By Charles H. Wickens

Piece and peace. Two simple words. They sound alike. They're spelled differently, have different meaning.

Consider for example, "piece of mind" as it is commonly used and "peace of mind" as it too is commonly understood. "Piece of mind" is common. "Peace of mind" is all too uncommon.

Telling some one off with a "piece of mind" is one thing. Possessing "peace of mind" is different. "Piece of mind" even at its best provides only a TEMPORARY feeling of satisfaction. Once attained, "peace of mind" can be maintained - it gives PERMANENT satisfaction.

Wouldn't it be a wonderful world if people would practive less "piece of mind" and possess more "peace of mind"...?...

some things cannot be planned in advance

But, knowing who to call can relieve you of much worry and expense.

When a death occurs in another city, for example, a single telephone call to the Keohane Funeral Home assures immediate and competent representation wherever needed. It assures you, too, of responsible handling of every detail to your complete satisfaction.

That is possible through our close contacts with qualified funeral directors throughout this country and abroad. Their services are available on a moment's notice from us.

So while neither time nor place for such emergencies can be anticipated, it is good to remember that a telephone call to the Keohane Funeral Home, day or night, assures you of complete fulfillment of your responsibilities.

Pathways

By

Rev. John W. Smith
Union Congregational Church, Wollaston

(Pathways is a regular weekly feature of the Quincy Sun written by Quincy clergymen.)

John 6:68: "Lord," answered Simon Peter, "who else should we go to? Your words have the ring of eternal life." (Phillips)

Bishop Gerald Kennedy of the Methodist Church once decribed a fellow churchman as a man who "couldn't take religion, but who couldn't quite leave it alone." His description may summarize the two poles between which our own religious experience finds its grandeur and its misery.

On the one hand, we Americans can't quite take religion. Our freedom OF religion has, for many, become freedom FROM it. Religion is life's great elective, something we can take or leave, but not a required course in life. To be sure, it has certain values. Who wants to live in a community without a church? However, it is not necessary for those who are not religiously inclined.

Put popularly, the Christian faith is like one of the arts. If you are musically inclined, you will enjoy the Boston Pops. If you love poetry, you will read it and quote it fluently to your friends. However, if you are not inclined toward either music or poetry, they will bore you to tears. Some say religion is like that. It was meant only for those who can enjoy it.

Admittedly, some persons do not appear religiously inclined. That, however, may be less the result of their personality make-up, and more the result of their involvement in other things. Often the struggle for existence has so preoccupied us that religion is an unwelcome intruder. We become so concerned with making a living that we neglect to make a life. Little wonder we have trouble being religious!

But what of the rest of Bishop Kennedy's description? We can't take religion, but we can't quite leave it alone, either. Like Peter of old, in a moment of personal need, we cry, "Lord, who else should we go to? Your words have the ring of eternal life." Perhaps this is why we can't quite let religion alone. In spite of human miscues, great religion has the power to introduce us to the deeper meanings of life for which we all hunger.

In one of Gabriel Marcel's plays, there is a lovely, witty woman named Christiane. On the surface her life is much like ours: interesting and apparently successful. Yet an anguished inner empitness leaves her spent. One day she observes to a friend: "Don't you feel sometimes that we're living in a broken world? Yes, broken like a watch. Just to look at it, nothing has changed. But put the watch to your ear and you don't hear any ticking. The world must have had a heart once, but today you'd say the heart has stopped beating."

How does that grab you? Isn't there within each of us a hunger to hear the ticking -- to know the meaning? We may try to ignore it, or suffocate it under a fog or preoccupation with the exciting gadgetry of the world. But always there are the problems we can't solve, the questions we can't answer, the sickness we can't cure, and the death we can't escape. Then we are thrown back on God, the God whose presence causes our hearts to tick again, and who provokes the old and the powerless to take on new life.

There really is something vital in that religion we can't quite take, can't quite leave alone. Somehow it serves to spell the difference between standing or falling as we bear trouble, face illness, overcome resentment, escape guilt, master sin, and confront and conquer the fear of death.

This is how badly we need religion!

St. Joseph's Whist

The St. Joseph's Holy Name Society will conduct a whist party on Wednesday. The event is in addition to the regular whists held on the third Wednesday of each month.

Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Atlantic Methodist Church will be conducted on March 17. It was announced that all financial reports must be audited by March 1. The head auditor is Kenneth Donovan.

WHIST PARTY

The Atlantic Assembly of Rainbow Girls will sponsor a whist party Friday at 8 p.m. at the Atlantic Masonic Temple, East Squantum and Hunt Streets. In charge of the program is Miss Janis Mathews, past worthy advisor.

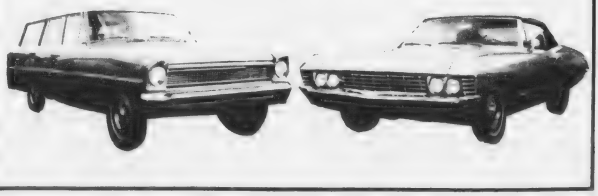
7 Reasons why President Chevrolet can save you money on a good used car

1) THIS IS THE BEST TIME TO BUY -- When it's cold; when you're looking at a car under the worst possible conditions. If it performs well now, it's not apt to let you down when the weather gets mild.

2) WE'RE LOADED: OVER 100 ON OUR LOT. So far, we've been lucky with the weather. No snow yet, but we don't relish the job of digging out 100 cars. Anything we don't have to plow around is going to be sold...and we'll make it worth your while to buy.

3) WE'VE CUT PRICES. If you read our second reason, you know why. In addition, with our volume business you'll find a selection of cars priced to fit just about every budget.

4) YOUR CAR IN TRADE IS WORTH MORE RIGHT NOW. Need we say more?



5) WE SELL CONDITION...NOT MILEAGE! We have some excellent values in specially serviced high mileage cars. They're in good condition...covered under our RR Warranty. (Ask us about it.)

6) THE EXCISE TAX IS LOWER on a used car. (And, your first car payment isn't due until March 1).

7) EVERY CAR IS COVERED BY A 25 MONTH OK WARRANTY -- and, thoroughly inspected, winterized, and ready to go.

So, don't be left out in the cold! Move up to a good OK used car now...one you can count on. See us today or tonight.

--New forms of financing with major benefits to individual families through "condominium ownership."

"The conclusion," said MacDonald, "is inescapable: In the offing are structures decidedly more complex in design, and technologically more sophisticated in execution, as a result of which the knowledge, time and energy demands on the Inspection Department will be--and in fact have been--correspondingly increased."

In addition to new construction, the Building Inspection Department also has old construction to contend with.

MacDonald said he anticipates the demolition of about 10 old buildings during the year at a cost of approximately $500 per building. Liens will be placed upon these properties to recover the cost of demolition, he said.

North At Chelsea; Quincy Hosts Medford

North Quincy's basketball team completed the first half of its Greater Boston League schedule with a 7-0 record and Friday night goes to Chelsea to try and open the second half on the same foot.

The Raiders then face their major test Tuesday night when they are host to Somerville, whose only loss was a 77-76 squeaker to North.

Meanwhile, Quincy's luckless team goes into the second half of its schedule with only a 1-6 league mark (1-8 overall) and Friday night is home to Medford. Tuesday night the Presidents play at Everett.

Bob Nolan's classy North quintet made it a perfect first half last Friday with an 87-73 win over Revere as Don Constantine hit for 34 points. The Raiders were again up against a bigger team but out-rebounded Revere, 47-33, thanks to a fine team effort under the boards.

Revere stayed in contention until the final period when North had a big 31-19 edge to pull away after switching to a press.

"This was another fine team effort and Bob Sleeth (21 points) and Mark Jellison played excellent ball, while Constantine was just great," Nolan said.

"The team was great over the first half of the season (eight straight wins after an opening day non-league loss to Brockton) and if we keep on playing the same way, we should do all right for the rest of the year. But everyone will be gunning for us so we will have our work cut out for us."

The powerful North junior varsity rolled to a 70-47 win over Revere to run its mark to 9-0 as Dick Sanderson scored 15 points.

Earlier in the week North came from behind to topple a strong Malden team, 62-51, for Malden's second loss. North's defense again came to the fore to spark the big win. Jellison scored 20 points, Rich Sprague 15 and Sleeth 10. The jayvees rolled, 85-56, with Bob DeRosa having 13 points.

Marty Finnegan's Quincy team still unable to put everything together on the same night, bowed to Boston Tech, 80-56, Friday in a non-league game.

The Presidents trailed only 14-12 after a period but were outclassed in the next two periods, 29-11 and 27-15 to trail, 70-38. Luigi Eleuteri had 17 points to spark Quincy.

Earlier in the week Somerville displayed a pro-type offense to pulverize the Presidents, 106-74, as the Highlanders rolled to a big 48-24 halftime lead. Quincy gave the winners a battle in the last two periods.

"Somerville shot like the Celtics in the second period," Finnegan said. It hit on 12 of 16 floor shots in the period. "They were hitting from all angles and dominated the boards."

Eleuteri had 26 points and Chuck Walter 21 in a losing cause.

Quincy Fathers Club Present Annual Awards

To the surprise of absolutely no one, Steve Carrera was the winner of this year's Jack Granville Memorial Award given annually by the Quincy Fathers Club to the outstanding Quincy player in the Thanksgiving football game against North Quincy.

Carrera, who received the award at the club's recent banquet at Quincy Vocational School, beat North practically by himself with an amazing display of running.

The winners of the Fathers Club's other awards were:

Rich Keaney, John F. Kennedy Award for best offensive lineman; Steve Tappen, Presidents Trophy for best defensive lineman; Steve McDevitt, Moscardelli Award for best offensive back; Rick Speranzo, Underwood Award for best interior lineman; Billy Kelley, Primavera Award for most improved player, and John Molla, the Paul Grasso Memorial Trophy for unsung hero. This award, given for the first time, was awarded by the members of the 1965 team of which Grasso, killed in Vietnam, was a member.

Trophies went to the 12 senior cheerleaders, a special plaque was presented to Dante Laurretto for his efforts on behalf of the club, and Harold Sparks received the Past Presidents' plaque.

The speaker at the banquet was Gay Salvucci, an all-time Quincy football great and now successful coach at American International College.

Local Trackmen In State Meet

Mike Reardon and Kevin Luggelle of Quincy and Paul Affsa of North Quincy qualified last week for Saturday's state track meet at Boston Garden.

In the preliminaries at MIT and Harvard, Reardon qualified for the Class A 50-yard dash by placing third and Luggelle for the high jump with a fourth place finish.

Affsa qualified for the Class B 300-yard run by placing fifth.

The finals of the shot put were held in each class last week with North's Roger Conboy finishing fifth in Class B.

Saturday's state meet at the Garden pits the best in Eastern Mass. against the best from the West.

The Met League will return to action on Feb. 8 at MIT when Quincy meets Arlington and North Quincy faces Newton South at noon.

Munroe MacLean: He Leaves A Void

By TOM SULLIVAN

Munroe MacLean

The untimely death last week of Munroe MacLean leaves a huge void not only in Quincy's schoolboy sports scene but that of the entire state.

Munroe MacLean, a coach of football, basketball and track at Quincy High school-his alma mater-for 25 years, and director of health, physical education and athletics in Quincy for the past 10 years, was not only an outstanding coach and a fine sportsman but, most of all, a wonderful man.

I considered it an honor to be numbered among his close friends for nearly 25 years and during 15 of those years I was in close contact with him as I covered many of his football and basketball games and track meets.

In 25 years of covering schoolboy sports I never met a finer man or a more cooperative coach. Win or lose, Mac was always in good humor and it was easy to get a good story out of him. He was always gracious and his wry sense of humor added to our interviews.

In 1956 I nominated him as a coach for the annual North-South all-star schoolboy basketball game in Murray, Ky. He was selected, one of four coaches from among more than 300 nominees, and following an enjoyable week in Kentucky, he thanked me and called it "one of the most enjoyable experiences of my career."

In Kentucky Mac earned the deep respect of his fellow coaches, the players from all over the country and the many top college coaches in attendance.

He was that kind of man.

Mac was always more concerned with the welfare of his boys and the development of their character than he was with winning games. When he took over as Quincy football coach in 1938 the Presidents had yet to defeat rival North Quincy. His team won that year, 19-0, and his 11-year record against the Raiders was 8-2-1. Mac's overall record in football was 70 wins, 23 losses and nine ties.

He continued to coach basketball and track for several more seasons and in 1948 Quincy joined the Greater Boston Basketball League, rated one of the strongest in the state. Until 1956 his teams had never finished worse than second. In those days Quincy and Somerville were perennial league champions.

His teams had fine tournament records. His first Quincy team lost by one point in the last 15 seconds in the state tourney finals. His 1939 and '41 teams were eliminated in the quarterfinals his 1949 and 1950 clubs in the semifinals. Quincy won the state tourney in 1951 and went to the finals of the New England tournament. After elimination in the quarterfinals in 1954, his team again lost out in the state finals in sudden death overtime in 1955.

Mac was extremely proud of his many players who starred in college and became successes in business after college. He would never admit it, but he played a vital role in making it possible on many occasions.

Among these many players, George Burke is now Norfolk County district attorney, John Killilea is coach at Melrose, where he has compiled a remarkable record, and Basil "Buzzy" Ciriello, recently killed in Vietnam, excelled at George Washington University and later coached there and at the Air Force Academy.

Speaking of Ciriello, for three years Mac's teams scrimmaged the Boston Celtics at clinics at Quincy High. One year the Presidents, with Ciriello leading the way, sank seven of their first eight shots and led the pros, 14-2. It was the day after Red Auerbach's book on basketball was published. As Easy Ed McCauley, a Celtics great, ran past the bench he yelled to Auerbach, "Get out the book, Red, and see what we are supposed to do, now."

Auerbach was one of Mac's greatest boosters and he kept a close eye on many of his players. He played a major role in sending Ciriello to George Washington University.

Mac was the first member inducted into the Mass. Basketball Coaches Hall of Fame and was the author of several athletic and physical fitness manuals.

In addition to his coaching and teaching, Mac participated in tthe President's Physical Fitness Council in Washington in 1962. In 1967 he received an honor award for Outstanding Professional Service from the Mass. Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

A Navy Reserve lieutenant commander in World War II, he served under Tom Hamilton in aviation preflight and coached many of the country's top college and pro players.

In 1962 he was elected "Man of the Year" by the Montclair Men's Club for his work with youth. He was a charter member of the committee that started Little League baseball and football in Quincy and the "Munroe MacLean Trophy" is awarded annually by the Little League to the boy showing the best sportsmanship.

He was a director of Quincy YMCA and chairman of its physical education committee, a member and director of Quincy Lions Club, the American Red Cross and American Legion Post 95.

Incidentally, Mac was an outstanding athlete in his school days. At Quincy he was captain of track and basketball and starred in football. One day he ran in the state cross country meet in the morning, then turned in an outstanding job in football that afternoon.

He also captained track and basketball and starred in football at West Chester Teachers and held the state teachers college record in the half mile for many years.

While teaching and coaching at Hazleton, Pa., he met Clara Schatz, who later became Mrs. MacLean. She and two daughters survive.

I feel a deep personal loss in the death of a great man and, hundreds of others share that feeling.

He will be sorely missed.

Junior High Sports Program Tops

Quincy has one of the outstanding junior high athletic programs in Eastern Massachusetts and the late Munroe MacLean, director of athletics for the city, was proud of it. His assistant, Ken Rickson, is also justly proud of it.

"I feel we have an excellent program in all sports and we are very pleased with our basketball leagues, which are now in full swing," Rickson said. "More than 40 boys play varsity ball in each of the five schools, with each school having seventh, eighth and ninth grade teams."

Every Tuesday and Thursday, three games are played on each basketball program and, in addition to the interscholastic teams, some coaches have intramural leagues in the morning for the seventh graders to give them experience and to utilize the gym facilities.

"We have outstanding coaches at every school with most having a good deal of experience and some having coached high school ball," Rickson continued. "And the coaches decided to employ no trick defenses, just stick to a basic man-to-man defense and stick to all the basic rules. This makes the games much more interesting for the fans and brings out the best in the players."

The coaches are Mario Casali at Central, Steve Campana, Broad Meadows; Don Tobin, Point; Dave Meehan, Sterling; Bill Willoughby, seventh and eight grades at Atlantic, and Ronald LaQuaglia, ninth grade at North. Atlantic and North are the only schools which operate separately, the seventh and eighth grades being located in the Atlantic Jr. High, while the ninth grade is still in the high school building.

"The high school coaches keep their eyes on the games and appreciate the fine work being done on the junior high level," Rickson went on.

There are no actual league championships in any sport and all champions are unofficial. Emphasis is put on the competition between the players with no championship pressure.

At present Central's ninth grade team is rolling along undefeated as Casali, connected with the league for 12 years, continues his outstanding success. Atlantic-North also is strong and right behind Central, while the other schools are very closely matched.

"I think this league is outstanding," said Casali, dean of the basketball coaches. "I don't cut anyone and there is great competition among the boys. I run an intramural league for seventh graders with about 60 taking part and bring them up during the season to play in varsity games. Before the season is over every boy in the intramural program gets a chance to play with the varsity. I also run my eighth grade practices on an intramural basis rather than a regular practice."

Casali has had a great record during his 12 years in the league with a 140-18 record including last week's games.

The junior high hockey program is strictly informal with no regular interscholastic schedule. Ray Brown handles the program at Sterling, Broad Meadows, Point and has part of the Central boys, while Ken Hayes handles Atlantic-North and part of Central.

"These two coaches do a fine job teaching the boys the fundamentals," Rickson stated. "The boys get practice time each week at the Shea rink and some informal games are played with outside schools."

Basketball and hockey are the only junior high sports during the winter but Martin Butler, who is starting gymnastics at Quincy High this year, takes his small group to the various junior high schools and stages demonstrations and clinics.

Rickson is especially proud of Quincy's junior high football program in which more than 500 boys, 100 from each school, participate.

"This is an excellent program which also includes seventh, eighth and ninth grade teams with three games on the same program on each scheduled day," Rickson said. "We are also blessed with outstanding coaches in football."

Quincy recently added soccer to the junior high program and it is beginning to flourish after some rough sledding at the start. There is only one team at each school with an average of about 30 boys playing at each school.

"Soccer is a fine fall sport and gives the smaller boys, who can't play football, a chance to take part in a sport," Rickson said. "This league is really coming along well with some more excellent coaching."

In the spring baseball and track are popular in the junior high schools. Baseball is run along the same line as soccer with one team at each school, each playing the other twice.

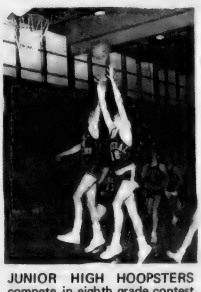
In track, each school meets the other once and the season's highlight is a city-wide meet at the end of the season which is popular among both the students and parents and offers tremendous competition.

Although there is no interscholastic program for the junior high girls, they are not forgotten and there are several activities for them.

Each school has a cheerleading squad chosen at the start of the year and is an important program for them.

"A gym meet is held for the girls each year for those in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades at Atlantic under the direction of Miss Mary Moloney," Rickson said. "She invites other teams in the area to participate and this is a major event for the girls." Miss Moloney is girls physical education supervisor at Atlantic.

Three junior high girls' play days are conducted for the girls in all three classes. Each of the play days is held at one particular school and includes volleyball in the fall, basketball in the winter and softball in the spring.



Each of the junior high athletic programs has excellent supervision and the football league is in particularly good hands. The coordinator is the popular Jack Donahue who, until he retired in 1960, had been North Quincy High School's only football coach since the school began football in 1933.

It is no wonder Quincy is so proud of its expansive junior high program. It has every right to be.

Maintaining Rinks

surface that is unsafe and not skatable. The above several exceptionally cold days are also required at Sailors Home Pond, Rice Road for maximum safety.

The asphalt skating rinks are flooded immediately following the predictions of a cold spell and freezing temperatures ensue. In the first flooding each year of the asphalt rink, enough water is used to just cover the surface. With this procedure, the existing ice may be sprayed for a new surface of ice at various times throughout the season. If the rinks are flooded to the top of the berm, and the ice is broken or snow covers the area, it would not be possible to re-flood it due to spillage.

Many continual snowstorms with large accumulations during a season greatly hamper and many times, ruin an entire skating season, 1. when the snow blankets a skating rink before the cold can penetrate and freeze the existing water. 2. when a wet snow or slush freezes quickly, causing a rough skating surface.

For the past five skating seasons, 1963 through 1968, a total of between 13 and 15 days resulted when over 60" total accumulation of snow and many unusual high temperatures spoiled good skating.

PROBLEMS

A. The greatest problem confronting the Park Department each year in maintaining the 16 natural ice skating areas within their jurisdiction is the throwing of rocks, sticks, etc. into the skating ponds immediately following the flooding or freezing, before the ice has solidly formed.

B. A second problem results from smaller children walking through or playing in the areas, while the skating rink is still in a slush or soft ice formation, causing ruts and footprints when the ice becomes solid and in most cases, spoiling the ice for maximum skating enjoyment following the freezing.

C. If hard packed snow or rough ice has formed on the asphalt skating rinks and water is sprayed over for flooding, the warmer than air water seeps down the edge or berm flows underneath and lifts the rough ice or hard packed snow to the top; thus spoiling the surface for skating.

HOCKEY RINKS

A. Hockey Rinks were constructed by the Park Department carpenter in 1964. They are installed after the first flooding and solid freezing at the following three larger ice skating locations: Sailors Home Pond on Rice Road; Furnace Brook Parkway, adjacent to the School; and Manet Lake in Houghs Neck. A solid ice is required to support the hockey rinks during the season. The preceding action has a two-fold purpose: 1. attract the hockey player to the above locations for a more enjoyable and official game. 2. segregate the hockey playing into one section of the area, thus allowing smaller children to use and enjoy the remaining ice outside of the hockey rinks in greater safety. For the past four seasons, the ice at the above locations has not been strong enough to support the heavy hockey rinks.

LIGHTING

Twelve of the 16 natural ice skating areas within the jurisdiction of the Park Dept. have some type of lighting. New wide lites were installed at Kincaide Park and Fore River Field. Wide Lites were also installed at Bishop Field and O'Rourke Playground skating areas.

FLOODING

All skating areas are flooded by hoses from fire hydrants with the exception of Sailors Home Pond and Tree Pond at Faxon Park. These are filled by fresh water spring.

CONCLUSION

The general trend of the MDC and many larger cities is the construction of artificial ice skating rinks. These arenas guarantee ice skating under any and all weather conditions. However, the cost is approximately $25,000.00 for each.

The Quincy Park & Recreation Board and the Park Department personnel strive to provide natural ice skating areas whenever weather conditions permit. Following snowstorms, snow will be removed from rinks where solid ice exists. The Park Dept. must receive the approval of the Water Dept. before using fire hydrants for flooding. The Water Dept. insists that flooding be done during the evening hours, resulting in increased overtime costs to the Park Dept. Budget. The Board insists that asphalt skating rinks be constructed and that this should be included in the specifications and requirements for combination tennis courts and skating rinks. This action will result in maximum utilization of the areas year-round for both winter and summer activity and provide the most economical expenditure of the City's tax dollar. The construction cost of approximately $5,000 for an asphalt natural ice skating rink could not be justified due to the limited number of skating days. A major problem resulting in a lack of natural ice skating days, is Quincy's close proximity to the sea shore, where temperatures are at least 10° higher than interior temperatures.

The Board feels that it would be impossible to police or supervise the 16 natural ice skating areas. The cost involved, and uncertainty of weather would make this system impractical and unsound economically. It is hoped that all persons using the City's natural ice skating areas would show consideration and cooperation toward one another.

Buoyed by a shocking 2-2 tie with Malden, one of the biggest upsets in Eastern Mass. schoolboy hockey history, North Quincy's improving hockey team faces cross-town rival Quincy Friday night at 6:30 at Boston Arena.

No one gave Bob Laing's North club a chance against Malden's powerful team which had rolled to a 6-0 record and scored 50 goals. But Laing and his Raiders had other ideas and most schoolboy hockey fans still can't believe the surprising tie.

"Kevin Colleran played an outstanding game in goal," Laing said. "In fact the whole team was great and got better as the game went on. I shifted Bob Pierce back on defense with Cliff MacDonald and both played very well. Our sophomores, Tommy O'Malley, Bob Frizell and Al Struzik played outstanding games."

Struzik scored in the first period with Frizell and Jimmy Donovan assisting. Malden went ahead, 2-1, with two second period goals but at the 6:37 mark of the final period Donovan scored the equalizer with Frizell and Pat McCormack assisting.

Laing also paid tribute to Donovan, saying he played his best game of the year.

Quincy had all kinds of chances against Christopher Columbus but Chuck Rheault, rated the best goalie in the Met League, turned aside 32 of 33 shots to pace his team's 2-1 victory, Quincy's second loss of the season.

"It was frustrating," said Coach Bob Sylvia. "We dominated the play, had the puck in their end most of the time but Rheault is a fine goalie and kept them in the game. We didn't play poorly by any means but our passing and shooting could have been a lot better."

After a scoreless first period Columbus took the lead but Jim Cedrone scored the equalizer for Quincy midway in the second period. The winning goal came with only a minute and eight seconds left.

The death of Munroe MacLean a few hours before the game dampened Laing's enthusiasm over his team's great performance. A moment of silence was observed for MacLean before the North game and both Laing and Sylvia paid tribute to him.

"It certainly puts a dampening effect on the game and on anything," Laing said. "I knew Mac for 20 years and I admired him all that time. He was a tremendous sportsman and a man of the highest ethics. His life was devoted to the high school boys and devoted to high school athletics. The city of Quincy has lost quite a man."

"We were all saddened to hear of Mr. MacLean's death," Sylvia said. "Any success we've had in hockey at Quincy has been because of him. He was always first class as an athletic director, giving us any help we needed. But, more than that, he was first class as a man."

National Boat Safety Cup For City Recreation Dept.

The Quincy Recreation Department received a National Gold Cup Award for boating safety Friday at a reception at the Park Sheraton Hotel in New York City, which was held in conjunction with the National Boat Show.

The sponsor of the award was the Kiekhaefer Mercury Company of Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, makers of Mercury outboard and marine boat engines, who are celebrating their thirtieth year of operation this year.

Accepting the award for the City of Quincy was Mayor James R. McIntyre, James F. McCormick Sr., Chairman of the Park and Recreation Board, and William F. Ryan, Director of Recreation.

The Quincy Recreation Department operates an instructional summer program of boating, sailing, and waterskiing for Quincy residents.

Boys and girls 8 years of age and over who first pass a qualifying swimming test at one of the department's fourteen beaches are eligible for the boating and sailing program which is held in a natural salt water lagoon called Black's Creek.

Beyond the interest and recreational factors, this progressive type program takes the participants from a basic seamanship course, including rowing, docking, launching, knot-tying, etc., up to advanced sailing. It is designed so that the entire family may participate and develop boating knowledge and abilities which they can utilize for the rest of their lives.

The children attend regular class sessions held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. An evening program from 5 to 8 p.m. for adults helps to get the entire family learning safe boating together. Saturdays, members of families may enjoy the program together.

A staff of five instructors, Mary Pratt, Supervisor, follow established lesson plans utilizing the fleet of 38 sail, row, and motor boats. Valuable assistance is also rendered by a corps of Junior Leaders. These teenage volunteers are those who have an exceptional interest in boating and who have exhibited a high degree of motivation and maturity. Instructors were Joseph Daly, Isabelle Howe, Ronald Pletsch, Mary Jo Riley and Steve Kenny.

All participants, even though they are swimmers, are required to wear a Coast Guard approved life jacket while in a boat. The reason for this is so that they will get in the habit of getting one of the jackets provided before entering a boat. This habit pattern could be a carry over so that when boarding a boat elsewhere they will at least ask if there are enough jackets aboard for all on board.

The Recreation Department's program for retarded children is located near the boating facility, at Happy Acres Day Camp. Children from the camp with their individual camp volunteer also are scheduled for three sessions a week in the boats. This camp also received a national award last April.

Mrs. Eunice Kennedy Shriver of the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation presented the First National Award for excellence in Day Camping to the Recreation Department at a Kennedy Foundation sponsored symposium held in Chicago.

Climaxing the program each year is Nautical Day, where the youngsters compete in all kinds of boat races and competitions. Featured is a series of parent-child sailing races with the youngster acting as skipper and the parent as crew. Awards and American Red Cross certificates are presented to those who completed the various prescribed courses.

WATERSKIING

Boys and girls who first pass at least a junior life saving course are eligible to participate in the department's instructional water-ski program. Four instructors, Maureen Haye, Earl Johnson, Steve Hurley and William Jenness, use a seventeen foot fiberglass boat with an 80 horsepower outboard motor for this program, which travels weekly to five different areas, making the instruction readily accessible to young people in all parts of the city. Quincy has 27 miles of water-front.

Rotarians To Hear Further Adventures Of Bill Veeck

Baseball's "incorrigible maverick" Bill Veeck, new president of Suffolk Downs race track and former owner of three major league teams, will be the featured speaker at the interclub meeting Tuesday at 12:15 of the Quincy and Braintree Rotary Clubs at the Neighborhood Club, Quincy.

Program chairman for the combined meeting is Frank Hackett.

Will fans ever forget the day a midget came up to bat in an American League game? Bill Veeck - may well go down in history merely for that moment in 1951 when he sent in Eddie Gaedel for the St. Louis Browns in a surprise move that rocked the park.

Veeck took over the Cleveland Indians and they went on to win the American League pennant and the World Series in 1948, setting an all-time baseball attendance record of over two and a half million. That Cleveland team, by the way--and how can New England fans forget it--beat the Red Sox in a playoff game to win the pennant, then defeated the Boston Braves in the Series.

Veeck also achieved an American League "first" by hiring a Negro outfielder, Larry Doby. Later he brought in the oldest rookie in baseball history, the 48-year-old Negro pitcher LeRoy (Satchel) Paige.

After selling the Indians and the Browns, Veeck bought into the Chicago White Sox, another team that won the American League pennant for him in 1959. The Chicago Cubs and Milwaukee Brewers are two other clubs with which he has been associated.

A promoter with a flair for entertaining the fans (he introduced the exploding scoreboard), Veeck in the last few years devoted much of his time to writing, radio and television. An injury received as a marine in World War II cost him a leg but dampened none of his enthusiasm and energy. He makes frequent appearances on national television network shows.

Quincy High will hold its Youth City Council primary election Feb. 5. The candidates, all ninth grade students, are Peter Doucette, Marie Grazioso, Neil Johnson, Patricia O'Donnell and Dennis Sattewhait. The two candidates who accumulate the most votes in the primary will run against each other, in the final election Feb. 7.

The election at Point Junior High is one of seven that will be held around the city in conjunction with Quincy's new Youth City Council program. There will be one representative from each of the city's four junior high schools, its two high schools and also from the Woodward School for Girls.

After the final election the electees will be sworn in at the City Council Chamber. Each Youth Councilor will then be assigned to the City Councilor who represents the area in which the youngster lives. The City Councilor will explain how city government works and the role he will play in bringing the view of youth to City Hall.

YMCA NOTES

Helping Keep America Strong

By Adele Wilson
YMCA Women's Council

YMCA World Service is a North American program which helps people overseas to help themselves. In its 78th year, World Service rests solidly on the four principles evolved from experience long ago at home and abroad:

– To assist in the development of YMCA movements in other countries only upon invitation.

– To help develop indigenous leaders as soon as possible.

– To help build self-directing, self-financing, and self-expanding YMCA movement abroad.

– To help people help themselves.

The varied programs of World Service demonstrate how to build health, improve living conditions, and develop moral values.

The Quincy YMCA's Youth Program plays an active role in World Service by way of contributions from programs carried out by the "Y" youth. All proceeds are donated to World Service from carnivals put on by summer campers as well as from YMCA-sponsored Sunday School Basketball Leagues' team banquets held each year. A candy sale in November, 1968, netted more funds for World Service under the direction of Morrie Hibbard, Chairman of the World Service Committee and a member of the Quincy YMCA Board of Directors, in cooperation with Youth Director Paul Harvey and Women and Girls' Director Alice Beagan.

At a drawing for two watches on New Year's Day at the annual "Y" Open House, Russell Chisholm and Kimberly Broome were winners from among the many youngsters volunteering time and energy with the candy sale.

The Quincy YMCA has a 1969 target of $1,800. for contribution to the World Service Program.

Our gals have done it again! - just cut the second Physical Fitness record, "Keeping Fit the 'Y' Way", with instructors Nan Collins and Hertha McConville on the "blue and silver label". The new slimnastics record has exercises suitable for every woman - fat, slender, whatever - to feel better and tone up; the music is tantalizing! Just inquire at the main desk of the Quincy "Y", or phone and a record will be mailed to you.

Did you know ... that the aquatic program at the Quincy "Y" offers a class for everyone - non-swimmers through to advanced, life-saving, water-safety aides, diving, competitive swimming, swimming for the handicapped and retarded. Swimming instruction for grade-school girls has a present enrollment of 325. WATER-SAFE YOUR CHILD!

Imangine a middle-aged woman with a "frozen shoulder", sent as a last resort by her doctor to the "Y" for swimming in the hope she could regain use of her arm. Five months later she had learned to swim; she can now raise her arm to shoulder height. Each day this woman faithfully swims a number of laps to retain the mobility of her arm.

Many of our adult women members have their own stories to tell about how they have been helped by the dedicated morning instructor, Mrs. Elinor Collins, and faithful, trained volunteers such as Mrs. Louise Tedrow, Mrs. Fances Blair, Mrs. Dot Koslowski, Mrs. Berta Nota, and Mrs. Marilyn Carano. The same dedication is found with evening instructors Mrs. Annette Phillips, and Mrs. Helen Gallahue, working with volunteers Mrs. Marion Minton and Mrs. Lorraine Quinn.These gals are never too busy to help the handicapped and the slow learners - many women (and men, too!) from 18 to 80 sing their praises loud and clear.

Summer is coming - and NOW is the time to learn to swim - and NOW is the time to "stay in shape" if you already know how to swim. WATER-SAFE YOURSELF, TOO!!.

Telephone Revenues Up $47 Million

New England Telephone made notable advances in revenues, new telephones and volume of local and long distance calling during 1968, President Allen G. Barry said in a year-end report.

He cited an increase in revenues of $47 million over the 1967 level.

More than 157,000 telephones were added - - - bringing the total at year's end to 4.6 million in the company's five-state area.

Calling on an average business day reached a new high of 23 million - - - up four per cent over 1967. Long distance calls increased eight per cent.

In 1968 expenditures for land, buildings and equipment totalled a record $216 million. This brings the total for the last 10 years to $1.5 billion.

Mr. Barry said the company expects strong growth in 1969 and plans additions and improvements totalling over $260 million for a new record.

Net income for the year was $86 million - - - slightly below the 1967 level.

WHAT MAKES "BIG MIKE" STAND A LITTLE TALLER?

He's a Quincy Yardsman. Big deal? He thinks so. He knows that at Quincy; he's doing the top work in his trade. Getting the top dollar for it. Sure, there are guys with softer berths. But they don't get his rewards.

Beyond the top dollar, "Big Mike" gets benefits that cover his pension (company paid), holidays and vacations (company paid) and help with schooling to sharpen his skill. Mike can see a lot further than most, too. Our backlog of contracts (which includes the recently awarded $97.8 million contract to build three unique sea barge carriers for Lykes) promise a farsighted future.

How does your job stack up against Mike's? Think about it. And maybe come in and see us. Tomorrow.

BACK ON THE JOB--Directing traffic at his noontime post outside the Hancock Bank main branch is Patrolman William L. Duggan. The veteran police officer frustrated an attempted holdup at the bank last week while doing traffic duty.
(Quincy Sun Photo By Robert Leo Eng)

Portrait Of A Hero:

An Old Pro Makes His Finest Tackle

It takes an old pro to make the big play.

In this case, the journeyman was William L. Duggan, who once wore the football spangles of the old Quincy Trojans. He has been wearing all blue for the past 19 years and is considered one of Quincy's finest.

Patrolman Duggan made his finest goal line stand in front of the main office of the Hancock Bank, Quincy Square, last Thursday. He put all of his 5-10, 150 pounds behind a flying tackle that dropped a 34-year-old would-be bank robber in his tracks.

In the days when heroes and anti-heroes are appallingly young, an exploit featuring a football sandlot star of the 30's deserves recognition. Duggan, a 19-year-veteran of the force, passes it off lightly. But the department has recommended him for a citation. At 50, Duggan still casts a youthful shadow--and his tackling is mighty sharp.

Nailed as he ran across the Hancock St. crosswalk waving a bag crammed with money (the bank's), was Joseph G. McSherry, 42 Manomet Rd. Moments before, McSherry had threatened a female teller with a toy gun and momentarily escaped with about $3100.00.

Duggan, doing a regular traffic relief stint outside the bank, spotted McSherry on the run and heard a passerby's warning. The former Quincy Trojan then came on like a Green Bay Packer.

Duggan modestly admits it was "the second time" he had tossed a would-be bank robber for a big loss. Six years ago, Duggan and partner Charlie McCormick frustrated another toy gun gunman on Chestnut St. after a similar episode at the South Shore National Bank.

That capture was a little easier.

"We were in a car and only had to run about 10 yards," Duggan recalls.

The old South Shore Leaguer has given up football (officially, at least) and now keeps in shape with golf and bowling.

And three grandchildren (3 months, 4 and 5 years) will also be mighty proud some day of a Grandad who hardly acts the role.

At heart, he's still a center for the Quincy Trojans.

Golden Fellowship Program On Feb. 11

The Wollaston Golden Fellowship Club of the Methodist Church, Beale St., will hold a special program on Tuesday, Feb. 11 at 2 p.m. at the Church.

The general chairman of the program is Mrs. Estelle Smullen of Newport Terrace.

The speaker will be Mrs. D. Talmage Erb, vice-president of the Woman's Auxiliary to Morgan Memorial and prominent clubwoman.

Morgan Memorial is the largest non-profit and non-sectarian agency in New England serving the handicapped and disadvantaged.

Gift Boxes Bring Cheery Responses From Viet Nam

A Viet Nam gift project brought a touch of home to 50 Quincy servicemen and return letters from the recipients expressing high morale and good spirits.

"We learned from one G.I. who wrote home to his sweetheart that there are no boys in Viet Nam, only men," said Mrs. Neomai Cavicchi of 195 Phippe St.

Mrs. Cavicchi, with her daughter Carol and fellow employees at Howard Johnson's sent Christmas gift boxes to the Quincy servicemen. The gifts were gratefully received and acknowledged.

Sample comments from Viet Nam included:

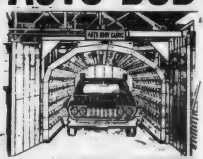
S. Sgt. Richard Melchiore: "It really made me feel good to know that there are still people in the United States who think about us once in a while. Please thank all the girls who helped in this."

S. Sgt. Jerry Adams - "A package from the States to a guy over here means a lot ... We have clubs here, but sometimes they run out of beer or a rocket will come screaming in and close the club. But we are at an air base and have it a little bit better than our fellow marines out in the field."

WO William G. Seckinger – "I Brought the package to my office and all my men helped me enjoy it. We are able to get candy once in a while. The weather here is really hot and the temperature is usually around 100 (Just like Mass.)"

L/Cpl. Jim King – "I'm in a hospital in Guam and it's been a long time since I received such goodies. It's pretty hard to come by all that stuff over here. My buddies and I enjoyed it."

L/Cpl. William Slack, Jr. – "We don't ever get candy bars unless someone gets a package. And of course we always share it among ourselves. It reminds me of Christmas in a way. I always keep safe as possible and anyway the VC are very bad riflemen. I guess in about three months I should be home. Thanks again for thinking of me."



Allen R. Butterworth – "I have seen better days but there really is no reason for complaining. Say 'hi' to some of the girls you work with. I certainly appreciated their thinking of me."

The gift boxes with the best wishes of the Howard Johnson's commissary employees contained gum, candy, canned fruit and canned soups donated by the Quincy firm for the holiday project.

VEGAS JACKPOT WINNERS receive prizes in the Sparkle Cleansers contest. Winning $225.00 each were Mrs. Esther Braverman of Jamaica Plain and Philip Chandler of South Braintree. Presenting the awards are Carl Turin and Joseph Santos of Sparkle, Mrs. Braverman was a contest registrant in the Jamaica Plain Sparkle and Mr. Chandler in the Braintree outlet. Mayor Orders Crackdown

Tax Delinquents Owe $300,000

WINTER RETURNED this week to check January thaw that was spoiling ice skating at Quincy Park Department rinks. Youngsters pointing to cracks at Kincaide Park rink are Mathew Fanara, 7, Cris Fanara, 8, Gina Robert, 12, Donna Ciardi, 6, Dave DiBona, 10, and Robert Ciardi, 7. Cracks disappeared this week. (Quincy Sun Photo by Robert Leo Eng)

Mayor James R. McIntyre will launch a stepped-up drive to collect nearly $300,000 in delinquent auto excise and personal property taxes owed the city.

An estimated 2,300 delinquents owe approximately $192,000 in excise taxes and $102,000 in personal property taxes, some of it going back as far as 1959.

"It is unfair to the majority who faithfully pay their taxes to let these delinquents have a free ride," the Mayor said.

"We especially need this money this year because of the bleak financial situation facing the city."

McIntyre said he hopes to have as much of the delinquent money collected before April 1 as possible.

"Money collected before then can go into the Excess & Deficiency fund to be used to help the 1969 real estate tax rate," he explained.

The 1968 rate was $98.90. Mayor McIntyre declined to speculate on the 1969 rate but noted that the delinquent excise and personal property taxes--if collected--would lessen the impact on the new rate by $1.50.

Original department requests for 1969 were up approximately $4 million over last year and the Mayor is now pruning them as judiciously as possible.

But it is certain the final 1969 city budget will be a record-breaker, considerably higher than last year's $32.4 million.

The Mayor will initiate his tax collection drive at a conference scheduled for Feb. 20, 7:30 p.m. in his office.

He is requesting the city's eight deputy tax collectors to meet with him, Executive Secretary James J. Ricciuti and City Tax Collector-Treasurer David R. Houston.

The deputies will be instructed to go out and get as much of the delinquent approximate $300,000 as possible before the April 1 deadline.

Houston estimated the number of delinquents at approximately 2,300 and noted that "many of them are chronic delinquents."

Most of the excise taxes--some $89,000--are delinquent from 1968. But they include $22,000 in 1967, $25,000 in 1966 and $55,000 in 1965.

"A considerable amount of the delinquent personal property taxes involve boats stored in Quincy and owned by non-residents of the city," Houston said.

Some $62,000 of the delinquent personal property

Ward I Committee Focuses Attention On Problems

Fourteen residents have joined the Ward 1 Committee being formed by City Councillor Edward S. Graham to consolidate efforts to determine needs and solve community problems in that area.

The group held its first meeting recently at the Snug Harbor School and discussed a number of subjects including: oil and air pollution, rubbish disposal, alcohol and narcotics involving youth, high-rise construction, revaluation and re-zoning, traffic control, recreation, sea wall construction, Black's Creek conservation.

"I have great hopes that this newly formed committee will serve to unite our ward and truly represent all residents," Graham said. "Any resident interested in serving on the committee is welcomed to do so."

The group unanimously agreed the committee could accomplish needed improvements and the solution of problems.

Graham said the committee will serve as an advisory group to him "and the members will work closely together to unite and contribute their talents for the betterment of Ward 1 and the city of Quincy."

Attending the meeting as charter members were:

Robert Denvir, Antonio Monteiro, Frank Pace, Frederick J. Kussman, Mrs. John Chludzinski, Wilfred Nolan, Frank Terranova, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Barre, Bruno Lotti, James Lydon, Bernard Macauley, James Donahue, Arthur Boyle.

Graham said that an area representative from the new Quincy Youth Council will be invited to attend the committee's next meeting.

Sen. Kennedy Addresses Quincy Students Today

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will visit and speak in Quincy Thursday.

The senior Massachusetts senator and Senate assistant majority leader is scheduled to address the Quincy Junior College student body and members of the Quincy High School senior class.

He will speak at 9 a.m. in the Quincy High School auditorium, reportedly on local, state and national issues.

Kennedy will be greeted here by Mayor James R. McIntyre, a close personal friend, Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, superintendent of schools; Junior College President Kenneth P. White and Lloyd Creighton, Quincy High School principal.

Kennedy's Quincy stop is part of a three-day tour of Massachusetts communities.

Monday Holidays Are In Now

Washington's Birthday will become the first of the Monday-celebrated holidays on Feb. 17 under the new Massachusetts law enacted last year.

With the Feb. 22 holiday falling on Saturday, the switch to a Monday observance is stipulated by the new law. Under a federal law, passed last year, five Monday holidays will be established nationally. In 1971, Monday holidays will include Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day and Veterans Day.

Also scheduled for Monday celebrations in Massachusetts are Patriot's Day (third Monday in April) and Memorial Day (last Monday in May).

Store hours will not be affected by the transfer of holidays from weekends and may remain open for regular hours during the Monday dates.

Squadron Seeks New Recruits

The Civil Air Patrol Composit Squadron is recruiting boys and girls ages 13 to 17, who find an interest in aviation.

The squadron meets at the Naval Reserve Training Center, 85 Sea St., on Friday evenings.

Sodality Dance Friday Night

On Feb. 7, at 8 p.m. the Sodality of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church will hold its annual parish dance in the Neighborhood Club. Music will be provided by Frank MaCabe and his orchestra.

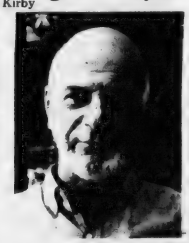
Quincy Teacher's Book Soul Searching Study

By Dana Kirby

Quincy school teacher Ellis J. Swartz has written his first novel because, says he, "I felt it was time the public really knew about the inside problems of the average public school teacher."

The novel, "All Her Paths Are Peace", deals forcefully with, as the author puts it, "many controversial and often concealed issues which still torment America."

It culminates more than 20 years of preparation drawn on his 22 years of teaching experience.



Through his main figure, Albert Burgess, a teacher, Swartz has confronted his readers with what he terms "a great witch hunt", that of the Communist terror in the McCarthy era of the 1950's.

In his "struggle for identity," Burgess faces his greatest personal crisis when he is faced with the accusation of being a communist.

Swartz also believes his book relates to today's classroom atmosphere. By placing Burgess in a position of indirect treason, Swartz presents his controversial question. "How far can a teacher go, or be forced to go through himself just because he is a teacher?"

Contained in the book is a mild attack on race prejudice. Swartz also considers it an "indirect attack on education", but both through a positive approach.

The novel soon to be released by Christopher Publishing Company of North Quincy is considered to be good reading for all age groups, especially that of the teacher.

Ellis J. Swartz

Because of his teaching at Quincy High, where he is presently head of the Foreign Language Department, Swartz has chosen a Boston, South Shore background for his book. Strongly influenced by his experience at Quincy High.

Swartz is a graduate of Williams College and holds a MA from Harvard University. He is a New England director of the Zionist Organization of America and worked hard during the 1930's for the creation of a Jewish state in Israel.

Married and the father of a son and daughter, he resides at 45 Oval Rd. He has started another book the contents yet undisclosed.

McIntyre Re-Appoints First Department Heads

Mayor James R. McIntyre's "official city family" remained intact this week as he announced the annual appointments of the first group of department heads and other key post personnel.

Re-appointed for another year were:

Public Works Commr. John M. Browne, City Treasurer-Tax Collector David R. Houston, Purchasing Agent George R. Riley, City Solicitor Harry Pavan, Assistant City Solicitor John W. Sharry, Assessor Elmer K. Fagerlund, Director of Libraries Warren E. Watson, City Historian William C. Edwards.

Also re-appointed were Harbormaster Michael D. Benedict, Jr., Labor Advisor George E. MacPherson and Police Chief Francis X. Finn as keeper of the lock up.

Municipal board appointments announced by Mayor McIntyre included:

J. Ernest Collins, Joseph N. Gildea, James F. McCormick, Sr., William J. Mitchell, Miss Katherine G. McCoy, Park-Recreation Board.

Melvin Thorner, L. Paul Marini, Miss Clementina M. D'Angelo, Mrs. Edna Gilmore, Francis D. Hackett, D. Foster Taylor, Thomas Crane Public Library Board of Trustees.

Laurence J. Curtin was appointed to the Board of Managers, Public Burial Places, for a three-year term.

Riley & Rielly Agency, Barry Insurance Merge

The Richard J. Barry Insurance Agency, North Quincy, has merged with the Riley and Rielly Insurance Agency of Quincy.

The merger was announced by George R. Riley and John T. Rielly, Jr., partners in the Riley and Rielly Insurance Agency, and Richard J. Barry.

The merged agency will be conducting business as the Riley and Rielly Insurance Agency at its newly enlarged offices at 380 Sea St., Quincy.

Mrs. Barbara Maguire, principal secretary of the Barry Agency has joined the staff of the merged firm.

The Riley and Rielly Agency offers a complete insurance program including auto, home, marine, business, bonds, life and health, pension and H.R. 10 retirement plans.

The agency recently added to its portfolio a comprehensive selection of mutual fund offerings, one of the first Quincy agencies to do so.

Mr. Riley founded the agency in 1961 and Mr. Rielly joined him as a partner in 1968 when it became the Riley and Rielly Insurance Agency.

Mr. Riley, who is also the Quincy city Purchasing Agent, lives at 109 Faxon Lane, Quincy. He is a graduate of North Quincy High School and Boston College and served as a lieutenant in the U.S. Marine Corps. He attended the Employers Group School For Insurance Agents.

Mr. Rielly, a resident of 3 Liberty Rd., Hingham, is a graduate of Archbishop Williams High School and the University of Massachusetts. He is also a Marine Corps veteran.

He was formerly a special agent and field supervisor for seven years with Insurance Company of North America.

Lion's Club To Present 'Sing-o-Rama'

The Quincy Lions Club will present "Lions Club Sing-O-Rama" Feb. 18, 8 p.m., North Quincy High School auditorium to aid eye research.

The club will donate a minimum $2,500 or more if the proceeds are greater to the Lions Eye Research and Treatment Fund. Last year the club contributed $1,000.

The program will feature five quartets including the Four Statesmen, international champions and Boston Criers-Ladies, ladies 10th place international champions of 1967. The other quartets are Franklin Chordsmen and the Chord Blenders, both from Franklin and the Haystack Four-Comics from Worcester.

There will also be an audience participation sing-along.

A door prize of an all expenses paid week-end in New York City for two will be awarded.

Charles Clark will be the emcee. General chairman is Paul E. Wells, first Vice-President. MacGregor H. Hill is ticket chairman; David J. Ring, sponsor chairman and Everett Tatreau, publicity chairman.

Club officers assisting them are:

Thomas V. Morrissey, president; James Wills, immediate past president; William F. Shea, second vice-president; Russell D. Hodgkins, third vice-president; Robert W. Mafera, secretary; Alexander Smith, treasurer; Columbo G. Cherubini, assistant Treasurer; William A. Palmer, Jr., tail twister, Paul W. Nogueira. lion tamer and Directors Americo S. Cherubini, Robert C. Costello, Joseph Doherty, Mario J. Monaco, Robert D. Newman, John J. Swanson.

Sunbeams

Two Quincy men this week mark another milestone in outstanding public service.

Mayor James R. McIntyre re-appointed J. Ernest Collins and William J. Mitchell to the Park Recreation Board--Collins to his 33rd consecutive one-year term and Mitchell to his 27th.

That adds up to a combined 60 years of service to Quincy and the city's youth. Sixty years of their own time--without pay.

INCIDENTALLY, one of Quincy's top political figures of not so long ago, is back in municipal service. Laurence J. Curtin was named to a full three-year term to the Board of Managers, Public Burial Places by Mayor McIntyre.

The former City Council president--and still quite an orator--had been filling a board vacancy the past few months.

Curtin, who ran against Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa in the late 1950's when Quincy returned to Plan A, was a spearhead in ousting the Plan E city manager form of government.

He presently is active in the Quincy Citizens Association which he help found.

NO POLITICAL PLANS for John J. Sheehan, executive director of the Quincy Council on Aging. Despite a published report elsewhere, he definitely will not seek a school committee seat next month in his hometown of Weymouth. He's too busy coordinating (and doing a good job) programs for Quincy's near 15,000 senior citizens.

IN CASE YOU didn't notice, there was quite a building boom in Quincy last year. Building Inspector Allan F. MacDonald reports new construction in 1968 totaled an estimated $12,199,997 compared to $5,287,671 in 1967.

A big chunk of the 1968 new construction were 23 multi-family dwellings costing an approximate $6.4 million total. Permits for 23 one-family dwellings represented a considerably lower total of $450,000.

MILESTONE: J. Henry Sullivan, also known as "The Reverend" around Quincy veterans circles, will be a young 81 Feb. 12--even if they change Lincoln's Birthday. Henry has been chaplain of the Morrisette Legion Post for 35 years and is also chaplain of the World War I Barracks and the Quincy Veterans Council. At 81, he's still spry enough to make the social rounds and kick up his heels dancing.

$1.90 Tax Impact Predicted

Teachers Win Seven Per Cent Wage Hike

A 7½ percent wage hike for teachers has been approved as part of a total $367,712.00 school system wage hike which is expected to add an estimated $1.90 to the tax levy.

The Teacher-School Committee negotiations concluded on a note of agreement climaxing school budget work sessions by the School Committee which opened Nov. 1.

Agreement in the salary talks was announced jointly by Atty. Paul C. Kelly, School Committeeman and negotiating team spokesman, and Randolph Atty. Thomas M. Sullivan, Quincy Education Association spokesman.

The agreement covers the contract year from Sept. 1, 1969 through Aug. 31, 1970 and elevates minimum teaching salaries from $6140.00 at the four-year level to $6600.00.

Also granted wage hikes were nurses, 6 percent; custodians and maintenance personnel, 7 percent each; and clerical employees, including secretarial personnel, 7 percent.

A ratification meeting by Quincy teachers is scheduled for Feb. 13 at 3:30 p.m. at the Quincy high school.

Under the impending contract, six-year maximums will be hiked from $12,157. to $13,068.

Still not agreed on was a request by administrative personnel, not on the index system to be incorporated in the salary index system. The request involved an additional $10,000 wage item.

The teacher-school committee negotiations also produced agreement on a $25,000 appropriation for an Educational Needs Committee. The innovative committee will be implemented to seeking out needs involved in in-service training, curriculum, and research and development areas.

Up to half of the $25,000 will be earmarked to support research and development projects--an increase of $7500 over last year's appropriation.

The School Committee will take up ratification of the new salary contract on Feb. 12.

Serving on the School Committee negotiating team in addition to Atty. Kelly were Dr. Charles Djerf and Ruth Scanlon. The group has been involved in salary budget sessions on an average of three nights a week since early last November.

SENIOR CITIZENS GROUNDBREAKING at 1000 Southern Artery marked first step in record-breaking construction by Quincy Point Congregational Church sponsors. The ceremonial shovel was wielded by Dora Torretta. The planned addition will cost $3 million and add 226 units to the present facility. Principals included, from left, Rep.-City Councillor Clifford H. Marshall, Richard F. Sherbourne, president, board of directors; the Rev. Bedros Baharian, project executive director, and W. Henry Parker, church moderator.

Mayor Proclaims February Flag Display Month

WHEREAS, the American flag has given heart and hope and strength to Americans ever since this nation was born; and

WHEREAS, it has flown in times of trouble and in times of triumph as a symbol of America's unquenchable ideals; and

WHEREAS, it flies today as a sign that Americans, proud of their country's stirring heritage, are determined to carry the American dream forward; and

WHEREAS, when we display the flag, we express our support of the American credo: one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all; to be dedicated to patriotic display of the American flag; and I encourage all citizens to display the flag proudly, to show that we know what a privilege it is to be an American.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, James R. McIntyre, Mayor of the City of Quincy, do hereby proclaim the month of

James R. McIntyre, Mayor

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

Don't Forget The Pencil

Most doctors do not mind giving telephone advice to their patients, or, for that matter to anyone having an emergency, depending upon the reliability, dependability and intelligence of the recipient. With the shortage of practising doctors this matter of communication is an ever-increasing responsibility.

If you are going to call for advice, please have a pencil and paper handy. In a fix, lip-stick and even toilet paper will do. Would you believe that I was kept waiting for what seemed an hour, (virtually minutes) and I should have hung up but held on until the caller returned. Where have you been? Oh, I couldn't find a pencil so I went across the street! What would have been your reaction? So Remember Pencil and Paper. Your L.M.D. will be most appreciative.

While on the subject of telephone advice you may, on your own, give aspirin for fever. We were taught to avoid aspirin for abdominal pains but now I feel different because I doubt that aspirin will mask or hide Appendicitis or the progress of it.

Aspirin is safe and fortunately very few people are "allergic" to it-those that are, have learned not to use it anyhow. While about it don't fall for all the advertising pushing certain products over aspirin. Most doctors whom I know, prefer the unadulterated form unless more complex compounds are recommended.

Penicillin, although one of our most important disease-battling advances in sensitizing in a small percent of its users and hence should not be taken unless your doctor has advocated its use for certain existing conditions. Remember, that as good as penicillin is, it is no panacea for all illnesses and has little if any effect for the common cold, grippe or flu. This is also true for the other chemicals and antibiotics. Use these drugs only with the consent of your doctor.

Diarrhea seems always to be around, hence is endemic, (around rather constantly). What to do? Stick to clear liquids such as Coke, ginger ale, water or tea. Avoid fruits and juices. Most of the products for treatment of diarrhea aren't worth a hoot. Lomotil, used by the Astranauts recently has been a most effective drug, and is useful in children too.

Vomiting is always a serious symptom if persistent, and deserves discussion with a physician. In the meantime stop feeding and take the same clear liquids in sips. Coke syrup enjoys a popular respect. Our most effective weapon is called an ataractic or an anti-emetic. Atarax or Vistaril in children are well accepted and are usually effective. The various antiemetics have been great additions to our medicine chest. Don't forget our pencil.

It has been our policy to encourage mothers to call anytime about worrisome matters and we generally accept the challenge- but why wait until all the drug-stores are closed before calling? If a child has been ill all day it certainly isn't fair to the kid or us to delay that long. The accident floor has become a respository for all frustrating and delayed complaints and is unfairly put upon. A little common Sense could avoid embarressment all around and allow poor Doc to get a little shut-eye and the youngster relief.

Post 295 Auxiliary To Meet On Friday

The American Legion Auxiliary Post 295 will meet at the Atlantic Masonic Temple on Friday. A board meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Presiding in the absence of president Mrs. Gertrude Lemieux who is ill, will be Mrs. Stephen Boyajian.

Members have been requested to bring prizes to the meeting which will be followed by parate bridge.

Paintings On Exhibit By Wollaston Mothers

The second annual exhibition of paintings by the Wollaston Mothers Club will be held in the North Quincy Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library during February.

Paintings featured in the month-long exhibit are mostly oil and depict a varied subject matter. Mrs. Mildred Nilson is group instructor.

Quincy High School Musicians To Feature Concert On Sunday

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra, currently in its sixteenth season, Robert E. Brown, conductor, will present a young people's concert at Quincy High School Auditorium, Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m.

Parents are most cordially invited to attend the free concert with interested young people as well as music lovers of all ages.

The program will feature compositions which contain examples of Ostinato. Ostinato is a clearly defined melodic or rhythmic phrase which is repeated persistently throughout a composition. The ostinato is distinguished by the fact that it is reiterated in the same voice and at the same pitch.

The program will include "The Unknown Cause" a musical group of six South Shore High School Students, performing selected contemporary music.

This group features Roger Haglund, lead guitar, Harry Koplan, rhythm guitar, Bob Peruzzi, base guitar, Peter Fredericksen, Percussion, Peter Orio and David Goroff, vocals.

Five of the group attend Quincy High School and three play in the Quincy High School Band. All the boys are either sophomores of juniors.

Organized over two years ago, the group has performed at many local dances over this period.

Ostinato is exemplified in contemporary music by small rock and roll groups whose chord patterns and rhythm remain the same throughout a selection. The melody is improvised by the vios guitars and supported by the rhythm section.

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra began as a Civic Orchestra in September 1953, under the sponsorship of the Thomas Crane Public Library. It was incorporated in 1960 as a non-profit organization.

It was organized for the purpose of making good music accessible to the community, to stimulate and encourage music students, and to give competent and instrumentalists in the area an opportunity to maintain and develop their skill in playing.

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra is currently conducting its annual Friends Drive. Any person who wishes to sustain the orchestra and help them to continue to make free symphonic concerts in Quincy a reality is invited to become a member of this body of Friends of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra. The only qualification is the making of a contribution to the Quincy Symphony Orchestra, P. O. Box 492, Quincy, Massachusetts, 02169.

Musical Stars To Visit Quincy Classroom Friday

Co-stars of the Wilbur Theatre musical "Your Own Thing" will bring a touch of Broadway to Quincy classrooms on Friday.

Members of Mrs. Bernice Bennett's speech and drama class will meet and hear June Compton and Jill Chowder. The musical stars will highlight the 11:30 a.m. class session.

The classroom appearance was arranged through the guidance information service after several of the students had visited the performers at the Wilbur in December.

Attending the performance and chatting with the stars were Christine Finnegan, Anita Comoletti, Christine Eckblom and Charles Battista.

These students and others interested in drama study will attend the session and hear Miss Compton talk on her theatrical experiences.

Cookie Sales To Benefit Girl Scouts

A record year for the sale of Girl Scout cookies is anticipated by the Blue Hill Girl Scout Council as plans for the fifth annual sale in 19 communities were announced by Mrs. Harry Beede of Milton, Cookie Sale Chairman.

Local chairmen assisting Mrs. Beede with this year's sale in Quincy are: Mrs. Paul Sebastian, 68 Cedar St.; Mrs. Thomas Gardocki, 34 Apthrop St.; Mrs. Fred Pyyny, 25 Bartlett St. and Mrs. John Chludzinski, 68 Doane St.

More than six thousand young girls in uniform will take orders door to door, through Feb. 2, with a delivery of boxes Feb. 28 through March 7.

Last year more than 175,000 boxes were sold to help finance the building of the Woodlands unit at Camp Favorite in Brewster, making it possible for 96 additional girls to be accomodated. A new dock was also installed at the waterfront area.

More importantly, each box of cookies sold returns five cents to the troop treasury to help finance individual troop programs.

Although the council is a Red Feather Agency supported by the Mass Bay and Norwood United Funds, it needs these additional funds from the cookie sale to accomplish a number of other objectives: the purchase of additional equipment for day camp use; plus money for training and program aids, resource materials, council bulletins, mimeograph materials, girl opportunities and adult training.

Five different types of cookies will again be supplied by the Southern Biscuit Company including the popular cookie mint which outsells all others five to one. The others are assorted sandwich, butter flavored "shorties", peanut butter sandwich and the koko cookie which was introduced last year.

Carney Names George Plansky To Staff Post

George P. Plansky of 57 Unity Road, West Quincy, was recently appointed assistant chief pharmacist of the 336-bed teaching Carney Hospital in Dorchester which is conducted by the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul.

Mr. Plansky was graduated from the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy in 1927 and was presented the "Pharmacy Award" having made the Dean's List.

He began employment at the Carney Hospital in 1947 on a part-time basis, and joined the full-time staff in 1966.

He is married to the former Margaret Magdalene of South Boston which is also his native town. The youngest of their two daughters was graduated in 1963 from the Catherine Laboure School of Nursing.

Mr. Plansky is assistant to Bruno Vignoni, Chief Pharmacist, also of West Quincy who has been employed at the Carney Hospital for 19 years with a perfect attendance record.

Fore River Bridge Plan Advances

The proposed widening of Fore River Bridge to allow General Dynamics' Quincy Division to build super-sized ships took a major step forward this week.

The legislative Committee on Transportation headed by Quincy Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre voted to have the state Department of Public Works investigate and study plans to carry out the long-sought widening.

A bill filed by McIntyre seeks to have the bridge widened for a horizontal clearance of at least 300 feet.

The bridge, dating back to the early 1930's now has a clearance of only 175 feet between abutments on the water-line.

McIntyre wants the widening made "while holding land taking to a minimum and retaining in so far as possible the approximate grade of the existing structures and its approaches".

McIntyre said his committee wants the study and report completed by June.

"This is a real positive move forward that will benefit the economy of the entire South Shore," he said.

A General Dynamics spokesman told The Quincy Sun last December that: "if we don't get a wider bridge opening we could be squeezed out of business because of a weekend competitive position. Today's ships have outgrown the present bridge."

He likened the yard's approaching predicament to the man who builds a boat in his basement and then can't get it out the basement door.

The Quincy yard was able to get the 106,000-ton Manhattan, the largest merchantman ever build in the U.S., through the bridge.

But the shipyard spokesman noted that the Manhattan is a comparative shrimp to some vessels of today. Japan, he pointed out, is building ships as big as 250,000 and 300,000 tons.

"We can't bid on a modern aircraft carrier," the spokesman said. "We could build it but we would never get it through the present bridge."

In addition to huge merchantmen and carriers, the Quincy yard could bid on large off-shore oil drilling platforms if the bridge was wider.

The yard, with a present workforce of approximately 8,400 and a multi-million dollar annual payroll is considered the economic backbone of the Quincy area.

Present backlog of contracts total more than $300 million and will keep the yard humming through the early 1970's.

Hadassah To Hear Rosten Book Review

A book review by Mrs. Bernard Garber will feature the next meeting of the Quincy Hadassah Chapter, Monday at the Jewish Community Center.

In charge of the 12:45 p.m. program will be Mrs. Maurice Zack and her committee. Dessert and coffee will be served.

Reviewed will be Leo Rosten's latest book, "Under the Boardwalk."

Youths Discuss Facility Loss At Snug Harbor

The future loss of the Snug Harbor School community room was discussed at the Jan. 28 meeting of the new Germantown Youth Council.

Presiding at the meeting which explored the impact of the facility loss on Youth Council activities was Terry Rogers.

Volunteers were requested to form a planning board for future events. The next council meeting has been scheduled for Feb. 11 at 8:15 p.m. in the Housing Building Service Center, 9 Bicknell St.

All youths from the eighth grade level and above are welcome to attend the meetings.

Seek To Ease Willard St. Congestion

Public Works Commr. John M. Browne, will ask the city's traffic commission to seek a solution to the rising rush hour traffic congestion in the areas of Willard St., Hall Place, and the Furnace Brook Parkway exit from the Southeast Expressway.

The problem was brought to the Commissioners attention by Rep. Joseph E. Brett, (D-Quincy) in a letter requesting an investigation into the congestion at that intersection.

The problem will be put before the commission, by the city department head at the next meeting of the commission, 10 a.m., Feb. 12, in the conference room at the new city office building, 55 Sea St.

North Faces B.C., Quincy Meets Malden

Apparently looking ahead to last Tuesday's big game with Somerville, North Quincy's basketball team survived the scare of its life last week and Friday takes a night off from Greater Boston League competition to face B.C. High for the second time at the North gym.

Tuesday night the high flying Raiders (8-0 in the league and 9-1 overall) are home to their luckless cross-town rival, Quincy.

Quincy, meanwhile, still seeking its second win of the year, is host to big, strong Malden Friday night before going to North Tuesday.

Last week Bob Nolan's North team was expected to name its own score against winless Chelsea, but it took a foul shot with four seconds to play by Mark Jellison to pull out a 49-48 win. This game proved the old adage that there is nothing more unpredictable than a schoolboy game.

Jellison was the whole story for North as he scored 23 points and was the Raiders' only scorer in double figures. North undoubtedly had its mind on the Somerville clash and Chelsea, with nothing to lose, raced to a 30-20 halftime lead.

The Raiders bounced back in the third period when Ralph Jackson, John Holleran and Joe Lane came off the bench and tied it at 39-39.

Chelsea again pulled out to a 45-36 lead in the finale but thanks to some key baskets by Holleran, North again rebounded and with 58 seconds left Jellison scored to tie it at 48-all. Nolan had his club slow the play down and with four seconds left Jellison was fouled, scoring his first shot but missing the second. Time ran out to keep the Raiders unbeaten--barely.

"Jellison was outstanding but I have to say that Holleran was our best all-around player," Nolan said. "And Lane did a great job on defense. Our foul shooting was a big factor, also, as we hit on 19 of 25 shots."

North's unbeaten junior varsity powerhouse rolled over Chelsea, 61-39, for its 10th win in a row.

Marty Finnegan's Quincy team continues to be hounded by too many turnovers and it hurt the Presidents twice again last week.

Friday night they lost the ball 21 times to spoil what Finnegan called "our best effort so far" and Medfdford took a 76-57 win. The Mustangs raced to a 24-11 first period lead and never trailed.

Capt. Lou Eleuteri and Chuck Walter scored 18 points a piece and Bobby Pettinelli had 13.

Earlier in the week it was even worse as the Presidents turned the ball over 32 times and were walloped at Revere, 89-61.

"Our rebounding improved as we pulled down 50 but our ball control was very poor and as far as a team performance it was our worst and very disappointing," Finnegan said.

Walter and Steve McDevitt had 12 points a piece and sophomore Bobby Pike showed promise as he came in during the fourth period and scored eight points.

SNOWLESS SKIING--Patiently waiting for an abundant snowfall are skiing students enrolled in the Quincy Recreation Dept. instruction program. Quincy Takes On Everett, Raiders Oppose Chelsea

Quincy's hockey team, with a slim chance at the Met League title and an excellent opportunity to make the Eastern Mass. tourney again, faces Everett Friday and comes back Monday to meet Chelsea at the Boston Area.

North's team meets the same foes in reverse order, taking on Chelsea Friday and facing Everett on Monday.

Bob Sylvia's Quincy icemen made their record 5-2-1 and clinched the city championship last week with their second win over North, 3-0.

It was a typical Quincy-North game with the Raiders giving the Presidents all they could handle. Bob Laing's winless club now has an 0-6-2 mark.

A disputed goal gave Quincy a 1-0 lead in the opening period and the Presidents clinched the win with two scores in the third session.

Wayne Milford scored in the first period but the goal came as a surprise to everyone including the Quincy bench as it appeared a Quincy player was in the crease or a North player had touched the puck.

The goal was allowed but rather than dismay North, it seemed to give it a lift and the Raiders gave their rivals a real battle. Quincy made it 2-0 at 4:54 of the final period on Chuck Peterson's goal, Dave Flaherty assisting. At 8:59 Harry Bertoni, on passes from Flaherty and Peterson, scored the final goal.

"I don't know how we could have dominated the game any more," Sylvia said, after Principal Lloyd Creighton had been presented the game puck. "We were in their end all night but couldn't score. This has become a big problem. We do everything else well but can't put the puck in the net regularly."

Sylvia did some experimenting as he changed his first and second lines. Peterson, Flaherty and Bertoni started the game on the first line with Kevin Grogan and Bob Cleimola on defense. Chuck Condos, Cedrone and Milford were on the second line with Dave Esau and Bob Ahola on defense.

"I shuffled the lines to get more balance," Sylvia said. "We weren't getting many goals from the second line and I thought a few changes might give us some scoring power on either line. I liked the way it worked."

"Our forwards weren't going in deep enough and North was pasing from behind the net all the way to the blue line. We shouldn't allow this."

North again played an aggressive game and forced Quincy to make mistakes in the North end and the shift Coach Bob Laing had made in the big 2-2 tie with Malden putting Bobby Pierce back on defense and moving Len Curreri on the first line, continued to pay off.

"I really thought we had a chance to knock them off," Laing said. "It was a typical Quincy-North game but we just couldn't get out of our zone and into their zone for a long enough time to do any damage. Our offense still needs work."

He praised his team's defense and singled out Pierce and Cliff McDonald for their work and the continued excellent performance of Kevin Colleran, who played one of his best games in goal. Don Smith and Ken Dline also were lauded by their coach.

Baseball Clinic On For Saturday

Bob Basiliere, Quincy baseball coach, issues a reminder that the first clinic of the recently organized Mass. Baseball Coaches Association will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in Cousens Gym at Tufts. Admission is three dollars. Lecturers are coaches Dick Berquist and Andy Baylock of UMass., Larry Panciera of UConn., and Herb Ericson of Tufts. Basiliere is publicity chairman for the event.

Gymnastics A Tough Competitive Sport

Gymnastics as a competitive sport in high school has mushroomed in recent years and is growing all the time.

Quincy is no exception with North Quincy in its seventh year of the sport and Quincy starting a program this winter.

Quincy has been handicapped by inadequate gym facilities until the completion of the new Vocational School but now has some of the finest facilities anywhere.

Starting the sport at Quincy is Martin Butler, one of the area's outstanding gymnasts and a former star pupil of veteran North Quincy Coach George Golding.

North is a member of the strong Suburban League with Weymouth, Brookline, Arlington and Newton, champion for the past two years. The Raiders also face five members of the strong Bay State League, Braintree, Milton, Norwood, Wellesley, Winthrop, a North Shore power, and Dennis-Yarmouth.

"This is our seventh year of competition and Ken Rickson, now assistant director of athletics, physical education and health, started grouping gymnasts into a team two years earlier," Goulding said. "Our record over the past seven years is 38 wins and 20 losses."

George has 20 boys on his team including only three seniors. In addition, 10 ninth graders work out with the Raiders, although ineligible for the meets.

North's record this year is 3-3 with wins over Norwood, Weymouth and Dennis-Yarmouth and losses to Milton, Brookline and Newton. Next meet is at home with Winthrop Friday. Following the regular season are an all-league meet, team championships and individual championships. A year ago North rated eighth among Eastern Mass. teams.

The North squad includes seniors Paul Downey, a starter on still rings; Herb Newell, starter on side horse and long horse vaulting; and Jeff Weisman, a starter on floor exercise, still rings and parallel bars.

Juniors include Bob Boyd, a starter on floor exercise, horizontal bar, parallel bars and long horse vaulting; Ray Doherty, starter on horizontal bar who also works on long horse vaulting; Steve Jakub, starter on floor exercise who works on side horse; Tom Lane, works on parallel bars Tom McCarthy, works on parallel bars and still rings; Jerry Mulcahy, starter on still rings; Ray Pratt, starter on side horse and works on horizontal bar, and Jerry Theriault, starter on parallel bars.

Sophomores are George Bourikas, starter on side horse and works on long horse vaulting; Gary Calhoun, starter on floor exercise; Lee Davis, starter on still rings and long horse vaulting and works on parallel bars and horizontal bar; Mike Jacques, works on horizontal bar and side horse; Steve Lane, works on horizontal bar and side horse; Scott Manson, works on rings and horizontal bar; Bill Morgan, starter on parallel bars. long horse vaulting and works on horizontal bar; Paul O'Connell, starts on horizontal bar and works on floor exercise, and Eric Thornton, works on side horse and rings. Junior Frank Sickel is manager.

Among the outstanding ninth graders working out are Mark Chartier, Ned Hogan, Jack Monti, Kent Lafleur,Jim Melvin, Brian McMahon, Dom Strazzolla, Gary Veronneau, Jim McEchern and Steve Villa.

"We have graduated many fine gymnasts over the years including Richard DelGallo, captain of the UMass. gym team and one of the outstanding gymnasts in the country," Goulding said. "Others are Martin Butler, a Springfield College graduate and a member of the college's exhibition team and the competitive team; Kerry Newell, a senior at Springfield; Tom Carroll, a freshman at UMass.; Steve Sager, Paul Fawcette, Joe Clancy and many others."

Butler, who spoke highly of Golding, has only a half dozen boys working with him at Quincy. The Presidents hope to enter the Bay State League but felt there wasn't enough interest this year, Quincy's first.

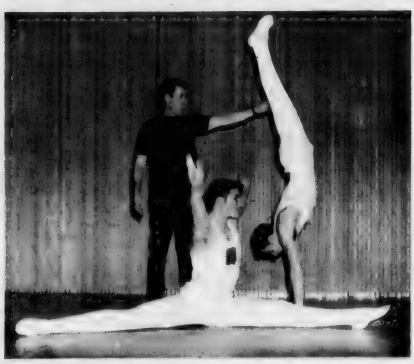
"I take the boys to the various junior high schools in the city and state exhibitions and clinics and find interest among the junior high boys very high," Butler said. "I have several fine junior high boys working out with the high school boys.

"Gymnastics is growing by leaps and bounds in the high schools. I recently attended the national clinic in Florida as a representative of a gymnastics company for which I work and there were more than 3000 applications from coaches to attend the clinic."

Butler also coaches at Quincy YMCA, is busy preparing for a Y meet, and he also visits many schools selling equipment.

Among the high school boys with whom Marty is working are Bob Slowe, Jay Finn, Don Pulsifer, Jim Toccio, Tom Gamble and Chuck Uhlar.

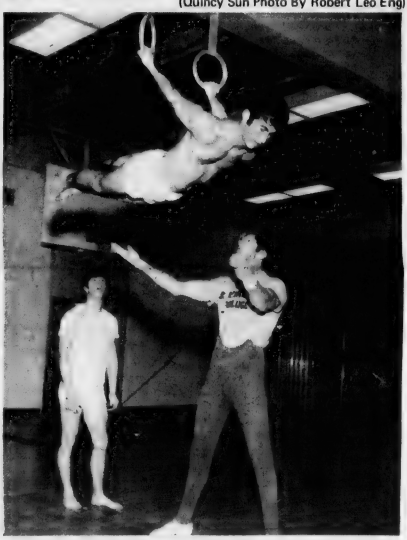
Golding and Butler were scheduled to present an exhibition next Monday at the Quincy Kiwanis Club but an assembly had already been arranged for Quincy High, so Golding will present the Kiwanis program himself. Meanwhile, Butler, together with Jim Hutt, gymnastics coach at MIT, and a few others, will present an exhibition at the Quincy assembbly.



Golding, who rates Butler among his better performers at North, is a graduate of Boston University. He has been a physical education instructor and coach of gymnastics and soccer at North for seven years, also coached the Quincy Y gymnasts, developing such stars as Hutt and Kathy Corrigan of Weymouth, now a teacher-coach at Weymouth High.

"Gymnastics is a sport which serves the aims of physical education by developing strength, skill, flexibility, balance, courage and inventiveness," George said. "Gymnastics also develops an esthetic sense and a rhythmic sense."

He explained that competitive gymnastics for boys includes floor exercise which comprises tumbling, strength, flexibility and balance moves related to each other to form a continuous routine lasting about one minute; side horse, which is continuous flow of vaults, travels, leg circles and other moves which develop balance and strength. Also horizontal bar which requires continuous movements of circles, vaults and other moves and develops courage, timing and strength; parallel bars, which require hand balancing, strength, vaults and the ability to stand punishment; long horse vaulting, which requires two vaults of agility and courage such as handspring vaults and cartwheel vaults over the horse lengthwise which develop leg power and explosiveness, and rings, which must be kept still with no swing and requires strength of arms and shoulders.



A judge scores the gymnast on his routine by three criteria: execution valued at 5 points, how well the exercise is performed; difficulty valued at 3.4 with credit for basic parts, parts of difficulty and parts of superior difficulty, and combination valued at 1.6 requirements for that apparatus. The score awarded each gymnast then becomes the score awarded the team. Each team uses four men per event with the top three scores counting toward the final team score.

There is no question of the interest at North Quincy but unfortunately, Butler will go into the service in March. It is hoped a successor will be found who will keep the interest increasing with membership in the Bay State League as a goal.

Munroe MacLean Gym. Memorial Proposed

Councillor Clifford H. Marshall this week recommended that the Quincy Vocational--Technical High School gymnasium be named in honor of Monroe MacLean, late director of physical education in the Quincy school system.

Marshall, who played basketball for MacLean as a Quincy High School student in 1956, made the recommendation in a resolve at the City Council meeting.

The resolve, unanimously passed, was forwarded to the School Committee for its consideration.

Marshall's resolve follows:

"WHEREAS, the city of Quincy, and in particular the young of the city of Quincy, have for many years had the spirit, guidance, wisdom, and friendship of one Munroe D. MacLean and,

WHEREAS, Munroe D. MacLean as an educator, coach, counselor, and athletic director in the Quincy school system gave so unselfishly of himself to this commitment. and,

WHEREAS, Munroe D. MacLean dedicated his lifetime to the young men and women of this city, working with them to broaden their athletic abilities that so enriched their lives that all the citizens of Quincy became benefactors and,

WHEREAS, Munroe D. MacLean, recently deceased was such an inspiration to thousands of young students in the city of Quincy, Now be it here declared that the Quincy City Council recommend to the Quincy School Committee that the Vocational Technical High School physical educational facility be named the Munroe D. MacLean Gymnasium in honor of this outstanding humanitarian, and that a suitable placque be placed in a conspicuous location within said gymnasium, so that all that pass through its doors may continue to be inspired by his records of achievements."

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

With the exception of the Bible, we think reading about Lincoln can buoy one's spirits, can give hope when hope is needed, more than any other way. Sadly, but wisely, when you read about Lincoln, you see the greatness in the man. You see how a great man is measured, unfortunately, after he has fallen, like you measure a tree after it is down, not while it stands.

Lincoln never claimed to be an orator but his words put to shame the multisyllabled oratory of other statesmen. For example, read this -

"I am not bound to win, but I am bound to be true. I am not bound to succeed, but I am bound to live up to what light I have. I must stand with anybody who stands right; stand with him while he is right and part with him when he goes wrong." A great thought? Yes, of course. 54 words! And 52 of the 54 words are of one syllable!

Lincoln's birthday reminds us that small words with good deeds measure a great man . . .

some things cannot be planned in advance

But, knowing who to call can relieve you of much worry and expense.

When a death occurs in another city, for example, a single telephone call to the Keohane Funeral Home assures immediate and competent representation wherever needed. It assures you, too, of responsible handling of every detail to your complete satisfaction.

That is possible through our close contacts with qualified funeral directors throughout this country and abroad. Their services are available on a moment's notice from us.

So while neither time nor place for such emergencies can be anticipated, it is good to remember that a telephone call to the Keohane Funeral Home, day or night, assures you of complete fulfillment of your responsibilities.

City Owed $300,000 In Taxes

taxes have been owed since 1968 but includes $17,400 in 1967. The delinquency slides from $5.600 in 1966 to $303 in 1959.

"This money can be collected by the deputy tax collectors," Houston said.

Houston has waged a running battle with tax delinquents since McIntyre appointed him in April, 1966.

In 1967 at Houston's request, Mayor McIntyre, who is also a state senator, filed a bill to authorize the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to suspend the licenses of delinquent excise taxpayers after a hearing at the local registry office.

The bill was initially passed by the Senate but was eventually blocked by a 19-19 deadlock vote.

The bill has been re-filed by McIntyre for this year at the request of the Massachusetts Treasurers and Collectors Association of which Houston is a legislative committee member.

The new legislation, Senate Bill 803, was given a first hearing Jan. 28 by the Committee on Public Safety. There was no opposition at that time.

In another move to collect delinquent excise taxes, the city appointed five special police officers to pick up registration plates of delinquent owners whose registrations are suspended.

"This has been ineffective," said Houston. "The special police officers can only request that the plates be given to them--they can't seize them."

Houston noted that deputy tax collectors have the power to arrest and jail delinquents.

"But this is an extreme step," he said. "Besides if you put them in jail, it would mean a hardship to their families and eventually mean more welfare costs to be shouldered by the taxpayer who pays his taxes."

WHAT MAKES "BIG MIKE" STAND A LITTLE TALLER?

He's a Quincy Yardsman. Big deal? He thinks so. He knows that at Quincy; he's doing the top work in his trade. Getting the top dollar for it. Sure, there are guys with softer berths. But they don't get his rewards.

Beyond the top dollar, "Big Mike" gets benefits that cover his pension (company paid), holidays and vacations (company paid) and help with schooling to sharpen his skill. Mike can see a lot further than most, too. Our backlog of contracts (which includes the recently awarded $97.8 million contract to build three unique sea barge carriers for Lykes) promise a farsighted future.

How does your job stack up against Mike's? Think about it. And maybe come in and see us. Tomorrow.

Between the Covers

By Michael Vocino

The report as to what happened at Chicago last summer is in, and of all the information and insight offered in the report, the most striking was the tone of reference that seemed to imply that there were no Chicago's in our past. The problem of violence and dissent in general is not new to the United States of the 1960's, or to the world for that matter.

The newer selection of books available at the Thomas Crane Public Library this week give us an insight into the protest movements of our past and that of the world.

If you're at all interested in the historical basis of the current trend in American politics, the information contained in these several books is invaluable:

THE GREAT REVOLT AND ITS LEADERS, Carleton Beals, (Abelard, 6.50).

In this book, Beals gives us the history of the popular American uprisings of the 1890's. This was the time in our history when the egalitarian Frontier philosophy came into conflict with the Eastern credo of exploitation as proposed by the likes of J. P. Morgan. The message this agrarian revolt has for the modern American is of great importance.

THE HIPPY TRIP, by Lewis Yablonsky, (Pegasus, 6.95).

The agrarians revolted against the encroachment of an industrial society and its lack of humanistic thought. The Hippies are the reaction against the tight-fisted control exercised by that same--but firmly implanted--industrialism. In this book, noted sociologist Yablonsky, gives us a serious detailed study of the Hippy. He examines the variety of images the society claims as Hip, and finds that if anything, there is no one stereo-typed image that can lay claim to the concept, "Hippy".

GANDHI, by Geoffrey Ashe, (Stein and Day, 8.95).

At one time or another, we have all read a biography of this famous Indian, but Ashe examines more than those areas of Gandhi's life with which we are all familiar.

Dr. Creedon's Views On Schools

"Books, Paper, Pencil Not Enough"

DR. LAWRENCE CREEDON

(Ed. Note: The following article is written expressly for The Quincy Sun by Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, new superintendent of Quincy Schools.)

"What are your plans for public education in Quincy?" "What changes do you plan to bring about in our public schools?"

These have been among the questions that have been asked me since I was elected two weeks ago by the School Committee to serve as the eleventh Superintendent of Schools in Quincy.

In 1870, Col. Francis W. Parker was named the first Superintendent of Quincy Schools and within a few years the "Quincy Method" gained national attention. Col. Parker defined the Quincy Method as a school system that was sensitive to the need for meaningful change in order to make public education more relevant to the existing needs of young people.

The rapid and dramatic changes in our contemporary way of life make it critical that educators in our Quincy Public Schools be aware of the critical

Severest Storm In Decades Leaves Cold, Dark Memories

With some snow-clogged secondary roads the last vestiges of the storm, Quincy completed digging out this week in the wake of the most crippling Nor'easter in decades.

Power-losses--the most damaging effects of the Sunday storm--were reversed for nearly all homeowners who found themselves blackout victims.

At one time during the storm it was estimated that about 15,000 users in the Quincy-Weymouth area were without power. Only a few families remained without electrical service late Tuesday, according to Harold P. Krantz, Distribution Supt. for the Mass. Electric Co.

Emergency wire repair crews, joined firemen and public works crewmen in battling the enormous storm which downed wires in record numbers, flooded streets and piled car-high drifts over a wide area of New England.

By midweek Fire Dept. teams were still working to shovel out hydrants almost buried by the high-piled snows. In a special appeal, Fire Dept. officials urged homeowners to assist in clearing hydrants not yet reached by working firemen.

Firemen were among the busies of the emergency workers and logged 40 calls for assistance during the height of the winter tempest Sunday evening and early Monday morning.

In one rescue, occupants were removed from a car on Nightingale Ave. after being trapped by a high-powered arcing wire. The majority of the calls were requests to clear the streets of high-voltage wires knocked down by the raging storm winds.

Most commuters heeded a Monday morning appeal by Mayor James R. McIntyre to avoid coming into Quincy during the danger period of wild and arcing wires.

The largest remaining problem left many telephone users still without service. Police reported that scores of wires remained down Tuesday night. They were determined to be telephone lines which in some cases stalled ploughs from clearing streets under the impression that the wires were high-tension lines.

Streets still reporting wire trouble as storm clearance made major progress included Stoughton, Lenox, Hancock, East Squantum, Beach, Edwards, Sea, Chestnut, Foster, Walker, Heron Rd., Quincy Shore Blvd.

Snow drifts continued to harass homeowners on Rustic Place, Curtis St., Gordon, Springfield, Appleton, Sachem, Shawmut, Piper, Madden, Lark, Putnam, Pierce, Columbia and Bishop Sts.

For the Mass. Electric Co., the emergency nightmare ended about 1 a.m. on Tuesday. "Only a few services" were reported out by Supt. Krantz.

But the weatherman had the last words just as homeowners began to breathe easier--more snow was on the way.

WORST SNOW STORM in several years hit Quincy this week but these youngsters enjoying a day off from school didn't seem to mind as they pose with smiling new friend. Sitting, from the left, are Stephanie and Allison Fay, Linda and Cheryl Dauphinee. Standing are Carol Dauphinee, Chris Fay and Patrick Fay.

County 'War On Crime' Stepped Up By Burke

An expanded Drug Education program has been launched by Norfolk County District Atty. George G. Burke as the first major step in the county's "war on crime."

"We are going to expand our present program so that far greater numbers of people will be aware and educated to the dangers of drug abuse. Drugs are the critical area now, and we're going to wage an all out war against this cancer in our society.

In a period of just one year, the number of drug crimes has risen 250 per cent. Education to the dangers of drug abuse is the most effective method of counteracting this problem, and we are going to expand our program to meet this crisis," the District Attorney stated.

His highly successful Drug Education team received National acclaim recently, after being invited by the Legislature of the Virgin Islands to set up the Drug Education program for the Islands.

Burke's office has received many requests to instruct educational groups on the dangers of drug abuse. The members of these groups have returned to their communities to conduct their individual drug education programs.

Peter E. Carr, former teacher and Treasury Agent, now of Burke's staff and heading up his program, is directing a research group in the Graduate School of Public Communications, Health Education and Welfare division, Boston University, in an effort to further improve their program.

District Attorney Burke's Drug Education program is the first County Drug Education program to be funded by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

They say these are affluent times. But are they, really?

Anthony J. Venna, Quincy city welfare commissioner for 30 years, recalls the depression year 1938. Quincy, a city with a population then of about 80,000, had 10,000 men, women and children receiving some form of federal, state or local aid.

Yet in the so-called "Affluent Sixties", he notes, Quincy has a population of little more than 87,000. And, more than 20,000 residents are now receiving some form of government benefits.

SPEAKING OF TODAY, most homes have one or more of such time and labor saving conveniences as an automatic washer, clothes dryer, dish washer, garbage disposal, can opener, toaster, blender, etc.

Hope the little lady in your house has her share of them. And if she does–you better have the wiring checked.

City Wire Inspector William Pitts reports there are still about 2,500 Quincy homes inadequately wired for proper–and safe–use of such modern appliances.

Is your home one of them?

SMALL WORLD DEPT: Retired Quinoy Deputy Fire Chief Joseph Walsh and retired Firefighter Ralph Faulkner were shipmates aboard the USS Virginia during World War I.

That was the battle wagon which in 1923 was used as a guinea pig to prove Billy Mitchell's argument that a plane could sink a ship.

The vessel was stripped down and taken to Chesapeake Bay where she was bombed twice by a plane and went to the bottom.

"Needless to say," muses Walsh, "Ralph and I were happy not to have been aboard her then."

But the pooch was out in the car, she said, and the clerk could step outside and see for himself.

"Wouldn't it be better to bring the dog in so we could measure him?" suggested the clerk.

"Goodness, no," she replied. "It's to be a surprise."

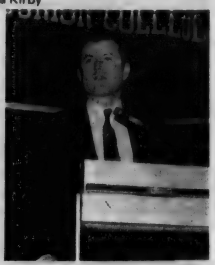
Voters of 1972 Meet, Quiz Sen. Kennedy

By Dana Kirby

When Sen. Edward M. Kennedy addressed the gathering of students at Quincy High School last week, he was speaking to the young voters of 1972. And, by all indications their voices will be heard loud and clear in that election year.

The convocation was under the direction of Quincy Junior College President Kenneth White. The assembly was designed specifically for Quincy Junior College students but Quincy High seniors were invited to attend. The students filled the auditorium to standing-room-only.

Sen. Kennedy was introduced to the students by Paul Guiney, President of the Student Government at the Junior College. Kennedy spoke for an approximate half hour.



The students listened intently while Kennedy voiced his opinion on world problems facing the Congress. His main emphasis was the nuclear arms race. He expressed agreement with the Nuclear Non-Prolification Act, noting it was necessary before other small nations enter into the arms race. He said the new nuclear nations may not abide by the Act.

During a question and answer period, students expressed their deep concern for the nation in today's world and national affairs.

The students put it on the line in their questions to Kennedy as voters in the next presidential election.

One asked, "If you were elected president and there was another Pueblo incident what would you do?"

Kennedy looked a little and humored at the idea of being elected President. But he seriously replied that ships similar to the Pueblo should be more heavily armed to discourage a repeat of the

SEN. EDWARD KENNEDY

Pueblo incident. But if a situation like Pueblo did occur it would have to be worked out through diplomatic channels as before.

Another student, starting out to seek the senator's views on the Chicago riots last summer, asked, "Do you think what happened at the Democratic Convention could have been avoided?"

In a display of the famed Kennedy humor, he replied: "Do you mean the nomination of Hubert Humphrey?" Laughter rippled through the auditorium.

A member of the Pony Express, the Quincy High newspaper brought Quincy into focus of discussion when she asked, "Quincy High has no black students, do you think we are failing educationally?"

The Senator agreed with the establishment of Metco and other similar organizations throughout the state but was not specific on the issue confronting Quincy.

The questions of the students were piercing. The faculty present impressed with the content of the questions.

Kennedy was then rushed off to a press conference at Quincy High school. Staff members of the Quincy Junior College, North Quincy High and Quincy High School newspapers attended the conference.

In addition to Mr. White, seated on the stage with Senator Kennedy were Paul Guiney, Prof. James A. Sheets, Chairman of the History Department Quincy Junior College, Mayor James R. McIntyre, School Supt. Dr. Creedon, City Councilors Arthur Tobin and Edward S. Graham, school committee members Paul Kelly and James F. McCormick Sr., Quincy High Principal, Lloyd Creighton, North Quincy Principal, John Walsh, and Laurence Babin, principal-director Quincy Vocational-Technical School

Medros, McMahon Promoted By GD Quincy Division

Ralph Medros, formerly director of materials and procurement, has been named to the newly-created position of assistant general manager of the General Dynamics, Quincy Division, the corporation's surface ship construction facility.

Succeeding Medros is Robert E. McMahon Jr., formerly director of materials and procurement for the General Dynamics team preparing a proposal for the Navy's planned DX (destroyer) program.

The appointments were announced by General Manager Robert V. Laney.

Medros was corporate director of purchasing and traffic when he transferred to the Quincy division in May, 1968. He had joined General Dynamics a year earlier after 27 years with General Electric, with whom he had executive assignments in industrial purchasing, traffic, material control and manufacturing.

His most recent assignment with General Electric was manager of material operations for the flight propulsion division.

Educated at Northeastern

ROBERT E. McMAHON JR.

RALPH MEDROS

University, majoring in industrial management, Medros furthered his studies in several advanced management courses.

He and his wife Hazel live at 57 Broad Lawn Park, Chestnut Hill. They are the parents of a daughter.

McMahon joined General Dynamics in May, 1968, after 17 years with General Electric's jet engine facilities in Evandale, Ohio.

He began as a production clerk and was a production control supervisor and assembly foreman before moving into the materials organization in 1957. He was manager of purchasing contracts administration at the time he left the company.

McMahon graduated from Xavier University, Cincinnati, in 1950, and earned his MBA there in 1958.

He and his wife Eileen are the parents of four sons. The family lives at 24 Stanford Drive, Hingham.

Scout Troop 10 Need Uniforms

The members of Boy Scout Troup 10 are in need of uniforms.

The cause, Troopmaster Al Goldstein said, is due to a depleted treasury.

The Boy Scouts will accept used Boy Scout uniforms at its meeting place, the Jewish Community Center, 10 Merrymount Rd.

Whist Party

The Houghs Neck Senior Citizens group will present a whist party on Wednesday, Feb. 19 at Thomas Aquinas Hall, Darrow St. Refreshments will be served at 12:30 and cards will begin at 1:30 p.m.

Art Exhibits At Crane Libraries

An art exhibit is being sponsored by the Art Association at the Thomas Crane main library.

In the North Quincy branch an exhibit of paintings is being sponsored by the Wollaston Mother's Club members.

Both exhibits will continue until Feb. 28, daily 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox

Unlearn In Order To Learn

When a baby cried while my father was preaching, in levity he would comment, "It isn't the little babies that bother me." The implication was that it was the grown-up "babies" . . . parishioners in the congregation.

Many pastors today might wish that the only "baby" parishioners belonged to their father's day . . . the thwarting pettiness . . . the immature thinking is still the bane of most pastors. Little wonder the shortage of ministers . . . little wonder that a lot of older ministers are "fed up."

But the Church has no monopoly on childishness. The truth is that there is a lot of "child" in most of us. And it isn't all bad. Look at him at 5 . . . with his free spirit . . . uninhibited . . . trusting . . . accepting of people . . . zestful . . . loving . . . unless he is taught by adults to subject himself to the adult prisons of inhibition and distrust.

That little five-year-old boy of yours will jump into your arms from a high wall in complete trust . . . unless you have created fear in him. What will he be like in 25 years so far as trust of people is concerned? He runs to you now when coming home from school . . . hugs and kisses you with no chagrin . . . shows his affection . . . and his school papers . . . no matter who's around. Will he 25 years from now show affection and share his interests? It depends very largely on what adults do to him in these early years.

Many people get all socked in by childhood conditioning of a negative sort . . . and then go on and on defending these defeating and hard-to-live-with limitations. I saw so many people in the Middle East a few years ago who by our Western standards are backward . . . filled with suspicion. When I crossed the border from Turkey into Syria they took my tape recorder and sent it to the other border refusing to let me use it in the country. Seems backward . . . with our universal use of voice recording machines.

'World Arms Control' Topic Of Quincy Lecture Thursday

"World Need for Arms Control" will be discussed by Dr. Paul Mead Doty, Mallinckrodt Professor of Biochemistry at Harvard University, at the fifth in the current series of free public World Affairs Lectures sponsored by the United Nations Council of the South Shore on Thursday, Feb. 13, at 7:30 p.m. The program will be held in the parish hall of the Church of the Presidents (United First Parish) opposite Quincy City Hall.

Professor Doty is a member and former chairman of the Committee of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences on International Studies of Arms Control. From 1961 to 1965 he served as a member of the President's Science Advisory Committee.

An expert in the field of the structure and behavior of large molecules of biological importance, particularly proteins and nucleic acids, Professor Doty is author of nearly two hundred papers in this field.

He has served as editor or associate editor of a number of journals: "Journal of Chemical Physics" (1949-52), "Journal of Polymer Science" (1945-1961) "Journal of Biochemical and Biophysical Cytology" (1959-1963), and the "Journal of Molecular Biology" (1959-63).

The meeting will be preceded by a catered dinner at 6:30 p.m., reservations for which should be made no later than Monday, February 10, through one of the following: Miss Vera Call of 55 Spear Street; Miss Edith K. Coulman of 20 Woodward Ave., or Mrs. Arthur H. Shattuck of 44 Huntly Road, all of Quincy.

Elks Award Youth Prizes

The winners of the Quincy Lodge of Elks youth leadership contest were presented with fifty dollar savings bonds at the lodge's meeting last week.

William F. Ryan, chairman of the Lodge's Youth Activities Committee, presented Miss J. Holly Armitage and Stephen McPhee, both seniors at Braintree High School, as the contest winners. Their brochures have been submitted to the Massachusetts Elks Association for state competition.

Exalted ruler Thomas M. Garrity presented honorable mention awards of savings bonds to William F. West of North Quincy High School, Jeffrey E. Hughes of Quincy High School, Joseph Nigro of Quincy Vocational-Technical high school and Eileen Jacobs of Woodward School for Girls.

YMCA NOTES

Helping Keep America Strong

By Adele Wilson
YMCA Women's Council

A baby-sitting course, open to all Junior High and Senior High School girls ("Y" members or not), will begin Tuesday, Feb. 25, at the YMCA.

Certificates will be presented to those completing the requirements of the five-week course each Tuesday from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Mrs. Paul Reardon is in charge of registration and orientation on opening date, with the following programs scheduled:

Feb. 25 - Child Care - Quincy Visiting Nurses Association representative

March 4 - Fire Safety - Capt. Francis Daly, Quincy Fire Dept.

March 11 - Protection of Persons and Property - Lt. William Daley, Quincy Police Dept.

March 18 - First Aid and Child Care - Dr. Charles Djerf, noted child specialist

March 25 - Film - "Target: Babies and Children"; final examination

Registrations are being accepted now at the YMCA front desk.

An activity which holds the interest of teenage girls at the "Y" (despite the fact that they must get their hair wet!) is the Synchro-Nagettes, a group of swimmers, ages 8 to 18, in the synchronized-swimming class under Mrs. Norma Finnegan, instructor. Along with synchronized stroking, the girls learn stunts, swimming to music, choreography and costuming. Many girls have been Synchro-Nagettes for as long as nine years. When reaching age 19, they may transfer to the women's group. The carry-over value alone makes synchronized swimming an excellent sport for girls. Membership includes:

'Y' Swim Students Advance

The following girls have passed swim tests in the classes listed:

Hazeltine Survey Extensive

Quincy civic and government leaders were cited for their cooperation by David Westermann, president of the Hazeltine Corporation, which will locate a new research laboratory in Quincy.

Following the initial announcement of plans for the new facility announced in The Quincy Sun last week, Westermann commented:

"The Quincy site selection was made after an extensive survey for a location suited to serve as the foundation for planned corporate growth in the ASW (Anti-Submarine Warfare) field."

The decision on the Quincy site was aided greatly by "cooperative discussions and assistance from officials of the Commonwealth, city of Quincy and Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce for the past several months," the Hazeltine official noted.

Groundbreaking is scheduled for Spring for an initial 65,000 sq. ft. laboratory that will house ASW oceanology design and manufacturing operations currently conducted in Avon and Braintree, as well as Quincy.

All Hazeltine functions will be consolidated in Quincy as a result of the planned move. Occupancy is scheduled by January, 1970.

The selected site is adjacent to the planned location of the new South Shore Community College, bounded by Quincy Ave. and West Howard St. near the General Dynamics Fore River Shipyard. The location is convenient to leading Oceanology education programs offered by M.I.T., Harvard and the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution.

A contract to purchase approximately 13 acres adjacent to its present 15 acre test site in Quincy was signed on Jan. 22.

Hazeltine, a key supplier of advanced electronics systems to the U.S. Government, is headquartered in Little Neck, New York.

need for updating our entire approach to the teaching learning process.

In 1963, the Quincy School Committee recognized this need and elected Robert E. Pruitt to serve as Superintendent. A result has been the revitalizing of the Quincy Method. During Mr. Pruitt's five years in Quincy I was privileged to work closely with him as he led the 1160 member staff in a reassessment of our educational goals.

I believe that the current direction of public education in Quincy is sound, and it will be my intention to continue the programs and approaches to the teaching learning process that are now under development in the Quincy Schools.

The history of American public education has shown that in the past the program of studies was prime and that students, teachers, and the whole educational community served the institutionalized ends of the curriculum. Young people found themselves programmed into a pre-determined syllabus of studies that may or may not have been relevant to their individual needs. Such an approach is no longer defensible.

In recent years Quincy educators have been building a systems approach to curriculum development. Systems technology has become quite common in industry, but is only recently being attempted in schools. A systems approach provides for the identification of the many critical areas, tasks, and needs within an organization and allows you to address yourself to them in an orderly manner.

From among the many areas of need in Quincy's systems design I would like to mention four as being most critical to the development of a meaningful educational program for the 16,667 young people attending public school in Quincy. Namely:

(1) The educational experiences that young people are exposed to must be relevant

Raiders Hope To Make Tech Friday

North Quincy's basketball team hopes to qualify Friday night for the Tech Tourney when it plays at Medford. If the Raiders fail, they will try again Tuesday night at Everett.

Meanwhile, Quincy's luckless team, still seeking its second win of the year, hosts Boston Tech in a non-league game Friday night and will be home to Chelsea, the only team it has beaten, Tuesday night.

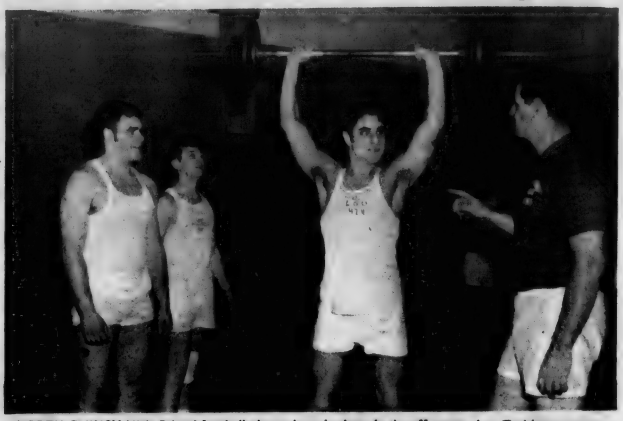
Bob Nolan's North team moved to within one win of qualifying for the Tech with a 82-67 win over crosstown rival Quincy Tuesday night.

North could have clinched a Tech berth in that game only for a 47-46 loss last Friday night to B. C. High, which wasn't a league game and didn't mar the Raiders' perfect league mark.

Earlier last week North virtually clinched the Greater Boston League championship with its second thrilling win over Somerville, this one 85-83 in overtime.

Quincy gave North all it could handle Tuesday night as the Raiders were never able to pull away to a really safe lead. North had a 28-10 lead midway in the second period but Quincy moved to within four, 40-36. The Raiders then widened it to 46-39 at the half.

The Presidents stayed within those seven points at the end of three after Finnegan gambled with a zone. But he lost Jim Furfari on fouls 18 seconds into the final period and North's Richie Sprague scored seven straight points and the Raiders were home free.



"Quincy played a good game and we never had any real breathing room," Nolan said. "Sprague came up with some really big points under the hoop. Everyone played a fine game for us."

"Our boys played their hearts out as usual and I'm proud of them," Finnegan said.

For North Mark Jellison had 23 points, Bob Sleeth 19, Don Constantine 17 and Sprague 14. For Quincy Kevin Ryan and Chuck Walter had 13 each and Lou Eleuteri 12.

North hit on 28 of 53 from the floor, 30 for 38 from the foul line and had 37 rebounds, including 16 offensive rebounds. Quincy hit on 23 of 67 from the floor, 21 of 29 from the foul line and had 33 rebounds.

North's junior varsity ran its record to 12-1 with a 70-61 win as Dick Sanderson scored 20, Danny McKay 12 and Bob DeRosa 11. Billy Maver, who was coached by North coach Joe Amorosino in junior high, paced Quincy with 25 points.

to the needs of each individual.

(2) The learner must be taught in a manner that is consistent with his individual style of learning.

(3) Students must have available learning materials and technological aids to learning that are up to date.

(4) The teachers of our young people must themselves be life long learners.

The learner must be placed at the center of the educational system. All phases of the instructional program must be relevant to the individual needs of students as well as the collective needs of society. The school cannot hope to cope with and expose young people to the vast quantities of knowledge that are being generated today. Nor can the purpose for including things in the curriculum be that we have always taught it.

Today's educators are faced with an enormous task of culling from all that is available that which is most relevant to the needs of today's youth and tomorrow's society. Relevancy must be a key concept in curriculum development.

Individualization of the teaching-learning process goes hand and hand with a concern for relevancy. Whatever it is that a student needs to learn must be presented to him in a way that is consistent with his individual learning style. Individualization does not mean that the student works alone, but rather that educators strive to discover how each student learns and then provide a learning environment that is in the best interests of each learner. A concern for individualization is a recognition that it is the student and not the subject matter that must be taught.

As educators learn more and more about how young people learn, it becomes apparent that books, paper, and pencil are no longer enough. A vast array of audio-visual electronic aides to learning is now available. Without the sophisticated use of technology proper individualization is all but impossible.

A task that educators have today is to determine when and under what conditions a student should be using an electronic device in order to advance his learning process. Unfortunately, most of our Quincy Schools were built in a pre-electronic era; consequently, we are faced with the serious problem of attempting to remodel and renovate 19th and early 20th century facilities in order to provide learning experiences that will be meaningful for those who will be living in the late 20th and early 21st centuries.

The key to any good educational program is, as it has always been, the teacher. There was a time when to be considered an excellent teacher all that was needed was to demonstrate mastery of content or subject matter. I'm not sure that ever was really the case, but I am sure that it is no longer.

In addition to being a master of subject matter today's educator must be a student of the psychology of learning. He must be capable of diagnosing the learning needs of each young person and skillful at structuring an instructional program that is compatible with the individual learning style of each student.

The four points cited in these few columns obviously do not begin to treat adequately all that is involved in maintaining a quality educational program. Nevertheless, I appreciate the opportunity to share with the readers of the Quincy Sun some of my thinking and that of my colleagues as we continue in the development of a relevant and individualized educational program for each young person attending the Quincy Public Schools.

Eastern Mass. Hockey:

Presidents Skate Toward Title But Raiders Still In Doldrums

Quincy's hockey team will try to take another step toward an Eastern Mass. tourney berth Friday night when it faces Don Bosco at Boston Arena. The Presidents then face league leading Malden Monday night and hope to avenge one of their two Met League losses.

North Quincy, still seeking its first victory, meets Revere Friday and then faces strong runnerup Columbus Monday night.

Quincy's scheduled game with Chelsea and North's meeting with Everett last Monday were postponed due to the weather.

Last week history repeated itself much to the disappointment of Quincy coach Bob Sylvia.

Earlier in the year the Presidents had a 2-0 lead but had to settle for a 2-2 tie with Everett. Last week they again took a 2-0 lead in the opening period but again had to hang on for a 2-2 tie against the same team.

"I'm very disappointed," Sylvia said. "This was probably our worst game of the year. I don't know what happened. We played a very good first period but had to hang on in the second, a really bad period for us."

Sylvia admitted his team, unlucky most of the year, was lucky in that second period. Goalie Tapio Juvonen was bombed but he made some great saves and the puck bounced the wrong way for Everett several times. "This was Tapio's second good game in a row," Bob said.

Quincy's aim now is to finish second, qualify for the Eastern Mass. tourney and do as well as it can if it does qualify.

"I don't see how we or Columbus can catch Malden, a real strong skating team," Sylvia pointed out. "But we are only four points behind Columbus and we could catch them."

Sylvia explained that he is pleased with the attitude of his players. "They wasnt to win badly and will play hard, but they just seemed to get mesmerized in that second period tonight," he said.

Harry Bertoni gave Quincy the lead at 3:14 of the first period with Dave Mariano assisting, and Wayne Milford made it 2-0 at 4:22 on a pass from Chuck Condos.

Bob Laing's luckless North team lost to Chelsea, 6-3, when its ace goalie, Kevin Colleran, was forced to go to the hospital before the game because of some ligament problems and junior Mike Tobin replaced him. It was his first varsity game and he was nervous but did a good job. He blanked the Red Devils in the first period.

North's goals were scored by Pat McCormack with an assist for Brian Colleran, Neil Cronin with Tom Donovan assisting, and Ken Kline on a pass from Don Smith.

"We held them off and had a few good rushes ourselves but they got a fluke goal and it seemed to deflate us," Laing said. "Tobin did a good job in the nets for us."

The fluke goal came at 5:42 of the middle period when Tobin put out his stick to block a shot that was off the net, but the puck slid across the goal mouth and hit the far corner post.

That seemed to pep up the Devils and they added four more goals in that period and added one in the finale, when Tobin again looked good.

Church League 54 Years Old

1,000 Boys, Girls In YMCA Action

One of the main objectives of the YMCA is to keep boys off the street and get them interested in sports and other activities.

The Quincy YMCA Church School Basketball League, now in its 54th year, certainly has done its part to achieve these aims.

"This is a wonderful league," said Henry Willman of the "Y", who is secretary and advisor to the league. "We have 107 teams in the Church School League, in addition to the six-team Senior Church League, which actually was the forerunner to the school league. More than 1000 boys and girls play in our leagues."

There are two divisions, Quincy and Braintree. Taking part in the Quincy Division are Quincy Point Cong., Christ Church, Bethany Cong., Wollaston Nazarene, Wollaston Baptist, Squantum Cong., Union Cong., Holy Spirit of Mattapan, First Cong. of Squantum, Wollaston Methodist, Atlantic Memorial, St. Joseph's, Salem Lutheran, Beth Israel, Blessed Sacrament, Central Baptist and Atlantic Methodist.

Teams from Braintree, Weymouth and Randolph play in the Braintree Division. There are also teams from Pembroke and Mattapan.

Each Division includes the Samson League for boys 10 and under, Daniel League, 12 and under; Goliath League, 14 and under; and David League, 18 and under. The Jonathan League for boys 16 and under is a combined league which includes Christ Church, Quincy Point Cong., Bethany Cong., and Atlantic Memorial of Quincy.

In addition, there are a Girls' Senior League for those up to 18 and Girls' Junior League for those 14 and under. These include teams from Quincy, Weymouth, Milton and Braintree.

The Senior Church League is for players over 18.

"There is terrific interest at the various churches with Quincy Point and First Cong of Braintree having 11 teams each and Christ Church eight," Willman explained. "Watching the Samson League in action is amusing with boys as young as seven years old playing and trying to hold up their trunks, which almost always are too big for them."

The league exemplifies brotherhood with Protestant, and Catholic Churches and Jewish synagogues represented. One rule is that each player must attend Sunday School at least twice a month.

No member of a high school or junior high team is eligible, thereby giving an opportunity to boys who otherwise wouldn't be playing basketball.

"Each team has an adult leader so there is excellent supervision," Willman continued. "Also, each team supplies a referee for each game and we have some excellent ones. We have boys as young as 13 refereeing the Samson games and doing a fine job. Each year we conduct school for officials at Emmanuel Church in Braintree before the season opens. Harold Randall and Abe Abdullah, both board officials, conduct the boys' school and Jean Hamblin the school for girls. Each church has the opportunity to send its prospective officials to the school.

Following the regular schedule, playoffs are conducted between the top four teams in each division for the overall championship and banquets are held for each classification at various sites, usually one of the churches involved.

"Before the banquets the priest, minister or rabbi at whose church or synagogue the event is held holds a short service and gives a brief talk to the boys," Willman said. "We find this better than trying to get their attention during the banquet."

A collection is taken with the boys and girls contributing to World Service, to help out children in other countries.

There is keen competition in every division with close races in each.

The coaches are as follows:

SAMSON DIVISION: Wollaston Nazarene, Eldon Hall; Wollaston Baptist, Alley McInnis; First Cong of Squantum, Alton Phillips; Christ Church A, Al Gray, Christ Church B, George Wardrop; Bethany Cong, William Cosgrove; Quincy Point Cong A, Wayne Parlee; Quincy Point Cong B, James Taverna.

CAUGHT IN JUMP BALL action are Nancy Flynn and Laura Jordan as Point Cong, YMCA Girls Church Basketball League leader, defeats Wollaston Union Cong, 21-13 for 6-0 record. In play are Point's Sharon Grassi (15), Ruth DeCristofaro (21) and Barbara Smith and Union Cong's Laura Jordan and Judy Faragher.

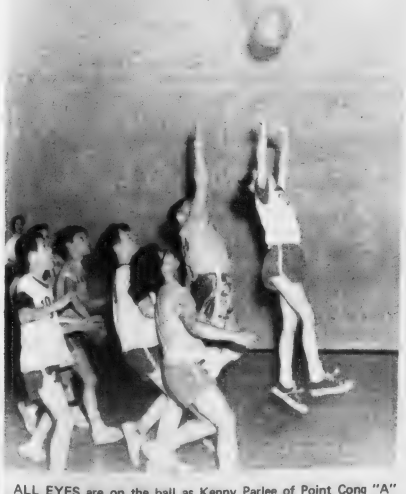
DANIEL: Wollaston Nazarene, Eldon Hall; Wollaston United Methodist, Roy Ellison; First Church of Squantum, Alton Phillips; Christ Church, Ken Williams; Bethany Cong, Richard Sprague; Union Cong of Wollaston, William Roberts; Quincy Point Cong A, Bob Cochrane; Quincy Point B, Bruce Swan; United Presby, Dave Simpson.

GOLIATH: St. Joseph's, Bob Sullivan; Wollaston Baptist, George Watts; First Church of Squantum, Alton Phillips; Christ Church, Don Messinger; Bethany Cong, David Fryer; Quincy Point Cong A, John McWilliams; Quincy Point Cong B, Bob Cochrane.

JONATHAN: Christ Church, John Hammill; Quincy Point Cong A and B, Theodore DeCristofaro.



DAVID: Central Baptist, Charles Whithington; Wollaston Nazarene, Dick Mann and Joe Amyouny: Blessed Sacrament, Bill Malono; Salem Lutheran, Karl Lindquist; Wollaston United Methodist, Roy Ellison; Christ Church, Bob Lee; Quincy Pt. Cong, Bruce Swan, Beth Israel, Fred Sussman.

GIRLS A DIVISION: Wollaston Union Cong, Bob Jordan; Christ Church, Diane Grondin; Wollaston Methodist, Roy Ellison; United Presby, Donna Bradbury; Quincy Pt. Cong, Bruce Swan; Salem Lutheran, Barbara Berg.

GIRLS B DIVISION: Wollaston Union Cong, Barbara Faragher; Wollaston United Methodist, Paul Chiavaroli; Squantum First Church, Carla Green; Quincy Pt. Cong, Diane Tait; Atlantic Memorial Cong, Doreen MacLeod; Bethany Cong, Janet Zanolli; Christ Church, Russ Grodin.

The League Advisory Board establishes the policy and determines all questions pertaining to league activity. The members of the board are President Robert Dupre, Harold Randall, Seymour Sutcliffe, Clydy Morrison, Stanley Berman, David Taylor, Don Messinger, Alton Phillips, Robert Jordan, Rev. Robert J. Ripley, Rev. Elden D. J. Zuern and Willman.

Willman believes the league is the oldest in the country and certainly it must be one of the biggest. It is a credit to the Y and the South Shore area.

ALL EYES are on the ball as Kenny Parlee of Point Cong "A" team scores over outstretched hand of Bethany's Doug King in 20-15 win in Daniel Division of Quincy YMCA Church Basketball League. Other Bethany players in gray shirts are Bob MacIntosh, Greg Marks and Darryl Mikami. Point players (white shirts) in on play are Mike Carbonneau and Bill Ferguson.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

A fellow was asked, "How is the world treating you?" He replied, "The world treats me fine; the people in it don't."

There are those who say the world is worse than ever. Actually, what is meant is SOME of the people treat other people worse than ever. However, if we will only look around us, we will see vast goodness also. We hear more of the bad things than of the good. Screaming headlines of crime, disaster, destruction and tragedy steal the front pages. Kind deeds and friendly thoughts receive less publicity because they lack the punch of emotional impact.

From time to time, we intend to point to the goodness we see from day to day - and it is abundant. These deeds on the local, national and international scene are bright rays of decency and goodness. These rays pierce the publicized dark clouds of people's neglect, oppression and disrespect for the dignity of man. It will be a pleasure to spotlight the goodness and decency of mankind as we see it . . . .

What Is Man?

"And God said: Let us make man"

Man is one of many. Man cannot live alone. For this reason, he must be an asset to the well being and happiness of his class. Man is a part of the world.

In his commentary, the late Rabbi Hertz states: "Man is made in the image and likeness of God; his character is potentially Divine. Man alone among living creatures is gifted with moral freedom and will. He is capable of knowing and loving God, and of holding spiritual communion with him; and he alone can guide his actions in accordance with Reason. Because man is endowed with Reason, he can subdue his impulses in the service of moral and religious ideals"

Thus the Psalmist says: O Lord, Thou hast made him but little lower than the angels, and has crowned him with glory and honor.

Indeed, man on one hand is but "dust on the ground" however on the other hand "he is a living soul". Man possesses the divine, and as such is expected to reach out to the ideals and values which transcends the mere physical desires of life. Due to God's image within him, man can lift himself up to a higher level, to a way of life that is becoming to God and man.

For man and the world are like miror and reflection. Ugliness in man reflects ugliness in the world. His goodness and kindness will reflect the same in the world. Let us not give man a chance to destroy, and there will not be any destruction in the world.

There is a significant parable to our subject. When the trees were created, they were happy. They were glad to grow and to produce fruit. They greatly rejoiced life. Next day the iron was created. The trees trembled, feared and mourned. "Our end has come" They said. This iron will cut us down-root, branch and all.

But the Almighty comforted them and said: "Do not fear the iron. As long as you trees will not furnish the handles to the axe, the iron will be as powerless as a blade of grass.

Even so it is with all of us. Let us not create handles for the axes some men grind. Let us live, love humanity, work and rest as God has ordained. Let our daily dealings with one another be fair and honorable. Let the "Golden rule" be our guide between man and man,

Then we will merit His image in man.

Millionaire Cruise

A millionaire's holiday cruise aboard a sleek 65 ft. yacht will be given to a lucky visitor to the mammoth 1969 International Boat Show in Boston's War Memorial Auditorium starting Saturday, Feb. 8. The show will continue through Feb. 16.

The lucky visitor who wins this three day holiday on the luxurious Randy Boatahu yacht will have the boat's captain and crew to direct the craft to the desired destination. The lucky winner may invite three guests to accompany him or her on the cruise.

Made available through the cooperation of Randolph Shoe Co., makers of Randy Boatahu canvas footwear, this three day luxurous nautical holiday may be taken between the period of May 1 through Oct. 1.

In addition to this glamorous holiday package, more than 300 boats of all kinds - outboards, inboards, sailboats, runabouts, cruisers, prams, canoes, houseboats, dinghies, catamarans - will be unveiled at this biggest boating spectacle of the winter season in New England.

The two floors of the huge auditorium in the $200,000,000 Prudential Center will be converted into a huge marina as the boat industry raises the curtain on its first New England showing of 1969 models and accessories.

All the leading boat and marine accessories manufacturers will be represented in the show as well as the top engine makers.

Besides the boats and accessories, there will be a nightly fashion show of the latest nautical wear by beautiful models.

Continuous motion pictures of boating, water skiing and other water recreational activities will be shown in the special film theatre at the show.

Another family attraction will be the trout stream where bait and line will be provided for those anglers who want to test their skill.

Water ski experts will be present throughout the show to impart tips and provide data on this fast growing water sport.

The boat show will be open daily and Saturdays from 1 to 11 p.m. and from 1 to 7 p.m. on Sundays. There will be free bus shuttle service from the Boston Common Underground Garage every evening and Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

'We Must Listen To Taxpayers'

Quinn Vows Budget Cut Of 'Several Hundred Thousand'

Councilor John J. Quinn last night predicted the City Council will cut Mayor James R. McIntyre proposed $35.55 million municipal budget by several hundred thousand dollars.

Quinn, chairman of the council's powerful Finance Committee, said: "The Mayor has submitted a tight budget but we'll take several hundred thousand dollars out of it for sure."

McIntyre presented the proposed budget--up 5.5 per cent over last year's--to the council Tuesday night after trimming department requests by a record $2.6 million.

Quinn said he will call the first meeting of the Finance Committee--comprising all nine members of the council--for 7:30 p.m. Feb. 24.

"We have until April 1 and we are going to scrutinize the figures," Quinn said. "We are not going to rush through it. We are going to give it a real close look, right down to the pennies."

Quinn said this committee would hold numerous budget sessions and invited taxpayers to attend the open meetings in the City Council chamber.

"We will welcome their comments," he said. "The financial squeeze on taxpayers has led to a revolt throughout the state. We elected officials should and must listen to the taxpayers' and act accordingly."

Quinn added:

"I am certain that all members of the council will work with the chair to judiciously reduce department requests wherever possible without affecting municipal services and the efficiency of municipal government."

Quinn said cutting the budget by several hundred thousand dollars would lower the tax rate impact "by a few dollars."

Mayor McIntyre has warned of an ominous possible $20 tax rate hike.

He based the figure on the municipal budget, anticipated losses in state aid, approximately $409,000 in city employee pay raises passed by the City Council over his veto, and the autonomous $13.6 million school budget which is up $1.9 million over 1968.

McIntyre noted that as chairman of the School Committee, he voted against the final school department budget figure.

Under the law, the City Council cannot cut a penny from the school budget unless the school committee agrees to do it at the council's request.

The Mayor said the school budget alone represents a $10 impact on the tax rate. Loss of state aid could mean another $5 to $8 on the rate, he said.

Last year's budget, passed by the City Council, was $32.4 million.

"That was a tight budget, too," recalled Quinn. "But the City Council cut it by $700,000. I am certain we will find several hundred thousand dollars this year."

He added:

"We will make every effort to reduce city expenses wherever possible without negating any necessary services. Expanded programs will be given a very hard look to make certain they are absolutely necessary for implementation this year."

Quinn declined to comment on Mayor McIntyre's warning of a possible $20 tax-rate impact this year, other than:

"The City Council will do all it can to hold a tax rate increase down as much as possible."

Sun Tribute To Reuben Grossman Placed In Congressional Record

A Quincy Sun tribute to the late Reuben A. Grossman has been inserted in the Congressional Record by U.S. Rep. James A. Burke (D-Milton).

The article entitled, "Reuben A. Grossman: A Success As A Man" appeared in The Quincy Sun last Nov. 14, shortly after his death.

The tribute began:

"The passing of Reuben A. Grossman takes from the Quincy scene one of those rare men who seem to come along just once in your lifetime.

"His was a rags-to-riches Horatio Alger-like success story. Actually, a more fantastic one."

Tracing his fabulous business career, the article noted that Mr. Grossman left school in the sixth grade to help his father, Louis, an imigrant door-to-door peddler.

And that at the time of his death Nov. 6 at the age of 82, he was a founder, senior member and chairman of the board of directors of Grossman's Inc., a family commercial empire of 75 buildings materials firms throughout the Northeast.

The article cited his civic, humanitarian and philanthropist activities.

It recalled the night he was honored at a dinner attended by a Governor (Endicott Peabody), a Lieutenant Governor (Francis X. Bellotti) and a Mayor (Amelio Della Chiesa).

And, the article concluded:

"They and the leseer known were there that night to honor not just Reuben Grossman, business leader, but Reuben Grossman, the man.

"For as a man, he was even a bigger success in life."

Congressman Burke, in his own remarks, in the Congressional Record said:

"Mr. Grossman was a kindly man who exhibited on many occasions his concern for the plight of his fellow man. He had great respect for human dignity and his passing leaves a great void in the South Shore area of Massachusetts."

Registry Building Low Bid $70,000 Over Estimate

The low bid for construction of the planned new Quincy Registry of Motor Vehicles office building is $197,303--approximately $70,000 higher than the estimated cost.

Mayor James R. McIntyre said the unexpected figure means Quincy will have to hike its rental agreement with the Registry if the city if to construct the building at no cost to the taxpayers.

The Mayor cited a "tremendous increase in construction costs over the last few months" as the prime reason for $197,303 bud submitted by Reznick Construction Co., Inc., Freeport St., Boston.

The Reznick firm's bid was lowest of seven which ranged to a high of $235,770.

McIntyre said the increased cost factor "will have to be worked out with Registrar Richard McLaughlin".

He expressed confidence the financial problem would not jeopardize plans for the new building but said it would

Letters to the Editor

Editors, The Quincy Sun:

I was born and raised in Quincy and hope to make Quincy my permanent home. Presently I am serving my tour of duty with the Army in Vietnam as a computer operator in the supply field. I graduated from Archbishop Williams and Boston College. This letter is in response to your periodical, The Quincy Sun.

I first was exposed to your newspaper last October when I was home on leave and I was greatly impressed. Your paper is the most worthwhile event to happen in Quincy in a long time. Your periodical serves the community by informing its readers about their own city. My parents, Mr. and Mrs. A.T. Flavin, 105 Alstead St., send me The Sun every week and I look forward to reading it. I particularly enjoyed your article about the "Maintenance Of Outside Skating Rinks in your Jan. 30 issue. I am an old hockey player myself and was a frequent visitor to all the rinks your article mentioned.

Keep up the good work.

Sincerely yours,
Frederick A. Flavin

Editor, Quincy Sun:

As chairman of the recent Annual Awards Dinner of the Montclair Men's Club, I wish to thank you and the members of your fine paper for the coverage received before and after the affair.

Dr. William Wolk South Shore ARC Speaker Feb 27

Dr. William P. Wolk, Director of the South Shore Occupational Training Center and Sheltered Workshop, will address the South Shore Association for Retarded Children at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 27 at 77 Parkingway, Quincy. Accompanying Dr. Wolk will be members of the Training Center staff.

Dr. Wolk received his degree from Columbia University. Prior to his present position, Dr. Wolk served as Clinical Psychologist at the Brockton Veterans Administration Hospital.

The South Shore Occupational Training Center and Sheltered Workshop operates at 16 Moon Island Rd., Squantum to provide vocational service and training for the retarded young adults of: Milton, Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Rudolph, Hingham, Hull, Cohasset, and Scituate.

This program is co-sponsored by the South Shore Mental Health Center and the South Shore Association for Retarded Children.

The meeting is open to the public and all interested persons are invited to attend.

McIntyre To Address Women's GOP Club

Sen.-Mayor James R. McIntyre will be guest speaker at the February meeting of the Women's Republic Club of Quincy Friday.

The meeting will be at 2 p.m. at the Woodward School For Girls, following a 1 p.m. coffee hour.

McIntyre will discuss municipal and state problems affecting Quincy residents and taxpayers.

Hostesses for the event will be Mrs. Ralph Hadley, Mrs. Albert Nogler and Mrs. Norman Brigham of the Ward 6 committee.

Sunbeams

One of these years you may find yourself addressing Quincy's chief executive as "Madam Mayor" instead of Mr. Mayor.

Don't laugh, boys, it could actually happen. And, perhaps sooner than you think.

In fact, if the women voters of Quincy banded together, they could turn that political trick almost any year.

Numerically, the gals have more voting power than men do right now. The city's total voter registration is 46,426--with women outnumbering men 25,305 to 21,121.

If all the women lined up behind a woman mayoralty candidate, she would win. Providing they all got out to vote.

Not only do registered women voters outnumber men city-wide, but also ward by ward. Have a look:

Ward 1: Female, 5,998. Male, 4,993.
Ward 2: Female, 2,748. Male, 2,249.
Ward 3: Female, 2,604. Male, 2,208.
Ward 4: Female, 2,839. Male, 2,445.
Ward 5: Female, 6,093. Male, 4,973.
Ward 6: Female, 5,023. Male, 4,253.

Come to think of it, with that edge, you could wind up some day with an all-female city council.

One woman, of course, has already broken that barrier: former Council woman Edna B. Austin. And, she retured undefeated.

On a light note, however, who could get 25,305 women together in a political campaign. Some them have trouble getting along at a cocktail party.

But, seriously, their numerical power will have to be reckoned with by male candidates running in this fall's city election.

Men will have to be appealing to them--from personal appearance to city government philosophy.

And some year there might just be a woman sitting behind the mayor's desk at City Hall.

A likely possibility, some observers are even now beginning to think, might be someone like School Committeewoman Ruth E. Scanlan.

Still in her early 20's, she unseated veteran School Committeeman Charles T. Sweeny in the 1967 city election as a political unknown.

She's attractive and level-headed. And at her age, she has plenty of time in which to make a bid.

It could happen.

SPEAKING OF THIS year's election, Joseph P. Shea of White St., reportedly is getting ready to challenge incumbent Albert R. Barilaro for the Ward 4 City Council seat. He's a salesman and a government major at Suffolk University.

DID YOU KNOW that Edward Barry of Hudson St., retired assistant clerk of Boston Municipal Court, has a Chinese "daughter". For the past five years now, Ed has been quietly sponsoring little Min Rung in Formosa through a Catholic mission. He sends money each year which helps pay for her education and clothing. Min, now about eight, is a talented pianist.

Ed has a recording sent to him by the mission. On one side, it has Min playing the piano while a group of Chinese youngsters sing "Old MacDonald Had A Farm"--in Chinese. Ed treasures it.

POPULAR JIM GARDNER, who managed some pretty good fighters in his day--including Ring Larsen--celebrated his 72nd birthday the other day at St. Petersburgh, Fla.

The milestone was noted at a party given in his honor by John Degan, former office manager of the City Water Department. Jim was a water department inspector. John retired to Florida in 1965, and in 1967. Jim and his wife are spending the winter in St. Petersburgh.

Incidentally, Jim's family reports he is "feeling spry" and keeping in shape by swimming daily.

PUBLIC WORKS Commr. John M. Browne made up his mind to kick the nicotine habit Feb. 13. And to lend him moral support, James J. Ricciuti, the mayor's executive secretary, posted a sign proclaiming Browne was "giving up smoking". And to the sign was stapled part of Browne's last pack of cigarettes. But, alas, it wasn't. He didn't get through the night. P.S. He's going to try again.

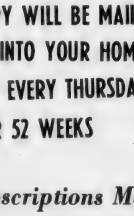
AN INFLUENTIAL MAN, the Mayor. The day after last week's snowstorm, Mayor James R. McIntyre received a phone call from a Quincy father.

His son, the father said, had driven to the Vocational-Technicial School, couldn't find a parking space, and came home. "Why doesn't he take the bus?", McIntyre asked.



"I told him that but he won't," the father said. He then added: "Listen, why don't you talk to him."

The father handed his son the phone and the Mayor told him: "I think you should take the bus so you won't miss school."

The youth, somewhat flabbergasted by the Mayor's interest, replied: "Well, Mayor, seeing you're asking me personally, I will." And, he did.

Area Flood Study Bill Set For Public Hearing

A bill aimed at correcting flooding conditions in Quincy Point and South Quincy will be given 10:30 a.m. public hearing today in Room 480 at the State House.

The legislation, filed by Rep. Clifford H. Marshall, Jr. in conjunction with Ward 3 Councilor John F. Koegler seeks to create a special commission to investigate and study the flooding problems so they may be solved.

Marshall would have a 12-member commission carry out the study, to correct and eliminate whan he terms "a serious health hazard" to the residents of Quincy Point and South Quincy.

The commission would include:

Three members of the Senate, four from the House of Representatives, the state Commissioner of Public Works or his designee, the Commissioner of Community Affairs or his representative, and three persons to be named by Gov. Francis Sargent, one of them a member of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council.

Marshall, who is also Ward 2 city councilor, would make the services of city officials available to the commission during its investigation.

Among Quincy's hardest hit flood areas last spring were the Bower Rd. and Dysart sections of Quincy Point and Brook Rd., South Quincy.

"I hope state money can be made available to do what needs to be done to prevent this catastrophe from ever happening again," Marshall said.

Gas Co. 'Satisfied' With New Meter Site Agreement

A Boston Gas Co. official confirmed with satisfaction the agreement reached between the city and utility conveying a park land site for the company's gas metering and pressure reduction station.

The Gas Co. spokesman said the conveyance of the site for the disputed facility was "satisfactory to Boston Gas Co. and allows access within reason to our pipeline."

The agreement announced by Mayor James R. MyIntyre Tuesday headed off a legal suit initiated by the Gas Co. after the city had taken Cunningham Park land acquired by the utility from park trustees as a meter station site.

The site agreement reached between the disputants resulted in a smaller parcel for the Gas Co. Originally, a 2.4 acre site of Cunningham Park had been purchased for $33,000 to house the facility. The parcel was later taken by the city as part of a larger eminent domain action to retain the land for park purposes.

Under the agreement, the 2.4 acres will be returned to the city in exchange for the smaller site acceptable to both parties.

The City Council made it official Wednesday night by approving the new conveyance and exchange for "a minimum amount of one dollar."

The order was contingent on settlement of the law suit filed in Suffolk Superior Court Jan. 23.

The site conveyed is located between Milton and West Quincy near the northeasterly side of Fuller's Lane.

Award Prizes At Quincy Art Show

The Quincy Art Association Show currently being held at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Main Hall, will continue through February.

The following prizes were awarded. The first prize went to Anna MacRae MacLeod, for her callograph print, "Cathedral Exterior"; second to Doris Ferrara for "Scarlet Anemones and Poppies Too" in mixed media, and third prize to Dan C. McElwain for his watercolor. Madeline Cohen's sculpture titled "Patricia" received honorable mention.

Home Show

Accents Storage

A storage system utilizing custom design and adding beauty to the home will be among the hundreds of materials, ideas, equipment and concepts that will be seen at 1969 New England Home Show in Boston's War Memorial Auditorium starting Saturday, March 1, for eight days.

Shapes and designs can be created to suit the storage problem and enhance the beauty of a room with these unique units.

Units can be created by any individual with a custom design for the storage of books, records, music system, planter enclosures, light troughs, wine racks, room dividers, wall hanging, children's furniture and many other ideas.

This Karlis kit includes 12 x 12 inches squares of laminated 7-ply birch which lock together with metal rings to form rigid structures expandable in any direction. Designs can be created to fit any area, and are easily assembled. The metal rings are pushed into the corners of the wood squares to form the units.

In addition to this unique storage system, new ideas in room furnishings will be seen at the show as well as all the new 1969 materials and innovations for the home. More than 500 national, regional and local firms will bring more than $1,000,000 in merchandise and ideas for the home to the show to enable visitors to view all these items in one place at one time.

This huge home spectacle is sponsored by Home Builders Assn. of Greater Boston, non-profit organization of builders, architects, and building materials suppliers.

Firefighters End Training Course

A fall and winter semester in Fire Prevention was recently attended and completed at Massasoit Community College by Captain Thomas F. Maguire, Captain Francis M. Daly, and Captain James M. Craig of the Quincy Fire Department.

A new semester in Fire Protection began on February 3, 1969 and is being attended by the above named officers.

A repeat semester in Fire Prevention also began this month. This course is being attended by Lieutenant Robert Kelley, Lieutenant Warren Larsen and Fire Fighter Roy Snaith of the Quincy Fire Department.

New Books Ready From TB Assn.

Two new publications designed to provide the laymen with facts about breathing and air pollution are being made available to libraries and schools in Norfolk County communities by the Norfolk Christmas Seal organization.

The book entitled "Breathing" "What You Need To Know" discusses the breathing process, cigarette smoking and air pollution.

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

The Disappearing House Call

Do you make house-calls? This is a frequent and plaintive question. What happened in the practice of medicine to make such visits difficult and unpopular?

Several years ago the younger men coming into practice declared the house-call off limits and tabu. I presume in their medical training and resident discipline such visits were preached against as unnecessary and costly and most likely an invasion of the rights of specialists. Their attitude was almost vehement and strangely their convictions paid off. Such visits have dwindled to say one a week or fewer.

Some of the experienced senior physicians recount with nostalgic delight the experience of the past when as many as 30-40 calls were made in a day. The flu epidemic had them going practically around the clock. The doctors still visit the elderly who are infirm and cannot make it to the office.

I remember with some amusement a late call during the second war when very few men were about and every minute was crowded with the phone or patients, when even a meal was a rarity! The hour was late and I was tired- the patient was a man ill with a gallbladder. I was startled when the patient laughed despite his discomfort and offered his bed to me- I had fallen asleep!

One of our very able M.D's tells of the Depression Years when compensation for a call may have been a bag of onions or potatoes or perhaps a bottle of home-brewed beer or wine or work done as labor by the patient's family- or simply heart-felt geniune gratitude. Such reward was expected and services given with no pressure. Both parties survived gratefully.

A house-call to me is still a pleasant experience rich in its homely neighborliness. A warm family-gathering despite the immediate concern about its problem. The buzzing, excited children playfully romping and desirous of being of help and playing doctor and nurse. An invitation for coffee of "Schnapps" at Christmas time.

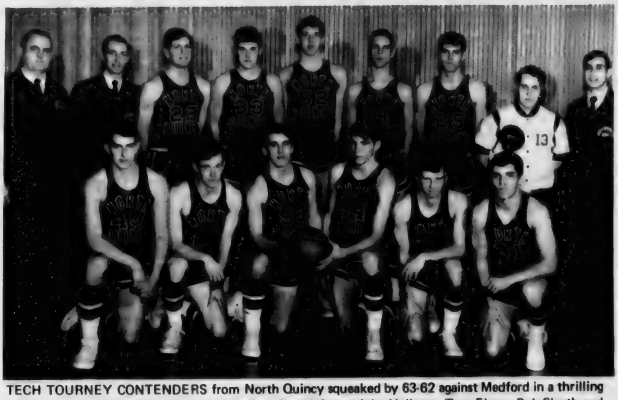
Some of the reasons for the disappearance of the home-visit is time. The depletion of available M.D's and increasing specialization. One cannot do an adequate examination at home on a real diagnostic problem. The time consumed to and from a call, especially of any distance, eats up the alloted period of three or four comparable office visits. The latter are accomplished under more appropriate circumstance and with more efficiency. The cost of a house visit is more expensive to the patient and is not an adequate recompense for the physician.

Please remember that if a mother has several ill children and has no means of transportation, obviously a house-call is made. If transportation is all that is required we have obliged the family either with taxi or our own office staff.

If a blizzard is howling and the illness is desperate, the police always oblige with transportation to the Accident Floor of the hospital.

May I at this time commend the Quincy Police (as well as those of our neighboring towns) for their prompt, courteous and efficient ambulance service. They have always been of good cheer and understanding. At no time have I heard a complaint against them in my presence. The trying circumstances they have endured and survived with compassion is a fitting tribute to their devotion to a cause.

The scythe of time is laying low the visitations of General Practice with ill-timed haste, so that many of our young cannot realize the wonderful service and excellent medicine we have had in Quincy. The house-call in its demise is losing the social comfort which was one of the bonds of rich understanding that the G.P. had. Sorry to see it go.



How many of you know the contributions made by such great General Practitioners as Hunting, Bartlett, W. Sargent, Reardon, Britton, R. Ash and Nathan, in the past, and our contemporaries, Manley, Davidson, G. Dalton, Stein, Rappeport, MacPhee, Helfrich, Braverman, Jacobs, Solomon, Amhrein, Angelo, Orbach, M. Sargent, Brudno, Costanza, Segarra, Carella, Mahoney, Corsini, Dibona, Davis, Dorne and Read. These men have demonstrated the sort of courage and devotion to medicine which has made me be proud to be a part of it.

Quincy Wins Second

North Clinches Tech Tourney Invite

North Quincy's basketball team has made the Tech Tourney for the third time in Bob Nolan's four years as coach and Friday night can clinch its second Greater Boston League championship when it plays at Malden. Tuesday night the Raiders end their regular season with a home game against Revere.

Meanwhile luckless Quincy, which finally gained its second win Tuesday, is home to powerful second place Somerville Friday night and ends up Tuesday at home against Weymouth in a non-league game.

Bob Nolan's North team moved another step toward the league title by defeating Everett, 68-58, Tuesday night at Everett.

Bob Finnegan's Quincy club toppled Chelsea, the only team it has beated, 79-63, at its home gym.

North Quincy made its record 12-0 in the league and 13-2 overall with its win over Everett.

Mark Jellison continued his high scoring with 26 points and Richie Sprague added 15 for the Raiders.

Joe Amorisono's classy North junior varsity romped, 80-52, for its 14th win in 15 games as Bob DeRosa scored 25 points.

Quincy turned in its finest all-around performance to open up a close game in the final minutes. With the Presidents leading only 66-60 with three minutes left, Bob Pettinelli hit on three baskets and grabbed three key rebounds to open the gap.

Capt. Lou Eleuteri had 20 points, Fran Sandonato 18, Jim Furfuri 15 and Pettinelli 14. George Davey took care of the rebounding until injured in the final period. He was taken to Quincy Hospital with a painful ankle injury.

Quincy hit for 50 per cent from the floor, 75 per cent from the foul line and grabbed 36 rebounds. Chelsea was 33 per cent from the floor, 50 per cent from the foul line and took down 21 rebounds.

Fran Conroy's Quincy jayvees won, 58-47, to make their record 10-6. Joe Sterling had 16 points and Bob Pike 10.

The Raiders qualified for the Tech last week but just barely as it nipped Medford, 63-62.

North fell behind, 17-7, in the first period but rebounded in the second period to cut the gap to three, 29-26, at halftime.

The Raiders finally went ahead near the end of the third period but Medford regained the lead, 50-48, midway in the finale. Here Don Constantine, hampered by fouls in the first half, returned to the lineup and hit on two key baskets to put North ahead again, 53-50. North led, 63-59, with two minutes to go but Medford cut the gap to one point. North regained control of the ball and ran out the clock.

Jellison scored 20 points, Bobby Sleeth and Sprague 11 as North hit on 23 of 38 foul shots to only 14 for 31 for Medford.

North's junior varsity made its record 13-1 with a 72-59 win as Dick Sanderson scored 15 points and DeRosa 14.

Quincy trailed Boston Tech by only three, 35-32, at halftime but the Hub team rolled merrily in the last two periods, winding up with 31 points in the final session to romp, 92-65.

Eleuteri scored 21 points, Pettinelli 17 and Chuck Walters 10 for the Presidents. Quincy was hampered by the absence of 6-5 Davey, who was sidelined with an ankle injury.

And, The Raider Jayvees Are Rolling Along, Too

While North Quincy's varsity basketball rolls merrily along and has clinched another Tech Tourney berth, the junior varsity squad continues red hot in its own right.

The Raider jayvees, under first-year coach Joe Amorosino, has compiled an impressive 13-1 record and these boys look like next year's varsity players.

Varsity coach Bob Nolan has an almost entire senior club and will be depending heavily upon this year's jayvees in another year.

Beaten only by Somerville, Amorosino's team has won most games by big margins, although having its hands full both times with rival Quincy.

The jayvees have speedy height, good shooters and fine ball handling.

Their top scorers are a pair of juniors, Bob DeRosa and Rich Sanderson, both excellent shooters.

Another junior, Dan McKay, is a fine all-around player, while Sophomore Dan Zink is coming along well as he hopes to approach the fame achieved by his brother, Dave. Dan did such a good job against B. C. High that he started for the varsity in the next game against Quincy.

Leo Papile has seen loads of action, is a fine ball handler and rebounder, while the North coach considers Jim Small, a junior, a great sixth man who should figure high in next year's varsity plans.

"Among our other outstanding players are Craig Bogosian, a junior and excellent rebounder; Tony Kelly, a fine sophomore defensive player; Joe Orlando, a junior who is an excellent ball handler; and Kenny Baker, a soph who excelled against B. C. and scored 17 points," Amorosino said.

Rounding out the classy squad are Bob Langley, a junior, and sophomores Bob Flaherty, Brian Donohue, Jim Walker, Tom Flynn and Jim Sarruda.

"This is a good solid team that works together well," the North coach explained. "We have no real standout and all are fine players who give me 100 percent all the time. I think most will make the varsity next year."

Amorosino, who is assisted by Ron LaQuaglia, coached at Sterling Junior High the past three years and compiled a fine record.

"The high scorer for Quincy in our second game against them was Billy Maver, one of my Sterling players," he pointed out.

Amorosino, incidentally, is director of the Larry Siegfried basketball camp which runs this year from Aug. 23 to 30 at Nashua, N. H. It is open to boys 11 to 18 and any boy interested in attending next summer can contact Amorosino.

YMCA NOTES

Helping Keep America Strong

By Adele Wilson

YMCA Women's Council

At the "Y" in Quincy, there is something for everyone, including us "girls." Personally, I was goaded into joining this organization by a (former) friend who remarked that I was falling apart at the seams and actually an athletic catastrophe. None of HER friends seemed to have high foreheads and low back pains, so I concluded that perhaps there just might be something to this physical fitness bit.

At my first "Y" session, happily I attired myself in the gym garb or shorts, sweat shirt, socks, and sneakers, and hunted for the elevator. None in sight, so up the stairs I trudged with nary a puff. Turning to go back down and proudly change my clothes for home, a new acquaintance explained the stairs are not prescribed "Y" exercise, the gymnasium being back up on the second floor.

Up again - and in the gym was a busy world populated by a varied assortment of female sizes and shapes. A sort of wall-to-wall carpeting of torsos, animated by legs and arms waving vigorously back and forth in the air like wiindshield wipers. My own June Taylor routine consisted of ten minutes, to music, of getting down on the floor - ten minutes, no music, of being helped back up. One scissor kick in between.

Not the type to discourage, I next romped over to the volleyball court. The players there had caught my act in the gym class - no one would choose me for her team. I was merely leftovers for the side with one-man-short. Well, in the world of sports, one just can't be sensitive.

Now volley-ball, you know, is a game played by two opposing teams with a ball tossed back and forth over a net. The object of this game is to (a) avoid being beaned on the head, and (b) avoid being bashed in the face by the ball. One's value as a player is determined by one's skill at ducking.

The coach notified me that I must remove my glasses. This meant I could see neither the ball nor the net, with the result that my team was actually still one player short.

I stood quietly, as inoffensive as a potted plant, only moving to cover up my head rapidly with my arms if it seemed the ball was headed in my direction. This tactic, however, bawled up my own team so much that I was forced to abandon it.

Next I hit upon the idea, if the ball chanced my way, of moving over a few inches and shrieking "Yours!" as authoritatively as possible to my neighbor. For this I was scolded by the coach, who said my attitude was not really in the "Y" spirit. Just the same, our team won. The enemy was completely confused, for which I deserve full credit.

Those fit to hobble, because no one was able to walk any more, were invited to adjourn to the badminton court. Pretty hard to get loused up there, I thought. With four players a total team for doubles, and three ladies only lined up for play, one side was bound to choose me.

My first return was an overhead smash - of such brilliant play that the birds promptly disappeared into thin air.

The rest of the game period was devoted to all players on hands and knees searching for the lost birdie - to no avail. Picking up my racquet to depart as unobtrusively as possible off the court, there I spotted the missing birdie, nestled comfortably between the two broken strings of my racquet.

At this point, I wasn't feeling a bit healthier - nor had my social circle even improved because no one at the "Y" was speaking to me. I hadn't yet tried the pool - maybe that would be my Camelot.

Taking a hot shower, I rushed through the locker-room door, anticipating a direct plunge into the pool with every show of bravery. But somehow it was the wrong door; I landed on the coat rack. By the time I fought my way from amongst ski pants and jackets, I needed another hot shower to calm my nerves.

Again I dashed toward the pool - again a warning whistle. No sneakers or thermal underwear to be worn in the water. Finally my swim - which didn't last too long, because I was blue all over in less than five seconds. And it's impossible to tread water in an oxygen tent.

All swimmers cooperated and carried me lengthwise into a stall for shower number three. Somehow it didn't seem quite right to keep running up the water bill, so I decided to dress, totter home, and let my arteries harden at will.

But, as I say, at the "Y" there is Something For Everyone - for MY dues I'm getting an individual program of finger exercise at the knobs of the color T.V. in the lobby!

North Quincy Gym Team Faces Braintree Tonight

George Golding's North Quincy gymnastics team lost to Wellesley, the Bay State League powerhouse, 93.35 to 80.75 yesterday to make its record 4-5.

The Raiders finish their regular season tonight (Thursday) at Braintree and the two top boys in each category will compete in the Suburban League championship meet Friday at Brookline.

North qualified two for the state individual championships March 8 at Lowell Tech but one, Bob Boyd, will miss the event due to an injury. Jeff Weisman will represent North.

"We have one other boy who could qualify before the week is over," Golding said.

Senior Citizens Ice Follies Trip Reset For Friday

The Quincy Senior Citizens trip to a matinee performance of the Ice Follies at Boston Garden has been rescheduled for Friday.

City Recreation Director William F. Ryan said the trip was shifted from Wednesday because better seating is available Friday.

Free bus transportation will be provided from the same eight locations, he said.

Tickets obtained for the original Wednesday scheduled performance will be honored Friday. Those who have tickets and cannot make the trip because of the date change are asked to contact the Recreation Department office, 1120 Hancock St., so that the tickets can be made available to others.

North Faces Don Bosco

Quincy Icemen In MUST Test Friday

The Quincy hockey team's chances of making the state tourney again took a dip Monday night when it bowed to undefeated Met League leader Malden, 4-1, at Boston Arena.

Bob Sylvia's Presidents now must defeat Revere Friday night and strong runnerup Columbus Monday night to qualify for the tourney under the 75 per cent minimum figure. They have no chance of catching Columbus in second place. The first two teams automatically qualify.

Quincy's forwards were stymied by Malden's huge defensemen and failed to score until the final minute of play when Wayne Milford converted Chuck Condos' pass. Meanwhile Malden scored twice in the opening period and twice again in the second.

"This makes it all the tougher for us to make the tourney, but I'm confident we can defeat Columbus in our final game," Sylvia said. "Those two 2-2 ties with Everett are really coming back to haunt us." Quincy each time had a 2-0 lead but had to hang on for a tie.

Bob Laing's North Quincy team, following its first win of the year, bowed to Columbus Monday, 3-0, as Chuck Rheault, the league's top goalie, came up with another superlative performance.

North faces Don Bosco Friday and winds up against Malden Monday.

Quincy exploded for a 9-1 win over Don Bosco last Friday night and Sylvia felt a team meeting before the Chelsea game earlier last week helped the Presidents erupt.

"We had a team meeting a week ago," Bob said. "We weren't playing as well as we should have been and I thought a meeting to air a few gripes and loosen up a little bit might be good. And I think it did make all the difference. We were Loose against Chelsea, stayed loose in a scrimmage during the week and were loose again against Don Bosco."

Bobby Lindblom, who had left the team for personal reasons, came back, started his first game at defense and scored the first goal early in the game. He also assisted three times.

"Bobby came back and started at the bottom again but he worked his way back into the starting lineup," Sylvia pointed out. "He has really come along fast and he knows how to check. He is solidly built and is not afraid to check.

Praised for their work against Don Bosco were Milford, who scored twice and had two assists; Condos, who scored twice and assisted twice; Jimmy Cedrone and alterlate goalie Mike Albrecht. Other Quincy goals were scored by Dave Mariano, Chuck Peterson, Bob Ahola and Colin Kearney.

The return of goalie Kevin Colleran, who missed two games, seemed to inspire North Quincy as it topped Revere, 3-1, for its first win.

In his absence, Laing was forced to use two small, inexperienced goalies, Mike Tobin and Jeff Sheehan.

Colleran's future was in doubt but he received his doctor's permission to return and it made all the difference in the world.

"We've been out of only a few games this year and others could have gone either way," Laing said. "I think we've had a game coming like this for a long time."

The Raiders dominated the game and Don Smith scored twice and sophomore Al Struzik had the other goal.

"Our sophomores are coming along well," Laing said. "When they started out they had very little game experience, but they now have the ice time and are more accustomed to the technicalities of the game."

"Tommy O'Malley, one of my more promising sophomores, has fine hockey sense. He is a smart boy anyway and uses his intelligence on the ice. He's a fine athlete and with a little time, he'll be a fine hockey player."

Bob also praised Bobby Frizzell, who he thinks has a lot of potential; Smith and Cliff MacDonald, who excelled on defense.

Earlier last week Quincy dumped Chelsea, 5-1, as Milford played his best game and scored three goals. Condos and Kevin Grogan scored the other goals.

Sylvia's "blue" line of sophs Steve Cleimola and Ken Kearney and junior Phil Rugg, did an excellent job for the Presidents.

North, with little Tobin and Sheehan dividing the goalie chores, lost to Everett, 7-2. "Both boys are gutsy and are not afraid to get in the thick of the action, but they lack experience and have a lot of growing to do," Laing said.

The Raiders' goals were scored by Struzik after just 10 seconds of play and Ken Kline.

Junior College Hoopsters Eye League Playoffs

Bob Basiliere's Quincy Junior College basketball team is rolling along with a 12-4 record and, with an 8-4 Massachusetts Junior College League record and fourth place in the league, he and his players are now striving to make the league's playoffs.

Quincy topped Burdett, 87-78, last week and last night played Massasoit at Quincy in the first of four remaining league games. QJC must win two of them to make the playoffs. Saturday night it faces Bryant and Stratton, entertains Burdett next Monday and still has a postponed game to make up.

"We hope to make the playoffs and keep our streak alive," Basiliere said. "Our club has made the playoffs ever since it began six years ago."

Quincy had a height problem at the start of the season but since the semester break, 6-7 Steve Koen from Braintree returned to the team to help out 6-5 Frank Santoro of North Quincy on the boards.

Santoro, a string rebounder, is averaging 15 points a game and has received a lot of help from Koen since his return from the Army. He attended QJC three years ago, then went into the Army for three years.

"We use him to spell Santoro and sometimes put him in at forward when we want them both in the lineup together," Basiliere said.

The other forwards are 6-1 Don Leonard from Boston Tech, averaging 12 points a game, and 6-2 Paul Beston of Quincy, with a 19-point average.

Dave Marsden, a six-footer from Norwell with a 10-point average; Charlie Edgar from Quincy, averaging 10, and Bob Papile from Quincy, averaging 12, are the guards.

Rounding out the club are Pat Curry from Quincy, Ray Ross of Braintree and Ray McGann from Catholic Memorial High.

In the win over Burdett Beston scored 27 points and Santoro 26. Leonard had 11 and Papile 11, while Koen excelled on the boards.

Quincy had a hot shooting hand, hitting for 70 per cent from the floor and 75 per cent from the foul line.

Driving Good Antidote For Housewife's Nerves

If women drivers seem healthier than women who don't drive, it may or may not be accidental.

An article in an early issue of the magazine, "The Automobilist", suggested driving as "an aid to health for women."

The article, "Women and Motor Cars," which appeared in August, 1922, said:

"The fresh, uncontaminated air of the country fills the deep recesses of the unexpanded lungs, driving out germs that might lead to sickness, while the exercise of driving, shifting gears, and steering hardens the muscles and takes up the mind and stops worry with its attendant troubles.

"The exercise gained from this healthful sport has done more for women afflicted with frayed nerves than could ever be expected with the aid of nerve specialists."

Of course, the article quickly adds, the article was written before power steering, power brakes, automatic transmissions and massive traffic jams became commonplace.

Mini-Skirted Hitchhikers

The Automobile Legal Association has urged motorists to ignore mini-skirted hitchhikers who, according to the ALA, are appearing in increasing numbers on the nation's highways.

"These young girls present quite a temptation to some male drivers, but only a mini-minded motorist would give them a lift," Philip C. Wallwork, ALA safety director, said.

"Although she may be just a foolish girl looking for a ride home, you can't be sure. To find out could cost you your wallet, your car or even your life," Wallwork said.

Hippie Drivers, Try Hairnets

A mandatory hairnet for hippie drivers is suggested by the Automobile Legal Association which said lengthy locks are a highway safety hazard because they obscure vision.

Also, other drivers are disconcerted when they see a car being driven "by a ball of fuzz," Philip C. Wallwork, ALA safety director, pointed out.

"Many hair styles of the younger set obstruct both forward and lateral vision," he said. "A regulation requiring hairnets for the hairy set may prove as sensible as the regulations requiring helmets for motorcyclists."

"Of course," he added, "we realize the problem could also be solved by mandatory haircuts, perhaps even a new hairstyle with peepholes, but that may be too drastic a step."

Safety Advice Good In 1922, Still Helpful

Automobiles have come a long way over the years, but safety advice hasn't changed too much, says the Automobile Legal Association.

As an example, the ALA cites an article which appeared in its official magazine, "The Automobilist", back in July, 1922.

The article, "Some Don'ts for Drivers," advised motorists:

--Don't forget that an automobile has no eyes or brains. You must furnish them. Furnish good ones.

--Don't drive fast around corners in sand or mud, or when it is slippery.

--Don't be a road hog; give the car you meet more than half the road.

--Don't touch alcoholic liquors when driving or about to do so.

--Don't take chances. Remember that broken legs and arms are not easily mended, and friends killed through your ignorance or carelessness can never be resurrected.

"Don't drive with poor brakes or steering apparatus out of order."

Studded Tires Win 45 - State Approval

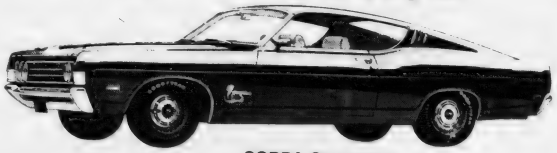
The American Automobile Association reports that 45 states and the District of Columbia now permit winter driving with studded tires - the snow tires with little metal cleats in the tread for increased traction on ice.

Since last winter, Virginia and South Carolina have legalized their use. Now there are only five states - all in the deep south - where stud tires are illegal: Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Texas.

In addition to being permitted throughout most of the United States, studded snow tires are also legal in all ten Canadian Provinces, says the AAA.

Increased acceptance of studded tires in the U.S. has led to another new development - use of studded tires on all four wheels. According to tests conducted by the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, Buffalo, N.Y., and also the National Safety Council, four stud tires increase a vehicle's road holding around curves on glare ice and improve its stopping ability on ice.

Here's a capsule report on how different kinds of tires performed during tests conducted by the Safety Council with vehicles run at 20 mph on glare ice at a temperature of 25 degrees:



Type of Tire	Braking Distance
Regular snow tires	151 feet
Studded snow tires (rear only)	120 feet
Studded snow tires (rear & front)	103 feet
Reinforced tire chains	75 feet

Studded snow tires are specialty tires intended for ice and snow, not for warm weather. So, a number of states and Canadian provinces limit their use to winter months.

Car Needs Good Workout, Too

Even though ground-bound in the Space Age, the automobile is retaining its overwhelming lead as the favorite means of travel between America's cities according to the American Automobile Association. During 1968 the auto accounted for 88 percent of all inter-city passenger miles logged.

One way to pep up your car this winter is to give it a good work-out on the open highway, according to Richard W. Hoover, Safety Director for AAA's Massachusetts Division.

"It's a good idea," Hoover said, "on the first good weekend, to head for the open road and give your car the benefit of a long drive. Excessive speed is not called for-just a reasonable workout to keep the engine in good running condition.

"A brisk run at highway speeds helps to improve battery efficiency, removes carbon from the spark plugs, frees sticky valves and helps eliminate the troublesome condensation which forms in the crankcase on short stop-and-go trips."

Come Back In The Spring

Joggers, Go Home

Joggers should confine their athletic activity to running around their basements and keep off the highways for the rest of the winter, according to one automotive safety official.

"Motorists have enough to contend with on snow covered streets jammed with cars without worrying about hitting members of the muscle fraternity," Phil Wallwork, ALA safety director, said.

"With sidewalk plowing a thing of the past, joggers should be forced off the streets until spring. A toned-up leg muscle is of little use if it's in a cast," Wallwork said.

Drivers 20 To 24 Years Dominant Behind Wheel

Licensed drivers in the United States now total nearly 106 million, according to estimates released by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

The record total of 105,700,000 drivers almost equals the total number of U.S. inhabitants in 1020 when the population was 105,710,000.

The largest group of drivers is between the ages of 20 and 24, which accounts for 12 percent of the nation's total. Drivers in the 25 to 29 age group comprise 10.8 percent of the total, followed by 40 to 44 age group with 10.4 percent and the 35 to 39 age group with 10.3.

The District of Columbia has the highest ratio of licensed drivers to private motor vehicles with 1.44 drivers per vehicle. New York is second with a ratio of 1.33, followed by Massachusetts with 1.27 and Connecticut with 1.24 drivers per motor vehicle.

Auto Notes

It is estimated that by 1975, the Interstate Highway System will handle about one-fourth of the 1,213 billion total motor vehicle travel miles.

Some 200,000 school buses and other vehicles are transporting more than 15.5 million pupils every day.

More than 13 million people in the United States are employed in the manufacture, sale, service and commercial use of motor vehicles.

Federal, state and local governments own 373,201 passenger cars, 165,472 buses, and 795,588 trucks.

1968 Banner Year

The nation's motor vehicle industry produced 10.9 million passenger cars and commercial vehicles during the 1968 calendar year. The total includes 8.9 million cars and nearly 2 million trucks and buses.

The industry has offered 359 models for the 1968 model year and also excluding the many engine and performance options available.

Enthusiastic response of the public to the new models gives promise that 1969 will be a highly successful model year.

During the past year ownership and use of motor vehicles established an all-time high. At the end of 1968, motor vehicles registered in the United States were nearing the 100 million total. Automobile registrations increased by more than 2 million over 1967, pushing the total to 82.8 million. Trucks and buses make up the additional 17.1 million registrations.

The number of U. S. households owning automobiles numbers 46 million, or four of every five. Fifteen million households own more than one.

The number of licensed drivers in the nation reached new high of 105.7 million —an increase of more than 21 million in the past 10 years. Four of five adults are licensed to drive.

Further evidence that the nation is expanding its reliance on cars, trucks, buses and the highway transportation system is reflected by the more than one trillion miles driven by U. S. motorists in 1968. Americans now drive their vehicles an average of 10,000 miles per year, and in 1968 used 81 billion gallons of fuel for highway purposes.

Motor vehicle owners paid 14.2 billion in special state and Federal highway user taxes during the year. One-third of the total was paid by trucks.

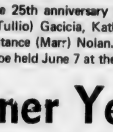
Approximately 16.3 billion was spent on roads and streets in the U. S. in 1968. Receipts for highways hit a record of 17.8 billion, including bond issues.

Over 26,500 miles of the 41,000-mile Interstate Highway System, authorized by the Federal Highway Act of 1956, are open to traffic with an additional 6043 miles presently under construction.

The Interstate system is financed entirely by taxes on motorists. Since 1956, $34 billion of highway user taxes have been spent through the Federal Highway Trust Fund for construction of this vast road network.

The companies that produce the nation's cars, trucks and buses are the center of a huge network consisting of more than 800,000 businesses. These enterprises are involved in the manufacture, sales, service and use of motor vehicles. They employ more than 14 million workers and indirectly account for the employment of millions of others.

Metal manufacturers are large suppliers to the motor vehicle industry. The industry purchases 20 percent of all U. S.-produced steel, 51 percent of the lead and 35 percent of the zinc.



In addition, the motor vehicle industry consumes 62 percent of the synthetic rubber manufactured.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

Washington's birthday always reminds us of the cherry tree story. Whether the legend is fact or fiction is unimportant. The legend symbolizes a principle; to tell the truth - whatever the consequences.

Ironically, the cherry tree incident has a peculiar twist. The incident was authored by a commercially minded minister and book peddler named Mason Weems. When he wrote Washington's biography, "The Life and Memorable Actions of George Washington" (now in its 80th plus edition!), Weems penned it neither for patriotism or posterity. People were the same in his day as they are today. Weems knew when he wrote the book that he could make money from it because of Washington's popularity.

His money making motive is as unimportant as the fact or fiction of the legend itself. When he described the incident, he recorded a principle that helped our heritage. The heritage helps and encourages us to tell the truth - come what may . . .

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox

"He's always judging me . . . I feel him looking over my shoulder all the time . . when he comes home I feel I'm being inspected . . . I just can't take it any longer." She was attractive . . . neat . . spoke directly and sincerely . . . and her eyes filled with tears as she spoke. "How long has it been this way?" I asked. "Well, it's hard to say exactly . . . but it seems ever since we've been married . . . and that's 12 years now . . . but these last six years have just been unbearable . . . he's getting worse . . . I can't please him no matter what I do."

Not an unusual account of husband/wife judgment. Men feel it as well as wives . . . smelling his breath . . . going through his pockets . . questions . . . . where have you been? . . . who did you see? . . why are you late? (There's a long list of such questions) Or . . . what is even worse: the silent treatment. I know some couples who have been married for several years and they are still not comfortable with each other . . . walk on eggs . . . fearful of the other's judgment . . . feeling it by the words which are spoken . . . or by the silence which screams out, "I'm judging you and finding you falling short!" I don't see how they endure . . . they have only occasional hours when they seem to be free of each other's judgment . . . so that they can enjoy the other.

One reason why we feel each other's judgment is personal insecurity. What one takes as judgment may be simply great interest. A lot of men are genuinely interested in "What the doctor said today" . . . and why shouldn't you tell him openly and freely . . . Why not? A lot of women are genuinely interested in who you saw at the Club or how the appointment went that worried you last night. Why shouldn't you talk freely about it? Queries may not be judgment at all . . . may be his partner's way of showing loving concern. Maybe you are just so unsure of yourself . . so fearful of displeasing that you take his/her words as judgment when this is not intended at all. You may not know each other very well. A woman who never had a father who asked such questions showing his loving concern is likely to resent them from her husband. A boy whose mother was too busy to show concern may not understand his wife who is concerned. Once again . . . we see how strongly our childhood affects our adulthood. So . . . instead of looking at yourself . . . seeing your own insecurity caused by your background . . . you accuse him/her of "judging you" . . . when all he/she is doing is being sincerely interested. If the partner didn't . . . then you would have a gripe.

On the other hand, there are people who are just as critical as an Army top sergeant. I knew one fellow who, when his wife dusted, showed great displeasure when every article was not replaced in the exact spot where it was on the bureau . . . when the refrigerator was not cleaned daily, he would clean it making her feel guilty. His unreasonable judgment drove her to the divorce court. Why did he do it? His rigid childhood upbringing. As a boy he had to please not only parents but grandparents.

probably delay construction by about a month. The building, he said, may not be ready for occupancy until August instead of the original July target date.

"The Registry's rental fee-originally figured at $3.50 per square foot--will have to be increased to more than $5 per square foot if the city is to construct the building and rent it at no cost to the taxpayers," McIntyre said.

The Mayor said he has informed Registrar McLaughlin of the need for the rent increase and that the latter "has agreed in principle."

Under the plan, the construction cost will be financed by a 10-year bond issue which will be paid for by rent from the Registry.

After the first 10 years, the building would become a money-maker for the city.

McIntyre said the meeting will be set up as soon as possible to "work out the problems" arising from the increased construction cost.

Among those attending the meeting will be Deputy Registrar Theodore Gamaris, Roland St. Germaine, Registry architect; City Public Works Commr. John M. Browne, City Auditor Alexander Smith, Joseph A. Donahue, Quincy architect who designed the building, and representatives of the Reznick firm.

Second low bidder for the job was F.X. Messina Construction Corp., Braintree, with $206,900.

Third low was Aliberti Brothers, Inc., Wakefield, $211,330.

The other bidders were:

Rich Construction Co., Inc., Boston, $212,000; W.T. Rich Co., Inc., Newton, $217,000; L.J. Reardon Co., Inc., Norwood, $222,500; Dunphy & Craig Inc., Quincy, $235,770.

"GALLOPING GUS" . . .

Gus is one of our top welders but you find his type in every trade at Quincy. Guys who swagger a bit because they know they're doing the really tough work in their field. And getting top dollar for it. Other rewards, too . . . like company-paid pensions, vacations, holidays and company help with extra schooling to sharpen their skill.

They feel more secure, too. Our backlog of contracts sees to that. Even this long list has been added to (we were just awarded a $97.8 million contract to build three unique sea barge carriers for Lykes). And they can take pride in the modernization of the Yard that's going on.

How about you? Does your job compare? If you're not sure, come in and talk with us.

Senior Citizen ID's Rolling

A senior citizens milestone was passed by a Wollaston couple as they became recipients of Senior Citizen identification cards 1000 and 1001.

The cards were issued by the Quincy Council on Aging to Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Schroeder, 11 Brae Rd. The Schroeders, as other cardholders, are entitled to specified discounts for entertainment, sports events and other activities. Discount lists are presented to senior citizens with their identification cards.

Available only to Quincy residents, the id's, previously issued by the Quincy Recreation Department, were transferred to the Quincy Council on Aging office in September.

They may be obtained either by telephone or by applying in person at the Council Aging Office, John F. Kennedy Health Center.

Mr. Schroeder retired in February from General Dynamics after a 39-year career where he served as a nuclear engineer. Residents of Quincy since 1930, the couple are the parents of two children.

Representing the program in Quincy is Rose Briand, 26 Chickatabot Rd.

Jose Greco and his Spanish Dance Company will be performing in Symphony Hall on Friday, March 28 at 8:30 p.m., for the benefit of the project. This will be Mr. Greco's only Boston appearance this season. His program will be divided into two parts. The first part reflects the era of "old Spain" with the authentic dances, costumes, and characters in both the classic and folkloric mood of the 16th to the 18th century. The second part presents an atmosphere of both past and present, totally Andalusian in character from where most of the dances, variations, and scenes have been inspired. In this second part many of the popular traditional "Flemenco" dances will be seen

Storm Cost Over $130,000

Quincy Still Digging Out--More Snow Due

DEEP PROBLEM faced by this motorist was typical of the storm-caused woes that reduced most automobiles to helpless hulks. Stalled and abandoned cars were the main stumbling blocks for snowfighters in their week-long battle against the relentless February storm.

A one-two February snowstorm punch hit storm-weary homeowners with a second haymaker and the city with a total bill expected to exceed $130,000.

The Feb. 8-9 and 24-25 twin tempests deposited more than three feet of snow and caused widespread congestion and chaos. While not equaling the first northeaster in utility damage and inconvenience, the follow-up blow produced heavier snows and proved a deeper crypt for roads and highways.

And while Quincy was still trying to dig out by mid-week, the weatherman was predicting--you guessed it--more snow.

At least two to four more inches were expected by Thursday. And possibly some more of the same Friday.

There appeared to be enough on the ground to last for a "white" Easter.

The city rushed in heavy hired equipment to battle Monday's storm. By Wednesday main streets and most secondary streets were open with an around-the-clock effort but there were still "some pockets" being tackled by weary public works department crews.

These included dead-end streets and others where equipment could not make a turn out or back.

Illegally parked cars, downed wires and limbs considerably hindered the snow clearing operation.

In assessing the dollar cost to the taxpayer, Mayor James R. McIntyre estimated that the latest storm would cost "more" than the $65,000 figure attributed to the earlier snowfall.

In terms of abandoned cars, the second storm also proved a bigger headache to police and city stormfighters with more than 200 vehicles clogging the streets and impeding ploughing operations. The stalled and ill-parked cars were towed away in a Monday and Tuesday cleanup operation by police and tow trucks--at the owner's expense.

Violations of emergency parking regulations which prohibits on-street parking during snow clearance, proved a major handicap to the immense job of clearing countless secondary roads. City work crews manning all available sno-fighting equipment battled the storm on a round-the-clock schedule and succeeded in early clearance of primary roads. But drifts that buried side streets and intersections under two-foot blankets kept more than 200 workmen in constant battle against the heavy snow.

Finance Committee Begins Budget Pruning Saturday

The City Council's Finance Committee will begin its pruning of Mayor James R. McIntyre's proposed 1969 $35.55 million municipal budget Saturday.

The first session, originally scheduled for last Monday night, was called off because of the storm.

Chairman John J. Quinn, who predicts the council will cut the budget "by several hundred thousand dollars", said Saturday's meeting will start at 10 a.m. in the council chamber.

Quinn termed the budget submitted by McIntyre as "tight". The Mayor trimmed department requests by $2.6 million before presenting it to the council for possible further pruning.

On Saturday's agenda are some of the smaller department budget requests including those from City Clerk John M. Gillis, Auditor Alexander Smith, Treasurer David R. Houston, Solicitor Harry Pavan, Assessors

Room Rates Up $6

Quincy Hospital In 'Black' By $169,000 For Second Year

Room rates will be increased $6 a day at Quincy City Hospital effective Monday--despite the fact the hospital showed a profit for the second time last year.

Director Harlan L. Paine, Jr. said the room rate hikes are necessitated by a $1 million department budget increase for 1969--about half of it for wage increases.

The new rates, Paine said, will be:

Ward, $53; semi-private, $51 to $56 and private, $57 to $59.

New fees for operating room and delivery room will be $75. They were $60.

All rates will be effective Monday with the exception of maternity cases, Paine said. Maternity rate increases will go into effect April 1.

Paine said the new rates will be competitive with Boston and other local hospitals.

Last year, the hospital showed a profit of $169,000 for the second time in its 78-year history. In 1967 it operated at a profit of $26,910.

In 1966, the hospital was in the red by $269,000 and down through the years the deficit has run considerably higher.

Homeowners Warned On Fake Salesmen

A warning against fraudulent door-to-door salesmen and census-takers, has been sounded by Norfolk County District Attorney George G. Burke. Burke said that sales and census masquerades have been used as a means of invading and robbing homes.

Home robberies have risen alarmingly, Burke warned, and cited a wave of thefts in Quincy, Braintree, Norwood, Brookline, Sharon, Canton and Milton, totalling $10,000 hauls in cash and jewels.

"Such invasions," the District Attorney stated, "are of an extremely serious criminal nature since they include both violence and the invasion of the privacy and security of a family household, and they are being dealt with accordingly."

John F. Regan, Detective Lieutenant of the Massachusetts State Police (who recently solved the Cammarata murder case) is heading up an investigation into these cases.

Lieutenant Regan stated "the major concentration of these crimes has been perpetrated upon the elderly citizens of Norfolk County, expecially people in their sixties and seventies. In many of these cases the method of operation is white males entering dwelling homes, and after threatening the residents with a gun, they tie them up and steal their valuables. They sometimes use a ruse such as posing as a censors worker, or in the case of the armed invasion in Norwood, two men posed as Santa Claus. Also, after they tie their victim up, they rip the telephone out of the wall.

Some of the invasions consist of from two to four men, and generally the first man who rings the bell doesn't wear a mask. As soon as the owner opens the door, he is pushed aside and is then followed into the apartment by the men wearing ski masks, or a ladies stocking over their heads. They generally tie their victims up with a rope, and put adhesive tape over their victims mouth.

As a direct result of one of these invasions an elderly woman in Quincy was a homocide victim."

District Attorney Burke stated, "I am recommending that such violent actions that disturb the tranquility of a man's home receive very severe punishment."

At present the penalty for such invasions is any term of years in the state prison, or punishable by imprisonment for life.

Marguerite Fitch Speaker At QSSA Meeting Monday

The Quincy Schools Secretaries Association will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Vocational-Technical library-conference room.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Marguerite Fitch of Newton, President of the National Association of School Secretaries. She will discuss the many challenges facing school secretaries at the local, state and national levels.

Mrs. Fitch will be introduced by Mrs. Hope Cole, president of the Quincy Schools Secretaries Association.

Frank E. Bridgman, a long-time well known and popular figure in Quincy and on Beacon Hill, is on the threshold of life's exclusive " Century Club".

A former resident of Buckingham Rd., Wollaston and for 45 years clerk of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, he will mark his 100th birthday March 28 at Wesley Manor, Jacksonville, Fla. where he now lives.

He still keeps in touch with old friends like Arthur I. Burgess of Quincy who served in the House while Bridgman was clerk.

In a letter to Burgess the other day, he noted that "a score of friends from the north are coming to help me cross the century line."

He reported his health in general is good though his vision is failing.

But he hasn't lost his sense of humor. He wrote the letter on yellow paper and signed it: "Old Hundred--Yellow With Age."

"He was one of the best parliamentarian the House has ever had," says Burgess.

That opinion is shared by former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin and Norfolk County Sheriff Charles W. Hedges who also served as state representatives during Bridgman's tenure. Bridgman retired during World War II.

Mayor James R. McIntyre, who was just a youngster back then, is sending Bridgman a congratulatory letter and a handsome certificate making him an Honorary Citizen of Quincy.

And to which we sincerely add our congratulations and a complimentary subscription to The Quincy Sun so that he can keep in touch with what's going on back in his home town of Quincy.

P.S, The subscription will run until at least his 150th birthday.

Organized By Students

Munroe MacLean Memorial Fund Established

A $5,000 Munroe MacLean Memorial Scholarship Fund has been initiated by Quincy High School students in tribute to the school's late athletic director, coach and sportsman.

The fund opened officially on Feb. 21 with the first scholarship contribution by Mrs. MacLean, the widow of the popular figure who coached and directed high school sports for a quarter of a century.

The memorial fund was set in motion by those most closely associated with MacLean during his long athletic career–the students. The organizing committee comprised 10 high school students associated with the Key Club–a student service organization. Organizing committee chairman is high school senior Thomas Hoar. High school faculty advisor working with Key Club members serving as an ad hoc committee is Richard Hutchinson.

Coordinating the fund drive with the Quincy students and faculty will be North Quincy coach Carl Leone and Quincy High School coach Martin Finnegan. North Quincy students will also participate in organization of the fund structure, it was announced.

The scholarship will be awarded to a deserving high school student selected for achievement and character as exemplified during a career of outstanding service by the late Munroe MacLean.

A trophy to be awarded to the scholarship winner will be on display in the window of the main branch of the Quincy Savings Bank on Hancock St. Contributions to the fund may be made to the bank where a special scholarship account has been established.

The Scholarship campaign will also embrace the goal of naming the new high school gymnasium in MacLean's memory. A student effort in conjunction with the city-wide scholarship drive will recruit signature petitions urging the dedication for presentation to the Quincy City Council and the School Committee.

Donors of five dollars or more will receive an engraved winged eagle statuette as sponsors or the Munroe MacLean Scholarship Fund. An effort will also be made to designate the forthcoming Tech Tourney as a special tribute to Quincy's beloved sports personality.

Scholarship requirements and qualifications will be established by Mrs. MacLean. Among those serving on the scholarship selection committee will be the student leaders, including Key Club president Robin Olsen, faculty advisor Hutchinson, and two additional faculty and student advisors from North Quincy High School.

Citizens Association To Hold Forum On Tax Money Spending Wednesday

City and state officials will participate March 5 in an open forum on tax money spending and other matters affecting Quincy homeowners and voters.

The discussion will be held at the monthly meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association's Board of Directors, 8 p.m., at the Montclair Men's Club, Holbrook Rd., North Quincy.

Association President Laurence J. Curtin said invitations have been sent to Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre, City Council President J. Vincent Smyth, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, and state Reps. Joseph E. Brett, Walter J. Hannon and Clifford H. Marshall.

The general public, particularly homeowners, other taxpayers and voters of the city, are also invited to attend and participate in the discussion, Curtin said.

"Taxpayers are greatly concerned with the increased burden of taxes–both state and city–and this discussion with officials should be of help to those who are interested in how their city and state tax monies are being and will be spent on various proposals," Curtin delcared.

Similar discussions and public forums have been held by the association on other city and state topics with capacity audiences in attendance, he noted.

Other officers of the association are Joseph N. Gildea, vice-president; Miss Dorothy C. Kelly, secretary and William S. Grindlay, treasurer.

The executive board is comprised of one representative from each of the city's 39 precincts plus the association's officers.

The association, with a membership of several hundred, is still seeking new members. Persons interested in joining are asked to contact Mr. Curtin at 472-3897, Miss Kelly at 47204257 or precinct representatives.

Tow Truck Double Trouble For Some

For some unlucky motorists during the storm the tow truck struck twice.

Police reported that of more than 200 cars--at last count--towed, many were doubleheaders. On-street cars, parked and blocking snow removal, were hauled off in record numbers.

One veteran officer called the storm problems "the worst in my memory."

An edict prohibiting on-street parking during the storm was strictly enforced. Cars illegallly parked, even in front of the owner's home, were subject to the tow truck. Police reported that not enough tow trucks were available to haul away offending cars.

Telephone lines at the police station jangled constantly with storm calls. Three extra phones were hooked up to take care of the incoming calls from harassed homeowners and storm victims.

An action-packed novel of a man's love for Democracy.

By a Quincy educator

ELLIS J. SWARTZ

Boston born and bred, Ellis J. Swartz earned an A.B. from Williams and an M.A. from Harvard. In his twenties he was a vigorous champion in the cause of Zionism.

Now he has written a forceful novel. It deals with many controversial, political, social, educational and cultural issues as it unfolds the challenging story of a man struggling to make his contribution to a world that threatens to overwhelm him with its pressures and obstacles.

Gilbert Crofts To Be Honored March 30

Gilbert L. Crofts, executive secretary of the Quincy YMCA who is retiring April 1 after more than four decades of service, will be honored March 30 at a farewell reception.

The reception will be held in the YMCA auditorium from 3 to 5 p.m. Dr. V. James DiNardo, president of the Board of Directors announced.

YMCA members and the general public are invited to attend.

William A. O'Connell, executive vice-president of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce and a member of the YMCA board of directors is committee chairman. The committee includes:

Thomas S. Burgin, Mrs. Henry B. Cutler, Louis S. Cassini, Floyd J. Folmsbee, William L. Lipp, Walter G. Morrison, Ralph W. Moorhead, Mrs. Alf Swensen, Dr. Emma S. Touant, Paul E. Hurley, Harold H. Slate, Dr. Dinardo, and George C. Fernald.

Quincy Youth Council Will Be Seated Monday Night

Quincy's new Youth Council created to give teen-agers a voice in government, will be formally sworn in and seated next Monday night.

The 10 members will take their oath from City Clerk John M. Gillis at the 7:30 p.m. City Council meeting following a 6 p.m. dinner in their honor at the Vocational-Technical High School cafeteria.

"This will open a direct line of communication with our young people and help us to help them solve their problems and to acquaint them with functions of our city government," said City Council President J. Vincent Smyth who proposed the youth council.

The 10, elected by fellow students from a field of 72 candidates who filed nomination papers are:

North Quincy High School, grades 10, 11, 12: Clifford MacDonald and Michael Reppucci.

North Quincy High, 9th grade (also representing Atlantic Junior): Charles Santoro.

Quincy High School (also representing the Vocational-Technical School): David D'Olimpio and Eric Johnson.

Broad Meadows Junior: Michael Conine.

Central Junior: Frederick Gilbert.

Point Junior: Peter Doucette.

Sterling Junior: Peter Gacicia.

Woodward School For Girls: Marion McEachern.

The 10 will ballot among themselves to select an "Honorary Mayor" to head up the youth council.

Earlier this week, the 10 met with Smyth and Councilor Arthur H. Tobin, chairman of the City Council's Youth Committee.

Smyth said the 10 will be seated within the City Council floor railing "so that they will feel a part of us."

Invited to the dinner and the swearing in ceremonies will be Mayor James R. McIntyre, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, parents of the 10 winning candidates, the other 62 candidates who filed nomination papers, school principals and teachers who helped organize the election and supported the Youth Council proposal.

"We want to work hand-in-hand with these youngsters so that here in Quincy at least, there won't be a generation communications gap," said Smyth.

"We think we can help the youngsters and they can help us solve problems of mutual interest."

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER YOU BUY A NEW CAR?

That's a question that every car buyer should ask himself. It's a question that President Chevrolet is uniquely qualified to answer.

Let's face it. Sometime after you buy a 1969 car it's going to need service or minor repairs. (Even $15,000 Rolls Royces do.) At President Chevrolet we have a 70-hour-a-week service department staffed by over 40 expert mechanics. You never have to be concerned about annoying service delays. And you never have to worry about getting replacement parts: President has one of New England's largest Chevrolet parts inventories. Our total stock includes over 120,000 different components! President Chevrolet has the men, the equipment, and the experience to solidly back every new car sale. What happens after you buy your 1969 Chevrolet from President? You can relax . . . confident that your car will be cared for by a dealer who doesn't lose interest in you . . . . ever. That's why President Chevrolet means "Chevrolet" and much, much more.

Islamic Center Rich In Heritage

The New England Islamic Center, once a dream is now a reality and serving its members very well. The Center was difficult to come by and a long time in the waiting.

No one realizes this more than the members themselves. They will be celebrating their fifth anniversary this year. Without a place of worship for many years, most of their fathers had immigrated to America in the early 1900s. There has been no Islamic Center for as long as they have been here-no place for them to worship. This fact, however, makes them all the more appreciative of their Mosque and the ability to finally profess their faith in a holy place.

The Center doubles as a Mosque (place of worship) and a social meeting place for the members and is located at 470 South St. in Quincy Point. Many of the members are originally from the Point area.

Sam Hassan, president of the Center, reports that it was a struggle to raise the money for the Mosque. "Having a place of worship is something that my family and friends have talked about for years," explains Sam. "Before it was built we would go to each others houses in order to pray together."

"We realized," he adds, "that we needed a place of our own not only to worship but also to teach the religion and the heritage of Islam to our children. So finally in January of 1962, there were enough of us to form a group of sufficient size to begin raising the money."

The New England Islamic Center was dedicated on October 8, 1964. It is the only place of Islamic worship in New England. Therefore many members must travel for miles in order to reach the Mosque. They come from as far away as Springfield and Providence, Rhode Island.

It should also be noted that there are members of the Center from other countries. They are for the most part exchange students and teachers or people who have recently immigrated to the Boston area. They include Pakistanis, Tanzanians, Moroccans and Albanians.

Hassan points out that the New England Islamic Center is prospering and growing each year. He also notes that the Center helps to make Quincy Point very unique, "where else in the country can you find a Catholic Church, a Jewish Temple, Protestant Church and an Islamic Mosque in such a small area with the people getting along so well."

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

The Coming Of The Clinic

The average citizen is confused, bewildered and awhirl, being hit on all sides with news headlines such as - B.U. and Tufts Medical Schools face eventual closure because of lack of funds unless help is obtained from the Government.

The new State Medical School originally intended to cost $50,000,000, now will cost $125,000,000 with a daily loss of $37,000 because of delay in construction. Not withstanding the confounding, ever-increasing costs for Medical care, shortage of hospital beds and doctors. The horizon unfortunately offers no solution or even enlightment.

Quincy has only had one general practictioner in ten years and he has chosen to stay in Squantum. Pediatricians may aptly be called G.P.'s of children with a limitation of the range of service the others could give. We have had several excellent internists (concerned with medical not surgical conditions of adults) arrive in ten years but again this specialization requires alignment with other specialists for total care. It is not difficult to predict that clinics will replace individual doctors. A clinic with multiple disciplines within one building will offer better coverage and service than the individual. Our neighbors the Lahey Clinic, Pratt Diagnostic, Massachusetts General, Childrens' Hospital, Floating Hospital, B.U. Medical Center, etc. offer such conveniences. Quincy will have such a clinic within five years.

Why will the individual practicioner go? Many factors seem to contribute to this impending change. Among these are the demands due to increasing knowledge, long training periods in specialities and stringent Board requirements for certification. The desire for more leisure time with his family, spiraling costs are not the least important is the mania of Americans for law-suits and the constant harassment by the Internal Revenue of M.D.'s.

There is less and less inducement for altruism and self-denial with the Damocles Sword of being sued or the constant problem of working for the Government six months of the year to meet taxes. Our legal profession is and should be under fire for the tremendous awards for mal-practice reaching astronomical figures. Doctors are being required to carry ever more burdensome insurance out of proportion to the worth of Practice.

In the meantime, dispelling such gloom, what can or ought we to do to improve our services in Pediatrics. Something constructive and interesting has arisen!

The Massachusetts General Hospital has established a program to train nurses as assistants to the Pediatrician. Drs. John Connelly and Alfred Yankaver utilizing the offices of several active pediatricians, The Charlestown Clinic and the Massachusetts General Hospital, have trained and certified many nurses after several months of intense exposure.

The nurses make rounds with doctor, examine newborn infants, report progress to the mother and discuss nursery details and subsequently confer about care. They reassure, instruct as well as allay apprehensions. In the office they take histories, assist in office procedures. Eventually house visits to reassure and assist mothers as well as to appraise severity of illness, will be part of the program. In our office we now have two such certified nurses.

I feel that this is not only a constructive program but adds much needed warmth, innovation and the recognition of the nursing profession. Whay could a lonely doctor do without a good nurse? If the Russians can do it successfully, why can't we?

Digging Out....

At least 10 tow companies were called in to assist police in removing cars abandoned by motorists as temporary victims of the storm.

Utilities were spared a repetition of the crippling devestation which snarled power and telephone facilities two weeks ago. A Mass. Electric Co. spokesman described power outages in Quincy as "negligible" in comparison to the first storm with its gale-swept winds.

Homes in Squantum and Houghs Neck lost power early in this week's storm. But service was restored before nightfall Monday. Some telephone lines were downed--less than fell in the first storm--but the loss was not considered a major setback by telephone company officials. Only 150 users lost service, said a company spokesman describing the reverses. The losses had only a marginal effect on the system which numbers 85,000 services in Quincy.

At least one Quincy death was attributed to the storm. Pronounced dead on arrival at Quincy City Hospital after he collapsed at home after operating a snowblower was Richard Echo, 55, of 45 Ames St.

Among the heavy equipment items marshalled by the city to battle the towering drifts, was a fleet of bulldozers. Both police and public works officials concurred in evaluating the second storm as more difficult to conquer because of the heavier snowfall.

The no-school barometer also gave the edge to the second northeaster. Quincy students--recipients of a one-day holiday from the first storm--had the complete week off because of snow-choked roads and a storm that refused to quit.

Budget....

Chairman William J. Callahan.

Last year's budget, passed by the City Council, was $32.4 million.

Mayor McIntyre has warned of an ominous possible $20 tax rate impact this year. He cited an autonomous $1.9 million hike in the school budget, approximately $409,000 in city employee pay raises passed over his veto and anticipated loss in state aid as the major reasons for the bleak financial outlook.

Quincy H.S. Girls Make Hoop History

The one deep void in the Quincy and North Quincy high school athletic programs, the absence of girls' activities, is gradually being filled and this year Quincy High had its first girls' basketball team in history.

The team, coached by Mary Lou Thimas, finished the season with a 3-2 record, defeating Rosary Academy of Watertown, Sacred Heart High of Kingston and Notre Dame Academy of Hingham. The losses were to Plymouth-Carver and Abington, schools which have had girls' sports for years and are powers in the Old Colony League.

"There never has been an interscholastic schedule for the girls and the intramural program has been very limited," said Miss Thimas, a first-year teacher and coach who last year graduated from Bridgewater State College. A former Plymouth-Carver High star athlete, she competed in intramural sports at Bridgewater.

"Next year we hope to have a longer schedule and enter a league," she continued. "Also, I plan to have an extensive intramural program after school.

"Most of the girls had only junior high experience but they did a fine job and improved steadily. Many of them are underclassmen, so we should do well next year."

Last week the Quincy girls scrimmaged the powerful Hanover girls, who were keeping in shape for this week's Southeastern Mass. Girls' tourney. They couldn't have worked out against a stronger team. The Hanover lasses just completed their seventh successive undefeated South Shore League season, have won 76 straight league games and 87 of their last 89 regular season games. They have won the tourney Class A title three of the last four years.

The young Quincy coach had a fine turnout and during the season worked with 25 girls, some of whom didn't join the team until late in the season.

Among the players were Sue Lemieux, Gail Furtado, Karen Donovan, Janet Little, Maureen Kenney, Mary Kimmett, Jane LaFavre, Regina Pestilli, Elaine Murphy, Sandra Sacchetti, Priscilla Lee, Fern Moberg, Gail Parella, Lyn Woish, Marsha Vinal, Mary Beth Ross, Barbara McCarthy, Betsy Harold, Mary Sandade, Joan Waters, Lupe Silva, Rose Gentile, Michelle Bin and Kathleen Callahan. Managers were Nancy Whitcomb and Christine Logren.

"Sue Lemieux and Regina Pestilli were our best scorers, while Gail Furtado, Maureen Kenney, a sophomore with good height, Jane LaFavre, Karen Donovan and Janet Little were outstanding guards," Miss Thimas said.

Now that the ice has been broken as far as girls' interscholastic sports are concerned, it is hoped that the program will expand to include other sports and that North Quincy will follow Quincy in getting a girls' program started.

Raiders Happy To Yield Role As Tech Favorites

North Quincy's basketball team is in the Tech Tourney for the third time in Bob Nolan's four years as coach but at this writing it wasn't known if it enters the post-season frenzy as Greater Boston League champion or co-champion.

The Raiders' final game with Revere was postponed Tuesday by the snowstorm and it hadn't been decided at this writing when it would be played. It was expected to be played instead of cancelling it, because Somerville still had an outside chance of tying North for the title.

Also postponed was Quincy's finale with Weymouth and, as it meant nothing, it was possible it would be cancelled.

North had missed a chance to clinch the crown last Friday when it was upset by Malden, 76-64, at Malden. It was the only league loss for the Raiders.

Marty Finnegan's team dropped to a 2-15 record when it was bombed by Somerville last Friday, 84-61.

The Tech Tourney opens on Monday at Boston Garden with North among Class A favorites, although Catholic Memorial is a decided favorite to win it all.

North had a bad second half last week which enabled Malden to come from behind and win to keep its Tech hopes alive. The Raiders, after falling behind, 20-16, rallied to take a 39-36 halftime lead.

However, the Golden Tornado came back strong after the intermission to outscore North, 18-12, and had a 22-13 bulge in the final period.

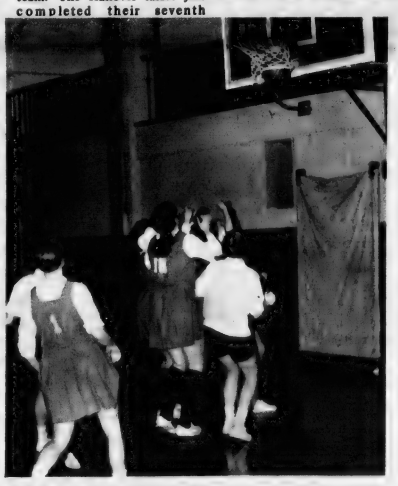
"They dominated the boards in the second half and also had better shots than we did," Nolan said. "They played a fine second half and deserved the win."

Bobby Sleeth led North with 16 points, followed by Don Constantine with 14 and Mark Jellison with 13.

Quincy held Somerville even on the boards in the first half and, as a result, trailed by only 36-35 at the half. However, 6-5 John Olson dominated the boards in the second half and the Highlanders pulled away as they outscored the Presidents, 48-26. Quincy's big man, 6-5 George Davey was sidelined with a bad ankle injury suffered against Chelsea, which hurt Quincy's cause considerably.

Tony Sandonato led Quincy with 18 points, Bobby Pettinelli had 14 and Jim Furfari 13.

Nolan feels this year's North team compares favorably with the past two teams he took to the Tech Tourney.



One thing is in the Raiders' favor, they won't be the tourney favorites as they were three years ago. Nolan's first North team was the top seeded team in the tourney but was rudely upset by under-rated Cardinal Spellman in the first round. Last year the Raiders barely made the event by winning their last five games and had to face the Tech champion, Boston English, in the opening round. They gave English its only close game in the tourney.

"This team has fine balance, the real key to our success," Nolan said. "Every one of the starters can score and most of them have been in double figures in every game, giving us good scoring balance.

"Although we were at a definite height disadvantage in many games, the boys did a good job off the boards and gave every opponent a real battle for rebounds. Also, our defense was excellent most of the season."

Leading the Raiders into the Tech will be Jellison, Constantine, Sleeth, Rich Sprague and Tom Flynn, the usual starters, all of whom scored well during the season.

Others playing key roles in the team's success were Dan Zink, a rangy sophomore whose brother paced the team three years ago; Joe Lane, Bruce Healey, Ralph Jackson, John Holleran and Steve Brustin.

SWISH–Susan Lemieux (white blouse) scores with a pretty shot as Quincy High Girls basketball team defeats Sacred Heart of Kingston, 43-23 in recent action. In on the plays are Judi Mucci (1), Kathy Joyce (18) and Pat McHugh of Sacred Heart and Quincy's Karen Donovan and Maureen Kenney.

80 To Participate In Quincy YMCA Gym Exhibition Friday, Saturday

More than 80 boys and girls, young men and women between the ages of eight and 21 will participate in the annual Quincy YMCA gymnastics exhibition Friday and Saturday nights at 7:30.

Boys and girls from grade school, junior high, high school and college, all members of the Y, will take part in the exhibition entitled "Quest for One's Self."

"We have a gym team here at the Y but many of the boys and girls leave after a while to go to college or into the business world," said Philip Kelliher of the Y, one of the supervisors of the exhibition. "But they continue their interest in gymnastics and attend a Friday night class from which those in the exhibition are selected."

There will be many events in the various classifications, rings, horses, mats, parallel bars, etc.

Admission is $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for students with proceeds to be used for gym equipment for the Y.

Coaches for the participants include Evelyn Murphy, Earl Johnson, MIT Coach Jim Hutt and Quincy High ach Martin Butler.

Meet Eddie Lehan

He's 118-Pounds Of Dynamite

BY PETER CHELLA

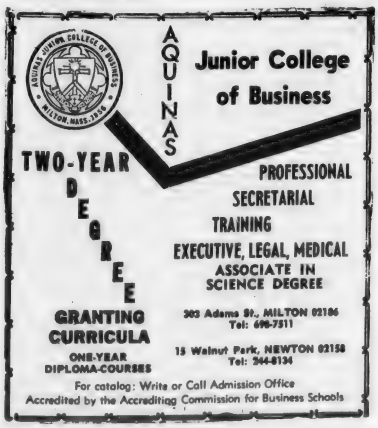
Quincy's Eddie Lehan looks about as much like a boxer as Twiggy looks like Sophia Loren.

Appearances are deceiving though as Eddie proved last Tuesday night at the Lowell Armory. He won a unanimous decision from John Maine in the 118 Pound Division, to win the Greater Lowell Golden Gloves Championship.

Lehan annexed The Lowell Title, by teaching "John Maine a lesson in the fine art of pugilistic techniques."

Tall, lean and a gifted stalker, Lehan merely left jabbed Maine into submission for three rounds, not allowing him to generate any kind of an attack.

Whenever Maine got dangerously close Lehan flicked his long left jab into his opponent's jaw for telling points in the ultimate decision.



At the end, Maine was a wild swimging, frustrated boxer. Similar action will make Lehan tough to beat in the New England's.

Eddie who is 21 years old and lives at 71 Dysart St. has been boxing for six years. He has a 17-1 won and lost record which includes nine knockouts.

For a boxer Eddie has an unlikely job. He is an input supervisor for I.C.S.C., an investment corporation.

There was a sad note to Eddie's victory. He injured his shoulder during the contest and will not be able to compete in the New England version of the Golden Gloves. He was ordered by physicians to rest the shoulder for three weeks.

Eddie said that he will continue to box on the amateur level when his injury heals.

Traffic Supervisor At Shea Ice Rink Sought By Brett

Rep. Joseph E. Brett suggests that a woman traffic supervisor be assigned to heavily traveled Willard St. to safely cross youngsters going to and from the MDC Shea Skating Rink in West Quincy.

Brett made the suggestion in a letter to Mayor James R. McIntyre as an immediate temporary solution to the traffic problem until a permanent one can be worked out.

"Until a better and more permanent solution comes along, the easiest and quickest way for the problem to be solved is for the city to authorize the assignment of a lady traffic supervisor to regulate traffic at that point on Willard St. during the hours the rink is open for public skating," Brett said.

"It would provide immediate attention and an answer to the problem which has harassed the residents of that area for so long. I am sure there must be some very competent and dedicated mothers in the St. Moritz area who would be happy to assume the duties of a traffic supervisor at that location."

"Following this immediate solution to the problem, we could still be searching for a better answer but, in the meantime, the children would have safer passage to cross the street.

Brett noted that he, McIntyre and others have urged the MDC and State Department of Public Works to provide push-button traffic signals or some other alternative to insure safety for the children.

"Our efforts thus far have been to little or no avail as you well know," he said.

He cited one of the main reasons as "the complexity of jurisdiction over the area between the city, state and MDC."

He said even if the traffic lights were eventually approved, "they wouldn't be installed in time for the current season and very unlikely for the next season either."

Star Of Sea CYO Cites Hoop Stars At Sunday Event

The CYO of the Star of the Sea Church will hold their annual basketball awards dinner on Sunday at 6 p.m. in the downstairs hall of that church.

Tom "Satch" Sanders will be the guest speaker and he will address an estimated 200 persons. Present at the dinner will be Fr. Robert Knapp, assistant CYO Deanery Director and Curate of The Star of the Sea Church. Also seated at the head table will be Fr. Edward Sullivan, Mr. Donald Pound athletic director and coach of the intermediate class of basketball teams ages 16-18, Tom McMahon, Junior class coach, 14-16 and Frank Morrison cadet coach, ages 12-14.

Trophies will be awarded to the most valuable player and best sportsman in each class of teams. Trophies will also be awarded to winners of the recent pool and ping pong tournaments, boys and girls division.

This week's big snowstorm didn't make very many people happy but one man who was not sad about it was Quincy hockey coach Bob Sylvia.

Quincy was scheduled to play Met League runnerup Columbus Monday night at Boston Arena and the Presidents needed a tie or win to qualify for the Eastern Mass. tournament, which gets underway Monday at the arena.

Monday's games were calledoff by the storm and only the Quincy-Columbus game was rescheduled. However, no ice was available Tuesday, the cutoff date for the tourney and, since the new date, Wednesday at 9 a.m., was too late to count, it was cancelled and Quincy thereby qualified for the tournament.

Its 13-game record of 8-3-2 was enough to make the tournament although Sylvia was not altogether happy about making it in that way. "I would much rather have played Columbus and earned our way in," he said.

The North Quincy-Malden finale scheduled for Monday, was among those cancelled by the storm.

Last Friday Quincy must have been looking forward to the Columbus game as it barely got by Revere, 3-2, to keep its tourney hopes flickering.

"The boys just weren't taking Revere seriously and were thinking about Columbus and they actually didn't play a bad game from strictly a game point of view," Sylvia said. "I think the game helped us because it was the first real close game we had, the only one where we were ahead and had to hang on to win. The team reacted well, so I think this was good for them."

The game was another frustrating one for the Presidents and, in Sylvia's opinion, especially for Jimmy Cedrone.

"This has been a frustrating year all along," Bob said. "I don't know how many times we've hit the post or had the puck bounce over sticks in front of the net, but it has happened a lot. And Cedrone has been the most frustrated one all year. He has continually rushed the puck hard, dug for it in the corner and shot well, but he hasn't been able to score. And he has put some beautiful passes on Chuck Condos' stick and Chuck hasn't been able to convert."

Quincy took a 3-0 lead as Dave Mariano scored in the first period with an assist for Hal Bertoni, Cedrone made it 2-0 in the second period with Condos assisting and Chuck Peterson scoring a minute later on a pass from Kevin Grogan.

Revere came back with a goal late in the second period and made it 3-2 with only 29 seconds gone in the finale, but goalie Tapio Juvonen foiled the Patriots' attempts to tie it up and the Quincy defense excelled.

Don Smith had three assists as North Quincy topped Don Bosco, 4-1, for its second win.

Sophomore Al Struzik scored first with Neil Cronin and Bob Frizzell assisting. Smith Ken Kline a perfect centering pass which Kline converted and Kline scored again later in the first period with Smith again assisting. Pat McCormack scored the final goal midway in the final period on another pass from Smith.

"Smith played another excellent game," Laing said. "He has been playing smart, aggressive hockey. Kevin Colleran, as usual, was outstanding in the goal and kept his mates sharp.

"Jim Donovan and Kline also played well, Donovan playing one of his best games. I was not overly pleased with our overall defensive play but Cliff MacDonald and Bob Pierce played well individually."

This is Sylvia's third tourney team in his four years as Quincy coach.

"This team isn't as experienced as some of my other tourney teams, but the boys showed a lot of spirit and desire and I think we were just coming into our own in the last couple of games and reaching out potential," Bob said. "We had a big hole to fill in goal at the season's start but Juvenon really came through in fine fashion and has done a great job."

Sylvia made a number of changes during the season which he feels strengthened the team both on offense and defense. "I like to consider myself a flexible coach and I made various changes to give us better balance," he explained. "By moving Bertoni from defense to the "orange" or second line, it gave us two lines of almost equal strength."

Quincy's yellow or first line comprises Wayne Milford, Condos and Cedrone. It has been an excellent line all season, although it has been frustrated on many occasions.

Bertoni, Peterson and Mariano make up the orange line and the blue line includes Kevin Kearney, Phil Rugg and Steve Ciemola. Dave Flaherty is used as a swing man for the first two lines.

Bob Ahola and Bob Lindblom, who left the team during the season and worked his way back up, make up the number one defense duo, with Kevin Grogan and Dave Esau playing behind them.

So, although it might have taken a snow storm to help Quincy into the tourney, the Presidents could surprise, if they continue to come along as they did in the last couple of weeks.

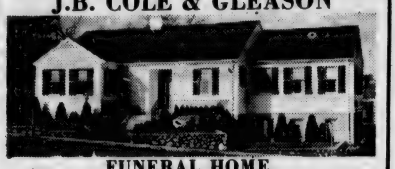
A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK



By Charles H. Wickens

Not too many days ago, we ushered in a New Year. With age old custom many people mulled over personal faults in the closing days of the old and resolved to do certain things better, or at least differently, in the new year. If a tabulation was made, it would probably be proved that multitudes of people resolved to stop smoking. An enormous number of people pledged to indulge in more leg exercise with less hand to mouth action to cut down on calories and lose weight. Again, if tabulations were made, it would probably be proved that most of these, and other well intentioned resolutions have by now been broken or forgotten.

There is one resolution every one can make EVERY day - and keep. Make it a daily habit to think of TWO of your blessings for every ONE gripe or complaint. Since the good things in life far outnumber the bad breaks, this can be an easy resolution to keep. Fact is, instead of just thinking about the two for one; give silent thanks. Nothing is ever so bad in life that it can't be worse and that in itself is a good thing in life to be thankful for. This easy to keep daily resolution can change an entire view of life. Try it and see . . .

World Day Of Prayer For Women At Bethany Church March 7

"Growing Together in Christ" is the theme for the March 7 World Day of Prayer for women of all faiths, sponsored by Church Women United of Quincy.

The Rev. Richard M. Owens, president of the Massachusetts Baptist Convention, will speak at the 2 p.m. service at Bethany Congregational Church.

Rev. Mr. Owen, a native of Virginia, has been pastor of Peoples Baptist Church in Roxbury for 32 years and is president of the Peoples Development Corporation which is engaged in erecting a low-cost housing complex.

Mrs. Charles B. Shannon of St. Chrysostom's Church is the day's chairman. Also taking part will be Mrs. Alexander Daffinee, Mrs. Hermon Noyes, Mrs. William Turner, Mrs. Alexander Warmington, Mrs. Capt. Walter Douglas of the Salvation Army, and Mrs. William L. Newcomer. H. Winslow Bettinson will be soloist; Lambert W. Brandes, organist. Miss Mildred G. DeBoer, Miss Marion B. Reinhardt, Miss Eleanor G. Brown and Mrs. Robert W. Mitchell will be ushers.

Should it storm the service will be held in the Church chapel.

Novena Of Grace At St. Mary's March 4 - 12

A Novena of Grace will be held at St. Mary's Church, Crescent St., West Quincy, March 4 through March 12.

The Novena will be conducted by Rev. John Bradley, CSP, of the Paulist Fathers Center, Boston, assisted by Rev. John J. McMahon, St. Mary's pastor and Rev. Walter J. Flaherty, associate pastor.

A Mass and Novena service will be held daily, at 9 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. and a Novena service also at 5:30 p.m. during the nine-day period.

Lenten Devotions Start Sunday At Adams Shore Church

A series of Lenten devotions and Bible studies for the Sunday nights of March 2, 9, 16 and 23 will be held at 7:45 p.m. at the Adams Shore United Methodist Church.

Participating will be members of the Quincy Centre, Wollaston and Atlantic United Methodist Churches, with all programs open to the public.

The Rev. William L. Newcomer, Adams Shore pastor, will conduct devotions and lead a discussion of the book, "Coming to Life: A Study of the Gospel of John" by Ernest W. Saunders.

JWV, Adas Shalom Brotherhood Joint Breakfast March 2

Quincy Jewish War Veterans Post 193 will hold a joint breakfast with the Congregation Adas Shalom Brotherhood March 2.

The breakfast will be at 9:45 a.m. in the Congregation Adas Shalom Social Hall, 435 Adams St.

Principal speaker will be Sgt. James J. Gillis of the Hull Police Department. He will also show the film, "Insight or Insanity", dealing with the problem of certain drugs and their effects on the human body. A question-answer period will follow.

Sid Cantor, president Congregation Adas Shalom will preside. Al Kofman, past commander Jewish War Veterans Post, will introduce Sgt. Gillis.

The program committee includes Past Comdr. Irv Isaacson, Comdr. Sid Tallen, Sid Cantor, Henry Kaplan, Harry Hershenson, Ray Kaplan, Dan Levenson, Ralph Paull and Kofman.

Bridgewater Official To Lecture At Bethany

On March 5, Charles W. Gaughan, superintendant of the Mass. Correctional Institution, Bridgewater, will lecture at the Bethany Congregational Church located on Spear Street.

The meeting sponsored by the Women's Union of that church, will start at 8 p.m. and is open to Bethany members as well as members of nearby churches.

Key Club Backs Clothing For Appalachia Drive

The Quincy High School Key Club will sponsor a clothing drive for the Save The Children Federation from now until March 7.

The club hopes to obtain usable clothes to distribute to needy children in the Southern Appalachian Mountain area, where a high school drop-out list is often caused by lack of presentable school clothing.

While the great demand is for children's clothing adult apparel will be appreciated.

Boxes for collection of these articles will be left in the lobbies of both the Quincy Vocational Technical School or Quincy High School during school hours 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Benefit Dance To Aid East African Mission

Quincy residents are among committee members planning a benefit dance to aid the Galappo Catholic Mission in Tanzania, East Africa. The Mission is administered by the Irish Pallottine Fathers.

The event will be held at St. Agatha's Parish Center, Milton, on Saturday, March 22.

Tickets will be available from the following committee members under the chairmanship of Daniel E. Duggan, Jr.:

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. John McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. Michael P. Dunne, Kenneth G. Caldwell, Joseph P. Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Walshe, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cummings.

Daniel McAuliffe, John L. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. James Cormican, Joseph F. Duggan Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Duggan Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Donald Doherty, Patrick Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kent, Miss A. Keane, Mr. and Mrs. James McAullie, Mr. and Mrs. James Mansuel, Mrs. Norton, Miss Carol Norton, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Susi, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. John Walshe and Mr. and Mrs. John Earls.

Bloodmobile To Visit Fore River Clubhouse

Mrs. Michael F. Fallon has announced that the Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit the Fore River Club house on Monday March 3, between the hours of 11:30 a.m. and 5:15 p.m.

The bloodmobile will be staffed by seven or eight nurses and a doctor. There will be nine beds to serve what Mrs. Fallon hopes will be a large turnout.

Mrs. Fallon, volunteer blood donor chairman for the Greater Quincy Red Cross, said that due to "the bad time of year" donations will not reach the mark set in the two previous months when there were 125 and 108 donations. But the usual donors from such businesses as Howard Johnsons and the Telephone Company, and organizations including the Knights of Columbus will bring the contributions close to the 100 mark, she said.

She reminds donors the age bracket for contributing is 21 through 60. Those persons between 18 and 20 wishing to donate will be allowed to give if parental permission is given and either married or a member of the armed services.

Walk-in volunteers will be accepted but most donors should make appointments. Appointments may be made by calling the Red Cross.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

Should Every Marriage Be Saved?

"All we ever read is about how to make a marriage work . . . about showing affection . . . being companionable . . . forming a good sexual relationship . . . communicating with each other. But what does one do when there just is no meeting ground? . . . Can't somebody be realistic enough . . . frank and open enough . . . to recognize that some marriages should be dissolved?" So writes a hurt reader . . . one who has tried to build a marriage relationship with no help from the partner . . . and now feels the pang of guilt caused by "advice columns" . . . well-meaning friends and loved ones who have not experienced the pain of a destructive marriage, yet are long on advice about how to keep this marriage going.

We are so oriented toward saving marriages because there are nearly 1/2 million divorces per year now. So we are loathe to admit that some should not be saved . . . or indeed, that some shouldn't have taken place in the first place. I personally pride myself in saving marriages and am pleased that nearly 50% of couples referred from the Probate court are reconciled . . . a higher percentage is they seek depth counseling before reaching the court. A valid reconciliation means that a couple finds a new level of happy, healthy relationship . . . not a "going back as things were" . . . nor a temporary "patch-up job" which sees a return to the name calling . . . quarreling . . . silence . . . violence . . . emotional and physical illnesses. That kind of "staying together" is not worthy to be counted as a reconciliation.

"Once love is lost" . . . so often I am asked . . . "can it again be fanned to a warm glow?" I doubt that it ever returns to what it was . . . yet in some cases it is possible for a new and even better relationship to emerge. Love has different meanings to different people . . . and to the same people at different times. Love is only one factor that keeps marriages together. Another is strong parental influence. "I've got to stay . . . a divorce would kill my mother" . . . very common assessment . . . but is it justified?

"I stayed for the sake of the children" . . . this in spite of symptoms which have developed in the children . . . twitching of the little face . . . bed wetting . . . failing in school . . . love might have been better served if "we divorce for the sake of the children."

Some people stay together just because of economic security . . . they haven't enough to divide . . . or so much, and so selfish that they would rather suffer than split up their sizeable possessions. They may have money and property . . . but the poverty within their hearts must be awful . . . what a price for material things.

Religion keeps many an unhappy marriage together . . . "I'm a Catholic/Lutheran/Methodist . . . we don't believe in divorce." Sounds very noble . . . but often I wonder about "religion" that will destroy persons while upholding principles. It just isn't the religion of Jesus. Someone will argue, "What God hath joined together let not man put asunder." . . . but I have often wondered just how much God had to do with "joining" some people in the first place . . . was it God? . . . or was it to get away from unreasonable and nagging parents? Was it God? . . . or was it a pregnancy that "joined them together" (50% of girls are pregnant when married now). God gets blamed for a lot of our human miscalculations . . . for a lot of our ignorance about ourselves.

A marriage should not be dissolved without honest counseling effort to find the root causes and remove them if possible . . . because "getting unmarried" is certainly no picnic . . . a lot harder road than most people realize. There are problems that you haven't even dreamed of. Preparation for divorce is almost as necessary as preparation for marriage.

Brush Off Snow From Sagging Tree Branches

With the recent snow storms, many homeowners worry about protecting their favorite trees and shrubs.

To save outdoor shrubs until spring, the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, presently planning its 98th annual Garden & Flower Show Mar. 15-23, at Suffolk Downs, offers the following tips to homeowners.

When branches are weighted down by heavy snow and ice, evergreens and shrubs should be brushed with a broom, working carefully to protect the brittle limbs.

In instances where damage has already occurred, broken limbs should be pruned and painted with protective substance. A supporting splint may be applied to a branch sagging under the weight of ice that cannot be removed.

Avoid the use of salt on walks immediately adjacent to evergreen shrubs, and perennial gardens. The salt builds up in the soil around the roots and may kill or damage the plant.

Eng Candidate For Top Legion Office

ROBERT LEO ENG

Robert Leo Eng, 71 Dysart St., a life-long native of Quincy, today announced his candidacy for the office of State Department Commander of The American Legion of Massachusetts.

Mr. Eng, an active Legionnaire for the past 20 years, is currently serving his second term as a Dept. Vice Commander and a second year as State Chairman of the Community Service Committee. Associated with this program for the past 14 years, he has been vice chairman eight terms.

A professional photographer, Mr. Eng is self-employed and has conducts his photography business in Quincy.

He is a graduate of the Daniel Webster, Quincy Point Junior High and Quincy High Schools, and the Schools of Photography, Yale campus, New Haven, Conn., Mr. Eng was the winner of the Outstanding Gold Medal Award in Portrait Photography. His graduate studies included commerical and color photography and camera repair services.

Currently serving as staff photographer for The Quincy Sun, he has been associated with several newspapers and in the Public Relations field where he served as Director of Public Relations for Quincy Civil Defense. He also served as publicity chairman for the 1963 State Legion convention held in Quincy.

Mr. Eng is the former editor of the Quincy Legion Post and the Norfolk County Legion Council newsletters. A member of the national American Legion Press Association (ALPHA) for the past 12 years, and the Massachusetts ALPA organization, he served as vice president in 1964. His affiliations included two years on the state Legion public relations commission.

He is a member of Bethany Church, Quincy, and former chairman of the publicity committee, and former member of the Chancel Choir. He now served on the Armed Services Committee and on the production staff and is staff photographer of the newsletter, Bethany Beacon.

Mr. Eng is a veteran of World War II, Army Air Corps service, with the 86th Bombardment Squadron. He is a Past Commander of Quincy Legion Post No. 95, the citys' original Legion Post and is a Past Commander of the Norfolk County Legion Council. He was elected to his first term as a Dept. Vice Commander in 1967. Both groups have endorsed Mr. Eng's candidacy for State Commander.

Having A (Snow) Ball...

SNOW QUEENS–If you were this age, you'd think snow was fun, too. Pretty little sisters, Janet, 4, Lee Ellen, 7, and Cindy Stevens, 5, daughters of Mrs. Shirley Stevens of Taffrail Rd., Germantown, have plenty more where these snowballs came from. (Quincy Sun Photo by Robert Leo Eng)

Graham Urges Mayor's Aid For Ward One Renewal Bid

Support for an Adams Shore-Houghs Neck-Germantown area community rehabilitation program has been registered by the Ward One Committee and City Councillor Edward S. Graham.

Councillor Graham urged the support of Mayor James R. McIntyre in designating the populous Ward One as the next recipient of Code Enforcement upgrading.

A similar city-federal program is already underway in North Quincy and Wollaston under a $1.8 million Housing and Urban Development (HUD) grant.

In conjunction with plans, the program provides low-cost loans for home improvements in the project area.

community-wide rehabilitation

"I request that the Adams Shore-Houghs Neck-Germantown section be given strong consideration for Quincy's next federal code program and that loans and grants be made available to residents of that area," Graham stated.

Graham pointed out that the Ward One committee comprising 27 members representing a diversified economic group, had given preliminary support to the proposal.

Graham noted that as the city's largest Ward, his area would be a logical selection for an extension of a city-federal Code Enforcement program.

Major improvements allocated under the program could include construction of another road to Germantown. The large seacoast frontage, about 21 of Quincy's 27 miles, also established the section as an advantageous one for the improvement program, he added.

Graham said he plans to meet with city planning officials involved in drafting Code Enforcement projects, to discuss plans for the renewals.

Steam Buses May Be Around The Corner

You may be riding in steam-powered buses one of these days.

Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre at least wants the MBTA to give them a try-out.

MIT professors, he said, have informed him that steam-powered buses will cut air pollution, maintennance costs and noise of present diesel buses.

As chairman of the legislative Committee on Transportation and the special commission studying the MBTA's finances and operations, he is asking MBTA General Chairman Leo Cusick to look into the matter.

"Steam-powered buses have been tested on the West Coast and the report is that they offer considerable promise," McIntyre said.

He expressed belief a federal grant may be available to finance a local study and experiment.

"They would greatly reduce air pollution and cut maintennance costs of diesel buses from what I have been told," McIntyre declared.

"I think it would be worth looking into–even from just a health angle."

Anyone who has driven behind a diesel bus for a block or two no doubt would second that.

WBPA To Hear Sen. Locke On Tax Problems

State Senator David H. Locke will speak on state tax problems at the regular business meeting of the Wollaston Business and Professional Association on Tuesday.

The Wellesley legislator will be the guest at the dinner meeting to be held at 7 p.m. at Walsh's Restaurant, Billings Rd. A social hour will precede the dinner at 6 p.m.

In charge of reservations are Herbert F. Cole, WBPA president; Henry D'Amore, John R. Chase and E. Sarto Minihan. Members are urged to make reservations with the committee promptly.

'Now Idle And Wasted'

McIntyre Seeks Army Equipment To Fight Storms

Mayor James R. McIntyre is seeking federal legislation to allow Quincy and other communities to press Army equipment into service to battle snow storms.

McIntyre, calling the idle equipment "a waste", made the proposal in a communication sent last night to Sen. Edward M.Kennedy, Sen. Edward Brooke and U. S. Rep. James A. Burke (D-Milton).

It came in the wake of the third northeaster in less than a month that dumped another six inches on the Quincy area Monday for a total accumulation of 71.5 inches since Feb. 1.

And while the city was still trying to dig out by mid-week with the welcomed assistance of a warm sun that began shrinking the mountainous piles of white stuff, there was more bad news.

Another storm, the weatherman said--or guessed–might move into the snow-weary area by week-end.

And the Quincy taxpayers' tab for the snowy triple-header of the past three and a half weeks is expected to come to $200,000.

McIntyre's proposed legislation would allow communities–especially those where armories and reserve installaations are located–to enter into a contract with

Cost Of Storms $200,000, But--

It will cost Quincy taxpayers an estimated $200,000 to pay for the three northeast storms that have dumped 71.5 inches of you-know-what on the area since Feb. 1.

The estimated tab comes from Mayor James R. McIntyre.

But if it's any consolation, the price-tag isn't a record-breaker.

In 1952, three similar week-end storms cost the city $385,000, it was recalled.

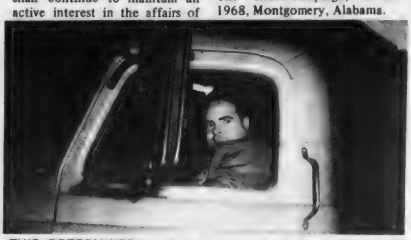
And if that doesn't cheer you a little, this might. Spring is just 13 days away.

A lucky 13–maybe.

Wallace Tells Quincy Resident He Has Made No Plans For 1972

Former Gov. George C. Wallace has made no plans yet for a 1972 Presidential bid but will soon publish a nation-wide newsletter, he has informed a Quincy supporter.

Atty. Maurice R. Horrigan, Jr. of 484 South St., Quincy Point, a member of the Wallace For President Campaign Committee of Massachusetts recently received a letter from Wallace.



In it, Wallace said:

"At the present time we have not made plans for 1972; however, I can assure you we shall continue to maintain an active interest in the affairs of our nation and am pleased that people usch as you will do likewise.

"We will soon begin publishing and distributing a newsletter throughout the country so that we may keep in closer touch with our friends and have an opportunity to make our views known on issues confronting us from time to time.

"Thank you very much for all that you have done for us and for your continued support."

The letter was written on stationery with this letterhead: The Wallace Campaign, P.O. Box 1968, Montgomery, Alabama.

THIS DETERMINED looking snow-plow truck driver should be familiar to you. It's Mayor James R. McIntyre who took to the streets homself during the storm on a 28-hour marathon mission with Civil Defense Director John E. Schmock. The pair alternated at the wheel plowing parts of Merrymount, Adams Shore, Houghs Neck, Wollaston, Montclair and the Squantum causeway. himself

School's In Session For All Classes

Quincy public school classes returned to near normal schedules this week as the last of the triple snow storms abated permitting elementary school pupils to resume classroom study.

Grades one through six were operating on a single session Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. with no lunch dismissal. Kindergarten classes remained cancelled due to storm conditions.

The decision on make-up days necessary to complete the minimum requirement for a 180-day school year, is expected to be made at the School Committee meeting on Wednesday. Based on the minimum requirement, elementary schools are five days behind and secondary schools face a two day make-up. Based on the 185-day calendar year currently administered by the School Committee, the elementary schools would be 10 days and the secondary grades seven days short of requirements.

State Education Commissioner Neil V. Sullivan has set March 31 as the deadline for School Committee applications for exemptions from the 180-day requirement. He has advised school officials to "make early, flexible decisions on exemption requests."

The Quincy School Committee's decision could mean a curtailment of scheduled April vacations or an abbreviation of the summer recess.

THE CITY HALL Speculation Corps is betting that Mayor James R. McIntyre will run for a third term this fall. His Honor, isn't saying yes, no, or maybe.

McIntyre reportedly still hasn't ruled out a state-wide office bid in 1970. At this moment, lieutenant governor would seem to be the most likely spot.

But McIntyre is a close friend of Sen. President Maurice Donahue and if the latter goes–and no doubt he will–for governor, McIntyre probably will devote his time to backing him rather than become a candidate for office himself.

SAD NOTE: William Villone, Quincy Veterans Services Director, reports taps sounded for 192 Quincy veterans during 1968. Among them, two Spanish-American War, leaving just a handful left who served under Admiral Dewey or Teddy Roosevelt.

Twenty-one Vietnam War veterans died–most of them in action. Four Korean War veterans succumbed.

And time, the one enemy man cannot defeat, continued to slash like a bayonet through the ranks of those who fought in World Wars I and II.

Seventy-seven World War I veterans died during the year and 88 World War II. Many of the latter succumbing to heart attacks.

And there was another sad note: during the year 13 bronze plaques marking memorial squares in honor of fallen heroes were stolen. Some of them probably smashed out of shape and sold for scrap.

To some people, nothing is sacred.

"Revitalization Of Storefronts"

Parking Proposal May Herald New Downtown Era

A "new look" for downtown Quincy may be the next step in a renaissance program designed to create additional parking facilities and beautify the main shopping area.

"We can't have a majestic city without having a vibrant downtown, commented Quincy-South Shore executive vice president William A. O'Connell.

The evaluation was made following initial action on a proposed landtaking to add a 140-car parking area to the city's municipal parking facilities.

The Council's Finance Committee will undertake study of the appropriation item calling for $7500.00 in qualifying fees, a $150,000 construction order and a proposed $230,000 allocation for the landtaking.

The proposed off-street area is located on Mechanic St., on the east side of Hancock St. and south side of Revere Rd.

The new parking plan was given strong impetus by Mayor James R. McIntyre in his charge to the City Council that "it must act now" to deter additional mercantile losses similar to the outgoing of Sheridan's Dept. Store.

O'Connell pointed out that a significant face-lifting for the downtown area is contingent upon the success of the Mechanic St. parking proposal and similar plans to enhance accomodations for shoppers and cars in downtown Quincy.

A "revitalization of storefronts" is being considered by Hancock St. businessmen if parking plans are supported, according to O'Connell.

Downtown "modernization workshops" will be organized and implemented by The Chamber of Commerce for merchants participating in the "rennaissance," the Chamber officials said.

The workshops would provide know-how and ideas for storefront design and renewals aimed at accelerating shopper comfort and attractions.

Outstanding examples of business center revitalizations have produced new eras for merchants in other sections of the country such as New Haven, Ct., Rochester, N. Y. and Providence, R. I., O'Connell noted.

"Parking, beautification and transit are all necessary to give a new lift to Quincy Square."

O'Connell stressed that the additional investments in business property by store owners was contingent upon an equal interest in the downtown shopping area by the city fathers.

Referring to the latest parking proposal--the Mechanic St. facility--O'Connell predicted "it would act as a catalyst for the downtown area."

South, Point Parking Also Under Study

Study of an off-street parking facility for Washington St., Quincy Point, has been proposed by City Councillor Clifford H. Marshall.

Marshall submitted his request to Mayor James R. McIntyre at the City Council meeting Monday. Marshall's request called for a completed study of a parking plan for report back to the Council on April 15. The study would be made by the Planning Board at the direction of Mayor McIntyre.

The additional parking for congested on-street business section was called "an urgent need," by Councillor Marshall. An adequate parking site must be acquired to serve the present business community and to promote future development of the area, Marshall said.

He cited serious traffic problems and senior citizen housing as factors underscoring the lact of off-street parking accomodations in connection with public safety.

In addition to Marshall's proposal, a similar study will be made of South Quincy municipal parking needs for completion by April 15. The request was made as an amendment to Marshall's resolve by City Councillor George B. MacDonald.

Spock Trial Witness To Speak Wednesday

One of 14 individuals involved in the destruction of Selective Service files in Milwaukee last September will speak in Quincy Wednesday evening, March 12, at 8 p.m.

The meeting, open to all interested citizens, will be held at the Jewish Community Center, 10 Merrymount Rd.

Rev. Robert Cunnane, a member of the Congregation of Stigmatine Fathers, will be the featured speaker. Father Cunnane, who is currently serving as co-director of the Packard Manse Ecumenical Center in Stoughton and Roxbury, has been active in the peace movement for the past four years and was among those who testified on behalf of the defendants at the "Spock trial."

The format for the evening will consist of a talk by Father Cunnane, followed by questions from those in attendance.

The purpose of the program is to provide an open forum for area citizens to discuss the action taken by these men, its implications, and the larger issues raised by that action. A secondary purpose is the solicitation of voluntary contributions to help defray legal expenses involved in the upcoming trial.

Quinn Has 'Good Deed' Suggestion For Scouts

Councilor John J. Quinn has a "good deed" suggestion for Quincy boy scouts.

He'd like to have them help dig out snow-covered fire hydrants after storms.

"Years ago," he recalls, "they used to volunteer their services for this."

Nowadays, fire department personnel are sent out to dig out the hydrants.

Quinn thinks the scouts could do it to not only relieve fire personnel of this chore but keep them on a ready-status in case of a fire.

The hydrant dig-out, he said, could be coordinated through the ocal fire station.

Any volunteers, men?

Focus On Czech Struggles At World Affairs Lecture

Czechoslovakia will be the focus of the sixth in the current series of free public World Affairs Lecture-Discussions sponsored by the United Nations Council of the South Shore to be held at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, March 13, in the parish hall of the United First Parish Church, Quincy Square.

Speaking will be Dr. Stephanie O. Husek, Professor of History at Massachusetts State College at Bridgewater.

Dr. Husek's father, then editor of the largest Slovak language newspaper in the United States, was active in the political struggles of his people following World War I. Close association and work with her father gave Dr. Husek the opportunity to gain insight into the internal problems of her parents' homeland. Following graduation from Seton Hill College, Dr. Husek spent three years in Czechoslovakia in travel and study, concentrating on the Czechoslovak struggle for independence.

In her lecture here Dr. Husek will discuss the national feelings and aspirations of both Czechs and Slovaks and the desire of both for a free life.

The meeting will be preceded by a catered dinner at 6:30 p.m., reservations for which should be made no later than Monday, March 10, through one of the following: Miss Vera Call of 55 Spear St.; Miss Edith K. Coulman of 20 Woodward Ave.; or Mrs. Arthur H. Shattuck of 44 Huntly Rd., all of Quincy.

City Gardening Features Flower Show March 15-23

Many home gardeners struggle trying to grow plants under city conditions.

And for these urban gardeners, the 1969 New England Garden & Flower Show at Suffolk Downs in East Boston Mar. 15-23, will bring the various facets of cultivating plants in the city.

The gardens, arranged by Women's Exhibition Committee of Mass. Horticultural Society, are custom designed by ten Massachusetts Garden Clubs, and will be among the dazzling settings at the show.

Surrounding a small park, the ten gardens represent many hours of research into city-garden problems and how best to utilize a small plot of land.

One Garden Club, for example, will illustrate how to make a small garden useful and appealing to small children, while another will show how to keep a small plot blooming despite little sun, smoke and fumes.

A small patio for entertaining will delight the Flower Show visitor, designed by the Wellesley Garden Club, while the Beacon Hill Garden Club will exhibit a Rectory Garden, a sanctuary for meditation, rest and refreshment.

Other of the city garden prototypes include, a garden with a tree and water by the Sharon Garden Club; a Mobile Garden by Hamilton-Wenham Garden Club; a Mini-Car Garden by Garden Club of the Back Bay; a garden for hanging baskets by North Shore Garden Club; a Back Entry Garden by Chestnut Hill Garden Club; and a Front Entry Garden by Junior League Garden Club.

Thus, the Flower Show visitor can study the exhibit that best fits his back yard tastes.

"Springtime--Garden Funtime!!" is the theme of this mammoth floral showcase at Suffolk Downs, Mar. 15-23, as thousands of winter-weary people come to enjoy this annual preview of Spring. This is the 98th annual show sponsored by Mass. Horticultural Society. Carlton B. Lees is executive director.

McIntyre Seeks Army Equipment

National Guard units to rent their equipment before storms hit.

Under his proposal, these communities would also be permitted to hire National Guardsmen to operate the equipment on municipal streets.

Quincy has both an armory–where the 109th Signal Battaltion National Guard is assigned--and a federal installation in Merrymount Park where the 187th Support Battaltion is located.

In his communication to Kennedy, Brooke and Burke, McIntyre noted that Greater Boston "cities and towns have been straining under the lack of sufficient manpower and equipment to fight a series of severe storms."

The Mayor also declared:

"While fighting these storms, I have had occasion to pass our local armory and the reserve center at Merrymount Park. It seems to me to be a waste of money and equipment to see scores of two and a half-ton six-six Army vehicles, jeeps, tow trucks and other vehicles under heaps of snow when they could be utilized for snow removal work in cities and towns."

McIntyre said he has been informed by Civil Defense officials it is necessary for a mayor of selectman to declare a state of emergency before any of this equipment can be assigned for use.

But, noted McIntyre:

"There is a natural reluctance on the part of a mayor or selectman to declare a state of emergency in his community because it reflects to a great extent upon his ability to coper with an adverse situation.

"They do not usually think to declare a state of emergency until it is too late to have any effective continuity in snow fighting in a community."

McIntyre also noted the Army vehicles are "useless" in their present state because they do not have "A" frames, or plow-blades.

McIntyre told The Quincy Sun he would be willing to furnish blades for the vehicles if a rental agreement could be worked out with the federal government.

"Quincy would save money and we could do a more effective job if we had this equipment available," he said. "The equipment is just sitting there now–we could put it to good use at a modest fee."

Quincy's own snow-fighting fleet numbers 35 pieces and is usually augmented by hired privately owned equipment.

McIntyre said using Army equipment under his proposal would be similar to the Post Office utilizing Army vehicles during the heavy Christmas mail rush.

City Councilor John J. Quinn said he will introduce a resolve requesting the City Council to go on record backing the Mayor's proposed federal legislation.

"All areas of government should work together in the best interests of the people," he said. "This is a sound idea, from both an economic and service standpoint."

McIntyre and Quinn said some 400 guardsmen were on drill at the Quincy Armory last week-end with virtually nothing to do.

Some of the men, they said, commented they would like to be doing something constructive in helping the city combat the storm.

"This certainly would be something constructive–using Army equipment and reserve personnel–to help fight the Battle of the Snow," said Quinn.

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER YOU BUY A NEW CAR?

That's a question that every car buyer should ask himself. It's a question that President Chevrolet is uniquely qualified to answer.

Let's face it. Sometime after you buy a 1969 car it's going to need service or minor repairs. (Even $15,000 Rolls Royces do.) At President Chevrolet we have a 70-hour-a-week service department staffed by over 40 expert mechanics. You never have to be concerned about annoying service delays. And you never have to worry about getting replacement parts: President has one of New England's largest Chevrolet parts inventories. Our total stock includes over 120,000 different components! President Chevrolet has the men, the equipment, and the experience to solidly back every new car sale. What happens after you buy your 1969 Chevrolet from President? You can relax . . . confident that your car will be cared for by a dealer who doesn't lose interest in you . . . . ever. That's why President Chevrolet means "Chevrolet" and much, much more.

Thomas Crane Art Exhibits March Feature

The Thomas Crane Public Library, Main Hall is presenting an exhibition of oil paintings by Pasquale D'Orsi which will continue throughout March.

Mr. D'Orsi has featured one-man shows in the Copley Society, Gilchrist Co., Home Savings Bank of Boston, and the Cooperative Bank of Derry. His works have also been on display in the Jordan-Marsh Show.

He is a member of many important art associations including the Copley Society, Concord Art Association, Lexington Arts and Crafts, North Shore Art Association, Rockport Art Association, Sharon Arts and Crafts, and the Medford Public Library, and has been the winner of many awards from the various associations.

The North Quincy has on exhibit the works of Jack Coolidge for March.

Mr. Coolidge graduated from the Boston Museum School where he studied painting under Karl Zerbe, and he is also a graduate of Harvard College. He spent six years working overseas including a year and a half in World War II. His paintings are exhibited regularly at half a dozen galleries from New York to Maine. Currently he is an instructor of painting and history of art at the Art Institute of Boston.

Besides several large landscapes in oil, also acrylic; with such intriguing titles as "Wind People", and "Seascape with Surfers" there will be portraits and ship figureheads, done in the spirit of a century ago. By special request, Mr. Coolidge has agreed to exhibit his "Fool-the-eye" windows, of the type that won a prize in the Jordan Marsh Show last year.

City Observes National Weights, Measures Week

National Weights and Measures Week is currently being observed in Quincy. It marks the week of the signing of the first Weights and Measures law by the United States Congress on March 2, 1799, according to Inspector Henry F. Kyllonen, of the department of Weights and Measures.

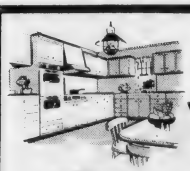
"The department inspects all commercially used weighing and measuring devices, ranging from large capacity railroad and truck scales to the delicate prescription balances used by hospitals and pharmacies."

In addition to testing and sealing weighing and measuring devices, the department checks pre-packaged foods and meats to be sure that the consumer receives accurate and correct weight with proper marking each time a purchase is made.

"The city's merchants have a huge stake in accurate weights," says Inspector Kyllonen. "A merchant can lose a great deal of money if his scales or meters are 'slow' and giving away part of the product he weights. The vast majority of the merchants are honest and we have found that over half the mistakes we discover in weighings are against the interest of the merchant not the public. Our job is to see that everybody is protected and the public interest served in scrupulous attention to accurate weighing."

In 1968, the Weights and Measures department of Quincy, inspected 634 retail scales, 144 fuel oil meters, 409 gasoline pumps and numerous processing weighing and liquid measuring devices. 13,766 prepackaged items were check weighed during the course of the year.

CANCER FIGHTERS--The Sword of Hope of the American Cancer Society is held by Governor Francis W. Sargent, Honorary Chairman, Massachusetts Cancer Crusade and A. Theodore Lyman, Jr., 1969 Crusade Chairman during discussion of the Campaign in the Governor's office.



Lyman Named To Head 1969 Cancer Drive

Governor Francis W. Sargent and Dr. William C. Moloney, President of the Massachusetts Division of the American Cancer Society, has announced the appointment of A. Theodore Lyman, Jr. as 1969 Cancer Crusade Chairman for Massachusetts.

Because of increased duties, Governor Sargent had to relinquish his Chairmanship of the Crusade. In making the announcement, the Governor said, "It is with greatest confidence that I turn over the Crusade Chairmanship to my good riend, Ted Lyman."

Mr. Lyman will be the second generation to bring his time and talents to the American Cancer Society Crusade. In 1945 his father, Arthur T. Lyman, Sr. was the founder and first and only lay President of the Massachusetts Division. He conducted the first statewide Crusade and was the initiating force for the recruitment of businessmen and other non-medical people to take an active part in the work of the Society.

How Babies Are Made

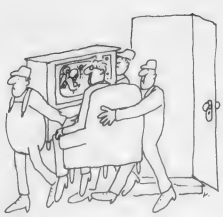
Oh! Don't worry! This article isn't intended to embarass you, and although I might be considered candid and you may have doubts, my intention is not to be controversial or insidious.

I have spoken at many P.T.A's about Sex Education and as a Pediatrician discussed with parents their problems, yet, this subject is still received with subdued tolerance and ill-concealed distaste. It ought not to be, because it is as natural as existence and perhaps a heck of a lot more enjoyable, at least in today's mixed-up world, if approached naturally.

Lately a more mature acceptance of sex and it's development from childhood is evolving. In our Quincy School System the late Munroe MacLean with the able assistance of Miss Alice Gray developed a comprehensive approach from the early elementary grades up in what is considered a very fine course. It explains physiologically and anatomically, sexual growth and development, (a natural appreciation of what we have compared to other species) and how they work. All done broadly, impersonally, forcefully and discretely. Even diseases due to indiscretion and imtemperance are openly presented.

To add to the broadening acceptance of normal sexual endowment many churches have established seminars with the enthusiastic participation of children and adolescents along with pediatricians, internists, preachers, social workers, mental health personnel and parents. No restrictions in questions, no hands or holds withheld. If a question bothers anyone it is aired, kicked around, not luridly but openly. This I consider a healthy trend. As good as the intentions might be, youth is reluctant to openly discuss his fears but he doesn't hesitate to put it in writing- hence most of the problems are in written questions.

As refreshing and as sensible as are these approaches with the gradual dispelling of voodoos and superstitions we still face childish parental avoidance to meet head-on the searching, probing sensible questions of children.



The Home is the place to start sex education. Early in life, at two or three, whenever a question is asked- it should be answered to the best of the parent's ability. All of us have been caught short, unprepared and temporarily befuddled-(don't think for a second that the kid doesn't notice our embarrassment).

Realizing this a parent should prepare in advance for anticipated questions- the sort of thing his own parent ought to have done. If this is tough, let me give you a suggestion. Recently, Time-Life prepared a book with the title "How Babies are Made" written by Andrew C. Andry and Stephen Schepp and illustrated by Blake Hampton- priced at $3.95. This book is published by Time-Life books in collaboration with the General Learning Corporation and in consultation with the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States (Siecus). (This organization has probably done more for the general elucidation and education of the public-school systems and other organizations interested in sex education than any other).

I recommend the purchase of this illustrated book for its excellence. It simply and vividly defines and demonstrates adequately, for children from three up the subject we have been discussing. Even a prudish adult can appreciate the candid approach and explanation without quaking.

For a copy, write to General Learning Corporation- 3 East 54th St., New York City, N.Y. 10022, or try your local book dealer. This book is a real good buy!

Finance Committee Cuts $52,390; More Pruning Set For Saturday

The City Council's Finance Committee--with $52,390 already cut from the proposed 1969 $35.55 million municipal budget--will meet again Saturday to try some more trimming.

The $52,390 pruned last week include $25,000 from veterans services, $15,000 from the library board and $101 $10,000 from workmen's compensation.

At this Saturday's session, scheduled for 10 a.m. in the City Council chamber, the committee, headed by Councilor John J. Quinn will look over several other municipal department requests.

Among them are those of Dr. John T. Foley, health commissioner; Building Inspector Allan F. MacDonald, Park-Recreation Executive Secretary Richard J. Koch, Wire Inspector William Pitts and Plumbing Inspector John F. Hagerty.

Quinn has predicted the Finance Committee will cut "several hundred thousand dollars" from Mayor McIntyre's budget before final passage April 1.

McIntyre trimmed department requests by $2.6 million before submitting the budget to the council.

Last year's budget passed by the council was $32.4 million.

Tech Tourney Hex Haunts Raiders

A SLIDING we go, smile these Quincy youngsters taking advantage of snow on embankment adjacent to High School Ave. Enjoying themselves are Carol Dauphinee, 11, Stephanie Fay, 10, Allison Fay, 9, Linda Dauphinee, 9, Chris Far, 9, and Patrick Fay, 6. (Quincy Sun Photo by Robert Leo Eng)

The Tech Tourney jinx continues to hover over North Quincy basketball Coach Bob Nolan.

Bob took his third North team in four years into the Boston Garden jamboree Tuesday night and for the third time his team lost in the opening game. This time it was Abp. Williams, which defeated the Raiders, 72-58, before 7000 fans.

A first period spree by Williams led to its win. With North leading, 9-7, the Bishops hit for 11 straight points and an 18-9 lead.

Williams led, 18-10, after a period, 34-22 at the half and 47-32 going into the final period. Here, led by scoring ace Mark Jellison, the only Raider to hit consistently, North cut the gap to 47-38, Jellison scoring all six points. However, the taller Bishops then pulled away to a safe lead.

North had a poor shooting night, both from the floor and foul line, but Jellison had another good night with 27 points. The Raiders were shooting in bad luck in the first half, rimming a number of shots.

"We had a poor night and it was a bad time to have it, but the kids put out for me 100 percent just as they did all year and we gained our main objective, the Greater Boston League title," said a disappointed Nolan. "Williams played a fine game and their two big boys (6-6 Mike Crismond and 6-5 Bill Leoffler) gave us a bad time on the boards. Despite the loss, it was another fine year."

North clinched its second Greater Boston League championship in four years last week with an 84-76 win over Revere. The game had been postponed two nights earlier by the storm and was played at Quincy, as North was not plowed out.

The win gave the Raiders a 13-1 league record and 14-3 overall mark.

"This is the big thing with us, winning the league title, and anything we get from here in is frosting on the cake," Nolan said. "This is a real business-like team and they didn't get all excited after winning the title. Now they are looking forward to the Tech Tourney.

"We have a poised team and this should help us in the tourney. It is an asset in tournament play and they have kept their cool all year long."

Don Constantine scored 29 points and Mark Jellison 26, while Rich Sprague contributed 12 to the championship win.

Shea Rink Pedestrian Light Favored By Mayor McIntyre

The installation of pedestrian traffic signals at the Shea Skating Rink has been proposed by Mayor James R. McIntyre to increase safety for youngsters using the heavily-traveled crossing.

Mayor McIntyre's recommendation was contained in a letter to Rep. Joseph E. Brett who requested in a communication to the Mayor that a woman traffic supervisor be stationed at the busy Willard St. crossing.

Mayor McIntyre told Rep. Brett in his reply that the use of a traffic supervisor would be "an impractical and unrealistic" solution.

Scheduling of a supervisor would be difficult because of the long hours and seven-day schedule observed at the Shea facility, the Mayor noted.

"I would not want to take the responsibility of delegating a woman, alone, to supervise this crossing at night, particularly during the difficult winter months," he pointed out.

Brett's proposal described the supervisor as a temporary solution to the crossing problem until a permanent plan could be worked out.

Wrote the Mayor in his reply:

I had hoped that we would have had greater cooperation on legislation which I had filed requiring the M.D.C. to take over the responsibility of Willard St. and to place pedestrian lights at the Shea Skating Rink facility. This legislation, as you know, came out of the Committee on Urban Affairs, of which you are Chairman, with an unfavorable report with no one dissenting from it. However, in the Senate, I have succeeded in overturning this unfavorable report from your Committee and hope that this legislation will pass with your ultimate support in order that the youngsters using the Shea Skating Rink in West Quincy can receive the best protection possible.

Contracts Awarded For MDC Houghton's Pond Expansion

The Metropolitan District Commission has announced the award of four contracts totaling $645,072 for a recreation development project at Houghton's Pond in the Milton area of Blue Hills Reservation.

M.D.C. Commissioner Howard Whitmore, Jr. said the program provides for expansion of the beach, accommodations for bathers, picnic tables, a new roadway and expanded parking in a 120-acre area.

A grant of $239,655 has been approved by the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation and an application for additional funds is pending.

The 18-acre pond is one of the major attractions of Blue Hills Reservation. The new facilities are designed to increase the recreational capacity of the reservation, used by approximately 700,000 persons a year.

Plans call for lengthening the beach by 250 feet and reconstructing and improving the existing 300-foot beach. A new building housing a bathhouse and refreshment concession and another containing sanitary facilities will be built to service the area.

The project includes a one-mile roadway around the pond, parking for 200 additional cars, 200 picnic tables around the shoreline and a new water line to the picnic area.

Four tennis courts and a baseball field will be advertised for bids shortly.

Commissioner Whitmore said the development and landscaping of the picnic areas "will both preserve and enhance through selective cutting and landscaping the natural beauty of the woods, especially the stands of white pine which surround the southern and eastern borders of the pond."

NQ's Curran Signs Pro Grid Contract

Bill Curran, former North Quincy High standout, last week signed a pro-football contract with the Miami Dolphins of the American League and no one was more delighted than his high school coach, Carl Leone.

"I think it is wonderful and I think Bill can make the grade in the pros," Leone said. "He was one of the finest backs I coached at North and it is a nice feeling to have coached a boy who could be a future pro star."

Bill was one of North Quincy's all-time great running backs and he continued to sparkle at Northeastern University.

Last fall Curran captained the Huskies and had an outstanding season as Joe Zabilsk's team had another winning campaign.

"Bill is a great player and a wonderful boy to coach," the veteran coach said. "He helped spark our club for three years in a row, although hampered by injuries in 1967. I think he has a good chance of making it big in the pros. I certainly wish him the best."

After shining as a freshman at Northeastern, Curran had a sensational sophomore season, setting several Huskie records.

As a junior he started fast, then was hit with an injury which slowed him down considerably.

He bounced back last fall with some more brilliant running and he was rated by Zabilski as one of his best runners and he ranked with the great Bob Cappadona.

Suffolk Downs Opens April 19

The 1969 thoroughbred racing season at Suffolk Downs starting April 19 and running through July 4 will offer a single admission price to all areas of the grandstand and clubhouse.

Bill Veeck, new president of the East Boston track, today also announced the inauguration of the world's richest turf race – a $200,000 added two-mile event. It is scheduled for Saturday, June 28. Name of the race will be selected by a committee of the New England Turf Writers' Association after judging entries from members.

The single price policy is the first of its kind in New England, if not in the nation, and it's one of several innovations Veeck plans at Suffolk Downs where emphasis will be placed on finer racing, richer races and more entertainment.

All facilities under the new plan at New England's largest most accessible track will be available to everyone in the grandstand and clubhouse at what was the lowest price.

Mrs. Logan Cited By Nursing Group

Mrs. Florence E. Logan of Braintree, formerly of Quincy, Administrator of the Elihu White Nursing Home, Inc., of Commercial St., East Braintree, has been elected a Fellow of the American College of Nursing Home Administrators.

Mrs. Logan has also been elected Treasurer of the newly organized Massachusetts Chapter of the American College of Nursing Home Administrators, which has some 200 charter members and another group of seventy-five Administrators on the waiting list.

The Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes, representing 690 Nursing Homes and Extended Care Facilities in the Bay State, has named Mrs. Logan General Chairman of its 20th annual two-day convention to be held June 19-20 at the Sheraton Plaza, Copley square, Boston.

Mrs. Logan is a graduate of Quincy High School, class of 1935, and is currently engaged in post graduate work at Northeastern University in Nursing Home Administration.

She is a member of the American Nursing Home Association and the National Geriatric Society, formerly President of the Federation's South Shore Chapter, representing some 75 Nursing Homes; and General Chairman of the Federation's Education Committee for several years.

Quincy Icemen Bow To Dedham But Victory Glow In Future

Quincy's hockey season is now history and Coach Bob Sylvia has good reason to smile as he looks forward to next year when the Presidents move from the now defunct Met League to the Greater Boston League.

Quincy's season ended on a disappointing note Monday night at Ridge Arena in Braintree where the Presidents bowed to Dedham of the Bay State League, 3-0, in an Eastern Mass. Tourney preliminary game.

Although defeated, Quincy outplayed Dedham most of the way and Sylvia called it "one of our best games of the season."

Quincy kept the puck at the Dedham end during most of the game but couldn't beat Dedham's standout goalie, Doug Brooks. Several Quincy shots struck the post and several times Quincy players just couldn't handle rebounds with the Dedham goalie out of position.

Dedham scored on a breakaway midway in the first period, added its second goal just 31 seconds into the final period and added the third at 7:34 of the period.

"This team has been unlucky all year and tonight's game followed the same pattern," Sylvia said. "They work the puck down the ice well but have had trouble scoring. We outplayed them most of the game but had a lot of tough luck on our shots."

Bob paid tribute to his seniors, Bobby Ahola, Jim Cedrone, Tapio Juvonen, Dave Esau and Dave Flaherty. "We played this game for them and I'm only sorry we couldn't have won for them," he said. "They all played fine games and everyone else on the squad also played his heart out. I consider it an excellent performance despite the loss."

With only these seniors on the club, Sylvia is optimistic about next season's outlook.

Coming back will be Wayne Milford and Chuck Condos from the first line, the entire second line of Chuck Peterson, Dave Mariano and Harry Bertoni, the third line of Steve Kliemola, Ken Kearney and Phil Rugg, defensemen Bob Lindblom and Kevin Grogan, as well as Mike Albrecht, Russ Barry, Colin Kearney, Jimmy Privera, Billy Blake and Mark Erikson.

"Juvenon did a great job all year long in goal but I think Albrecht can fill his shoes next year and fill our biggest hole," Sylvia concluded.

Prelate Assumes New Aide Duties At North Easton

Brother Dennis J. Fleming, CSC, son of Mrs. Theodore J. Fleming of 57 Crane Rd., Quincy and the late Mr. Fleming has assumed his new duties as secretary to the Rev. William F. Hogan, C.S.C. The Rev. Fr. Hogan is Doctor of Cannon Law and Professor of Theology at Stonehill College in North Easton.

Brother Dennis was recently transferred from Notre Dame Boys High School, Fairfield, Conn. where he served as treasurer of the high school. A graduate of Archbishop William High School, Braintree, Brother Dennis received his Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Administration from St. Joseph's College, Bennington, Vt.

While at St. Joseph's College, Brother Dennis was listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Races, Parade To Highlight Ski Carnival

The 11th annual Quincy Recreation Dept. Ski Carnival will feature a variety of competitive races and a costume parade in a two-day presentation Saturday and Sunday at Heavenly Hill, Wollaston.

Downhill slalom and novelty races will get underway at 10 a.m. Saturday for boys and girls in all age classes. Winners will receive token awards.

Following final competitive events on Sunday, a costume parade will be staged at 3 p.m., it was announced by Recreation Director William F. Ryan. Directing the event will be ski supervisor William O. Ellis, assisted by instructors Donald Holton, Robert Mitchell, Michael Benedict, Nancy Jennings, Cheryl Smith and Dennis O'Leary. Mr. Ryan will serve as master of ceremonies.

Presenting the carnival awards will be Mayor James R. McIntyre and James F. McCormick, Sr., park and recreation board chairman.

YMCA NOTES

Helping Keep America Strong

By Adele Wilson
YMCA Women's Council

The Quincy YMCA Resident Camps' Committee Chairman, Preston H. Grassick, once again has received the RECOGNITION OF EXCELLENCE IN CAMPING AWARD from Phillips B. Hand, Associate Area Executive of the Boston "Y" staff office.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors, Gilman Fernald, Director of Resident Camping, noted that Camp Burgess for boys and Camp Hayward for girls have received this award for the past eight years from both the National YMCA and the American Camping Association.

Camp Burgess was founded in 1928; Camp Hayward in 1960. More than 500 boys and girls from the South Shore are now served by these two "Y" camps.

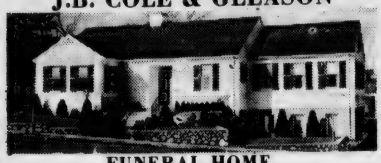
A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens



At one time or another we all must face a moment of truth. It is a normal pattern of life. At times, the uncloaked truth is hard to take, especially when it reveals bad luck or disaster. At that moment, we can open the door and courageously face reality - or - we can close the door and try to hide from the despairing truth. When we face reality, we must face the truth that self pity does not and can not create pride and who among us can deny a desire to be proud?

A moment of truth can be like a fading candle light that leaves us dreary behind a closed door. Or, it can be a beacon of light that shines our path as we open the door to face the future.

When compelled to face a moment of truth, we can gain help from examples of others who showed us how it is possible to triumph over tragedy. In next week's thought, we will mention people by name and show why the world owes them a debt of gratitude for showing us how we too can face our own moment of truth. It will be interesting. Watch for it . . .

some things cannot be planned in advance

But, knowing who to call can relieve you of much worry and expense.

When a death occurs in another city, for example, a single telephone call to the Keohane Funeral Home assures immediate and competent representation wherever needed. It assures you, too, of responsible handling of every detail to your complete satisfaction.

That is possible through our close contacts with qualified funeral directors throughout this country and abroad. Their services are available on a moment's notice from us.

So while neither time nor place for such emergencies can be anticipated, it is good to remember that a telephone call to the Keohane Funeral Home, day or night, assures you of complete fulfillment of your responsibilities.

Kiddie Camp Award Cites Quincy K.P.

Chairman A. Jack Calano and co-chairman Paul Bailey have received a Kiddie Kamp Award of Merit for efforts on behalf of Presidents Lodge, No. 62, Knights of Pythias, Quincy.

The award, presented at the annual meeting of Kiddie Kamp, cited dedicated and devoted service in furthering its aim "That needy and deserving boys of the Commonwealth, regardless of race, color or creed, be provided with a camping experience, designed to enrich their lives mentally, morally, and physically, and provide them with opportunities to acquire and practice habits of good democratic living."

The Lodge sponsors a Tag Day in June to send boys to the Kiddie Kamp in Sharon. Opportunity is given to 800 boys to enjoy a camping experience.

Lodge Chancellor Commandor Joseph E. Rivery noted that the Lodge is also active in behalf of Cystic Fibrosis and Cerebral Palsy.

St. Catherine's Members In Radio Bible Readings

Six young members of St. Catherine's Greek Orthodox Church, Wollaston, are participating in Interfaith Bible Readings over Radio Station WRYT this week at 5:15 p.m.

The members are Rita Earle, 67 East Elm Ave., Cleo Antonakos, 65 Hillside Ave., and Pamela Dunderdale, 6 Winthrop Ave., all of Wollaston, Nick Kapolis, 39 Miller St., Braintree, and Marcene Belezos and Lisa Belezos, both of 192 Randolph St. Canton.

Their selections include excerpts from Matthew, Luke and Mark.

"Heartless" Storms Delay Heart Fund

The annual Heart Sunday collections have been slowed by the "heartless" storms.

Quincy Heart Fund volunteers and those of other communities are being asked to complete their collections when the weather–and streets–are cleared.

"We hope that volunteers will finish their collections as the weather improves and that the citizens of Quincy will support the Heart Fund as well this year as they have in the past," said Sen. William D. Weeks and William E. Kelley.

Weeks is campaign chairman of the Southeast Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association and Kelley, president of the Hancock Bank & Trust Co., Quincy, is regional chairman.

Weeks and Kelly also urged:

"Those citizens who have 'Not-at-Home' envelopes left by Heart volunteers are asked to mail them to their local Heart Fund collector as soon as they can."

Arthur Napoleone Elected To NU Honor Society

Arthur A. Napoleone of 53 Loring St., Quincy, a student at Northeastern University, was recently elected to Alpha Pi Mu national Industrial Engineering honor society.

A junior at N.U., Napoleone was elected to the honor society on the basis of scholarship, integrity and interest in extracurricular activities.

Enrolled in N.U.'s co-operative or work-study program, he alternates periods of classroom instruction with periods of full-time, salaried employment as an engineering trainee for the North American Rockwell Corporation, Quincy.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Napoleone, he is a 1965 honor graduate of Quincy High School.

His topic will be "The Hopes and Fears of Tomorrow."

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox

Personal Counselor

The Second Marriage

Would you agree that the most difficult of human relationships is that between husband and wife? You can love the whole wide world . . . or the starving children of Biafra . . . easier than this one man/woman. That's because the one to one relationship is personal. Trust and openness are necessary. Intimacies and immediate demands press hard. All your weaknesses are exposed. In a happy marriage there is full revealing . . . true acceptance of each other . . . and both like to lose themselves in each other. There is bound to be conflict. It is inevitable. Only when we get down to the day to day . . . night to night . . . knitty-gritty business of living together . . . only then can we know each other.

If you are among that great number of contented married people then this week's column will not concern you. But if you have come to the end of a first marriage . . . somewhat disillusioned . . . with mixed feelings . . . now considering a second marriage . . . like a million other Americans each year asking "where do I go from here?" . . . then read on.

Until recently divorced people were thought to be "second rate" citizens. Even now . . . the divorced person usually feels a tremendous loss of status . . . lose of friends . . . loss of self confidence. You ask yourself "where did I go wrong?" . . . "Could I have made it if I had stayed?" . . . "Did I do the right thing?"

So . . . now you climb the steps of your rooming house . . . put the key in the door and walk in . . . there is no "Is that you, Jack?" . . . no one to bug you . . . you are alone . . . alone . . . alone . . . maybe can't even have your dog. The silence screams out at you that you are alone. Some men leave the radio on to avoid the stifling silence.

The divorced "wife" returns from the courthouse . . . walks into the nice home . . . which he painfully signed over to her for the "sake of the children" . . . it's all yours . . . but there is something missing . . . a MAN . . . unless you're the "kind of woman who doesn't need a man."

If you are strong . . . you each determine to do something about this lonely situation . . . you go through the extremely difficult period of meeting someone . . . hopefully someone you want to marry. Of course many swear off on marriage . . . but most people do remarry.

There is a tendency to select someone very similar to the man/wife you just divorced . . . appearance . . . habits . . . (good and bad) . . . with different problems but still problems. So you turn to an old acquaintance . . . someone you met during the last horrible months of the marriage who listened to you cry in your beer . . . or champagne . . . or someone you've just met who seems rather nice. The truth is that even now you may not really know what kind of a man/woman you want . . . probably you don't really know yourself . . . creates a real problem for you.

Now let's suppose you've found someone you think may be the ONE . . . take time . . . really get acquainted . . . learn his/her habits . . . mannerisms . . . idiosyncracies . . . hang-ups . . . personal problems (because everyone has some) . . . all these in the light of your own. Then ask yourself if you can live with them. Marriage may not remove them . . . or improve them . . . they may even get worse. Love does not conquer all conditions. It is just as important that you LIKE your partner as it is that you love him/her. Also that you like the children of your second wife/husband . . . because if you don't you're in trouble right from the start.

This is the second time around for you . . . you've got to make it this time . . . spend time together . . . in various circumstances . . . talk . . . live . . . travel . . . play . . . work together. If you can't form a satisfactory relationship before your marriage chances are you can't after.

Try to your fullest powers to please each other . . . That which he/she didn't have in his/her first marriage do everything in your power to give in the second. If she felt neglected and insecure . . . give much attention and security. If he needed more affection and communication . . . give an abundance to meet this need. Incidently . . . these work pretty well in the first marriage . . . also.

IT ISN'T EASY

TO KEEP UP WITH

"GALLOPING GUS" . . .

Gus is one of our top welders but you find his type in every trade at Quincy. Guys who swagger a bit because they know they're doing the really tough work in their field. And getting top dollar for it. Other rewards, too . . . like company-paid pensions, vacations, holidays and company help with extra schooling to sharpen their skill.

They feel more secure, too. Our backlog of contracts sees to that. Even this long list has been added to (we were just awarded a $97.8 million contract to build three unique sea barge carriers for Lykes). And they can take pride in the modernization of the Yard that's going on.

How about you? Does your job compare? If you're not sure, come in and talk with us.

Will Try Again March 10 To Seat Quincy Youth Council Members

Quincy's Youth Council will be honored and sworn in March 17–maybe.

"At least we are going to try to seat the youngsters then," said City Council President J. Vincent Smyth lamenting the fact that Monday's storm forced postponement of planned ceremonies.

March 10 is a Monday and Mondays seem to be the day for snow to fall on Quincy.

Monday's storm (March 3) forced cancellation of school and the closing of the Vocational-Technical High School cafeteria where 10 elected Youth Council members were to be honored at a dinner.

The dinner is re-scheduled for 6 p.m., March 17. The swearing in by City Clerk John M. Gillis will follow the 7:30 p.m. City Council public hearing.

During the dinner, the 10 will elect their own "Honorary Mayor".

The Youth Council was proposed by Smyth to give the city's teen-agers a voice in government and to bridge a generation communications gap to help solve problems of mutual interest to youths and adults.

The 10 council members, elected by fellow students from a field of 72 candidates who filed nomination papers are:

Quincy High School (also representing the Vocational-Technical School): David D'Olimpio and Eric Johnson.

North Quincy High School, grades 10, 11, 12: Clifford MacDonald and Michael Reppucci.

North Quincy High School, 9th grade (also representing Atlantic Junior): Charles Santoro.

Broad Meadows Junior: Michael Conine.

Central Junior: Frederick Gilbert.

Point Junior: Peter Doucette.

Sterling Junior: Peter Gacicia.

Woodward School For Girls: Marion McEachern.

Red Cross Bloodmobile Comes To Quincy Friday

The Red Cross Bloodmobile scheduled for last Monday but postponed due to the snowstorm has been rescheduled for Friday, March 7, at the Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd., Quincy, from 11:30 to 5:15 p.m.

Mrs. Michael Fallon, Quincy Red Cross Blood chairman, states there is now a critical shortage of blood due to the recent storms which necessitated cancellation of bloodmobiles. Appointments are preferred but walk-ins are gladly welcomed she said.

Appointments may be made by calling the Greater Quincy Red Cross at 472-2700.

Donors were reminded that the age bracket for contributing is 21 through 60. Persons between 18 and 20 wishing to donate should have parental permission, unless married or a member of the armed forces.

Houghs Neck Council Supper On Saturday

The Houghs Neck Community Council will sponsor a covered dish supper on Saturday at 7 p.m. at Houghs Neck Legion Hall on Sea St.

Tickets may be obtained from John Powers, supper chairman or at Pages Pharmacy.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the Houghs Neck Community Council Bulletin.

City Could Recover $125,000

Marshall Asks Legal Curbs On MDC Sewer Cost Formula

A $128,000 reduction in Quincy sewer costs would be possible if the present formula granting a 52 per cent discount to Boston was discontinued.

A report on the disproportionate MDC assessment formula was submitted to Quincy Rep. Clifford H. Marshall, Jr., by City Auditor Alexander Smith.

Smith's evaluation followed a recommendation by Rep. Marshall that the Quincy City Council investigate grounds for legal action to recover the sewerage cost overpayments made under the MDC assessment formula.

Rep. Marshall, also a City Councillor, noted in his request to the City Auditor that the Revere City Council has initiated action to equalize the cost formula which now bears more heavily on the towns in the MDC system to compensate for the Boston system discount.

"If the 52 per cent discount to Boston was discontinued and the operating costs remained the same, based on the 1968 charges, it would mean a 25 per cent reduction in costs to Quincy which is estimated to be a savings of $128,000 annually," Smith reported.

The Boston allowance is based on a 1959 assessment permitting a reduction based on incomplete service and tie ins to the MDC sewer lines.

"The Attorney General in 1967 ruled that as the formula was set up in 1959, the City of Boston would continue to receive the 52 per cent discount until it was 100 percent connected," Smith's report noted.

Other cities and towns are charged proportionately more to make up for the reduced charge.

Rep.-City Councillor Marshall has recommended that Mayor James R. McIntyre investigate possible court action against "the City of Boston and or the Metropolitan District Commission, or both to recover the overpayments made by the City of Quincy under this assessment formula."

Marshall's resolve also urged a legal curb to restrain the MDC from continuing to operate the present sewerage cost assessment formula.

Red Roses For A Grand Lady . . .

HAPPY 100TH BIRTHDAY gift, a dozen red roses from Mayor James R. McIntyre, is admired by Miss Louise B. Kelliher. The 73 Charles St., Houghs Neck, resident passed the century mark on Saturday. She was alert to the photographer's call as she spryly descended from the second floor to extend a cheery greeting and a thank-you for the official remembrance.

Scores Of Homes Spared

Shawmut Trail Dead But Super-Highway In Future

The proposed controversial Shawmut Trail which would have sliced through Quincy uprooting scores of families is dead–for the next few years, anyway.

A similar or even bigger super-highway, however, still looms as a strong future possibility as a long-range solution to traffic congestion.

Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre disclosed today he has been assured by State Public Works Commr. Edward J. Ribbs that:

"We are not developing location or design plans for the Shawmut Trail facility proposal nor is the project programmed for construction."

Ribbs noted that the Eastern Massachusetts Regional Planning Project's report "Recommended Highway and Transit Plan" has "only identified the long-range need for an expressway facility in the Shawmut Trail corridor which may be many miles in width."

Ribbs added:

"It appears that the only long-range solution is an expressway such as the once proposed Shawmut Trail facility.

"As long as the need for such a facility can be forecast through our planning process, we must continue to identify it as an element in our long-range plans.

"Until this element attains the urgency of the shore-range program, location and design will be held in abeyance."

Mayor McIntyre questioned Ribbs on the status of the Shawmut Trail plans–once before believed dead–after learning that long-range plans for a highway of this type still exist.

McIntyre has vigorously opposed the Shawmut Trail as "a multi-million dollar waste that would serve no real useful purpose."

Other South Shore legislators and municipal officials have formed with him, a solid wall of opposition.

The six-lane Shawmut Trail would have originated at Capen's Bridge, Braintree, near new Rtes. 3 and 128, cut through South Quincy and Quincy Point to the Fore River Bridge, then through North Weymouth into Hingham.

Cost of the highway–with a new Fore River Bridge part of the package–was estimated as high as $55-to-$60 million.

McIntyre said that more than 200 homes in Braintree, South Quincy and Quincy Point would have had to be taken to make way for the highway.

"It would uproot fine residential districts in the South Shore and destroy millions of dollars of property and the character of the communities," he contended.

McIntyre said he was pleased that Ribbs is "keeping his word with the people of the South Shore" in not pushing the Shawmut Trail.

But, he said, cautiously:

Workable Program Recertified

City Gets Green Light For More Urban Renewal Funds

Federal approval of recertification of the Quincy Workable Program For Community Improvement was enthusiastically received this week by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

"This means a great deal to the city as far as continued approval for federal funds is concerned," Mayor McIntyre said, "specifically in the area of housing, FHA housing loans and grants for elderly housing projects. These programs are all contingent upon this approval of a workable program," the Mayor noted.

New programs similar to the current North Quincy Improvement program involving three per cent loans and direct home improvement grants also require certification of the original Workable Program certificate, Mayor McIntyre said.

The Mayor emphasized the importance of the recertification in the application for substantial federal funds for senior citizen housing.

The recertification by the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development was announced by Cong. James A. Burke and Sen.

Adams School TV 'Star' Wednesday

Pupils and teachers at the Adams elementary school, South Quincy, will be "on camera" March 19.

The University of New Hampshire will be at the school to tape a segment for a 15-weeks educational television series.

The camera will zero in on the Adams School's first year reading program and its heralded instructional media center.

The center, now in its second year of operation, was established with a $50,000 federal grant–one of six in the state.

"It has created considerable interest," said Principal David Johnston. "We have had visitors from seven foreign countries and something like 15 states."

The Adams School segment will be shown as part of the series over Chan. 11 in New Hampshire.

Youngsters Lend Hand To Ease Flood Threat

Thirteen Quincy youngsters including a girl have responded so far to Mayor James R. McIntyre's appeal for help in clearing catch basins of snow to ease the flood threat.

The youngsters, who tackled 15 catch basins near their homes, will each receive a personal citation of public service from the Mayor.

The 13 who obviously care about their city and fellow residents are:

Matthew and John Conolly, 11 Bowes Ave., Germantown.

Richard and Michael Goyette, 96 Garfield St., West Quincy.

John Minukas, 109 Sherman St., Wollaston.

Sheryl Grogan, 2 Payson St., South Quincy.

Joseph Kinnally, 20 James St., Quincy Point.

Peter DiSalvio, 77 Lancaster St., Quincy Point.

Michael Gethin, 178 Highland Ave., Wollaston.

James Flavin, 12 Doyle Terrace, Germantown.

Susan Maginnis, 12 Eddie St., Wollaston.

Robert Glavis, 21 Eddie St., Wollaston.

Paul McGovern, 32 Dockray St., Wollaston.

And to each of them a "well done" from The Quincy Sun.

QUINCY YOUTH COUNCIL "MAYOR" Clifford MacDonald of North Quincy High is congratulated by City Council President J. Vincent Smyth and, from left, School Supt. Lawrence P. Creedon, Mrs. Alice Mitchell, School Committee, and City Council Youth Council chairman and Rep. Arthur H. Tobin. The student-mayor was elected by the new Youth Council. Junior College Student House Speaker For Day

Four Quincy Junior College students will participate--one in a top elective role--at Mass. Intercollegiate Student Government Day ceremonies Friday at the State House, Boston.

Among those representing Quincy students will be Paul Anderson who has been designated as Speaker of the House for the day. His post is one of the two principal elective offices to be filled by students from all over the state.

Also representing Quincy Junior College at the observances and ceremonies will be Paul Guine, 31 Maple St., West Roxbury; Mary McMann, 668 Sea St., Quincy and Kevin Morrissey, 51 Rawson Rd., North Quincy.

The Student Government observance is aimed at providing a wider understanding of legislative functions and government structure for college students.

Quincy Jr. College is one of 80 colleges in Massachusetts participating in the ceremonies. Student groups will occupy both chambers of state government and participate in the passage of student-sponsored legislation which will highlight the occasion.

Mayor Proclaims DeMolay Week

Mayor James R. McIntyre as proclaimed the week of March 16-22 as DeMolay Week with members of the Old Colony Chapter observing the 50th anniversary year.

The Mayor's official proclamation follows:

WHEREAS, the ORDER OF DEMOLAY is a character building organization of young men from fourteen to twenty-one years of age, who are seeking to prepare themselves as better leaders and citizens for tomorrow by developing those traits and strengths of character of all good men; and

WHEREAS, the organization has carried out the aforementioned goals for 50 years through programs of athletic competitions, social activities, civic service and charitable projects; and

WHEREAS, all the DeMolay members of Old Colony Chapter will observe the year of 1969 as the "50th Anniversary Commemoration of DeMolay", so as to exemplify to all citizens here and elsewhere their many activities, and to show recognition to their millions of Senior DeMolays, now

THEREFORE, by the authority vested in me, I proclaim that the year of 1969 be observed as

INTERNATIONAL

and, the week of March 16, 1969, through March 22, 1969, as

DEMOLAY WEEK

and, March 18, 1969, as

and call upon all our citizens to join in saluting the young men of the Order of DeMolay and in expressing our grateful appreciation of the fine examples set by these young leaders in contributing to the welfare and character of other young men in this community, thus aiding in the development and leadership of tomorrow.

Sunbeams

Quincy's vital statistics showed an upward swing during 1968, according to figures compiled by City Clerk John M. Gillis.

The figures aren't official--all of the statistics aren't in yet--but so far they show marriages, births and deaths all up over 1967.

"New citizens" number 2,105--an increase of 75 compared with 2,030 births in 1967.

There were 1,250 marriages--a romantic hike of 143 over 1967.

And, there were 1,276 deaths--an increase of 90 compared with 1967.

LOCAL RESIDENTS were somewhat disappointed in the TV showing of "The Cardinal" the other night. The location of the poor parish to which Father Fermoyle (Tom Tryon) was first banished from where he began his rise to the rank of Cardinal was really the Swingle's Quarry area of West Quincy.

But if you blinked, you might have missed it.

Quincy contractor Richard Ambrosia built the make believe village--church, parish house and 35 shanties--for shooting of scenes for the 1963 Otto Preminger movie. Construction cost: a reported $70,000.

For Ambrosia, it wasn't too much of a construction task. His firm has built houses of worships for all faiths in New England--including Temple Beth El in Quincy.

In tribute to his craftsmanship at Swingle's Quarry, one bystander quipped at the time of the filming: "The church looks so real, they'll be taking up collections here Sunday."

The location presented a problem for Preminger: what to do about modern airliners flying overhead in a World War I setting? He reportedly worked out an agreement with officials at Logan Airport to re-route flights over the West Quincy area during scene shootings to keep the noise from the big airliners off the soundtrack.

But from the TV showing, it seemed to be a lot of wasted effort.

WHEN YOU'RE DRIVING around Quincy, be especially alert between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. Those seem to be the most dangerous hours.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn reports there were more personal injury accidents--101--during those hours than any other two-hour period last year.

Runners-up: 2-4 p.m. and 6-8 p.m. Fewest personal injury mishaps--18--occured during the hours 4-6 a.m.

There were a total 1,247 auto accidents in the city last year, causing 10 deaths and injuries to 780 persons.

Most dangerous month for accident frequency was December with 127 accidents. Runner-up: October with 108. Least dangerous was July with 88.

So be especially alert between 4-6 p.m. during December.

WOMEN WHO LAUGH right back at men drivers probably have suspected this all along: Men also fib about their age.

At least there's hard-to-dispute evidence here in Quincy. It's right there in black and white--on City Hall records.

According to information on some of the poll listing cards on file, you'd be surprised at how many men get younger--instead of older--in a year.

Hardest number for men to get by seems to be number 9. Like in 39, 49, 59.

THE CITY CLERK'S office isgetting the 1969 dog licenses ready, for the April 1 deadline.

And that reminds us of the two Quincy residents who once quite seriously suggested to Mrs. Josephine Carnali of the city clerk's office staff that if people get pensions and Social Security at retirement age, elderly dogs should rate a "license exemption".

Dogs reaching age 10 should be granted free licenses they said, because at age 10, a dog is equivalent to a 70-year old human. (One human year equals seven dog years).

All in favor say Woof! Woof!

YOUNGER MEN seem to prefer joining the police department over the fire department. At least in Quincy.

City Personnel Director Kenneth Gardner notes that in 1968, the average age of new patrolmen was 27 and the average age of new firefighters, 31.

But actually, the trend is in reverse. Last year's average new patrolman was a year older than his counterpart of 1967. And last year's new firefighter was slightly younger than the average new firefighter who joined the department in 1967.

USS Sunfish To Join Fleet

Quincy Commissioning For Nuclear Sub Saturday

SUNFISH SEA-BOUND--The USS Sunfish (SSN-649), the second nuclear powered submarine built in Massachusetts, will be placed in commission at 12:00 noon on Saturday at the Quincy Division of General Dynamics Corporation. The submarine will be commanded by Commander Richard L. Thompson, USN, a native of Beckley, West Virginia.

The USS Sunfish (SSN-649), the second nuclear powered submarine built in Massachusetts, will be placed in commission at 12 noon on Saturday, at the Quincy Division of General Dynamics Corporation.

Rear Admiral William C. Hushing, USN, Commander of Portsmouth Naval Shipyard in New Hampshire, will accept the submarine for the Navy Department and place the ship in commission. Admiral Hushing will represent Rear Admiral Joseph C. Wylie, USN, Commandant of the First Naval District.

Commander Richard L. Thompson, USN, a native of Beckley, West Virginia and a 1954 graduate of the United States Naval Academy, will be the submarine's Commanding Officer.

Mayor James R. McIntyre will be the principal speaker. McIntyre, who is also a senator in the Massachusetts State Senate, is a holder of the Bronze Star Medal and Purple Heart Medal with a cluster. A captain in the United States Marine Corps Reserve, he is a veteran of Korean warfare and has been a holder of public office since 1956.

The Sunfish is named for a submarine that served in World War Two. Commissioned on July 15, 1942, the first Sunfish conducted 11 war patrols in the Asiatic-Pacific Theater of war. In April of 1945 the Sunfish on her 11th war patrol sunk three Japanese cargo ships. She received the Presidential Unit Commendation for outstanding heroism for her ninth and eleventh patrols.

The first Sunfish was decomissioned on December 26, 1945 at the Mare Island Naval Shipyard, Vallejo, California. She remained in reserve until her name was struck from the Navy list on May 1, 1960 and she was sold for scrapping.

SKIPPER--Commander Richard L. Thompson, USN

The Sunfish (SSN-649) is a nuclear-powered attack submarine of the "Sturgeon class", especially designed as an anti-submarine weapon. The extensive use of sound-locating materials and great care in noise reduction of all moving parts give Sunfish an inherent silent quality and maximum performance of her advanced sonar system.

She combines the endurance and evironmental independence of nuclear power with deep submergence and high speed. These capabilities, coupled with the latest in submarine weapon systems, including nuclear-tipped and rocket-propelled torpedoes, make Sunfish one of the Navy's most effective anti-submarine weapons. Super-quiet, deep-diving, and swift, Sunfish is also very lethal to hostile surface shipping.

But she is especially suited as a "killer submarine" vitally concerned with denying the effectiveness of a hostile underseas fleet. She is designed for an overall length of 292 feet, extreme beam, 32 feet; normal surface displacement, 4060 tons. And a complement of 12 officers and 95 men.

$90,500 Grant For Quincy Main Project

A $90,500 federal grant has been approved to help finance an MDC Squantum-to-Merrymount Park Sewage project.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and U.S. Rep. James A. Burke informed Mayor James R. McIntyre this week that the funds were granted by the federal Water Pollution Control Administration, Department of Interior.

The money will be used for installation of a forced main from Squantum to the Merrymount Park section. Total cost of the project is estimated at $1.8 million.

75 Permits For $32,451 Wiring In February

Seventy-five permits for wiring at an estimated cost of $32,451 were issued in Quincy during February, City Wire Inspector William H. Pitts reports.

Fees collected for the permits totaled $328, he said.

Major wiring projects for the month were at new buildings for the Blacker & Holland Lumber Co. at 133 Penn St. and for the Venus Baking Co., 143 Penn St., South Quincy.

Pitts also reported that during February, his department made 72 inspections during which seven defects were discovered.

Flynn Sisters Make Granddad Beam

A Quincy grandfather is beaming with pride at the recent scholastic achievements of his three granddaughters.

The proud patriarch is Domenic Pompeo of 15 Watson Rd. The three honored students are Kathy, Marion and Evelyn Flynn, daughters of former Quincy residents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Flynn of Holbrook.

Kathy Flynn was nominated by Massasoit Community College to the elite list of Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges. The honor is conferred each year on students with outstanding records in academic, service and leadership achievements.

Her sister, Marion, a junior at Archbishop Williams High School was a second place winner in the Voice of Democracy contest sponsored by the District Five, VFW. She will receive a $50 war bond and a trophy donated by Quincy Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre.

Evelyn, the youngest daughter, is a sophomore at Mater Dei Academy, Brockton. She won her laurels when she was inducted into the National Honor Society as a probationary member.

Mrs. Flynn will be remembered as a former nurse on the staff of Quincy City Hospital.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

Step Children

To be treated as a "step child" proverbally implies lack of love . . . lack of care . . . lack of a shared family relationship. The "poor little step child" is not only a common expression . . . it is also a common fact. In so many second marriages the step children get "step child" treatment.

Usually in our divorce system the custody of children is awarded to the mother. This means that this woman must not only find in her second husband a man who can meet her needs . . . but also a man who can be a good father to her children. While finding a father for her children certainly should not be her first consideration . . . (too often the cast) . . . the problem of the selection of a new man to head this family is compounded by the number of children. Many a woman has never remarried simply because her children turned "thumbs down" on men she might have married . . . a child can selfishly call the shots here . . . as in other matters . . . and spoil what might have been good for all concerned.

There are three distinct sets of feelings involved in this new family relationship . . . the children . . . the wife . . . the new husband. Consider first . . . the children's feelings. There's a strong tendency among small children to cling to their mother . . . to be jealous of her new love . . . her time with him . . . feeling a loss of their "old daddy" now see the "new man" as coming between them and their mother. Change for children is not easy . . . in fact the inability of older people to change is more a sign of childishness than old age. So . . . children may feel cheated to have to share their mother with this new father . . . especially true of little boys.

Furthermore . . . this new man . . . if he is a real man . . . may expect of the children behavior quite different than their mother has expected. She's treated them as a woman treats children . . . not as a man. Feeling some guilt for "sending their father; away" she may have become more permissive than she even realizes. So . . . as our new man enters the picture the children are confronted with a new . . . and hopefully . . . a strong male influence. The younger they are the easier the adjustment.

Then . . . there's the wife's feelings. She's tried to be both mother and father. Now she may question . . . and even unwisely defy her husband in his handling of the children . . . hesitate to relinquish her role as head of the family . . . doubt his sincerity . . . his judgment . . . his love for the children and for her. His kind firmness she may take defensively. If she's wise she'll make it clear to the children that she and her husband stand together . . . show great respect herself for him . . . thus giving an example to the children.

She'll want her man to be strong . . . decisive . . . understanding . . . and forgive when he misjudges and makes mistakes. She'll seek his opinions in dealing with the children . . . never taking the children's part against her husband. Communication must be at an all time high between them.

The man feels that he must win his way into each heart. He wants to feel accepted. He hears mommy speak three times before children respond . . . sees lazy work habits . . . sees his wife picking up their clothes and toys after them. He feels compelled to change these conditions. How he goes about it may determine the relationship for years to come.

His own attitudes are not impeccable. Maybe he didn't fully face the responsibility of this "other man's family" before the marriage. Now as children's troubles arise he may feel as one man said . . . "this wouldn't have happened if they were mine . . . I came into this situation because I love my wife . . . this whole package is more than I bargained for." A wise "second husband" starts building the relationship with the children . . . as well as their mother . . . before the marriage.

How do we weld all the feelings together into a happy and harmonious family? First . . . concentrate on building a strong husband/wife relationship . . . stand together with loving acts . . . recognize and meet each other's needs. This brings stability and prevents children playing one parent against the other.

Secondly . . . a new father will do well to spend some time with the children without their mother being present. Sports fun . . . short trips . . . projects . . . and yes working together . . . all important for full relationship.

Finally . . . get a set of mind on loving and accepting those children. The mind can direct the heart in a large measure. To love them even when they are unlovable . . . that's the test of true love.

This program applies just as much to one's first family . . . might even help to prevent the necessity of "step-children."

Jaycees Seek Nominees For Distinguished Service Award

The Quincy Jaycees are seeking nominations for their fourth annual Distinguished Service Award.

"The award," said Jaycees President James H. Doyle, "is to recognize and encourage community service."

The winner will be selected by a panel of outstanding Quincy figures and presented the award by Mayor James R. McIntyre at the annual banquet, March 25 at the Neighborhood Club at 7 p.m.

Last year's winner was Dr. Edward S. Mann, president of Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston. Other previous winners were Rev. Bedros Baharian, pastor Quincy Point Congregational Church and Dr. Charles Djerf, Quincy school committeeman, noted pediatrician, and Quincy Sun columnist.

"The award," Doyle said, "is not limited to any one age or interest group. Any individual can nominate a candidate."

The judging panel will comprise:

William Kelly, president of the Hancock Bank & Trust Co.; Rev. Bradford Gale, minister of historic First Parish Church; Rev. Baharian, Dr. Djerf and Doyle.

William J. Griffin is chairman of the awards committee. The committee includes Allen Goldstein, Ronald Scolamiero, John Nee, Edward Flavin, Paul DePrisco and Doyle.

Nominations may be sent to Mr. Griffin, Hancock Bank & Trust Co., 1485 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass. 02169

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf

Paul Dudley White

The quality of greatness is manifest in many ways and in many persons. The recognition of it leaves one in awe and admiration of its possessor. The awe is almost always rewarded by an uplifting of one's own sense of being as well as an enrichment in knowledge of whatever the learned one expounds. Such an admiration do I have for Dr. Paul Dudley White.

At the lecture he gave the Furnace Brook School recently under the auspices of the Quincy Junior College, the attending audience received many pearls. A pearl is any little bit of information which in its simple way can be called true. Its worth lies in the ease with which it is accepted and in its durability and application to our own use or for the trade.

The genuine concern Dr. White has for mankind may at times be construed as old-hat, but like good advertising, reiteration and repetition of truths may result in acceptance, with the result that even pleasant but bad habits may be broken for one's own good. If it weren't for men of his kind preaching to us of the consequences of self-abuse, even in habits which may seem innocuous, man would not improve.

Well, what were some of these pearls?

For example, coffee drinking. The constant advertising of attractive Central American Mountains and the choice of the best beans for such and such a brand is easily listened to, but listen to this. Four cups of coffee may have the same deleterious effect as say a package of cigarettes. Effects, damaging, due to unnecessary stimulation of the heart and intestinal tract. Who would have believed it?

The attempts by Doctors to educate of the ill effects of nicotine (especially from cigarettes) may be boring to the youth just starting, or to the person established as a smoker, but not to physicians who have quit the habit by the thousands, or families witnessing the struggle of an emphysemic patient as young as forty years of age- yes in your own family- or worse, yet the cancer of the lung with major surgery to remove lungs, usually too late. The breadwinner is gone! Tragic indeed! It would be far less dangerous to smoke a pipe or cigars as smelly as they are.

Paul Dudley White was among the first to bring our attention to the degenerative character of this habit of cigarettes. As a contention of my own, I will bet that almost every youth who goes on to glue sniffing, pot, speed or marijuana has already been smoking cigarettes. How much easier would it be to curb the latter habit in its origin than the drugs.

Everyone associates Dr. White with bicycling which undoubtedly is a useful and salutary exercise, but much more simple he insists and as healthful, is just plain walking. Something we have always done but should do more and with zest for its invigorating healthful results. In Europe families take long hikes, especially in Scandinavia- togetherness without osstentation and at nature's own terms. A bit of advice he gives, and as easy to do, would be to leave your car about a mile from your destination, say the movies or sports, and walk the distance between.

As an octogenarian he has not put aside scholarly pursuits for even now he is collaborating with a Holy Cross professor in the translation of a church history centuries old which describes the death presumably by hardening of the arteries and coronary disease among cardinals. He even stated that sudden death in the Roman Senate by description was most likely coronary artery stoppage. Less milk, stopped earlier in life, more exercise reasonably done, less eating and more rest are simple rules for an average man to follow. Even ninety-year oldsters can shovel snow if in good health. So take heed! Restrain yourself in diet- choose wisely foods you eat- avoid the fatty cloggers of vessels, remember your heritage and enjoy life!

Thank you Dr. Paul Dudley White- a great man.

Senior Citizens To Visit Flower Show March 19

Quincy's senior citizens in the 60 and over age group are eligible to attend the Recreation Department's annual trip to the flower show at Suffolk Downs on Wednesday, according to Recreation Director William F. Ryan.

Mr. Ryan stated that reduced price admission will be made at the time of registration for the event. Tickets will go on sale Thursday, March 13, at 10 A.M. at the recreation office in the John F. Kennedy Health Center.

Free bus transportation will be provided from the regular eight stops. Telephone reservations cannot be accepted, but one person may pick up tickets for other senior citizens. There is no limit as to the number of tickets one person may buy, Mr. Ryan said.

New Board Added By duPont & Co.

Francis I. duPont & Co., largest New York Stock Exchange member firm operating under the traditional partnership basis, has made a major realignment of its administrative structure, it is disclosed in the firm's annual report released by Mr. Charles S. Cox, manager of the firm's office at One Chestnut Street, Quincy.

Mr. Cox noted that the office last year handled the largest volume of securities transactions in its history.

A board of Directing Partners, composed of 17 key partners, with Edmond duPont, Senior Partner, as Chairman, has been established. It will have overall responsibility for the firm's policies and practices.

And to strengthen the controls under the Managing Partner, Charles Moran, Jr., "The Office of Managing Partner" has been created. It included Wallace C. Latour, Edwin B. Peterson and Thomas W. Thompson as Associate Managing Partners. A Finance Committee also has been established.

These changes relfect the rapid rise in both the volume and complexity of the firm's business. Total income from operations advanced to a record high of $119,698,000 last year from $70,638,000 and $90,800,000 in 1967.

Raiders Must Rebuild For New Hoop Glories

North Quincy's basketball team enjoyed another outstanding season this year with a 13-1 Greater Boston League record and overall 14-3 mark, its second league title in three years and the third Tech Tourney appearance in Bob Nolan's four years as coach.

However, Nolan faces a major rebuilding job next year with 10 of his varsity squad graduating. Sophomore Dan Zink, who started the last few games including the Tech game against Abp. Williams, is the only returnee who can be classified as a regular.

"We are going to have quite a job next year, but this season's junior varsity team was outstanding and these are the boys I'll have to depend on next season," the Raider coach said.

The only other boys returning with any varsity experience are juniors Rich Sanderson and Bob DeRosa.

The jayvees this winter, under first year coach Joe Amorosino, had a 16-1 record and most of the players will be playing varsity ball in another year.

Sanderson and DeRosa, both excellent shooters, were the top scorers and Dan McKay was a fine all-around player. Zink improved so much that he was promoted to the varsity for the last few games.

Leo Papile is an excellent ball handler and rebounder, and the sixth man, Jim Small, should figure high in next year's varsity plans.

Other; outstanding players are Craig Bogosian, who saw a little varsity action and was on the Tech Tourney squad Tony Kelly, Joe Orlando, Kenny Baker, Bob Langley, Bob Flaherty, Brian Donohue, Jim Walker, Tom Flynn and Jim Sarruda.

In contrast to North's successful year, Marty Finnegan's Quincy club had one of its most frustrating seasons with a 2-15 record, despite several good performances.

"This was a really frustrating year and I'm sorry for the boys," Finnegan said. "They put out 100 percent all the way and never quit but we just couldn't put things together. We didn't have nearly as bad a team as the record indicates."

Coming back from this year's varsity will be 6-5 George Davey, who improved steadily and should help next year's varsity considerably; Jim Furfari, who sat out several games with an injury, one of two key injuries which hurt the Presidents; George Uhlar, Kevin Ryan and Richie DiCristofaro.

As is the case at North, despite the several fine returnees, Quincy's hopes will depend to a good extent on Fran Conroy's junior varsity, whose 10-7 record this season was deceiving.

"We had an entire sophomore team," Conroy said. "Two of our games were lost by one point, two by four, one by five and another by nine. We did get beaten once by 15 points but we had some key players out of action that night.

Bob Pike, 6-2, averaged 15 points a game with a fine left-handed shot and he sat out at least half of several games. Billy Maver, also 6-2, averaged 10 a game although also sitting out much of many games and he had two games with 20 points or better.

Joe Gogen, a 5-10 guard, also averaged 10 a game, while Mike Donahue and Joe Sterling, both six footers, rounded out the usual starting club and both were excellent shooters.

"Bobby Sacchetti was our floor general and did a fine job," Conroy said. John Joyce came along fast, Greg Curtis, at 6-2 a top rebounder, and Bill Burke, the tallest man at 6-4, also performed well.

Rebounding out the squad were Mike Orlando, Corcoran, Jim Dubois, McDonald, Dick Raymond and Jeff Baker.

Quincy Ice Stars On Final Honor Roll For Met League

The Met Hockey League has been disbanded after several successful seasons and among those having the honor of being named to the league's final all-star team were Quincy's Bobby Ahola and Jim Cedrone.

They were co-captains of this year's Quincy team which made the Eastern Mass. tourney for the third time in Bob Sylvia's four-year coaching regime, and are two of only five seniors on the Presidents' squad.

Ahola, a defenseman, and Cedrone, a forward, were three-year starters for Quincy. Both were outstanding for the Presidents, who finished third in the league with an 8-3-2 record.

"Both boys are outstanding hockey players and certainly deserving of the all-star honor," Sylvia said.

Quincy and North Quincy, together with league champion Malden, Everett, Chelsea and Revere, move into the Greater Boston League next year.

The other two Met entries, Christopher Columbus and Don Bosco, will join the expanded Catholic League.

This will be the third league for the Quincy and North Quincy teams. They started out in the old South Shore League in which they played for several seasons before moving into the Met League.

Another popular league now defunct is the South Shore League, which had developed into an extremely popular league and had some interesting rivalries. The members of this league also join new leagues next year with Weymouth, Hingham and Brockton in the Suburban League, Abp. Williams and Catholic Memorial in the expanded Catholic Loop, Scituate in the New Southeastern League, while the future status of Canton and King Philip are presently undecided.

MET LEAGUE ALL-STARS are Quincy High hockey co-captains Jim Cedrone and Bob Ahola with proud coach Bob Sylvia, center. Both athletes were three-year starters for the Quincy High sextet and earned the praise of their coach for their all-around play.

Hoop Star Mark Jellison Set For Capitol Classic

Mark Jellison, high scoring North Quincy basketball standout, will play in the Capitol Classic March 29-30 in Altamont, N. Y.

Jellison is one of a select group of Massachusetts stars selected to play in the annual tournament. Mark averaged more than 20 points a game for Bob Nolan's Raiders this season and was the only player to hit consistently in the Tech Tourney loss to Abp. Williams as he scored 27 points.

The North star will join Fran Costello of Catholic Memorial, George Smith of Boston Tech, Mark Mondano of Lexington and six others.

Other teams in the tourney will include those from New York City, New York State and Connecticut.

Jellison is being sought by several colleges but is leaning toward Northeastern, which has benefited greatly from South Shore players through the years.

Boating Safety Course Offered

In the summer Quincy's waterways become extremely crowded with resident and visiting boatsmen and fisherman. To cope with the problem of inexperience in boatsmanship shown by some of these boat enthusiasts the recreation committee of Star of the Sea Church in Squantum has decided to start a course in boating safety.

The program will be presented free to the public by the motor boat division of the state. For six consecutive Tuesdays starting March 18 participants will be taught boating safety through visual aids and lecturing. The classes will start at 7 p.m. and last no longer than two hours.

This is a first for Squantum and Mrs. Donald J. Pound a representative of the CYO feels "eventually the program will become mandatory for boat owners". If all turns out right the program will be continued next year.

All persons regardless of age are invited and boatowners are urged to attend.

YMCA NOTES

Helping Keep America Strong

By Adele Wilson
YMCA Women's Council

One of the most popular (and most demanding) sports available to both men and boys at the Quincy YMCA is that of Judo. Because of increased membership in the "Y" Judo Club, the age requirement has been boosted to 14 years, according to instructor Robert Palazzi.

Recently, 12 Quincy boys participated in the Burlington Junior Judo Tournament. Three of them placed in the finals as follows: Bob Barra - first in the 146-160 Pound class; Gary Veronneau - second (same class); Mike Hurney - second in the heavyweight class. Other participants included: Gerald Allen, Rich Thompson, Mark Forbes, Bill Devaney, Dan Giacomozzi, Mark White, Paul Duffy, Nich Giannone, Bryon Darcy.

Judo registration is held the first week of each month at the "Y".

In the Women's Division, Director Alice Began reports that Quincy girls took six events during the recent Northeastern District Girls' Gymnastic Meet with competitors from seven "Y's" in the Northeastern District. Hosted by the Quincy "Y" and held in Quincy, the girls were coached by Evelyn Murphy, past president of the Quincy "Y" Junior Leaders' Club.

Gold medals were awarded to first-place winners as follows:

JUNIORS

Amy Freddy - floor exercise

Maureen Ross - balance beam

Luann Lussier - vaulting

Nancy Gottschalk - uneven bars

Amy Freddy - trampoline and all-around award

INTERMEDIATES

Pam Drexler - floor exercise and vaulting

SENIORS

Evelyn Murphy - floor exercise and balance beam

Girls from the Quincy "Y" participating in the District Meet were: Amy Freddy, Maureen Ross, Evelyn Murphy, Sally Rickson, Barbara O'Brien, Susan Ericson, Debbie McCarter, Patricia Burr, Joanne Kussman.

It's not too early . . . to think about plans for your children this summer and the excellent camping facilities available for girls from age 8 to 16 at the Quincy "Y". CAMP CLARK, for girls aged 8 to 12, offers the opportunity to grow in Spirit, Mind, and Body, while enjoying wholesome activities in friendship groups under competent leadership.

From 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays (trip days held each Wednesday), CAMP CLARK day camp begins its first period July 8 to 17; second period July 22 to 31; third period August 5 to 14.

For young ladies in the 12 to 16 age bracket, STEPPING STONE CAMP may prove to be the highlight of your teenage daughter's summer activities as well as fulfilling a community need. STEPPING STONE CAMP offers one two-week period, with the first week, June 24, 25, and 26 in the Quincy "Y" building.

The second week, June 30, July 1 and 2, is spent on Cape Cod at Camp Burgess (East Sandwich), with departure at 9 a.m. on Monday and return at 4 p.m. Wednesday. For camp brochures and further information about STEPPING STONE and CAMP CLARK, phone or stop in at the Quincy "Y" front desk.

And here's a special tip . . . by selling candy, girls may EARN THEIR WAY TO CAMP! On Saturday, April 12th, the camp candy sale begins. Help your children to help themselves to a wonderful summer of camping!

Atlantic Rainbow Girls Fashion Show Saturday

A fashion show will be sponsored by Atlantic Assembly of Rainbow Girls at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Parish Hall, of Atlantic Memorial Congregational Church. Tickets may be obtained from Miss Debra Grant, of 12 Colby Rd.

Quincy Junior College ended its basketball season last weekend and Athletic Director Bob Basiliere, also the basketball coach, announced that the school will field a baseball team this spring for the first time.

"Several students requested that we have a baseball team," Basiliere said. Bob will continue as Quincy High's baseball coach and he expected a QJC coach to be announced this week.

The basketball team ended another successful season Saturday when it lost to Massasoit, 89-64, in the consolation game of the Mass. Junior College Conference playoffs.

Paul Beston of Quincy paced the QJC team in the losing cause.

Earlier in the week Quincy, which finished fourth in the conference, had bowed to second place Bryant and Stratton, 82-65. Besten led the scorers with 18 points, followed by Don Leonard with 15, Bob Papile with 12 and Frank Santoro with 10.

Quincy had qualified for the playoffs by beating Burdett, 87-67, in final game of the regular season.

Santoro paced the Colejuns in this one with 23 points, Papile had 19, Beston and Dave Marsden 12 each and Leonard 11.

Massasoit finished on top, Bryant and Stratton second, Grahm third and Quincy fourth. Grahm surprised Massasoit in the first round of the playoffs and Bryant and Stratton won the playoff title with a 111-91 romp over Grahm.

Quincy finished the regular season with a 13-7 record.

"We were on our way to a really fine season until we lost Al McLaughlin who was averaging nearly 20 points a game, and we just had no one to replace him," Basiliere said. "We went downhill after that but the other boys did an excellent job and it was another successful season."

It might also have been a little different story if 6-7 Steve Koen of Braintree had returned to the squad earlier. He returned after completing his Army stint but did not return in time to give the team too much assistance.

He did, however, give the 6-5 Santoro some help on the boards in the last few games.

The members of the QJC squad this year were Santoro of North Quincy, Beston, Papile and Pat Curry of Quincy, Leonard of Boston Tech, McLaughlin and John Houlihan of Charlestown, Marsden of Norwell, Charles Edgar from Abp. Williams, Ray Ross and Koen from Braintree and Ray McGann from Catholic Memorial.

YOUTH COUNCIL MEMBERS who will function as student legislators include, from left, front, Michael Conine, Broad Meadows Jr. High; Marion McEachern, Woodward School For Girls; Youth Council Mayor Clifford MacDonald, North Quincy High; Peter Gacicia, Sterling Jr. High and Frederick Gilbert, Central Jr. High. Rear, City Council president J. Vincent Smyth, Peter Doucette, Quincy Point Jr. High; Eric Johnson, Quincy High; Charles Santoro, Atlantic Jr. High; Michael Repucci, North Quincy and David D'Olimpio, Quincy High and Vocational-Technicial School.

some thoughts to consider when arranging for a funeral

Most people at some time will arrange a funeral or will assist in the arrangements. Important decisions must be made.

Our purpose is to provide information and suggestions that can help one make these decisions wisely and with more confidence.

The funeral is a ceremony of proven worth and value for those who mourn. It provides an opportunity for the survivors and others who share in the loss to express their love, respect and grief. It permits facing openly and realistically the crisis that death presents. Through the funeral the bereaved take that firm first step toward emotional adjustment to their loss.

No man is an island. His death touches and effects his world of relative, friends and associates in a direct and forceful way. In arranging a funeral it is well to consider the feelings of others who shared in or benefited by the life of the deceased. For sorrow shared is sorrow diminished.

Pre-Marital Seminar To Be Held For Couples Planning 'Mixed Marriages'

A unique pre-marital course for couples of mixed religious affiliations will be conducted by Quincy Protestant and Catholic clergymen beginning next month.

The first in the series of four sessions is scheduled for Sunday April 13, at 4 p.m. at Bethany Congregational Church.

"How Will You Form Your Children?" will be the subject discussed by Rev. Lawrence Pratt of St. John's Catholic Church and Rev. John Banks, pastor of Bethany Church.

The program format for this and the three other sessions to be held on the following three Sundays at the same hour will have two clergymen, one Catholic, one Protestant, speaking for 20 minutes each.

There will also be a question-answer period followed by a general discussion in smaller seminar groups.

The program, similar to one held in Canada last year, is designed for couples in the Quincy area who are planning so-called "mixed marriages" within the next six months.

Subjects, dates and speakers for the other three seminars are:

April 20--"What Makes Marriage A Christian Marriage?"-Rev. Ernest Hayhow, First Church of Squantum and Rev. Mark Sheehan, St. John's Church.

April 27--"Why Belong To Any Church?". Rev. Robert Blute, St. Ann's Church and Rev. Dean Benedict, Quincy Centre Methodist Church.

May 2--"What Is Christian Maturity?". Rev. Ronald Ober, Wollaston Methodist Church and Rev. James McCarthy, St. Joseph's Church.

Fr. Flaherty To Speak At Quincy K. of C. Breakfast

Rev. Walter W. Flaherty, associate pastor of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, will be guest speaker at the 75th anniversary Family Communion Breakfast of Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, March 30.

The breakfast will be at 9 a.m. at Morrisette Legion Post, West Quincy.

Members of the Council and their families will attend Mass at St. John's Church and receive Communion as a group before breakfast.

Fr. Flaherty is a delayed vocation priest who was appointment secretary to House Speaker John W. McCormack before entering the priesthood.

Leo F. McLaughlin, past grand knight, is general chairman of the communion breakfast. Adolph Concheri is ticket chairman.

LEO F. MC LAUGHLIN

The communion breakfast is the first in a series of planned activities commemorating the 75th anniversary of the Quincy Council Knights of Columbus' founding.

"Planners plan, plan and plan. I don't think we will have to worry about the Shawmut Trail as we know it, but someday, the DPW planners might specify another highway route between the South Shore coast and Rte. 3 which they will call the Shawmut Trail."

McIntyre said he if he is still in public office at that time, he will keep a close watch over the plans to protect the best interests of the Quincy-South Shore area.

The Shawmut Trail planners contended it would mean a long-sought new Fore River Bridge and eliminate dumping of traffic into Quincy off the Southeast Expressway at Neponset Circle.

"All it would do," insisted McIntyre, "would dump the traffic at Capen's Bridge and the Hingham Rotary instead of at Neponset."

McIntyre advocated that the new Fore River Bridge should be built without a tie-in with the Shawmut Trail.

"We need the bridge but we don't need the trail," he said.

A study is now underway as a result of legislation filed by him to widen the present span of the bridge to at least 300 feet to allow General Dynamics' Quincy Division to bid on contracts for super-sized ships.

The present bridge, dating back to the early 1930's, has a horizontal clearnace of only 175 feet, preventing today's king-sized ships from squeezing through.

McIntyre said his widening plan would make a new bridge a reality without the necessity of huge land-takings as would have the Shawmut Trail-bridge package.

Five Housing Tenants Nominated For Board

Edward M. Kennedy.

Action on city eligibility for the HUD program was one of the first programs in Mayor McIntyre's inaugural term. Quincy is one of only a few cities receiving benefits under the program.

The funds, if available, provide, in addition to loans and grants for urban renewal, liberal FHA mortgage insurance to assist in the private redevelopment of project areas and the rehousing of displaced families.

The city must show reasonable progress each year under its Workable Program to obtain recertification and remain eligible for these Federal aids.

The Workable Program is a municipal plan showing how the city intends to utilize its own public and private resources to eliminate slums and prevent blight.

A warning that Quincy could be a target for severe flooding has been sounded by State Civil Defense authorities.

The warning was echoed by Mayor James R. McIntyre and Quincy CD officials who have completed plants to meet any flooding emergency.

"There is a flood threat to Quincy if we have a sudden thaw, rapidly melting the snow and if we have heavy rains," the Mayor said.

Flood control measures were reviewed in a top level meeting of police, fire, CD and public works officials with Mayor McIntyre.

The preparations were underscored by State Civil Defense Director Allan R. Zenowitz' listing of Massachusetts communities most flood-prone. Quincy was on the ist.

Conferring with McIntyre to combat possible floods should the emergency arise, were Quincy CD Director John E. Schmock, Fire Chief Edward F. Barry, Sewer Dept. Supt, Denis F. Burke, City Engineer Henry F. Nilsen, Highway Supt. Alfred Raymondi and Police Capt. J. Edward Wuerth.

Quincy residents, including youngsters, were urged to assist in taking precautions to meet the impending high water dangers.

Mayor McIntyre made a personal appeal to youngsters to clear snow from catch basins. The youngsters–at the promise of an official letter of commendation–responded to the appeal early. Citations have been sent out to thirteen youngsters praising them for their work in clearing 15 area catch basins.

Other precautions being taken include:

A six-inch lowering of the water level at St. Moritz Pond directed by Capt. Fahey of the Blue Hills MDC Division to alleviate the overflow threat to West Quincy sections.

Stream clearance at Furnace Brook between Hancock St. and Newport Ave.

Clearance of debris at the culvert under Furnace Brook near the Furnace Brook School.

A lowering of the water level at Braintree Dam which overflowed last spring.

Discussed at the Quincy conference was the availability of emergency equipment needed to stem the waters if they should get to flood stage.

State officials reinforced local planning with a reminder that pumps, generators and sandbags should top the list of flood stocks.

Woodward School For Girls To Note 75th Anniversary Friday

The 75th anniversary program marking the founding of the Woodward School For Girls will be staged at 8 p.m. Friday at the school.

Guests attending the landmark anniversary program will include Mayor James R. McIntyre, Dr. Bradford E. Gale, chairman, board of directors and the school's board of managers, comprising Quincy ministers.

City historian William Edwards will judge the history paper project completed by school seniors. About 20 American History studies have been selected for award judging.

Awards will also be made for science fair projects completed by juniors and seniors from the chemistry classes.

Performing at the formal occasion will be the Woodward School Glee Club and Madrigal singers under the direction of Mrs. Frederick Schuerfeld.

Arrangements for the program are under the supervision of school principal Mrs. Katherine Bacon.

Secret Vote Slated

Shipyard Workers Set 2-Day Ballot On New Contract

Local 5 shipyard workers at General Dynamics, Quincy, are expected to receive details of a tentative contract proposal in time for a secret ballot next week to accept or reject settlement terms.

The possible agreement to avert a strike which would idle the yard's 8,500 work force, was hammered out at a marathon session which ended Sunday morning.

"The proposals are being printed and should be in your homes no later than this weekend," Local 5 leaders informed their membership in a hand-out leaflet.

The rigors of the prolonged bargaining sessions involving shipyard management, union officials and federal negotiators took its toll on at least one principal at the talks.

Local 5 president Ronald A. Orcutt was admitted to Goddard Hospital, Stoughton, Monday after collapsing. Orcutt had

Answers Student Critics

Smyth Asks 'Fair Chance' For City's Youth Council

City Council President J. Vincent Smyth last night appealed to critical students to give the new Youth Council "a fair chance" before condemning it.

Smyth, at the same time, defended the concept of the youth organization and branded as "unfounded and absolutely false", charges that dishonesty was involved in the election of members.

"Let's not condemn the program before it has been given a fair chance to prove itself," he said. "Then let's evaluate it."

He called for the support of all students--including those at Quincy High School who have questioned the Youth Council's value--to make the program a success.

"This is a sincere attempt to open a direct line of communication between city officials and the youth of Quincy," Smyth said.

"We have got to work together to solve problems of mutual interest. This is an opportunity to do so to make our city an even better city."

"We can't be blind to the fact that Quincy--like every other community today--is plagued with social as well as economic and financial problems."

Purpose of the 10-member Youth Council representing Quincy, North and Vocational-Technical High Schools and the city's junior high schools is to maintain an open line of communication between city officials and Quincy youth.

The Quincy High School newspaper "The Pony Express" carries a story in the current issue contending that:

"Most students feel that the (Youth) Council will serve no functions and will in no way represent the student's views."

The article also called the Youth Council an "extremely controversial subject" at the high school "because of the dishonesty displayed during last year's elections."

"The charges are unfounded and absolutely false," Smyth insisted.

Quinn Expects To Cut Budget By At Least Another $100,000

Chairman John J. Quinn expects the City Council's Finance Committee to cut at least another $100,000 from the 1969 municipal budget.

And, he is going to ask the autonomous School Committee to review its department budget "to try to find something to trim voluntarily to help ease this year's financial problems."

The Finance Committee, comprising all nine council members, has already slashed $208,591 from appropriation requests of 24 department heads.

That represents reduction of about $1.10 on this year's predicted $20 real estate tax hike.

"We are shooting for a possible $2 reduction," said Quinn. "We should be able to cut another $100,000 or more from the remaining department requests still to be looked over. That's our target."

Mayor James R. McIntyre's proposed municipal budget was a record $35.55 million--up 5.5 per cent over last year's. McIntyre trimmed $2.6 million from original appropriation requests before submitting the budget to the Council Feb. 18.

With it went his prediction of an ominous $20 tax hike. Present rate is $98.90.

"We'd like to get the increase down at least a couple of dollars

Special Tributes On Special Day For Former Wollaston Resident

A former Wollaston man will mark his 100th birthday March 28 with special tributes from Quincy City Hall and the State House.

Frank E. Bridgman, formerly of Buckingham Rd., and long-time assistant and clerk of the House of Representatives, is now a resident of Wesley Manor, Jacksonville, Fla.

The House of Representatives has passed a resolve congratulating him on his soon entrance to life's exclusive "Century Club".

The resolve was co-sponsored by Rep. Joseph E. Brett, Rep. Walter J. Hannon, both Quincy, and Rep. Herbert B. Hollis of Braintree.

It noted that Mr. Bridgman served as clerk of the House from 1928 to 1939 and for 31 years before that was assistant clerk.

It also pointed out that before then he was a pioneer on Beacon Hill--the first clerical assistant qualified to operate a typewriter in keeping legislative records.

An engrossed copy of the resolve is being sent him by Rep. Brett along with a personal letter.

Mayor James R. McIntyre is sending an Honorary Quincy Citizen certificate to Mr. Bridgman and a personal letter of congratulations.

And so that the former Quincy resident can keep up with the news back home, The Quincy Sun has already sent him a complimentary subscription to run until at least his 150th birthday.

Quincy Has Its Own 'Mission Impossible' Task Force Team

A special three-member Quincy detective task force may rival TV's famous "Mission Impossible" team.

The duties of the newly-created MI equivalent under Detective Captain Paul A. LaHive include surveillance and evidence-gathering operations--round the clock if necessary.

The three-man team works when called upon--at any time--to support police efforts in investigating cases for prosecution. Results from the new detective arm have been extremely productive since the task force went into official operation on March 5.

"This team can be called upon at any time for a wide range of assignments," detective officials said.

A warning that Quincy could be a target for severe flooding has been sounded by State Civil Defense authorities.

The warning was echoed by Mayor James R. McIntyre and Quincy CD officials who have completed plants to meet any flooding emergency.

"There is a flood threat to Quincy if we have a sudden thaw, rapidly melting the snow and if we have heavy rains," the Mayor said.

Flood control measures were reviewed in a top level meeting of police, fire, CD and public works officials with Mayor McIntyre.

The preparations were underscored by State Civil Defense Director Allan R. Zenowitz' listing of Massachusetts communities most flood-prone. Quincy was on the ist.

Conferring with McIntyre to combat possible floods should the emergency arise, were Quincy CD Director John E. Schmock, Fire Chief Edward F. Barry, Sewer Dept. Supt, Denis F. Burke, City Engineer Henry F. Nilsen, Highway Supt. Alfred Raymondi and Police Capt. J. Edward Wuerth.

Quincy residents, including youngsters, were urged to assist in taking precautions to meet the impending high water dangers.

Mayor McIntyre made a personal appeal to youngsters to clear snow from catch basins. The youngsters–at the promise of an official letter of commendation–responded to the appeal early. Citations have been sent out to thirteen youngsters praising them for their work in clearing 15 area catch basins.

Other precautions being taken include:

A six-inch lowering of the water level at St. Moritz Pond directed by Capt. Fahey of the Blue Hills MDC Division to alleviate the overflow threat to West Quincy sections.

Stream clearance at Furnace Brook between Hancock St. and Newport Ave.

Clearance of debris at the culvert under Furnace Brook near the Furnace Brook School.

A lowering of the water level at Braintree Dam which overflowed last spring.

Discussed at the Quincy conference was the availability of emergency equipment needed to stem the waters if they should get to flood stage.

State officials reinforced local planning with a reminder that pumps, generators and sandbags should top the list of flood stocks.

Woodward School For Girls To Note 75th Anniversary Friday

The 75th anniversary program marking the founding of the Woodward School For Girls will be staged at 8 p.m. Friday at the school.

Guests attending the landmark anniversary program will include Mayor James R. McIntyre, Dr. Bradford E. Gale, chairman, board of directors and the school's board of managers, comprising Quincy ministers.

City historian William Edwards will judge the history paper project completed by school seniors. About 20 American History studies have been selected for award judging.

Awards will also be made for science fair projects completed by juniors and seniors from the chemistry classes.

Performing at the formal occasion will be the Woodward School Glee Club and Madrigal singers under the direction of Mrs. Frederick Schuerfeld.

Arrangements for the program are under the supervision of school principal Mrs. Katherine Bacon.

Secret Vote Slated

Shipyard Workers Set 2-Day Ballot On New Contract

Local 5 shipyard workers at General Dynamics, Quincy, are expected to receive details of a tentative contract proposal in time for a secret ballot next week to accept or reject settlement terms.

The possible agreement to avert a strike which would idle the yard's 8,500 work force, was hammered out at a marathon session which ended Sunday morning.

"The proposals are being printed and should be in your homes no later than this weekend," Local 5 leaders informed their membership in a hand-out leaflet.

The rigors of the prolonged bargaining sessions involving shipyard management, union officials and federal negotiators took its toll on at least one principal at the talks.

Local 5 president Ronald A. Orcutt was admitted to Goddard Hospital, Stoughton, Monday after collapsing. Orcutt had

Answers Student Critics

Smyth Asks 'Fair Chance' For City's Youth Council

City Council President J. Vincent Smyth last night appealed to critical students to give the new Youth Council "a fair chance" before condemning it.

Smyth, at the same time, defended the concept of the youth organization and branded as "unfounded and absolutely false", charges that dishonesty was involved in the election of members.

"Let's not condemn the program before it has been given a fair chance to prove itself," he said. "Then let's evaluate it."

He called for the support of all students--including those at Quincy High School who have questioned the Youth Council's value--to make the program a success.

"This is a sincere attempt to open a direct line of communication between city officials and the youth of Quincy," Smyth said.

"We have got to work together to solve problems of mutual interest. This is an opportunity to do so to make our city an even better city."

"We can't be blind to the fact that Quincy--like every other community today--is plagued with social as well as economic and financial problems."

Purpose of the 10-member Youth Council representing Quincy, North and Vocational-Technical High Schools and the city's junior high schools is to maintain an open line of communication between city officials and Quincy youth.

The Quincy High School newspaper "The Pony Express" carries a story in the current issue contending that:

"Most students feel that the (Youth) Council will serve no functions and will in no way represent the student's views."

The article also called the Youth Council an "extremely controversial subject" at the high school "because of the dishonesty displayed during last year's elections."

"The charges are unfounded and absolutely false," Smyth insisted.

Quinn Expects To Cut Budget By At Least Another $100,000

Chairman John J. Quinn expects the City Council's Finance Committee to cut at least another $100,000 from the 1969 municipal budget.

And, he is going to ask the autonomous School Committee to review its department budget "to try to find something to trim voluntarily to help ease this year's financial problems."

The Finance Committee, comprising all nine council members, has already slashed $208,591 from appropriation requests of 24 department heads.

That represents reduction of about $1.10 on this year's predicted $20 real estate tax hike.

"We are shooting for a possible $2 reduction," said Quinn. "We should be able to cut another $100,000 or more from the remaining department requests still to be looked over. That's our target."

Mayor James R. McIntyre's proposed municipal budget was a record $35.55 million--up 5.5 per cent over last year's. McIntyre trimmed $2.6 million from original appropriation requests before submitting the budget to the Council Feb. 18.

With it went his prediction of an ominous $20 tax hike. Present rate is $98.90.

"We'd like to get the increase down at least a couple of dollars

Special Tributes On Special Day For Former Wollaston Resident

A former Wollaston man will mark his 100th birthday March 28 with special tributes from Quincy City Hall and the State House.

Frank E. Bridgman, formerly of Buckingham Rd., and long-time assistant and clerk of the House of Representatives, is now a resident of Wesley Manor, Jacksonville, Fla.

The House of Representatives has passed a resolve congratulating him on his soon entrance to life's exclusive "Century Club".

The resolve was co-sponsored by Rep. Joseph E. Brett, Rep. Walter J. Hannon, both Quincy, and Rep. Herbert B. Hollis of Braintree.

It noted that Mr. Bridgman served as clerk of the House from 1928 to 1939 and for 31 years before that was assistant clerk.

It also pointed out that before then he was a pioneer on Beacon Hill--the first clerical assistant qualified to operate a typewriter in keeping legislative records.

An engrossed copy of the resolve is being sent him by Rep. Brett along with a personal letter.

Mayor James R. McIntyre is sending an Honorary Quincy Citizen certificate to Mr. Bridgman and a personal letter of congratulations.

And so that the former Quincy resident can keep up with the news back home, The Quincy Sun has already sent him a complimentary subscription to run until at least his 150th birthday.

New Contract

participated in round-the-clock bargaining with shipyard officials and federal mediators in a week of virtually non-stop talks.

Following the tentative agreement Sunday, the Local 5 head said he was "quite satisfied and hopeful" that a final pact would be ratified.

The 5300 members of the affected local will vote on the agreement in secret ballot on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 25 and 26. Work is continuing at the shipyard under a 14-day extension of the present contract.

All proposals will be retroactive as of March 16, 1969.

In notifying its members of the impending ballot, Local 5 officials stated:

"It has been brought to our attention that some people have been spreading rumors, stating that the Unior has surrendered two half day holidays and has failed to reduce the employee's weekly insurance payments until the last year of the contract. This is a lie, as you will find out when you read the proposal."

"If these rumors continue, we have no alternative but to publish the proposal prior to the membership receiving them at their homes," the Union statement concluded.

Other than this possibility of an early disclosure, no information on the proposed settlement has been released by union or management or is expected before the mailing to local members.

The union turned down company contract offers in June and December. The June proposals included a 55-cent boost over five years and the December offer a 63-cent, five year boost. Increased fringe benefits were included in both offers.

Notifying union members officially of the latest negotiated offer were Local 5 board members Ronald Orcutt, president; George McCall, vice president; George MacPherson, executive secretary; Fred Burgess, recording secretary; Antonio Svizzero, treasurer; Joseph Peter Duffy, John McGonnigal and Robert Kehoe.

Sunbeams

THE QUINCY CITY primary election is still six months away but it's never too early for candidates to start thinking about it.

And giving serious thought to a School Committee bid is Nicholas V. Trifone, former assistant Quincy city planning director and teacher. Trifone is now registrar of Grahan Junior College, Boston, and former registrar at the Boston University School of Education. Friends say he will definitely run.

IT'S BACK TO school for Councillor-Rep. Clifford Marshall. He's going part-time (two days, two nights) to Suffolk University studying English and psychology.

SPEAKING OF Marshall, his attractive wife, Louise, state Democratic committeewoman, is on a diet and trimmed off 20 pounds in two months. She's the mother of four young boys--but doesn't look it. It's an easy diet, in case you girls are interested: just cut down on eating.

SUMMER ISN'T FAR away and you'll soon be basking in the sun and lolling on the sand at Quincy beaches. But if it wasn't for the city Park Department there wouldn't be too much sand to loll on. The beaches take a terrific beating from winter's northeast storms which cause heavy erosion. Park Department crews will soon be out replacing tons of sand washed away this winter. Last year alone, notes Park-Recreation Board Executive Secretary Richard J. Koch, some 1,531 cubic yards of sand were replaced at nine city beaches.

AGAIN THIS YEAR, one of the top local summer attractions, of course, will be Quincy Bay Race Week in early August. This gets bigger and bigger each year. In fact, noted Harbor Master Michael Benedict, it is already the second largest event of its kind on the East Coast and--the fifth largest in the world.

ATTENTION, MEDICAL JOURNAL: Ask furniture store owner Max London what a headache is and he can finally tell you. The long-time Quincy Square business personality was hit with his first one and took his first aspirin--at the age of 85! And we thought every businessman had his share of headaches. (P.S.--That historic aspirin turned the trick).

THE QUINCY HEALTH CENTER, in case you haven't noticed, is one of the busiest places in town. Thousands of Quincy residents--adults and children--take good advantage of the numerous Health Department offered services. Here's a few sample figures from Health Commissioner John T. Foley for 1968: 5,115 persons had X-rays taken. A total of 3,094 teeth were filled at the department's school dental clinics.

Germantown Youth Corps Organized

Officers have been elected by the newly-formed Youth Corps in Germantown–"The Changing Teens."

Elected president was Terry Rogers. Serving on the new Planning Board will be:

Robert MacNeil, Tom Feeney, Michele DeGust, John Fischel, Bonnie Saltzman.

Adult advisors will be Frank Pace, Arnie Saltzman and Robert MacNeil.

The new group is making plans to start a fund-raising dance to provide a new Community Center in Germantown. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will be an invited guest at the event.

A petition supporting the need for the new center is now being prepared and will be presented to Sen. Kennedy, Rep.-City Councillor Arthur Tobin, Councillor Edward S. Graham, State Sen.-Mayor James R. McIntyre and Cong. James A. Burke.

Dr. Mann To Address Next Rotary Meeting

Dr. Edward S. Mann, president of Eastern Nazarene College, will be the guest speaker at the March 25 meeting of Quincy Rotary at the Neighborhood Club.

Dr. Mann will discuss the school's forthcoming celebration of its 50th anniversary.

Quincy Rotarians enjoyed their annual St. Patrick's meeting festivities when they celebrated as guests of Milton Rotarians on Wednesday. Frank Hackett served as inter-club chairman.

The March 11 Rotary meeting was highlighted by the appearance of guest John F. X. Davoren, Secretary of State. He discussed the increasingly serious problem of harmful drug use among teen-agers.

The state official also emphasized his opposition to the proposed reduction in the size of the Mass. legislature and supported a study by a Blue Ribbon Committee.

The following nominations were submitted by nominating committee chairman Peter Ruscitto. Elections will be held on March 25.

Bert Eckblom, president-elect; Russell Scammell, vice president; Richard Tibbetts, secretary and Vincent Banco, treasurer.

Nominated for three director vacancies were John Bersani, Russell Johnson, Joseph Pinel, Hobie Robinson, George Ventia and Curt Woodbury.

Candidates to fill a forthcoming vacancy for the John D. McKay Scholarship Fund are Maurice Daly, Phil Lawrence, Gil Fernald and George Sabean.

Memorial plans have been announced by president Edmond Demski for the donation of books for the Rotary Book Shelf in honor of late member D. Foster Taylor.

Arts, Humanities Council Projects Topic On March 27

The chairman of the Mass. Council on Arts and Humanities, John Ransford Watts, will be the guest speaker at the Quincy Historical Society meeting on Thursday, March 27, at the United First Parish Church, Quincy Square.

Mr. Watts will discuss the work of the Council and its value to communities such as Quincy and to cultural organizations such as the Quincy Historical Society.

The meeting is open to all interested persons and will start at 7:30 p.m.

The Council is concerned with the quality of production, performance or presentation of the arts and humanities. Fields of reference include visual arts, festivals, historic preservations and restorations.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

The test of love is not the absence of conflict . . . the test of love is working through conflict to a solution which both parties can accept. In pre-marital counseling after hearing many of the wonderful things each has to say about the other, I usually say . . . "O. K. now what are your conflicts? . . . What do you quarrel about?" Often comes the reply . . . "Nothing . . . we just have no differences at all . . . that's how we know we are in love." My task is to find and show them where conflict is likely to arise . . . and ways to resolve problems.

I believe that people who haven't found their areas of conflict just do not know each other . . . or that one is being submerged . . . repressing his/her real feelings. Sooner or later one tires of being a "door mat" . . . just agreeing without a word. If you haven't found a pattern for resolving conflict . . . that probably should be your next big milestone . . . even before a color T.V. . . . for since conflict is inevitable one or both of you otherwise will be terribly unhappy much of the time. The inability to resolve problems leads in the end to divorce.

A man said recently . . . "She wouldn't speak to me for six days . . . she never admits she's made a mistake . . . she has an uncanny way of blaming me for the difficulty. I find myself saying "I'm sorry" when the truth is I have nothing to be sorry about . . . but I just can't stand the strained relationship."

A wife told the counselor . . . "He won't listen . . . he thinks he's always right. We argue vehemently . . . throw ugly accusations at each other . . . but he will never admit he was wrong. If only he'd say, I'm sorry, honey, I was wrong . . . I could have so much more respect for him."

These people may have other problems such as Weakness . . . immaturity . . . self-centeredness . . . what we used to call the "spoiled brat." But certainly what is clear is that they have not learned how to work through their problems. Most of our conflicts are over unmet needs . . . one withholding what he/she can give. This is a common ailment with marriages today. The inter-personal relationship is where your real adulthood shows. You can exude charm like perfume in a party group . . . but what really counts is the one to one relationship . . . one man to one woman . . . one woman to one man. Where does your marriage stand in problem solving? There will always be problems for we humans are problem solving animals. Have you found your pattern?

Let me make some suggestions . . . First of all TALK . . . not violently and in heat of temper . . . just rational talk. "Tell it as it is . . . face it . . . acknowledge the problem. "We have a problem . . . here's the way I see it . . . how do you see it?" Say what you feel . . . each of you. Talk about why you feel as you do . . . when it started. . . . what it means . . . what WE together shall do about it.

Secondly . . . LISTEN to what the other is saying. If you are thinking of smart counter remarks to make, you can't listen. Let there be dialogue . . . talking and listening . . . explain what you mean. If you don't understand . . . ask. "Oh . . . I see now what you mean" . . . could be a common response.

Thirdly . . . FEEL what the other person is feeling. If she is crying out for affection . . . try to feel this hungering need yourself . . .

95th Birthday Brings Family, Church Honors

A double celebration marked a memorable birthday milestone–her 95th–for Mrs. Ada Nado, 12A Homestead Ave., Houghs Neck.

A parishioner of the Blaney Memorial Baptist Church, Dorchester, for many years, Mrs. Nado was honored at a reception at the parsonage on March 16. About 100 friends, relatives and well-wishers attended the tribute to extend birthday greetings.

Mrs. Nado was also the birthday guest on March 18 at a family dinner at her home.

A native of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, Mrs. Nado has resided in Quincy for the past nine years, coming here from Dorchester. She is the mother of Mrs. Harriet Shelley, a clerk-typist in the office of the city auditor.

She is also the proud matriarch of six grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren.

GOP Committeeman Republican Women Speaker March 21

Republican State Committeeman Edward F. King of West Roxbury will be the guest speaker Friday (March 21) at the monthly meeting of the Women's Republican Club of Quincy.

The meeting will get underway at the Woodward School for Girls with a 1 p.m. coffee hour followed by a 2 p.m. business meeting.

Mr. King, a Republican nominee for State Senator in 1964, represents West Roxbury, Roslindale, Jamaica Plain and Roxbury, on the State Committee. He was elected vice chairman of the Boston Republican City Committee in 1968.

He is a member of the Massachusetts Republican Club, Suffolk County and Greater Boston Republican Clubs and the New England Association of Baseball Umpires.

Mr. King, 28, is employed as a financial systems specialist by Remington Rand Corp.

South Shore Television Wins National Award

South Shore Television, 1570 Hancock St., Quincy Center, has won a top national award for outstanding retail merchandising and advertising.

The downtown store, a regular advertiser in The Quincy Sun, was selected from among 286 finalists throughout the country for Certificate of Distinction honors in the 21st Annual Brand Name Retailer-of-the-Year Awards Competition.

Announcement was made in New York by H. Ford Perine, President of Brand Names Foundation, climaxing three days of intensive judging of presentations submitted by the 286 finalists.

Advertisements appearing in The Quincy Sun were part of the presentation submitted by Ferdinand (Pete) and Remo DeNicola, owners of South Shore Television.

Representatives of the nine winning firms will accept their awards at the annual banquet to be held at the Americana Hotel, New York City, April 10.

Attending the event will be business and civic leaders and top executives of Brand Names Foundation's member firms.

Remo DeNicola will accept South Shore Television's award in behalf of that company.

He and the other eight winners will also participat as members of Brand Names Foundation's Retail Advisory Council, in the Foundation's annual meetings April 9-10.

South Shore Television, which started as a two-man business in a small Quincy Point shop in 1948 is now one of the largest television, radio and home appliance dealers in the Greater Boston area.

Personnel now numbers 25, including 15 licensed master technicians, with the present store comprising more than 6,000 square feet. The DeNicola brothers have plans for future expansion.

Theme of the Brand Names Foundation's meetings will be "Freedom Of Choice". Press conferences with the retail winners, retail seminars to exchange promotional ideas, a consumer panel, speakers and entertainment will also be highlights of the two-day event.

Brand Names Foundation was established in 1943 with the objective of maintaining and strengthening brand competition, "the cornerstone of a free and efficient marketplace."

Members of Brand Names are the nation's leading makers of advertised brands in all categories of consumer products, advertising agencies and communications media.

Purpose of the annual meeting is to help guide the Retail Advisory Council in its plans for merchandising and trade programs for the coming year and to provide retailers and manufacturers the opportunity to meet and strengthen areas of mutual interest.

'Fair Chance' Asked By Smyth

The article said that no Vocational-Technical School student "bothered to take the initiative" to fill out nomination papers thus forfeiting a seat on the Youth Council to Quincy High School.

Smyth said he and Councillor Arthur Tobin, chairman of the City Council's Youth Committee, spoke to school assemblies called by the principals. He said they spoke to eligible candidates from both Quincy High and the Vocational Technical School at a combined assembly.

"In effect, they (Vocational-Technical School students) had the same equal opportunity and time to take out nomination papers and file them," Smyth said.

"It was the hope of everyone that a student from the Vocational-Technical School would be represented on the Youth Council. Inasmuch as no Vocational Technical student filed papers, that school is now represented by the Quincy High School council member."

The high school newspaper article quoted what it said was sample opinions of students regarding the Youth Council.

One was quoted as saying: "I think it's a waste of time and that the city councilors will not take the kids seriously. I don't give them that much credit."

Another was quoted: "The idea is good but it's just a front so that thy kids can't say they weren't given a chance to express their opinions."

To which Smyth replied:

"This is no front on our part. This is a sincere attempt to open and maintain a direct line of communication between city officials and the youth of our city. We will take very seriously what the kids have to say. We are very interested in their feelings and opinions.

On Beacon Hill

By Rep. Walter J. Hannon

(On Beacon Hill maks its debut today as a regular feature of The Quincy Sun. Quincy's state legislative delegation will alternate reporting weekly to their Quincy constituents as a public service. Rep. Walter J. Hannon leads off the series.)

People are responsible for government, whether it be good or bad, I have no intention of scolding my constituents, but I feel that I must tell it like it is.

We are in bad shape in this state fiscally and this is not news to anyone. But how did we get that way should be the question, and how do we come out of it, the answer.

Having served on the City Council for the past six years and the General Court one term, you could almost see it coming. Many of my colleagues in both city and state government have cried out in alarm, only to have their advice fall on deaf ears.

Many times my philosophy (conservative was ridiculed and I was told that this was the twentieth century. We may see this century go down in history as a total fiscal disaster.

The General Court has passed legislation that was high-sounding and socially expedient, but never was a cost estimate tagged onto these pieces of legislation, such as the Willis-Harrington Report, state take-over of welfare, collective bargaining for municipal employees, total autonomy for school committees, re-organization of the Mental Health Department, and many more hidden costs that will cost hundreds of millions of dollars for years to come.

The total cost of state government ten years ago was approximately $475 million. Today it is $1.500 billion. And, of that figure $450 million is for welfare. We are told that these last few years have been our most prosperous years in the past thirty.

The answers are not easy to come by, but it is safe to say that all legislation must have a hard look at it dollar-wise. We cannot do all the things we would like to do all at once, regardless of the cost. My concern is for the middle-class homeowner of my city, who is bearing the brunt of these bills.

We must be flexible in our thinking here in Quincy when it comes to high rise, new industry, and change in general. If we are to keep our homes and have a healthy city, we must accept some changes.

We all must bear the responsibility for our present plight, because we vote these people into office and then forget about them and what they do, good or bad.

It seems that in the past few years, the politician that has argued for reform in government such as reduction in the size of the House, salary increases, civil service reform, are the people who are being voted out of office.

You must concern yourselves more, take that little extra time and see what your Councillor or State Representative is doing and then maybe we will see a more sound attitude toward our fiscal responsibility.

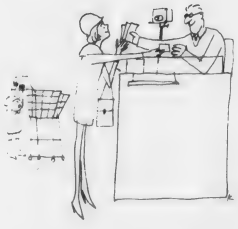
We have good people in local and state government. Support and encourage them and let them know your feelings. Abraham Lincoln said people get the government they deserve. I think you deserve the very best; anything less than that and you are being cheated.

Travel Night Set March 26 By Knights of Pythias

The President's Lodge, Knights of Pythias of Quincy, has announced that their first annual "Travel Night" will be held on Wednesday (March 26) from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Charter House Motel, South Shore Plaza, Braintree.

This night, to benefit the Cerebral Palsy Research Fund, will focus on the exciting countries of the Iberian Peninsula, Spain and Portugal. Representatives of the Portugese airline, TAP, will give a film presentation and answer questions. Representatives from World Wide Travel Agency of Quincy will also be on hand to discuss travel.

As a special feature, Mico Imports, one of Boston's leading art galleries, will have a showing of selected oil paintings by renowned Spanish and Portugese artists.



Admission at the door is by donation, with all proceeds going to the Cerebral Palsy Fund.

Discipline Flavored With Hope

Rally round dejected parents- all has not gone to "Pot".

We have listened with interest to the rebels (and long may they live) and to their demands, their recriminations and complaints of the deficiencies of their elders. If you have been stunned at the suddenness of the attack keep up your courage. If abuse of elders has suddenly occurred it must have been long in coming-deserved perhaps- but we are not necessarily lost as a generation. The gaps they talk about may just be crevices.

Why the sudden explosion? What predicted violence, disrespect and the unlicensed abuse of parents? Could it be that we were guilty of overhandedness, nearsighted in restricting free expression and of being over-zealous and protective in restraining youth's natural appetites and emotions? I for one can't believe that we as parents have been any different than any other generation. We are not incompetent.

It is more likely that the "condition extant today" was long overdue and the deluge was precipitated as a record- all other records are being broken in a statistically crazed period- so why not attitudes too? (Attitudes such as respect your elders, love your neighbor, children should be seen and not heard.) Then again, Thoreau's statement that the elderly never had anything wise to offer youth may now be understood thoroughly and fervently. Yet if this is true it must always have been so.

Materialism is being blamed and that wants and needs exceed fidelity and parental respect. After all, the vocal say, they never asked to be born, and the world is a hell of a place. At best your morals are no good because nobody believes in them. Most importantly we have built the false concept that everybody has a right to his own opinion and that it is as good as another's. This might be true if opinions were logically analyzed, weighed and discussed.

Do we really have a right to a wrong opinion? Is the ethic discarded for morals or opinion? I don't believe an ethic can stimulate an emotion or an opinion. On the other hand I can understand how morals, emotions and rights to opinions precipitate trouble.

As we witnessed the "escape to Nature" in the various youth compounds, a surprising fact pertains- not one of these idyllic encampments survives largely due to lack of discipline, purpose, and even law and order. If a group of undisciplined adolescents with opinions, self-created morals and pseudo ethical concepts expect to tolerate one another while they are surrounded by a struggling, confused but tried moral society- - which do you think will give in or dissipate its organization or lack of it?

One thing is certain- the world will never be the same. Hooray! The Old Cosmos has long needed a shake-up and scrutiny of it's values, moral, physical and spiritual. Commendation to the rebels who have suffered painfully, the price of societal inconsideration. They will learn that intravenous injections will never replace the boot in the pants which might have made appreciation of one's own well-being more profound and meaningful- or that neighborhoods or environments could have been worse.

Nothing will replace the golden rule as the ethic or love of ones self as a respect which in time can mature to include even parents and all races, regardless of color. As slow as this simple truth is in it's comprehension, it is inevitable.

What has all the preceding to do with "House Call" or the subject title? The basic ingredient for maturity and the pathway to it is discipline. This means learning by example, being taught the values of existence, a process of self-realization developed from love of parent to child. Intelligence is not as necessary as honesty of affection which is not necessarily bestowed on the bright alone.

One thing is certain, maturity will never be reached by drugs-if reached temporarily it was reached unnaturally and cannot be maintained. The knocks and blows and pains of natural growth, as tedious as they might be by existential standards are still the best road to acceptance of life, its occupants and its meaning.

If you can get a copy of the New York Times Magazine section-Page 93, March 15th, Sunday- I commend its reading. Or better yet read the forth-coming book "Child Sense" by William Homan M.D. (Basic Books), a sound pediatric approach to discipline. The title of the Sunday article was "Discipline Means to Teach." Would you say that the aimless direction of youth's movements will teach us anything more than to take stock of ourselves?

BUDGET-CUTTERS wielded a sharp pencil at this recent Finance Committee session devoted to paring proposed expenditures. Presiding was chairman John J. Quinn and, clockwise, were Councillors Walter J. Hannon, George B. McDonald, J. Vincent Smyth and committee clerk Percy N. Lane.

from that," said Quinn.

On tap for Saturday's 10 a.m. pruning session in the council chamber are the police, fire, public works and school departments.

"But we can't do anything with the school budget," noted Quinn. "We can't order the school committee to cut it, and we can't cut it. All we can do is ask them to review the figures and look for something that could be trimmed this year."

Quinn noted that the $13.6 million school department budget is up $1.9 million over 1967.

"That's equivalent to $10 on this year's tax rate alone," he said.

William E. Kelley, Cohasset, was re-elected President and Chief Executive Officer of the Hancock Bank Quincy for the coming year at the recent annual meeting.

The Board of Directors also voted to lease the entire Sheridan Building, 1495 Hancock St., Quincy and to completely remodel it as the home office of the Hancock Bank. Sheridans is closing its Quincy operations.

President Kelley informed the Board that the bank's 13th office is nearing completion in the Tri-Town Mall, Cobb's Corner, Canton.

Francis A. Hunt, Dedham was re-elected Secretary and William F. Smith, Braintree, was again names Assistant Secretary by the Stockholders.

The bank's Board of Directors, at a meeting directly following the Stockholders meeting, elected Chester J. Weeden, Wollaston, Chairman; Vernon B. Hitchins, Dover, Vice-Chairman and Andrew G. Geishecker, Dedham, Chairman of the Executive Committee.

Twenty-four directors were re-elected. They are: George D. Reardon, Hingham; Henry A. Gallagher, Wollaston; Mr. Weeden; Frank H. Foy, Wollaston, Mr. Hitchins, Frank W. Musche, Dedham.

Also: John W. Kapples, Quincy, Lawrence F. Blackwell, Osterville; A. Franklin Swift, Jr., Norwood; Harold A. Slate, Milton; Harrison B. Siegle; Westwood; Paul E. Hurley, Boston; Mr. Kelley; Mr. Geishecker; Rocco J. Vitelli, Dedham.

Also: Robert P. Greaves, Dedham; Henry Hoffman, Weymouth; F. William Lawton, Hanover; J. Brooks Robbie, Milton; Sidney Shneider, Newton; Willis D. McLean, Walpole, Frank E. Remick, Boston; Mr. Smith and Mr. Hunt.

New Constable Group Elects Officer Slate

Officers were elected at the organizing meeting of the new South Shore Constables Association. The new group has announced plans for participation by 30 area towns in working to alleviate the problems associated with process-serving and increase efficiencies in procedure.

The following officers, all residents of Quincy, have been named:

Roanld N. Halter, president and secretary; Edward V. Rando, vice president; David J. Maloney, Robert M. Westland, assistant vice presidents and Lloyd V. Carroll, treasurer.

The newly-elected officers served during the past summer as members of the Quincy Vandalism Committee and the Vandalism Patrol. The committee was formed by City Councillor Arthur H. Tobin and worked in conjunction with the Quincy Auxiliary Police.

N.Q. Boosters Club Social On Saturday

THE NORTH QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL BOOSTERS CLUB will hold its annual social Saturday at the Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Road, Quincy Point. A buffet will be served and there will be dancing from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Tickets may be obtained from any of the following: Fred Cobban, 773-4052; Daniel Dieso, 471-0645; Sam Meyer, 773-5114; Tom Polvere, 479-6055. Mr. Meyer is General Chairman.

S.S. Quarterback Club To Honor Rush, Sauer Monday

Clive Rush, new Boston Patriots head coach and new General Manager George Sauer, will be honored by the South Shore Quarterback Club at a reception dinner March 24, 7 p.m., at the South Shore Country Club, Hingham.

The 125-member Quarterback Club, including Quincy residents and businessmen, is in its third year of existence concentrating on the likes and dislikes of professional football fans.

Pete Zoia, former North Quincy Alumni football team coach and Lee (Mac) McGlennon, North Quincy automobile salesman, are members of the committee planning the dinner. Charles Lowe of Weymouth is program chairman.

Reservations may be made by contacting Zoia at 72 Farrington St., or McClennen at Swift and Bachman, 330 Hancock St. Ladies are welcomed to attend. No tickets will be sold at the door.

Other Quincy residents who are active members of the club are:

Dick Gardner, Deerfield St.; Bill Anderson, Atlantic St.; Tom Spring, Pratt Rd.; Larry Smith, Franklin Ave.; Ed Cutler, and Jim Wood, Greenwood Ave. and Bill Leone, Willard St.

Any pro football fan is eligible to join the club which meets once a month on the fourth Monday.

Also in the limelight at Monday's dinner in honor of Rush and Sauer will be Barry Gallup, Boston College tight end, and one of the Patriots' draft choices.

Rush, 37-year old, fashioned the offense that led the New York Jets to its Super Bowl win over the Baltimore Colts. He is a graduate of Miami of Ohio, and three of his teammates there have gone on to be highly successful college coaches. They are Johnny Pont, Jim Root and Carmen Cozza.

Rush played one year with the Green Bay Packers then went into coaching. He worked under Hugh Devere at Dayton, Woody Hayes at Ohio State and Bud Wilkinson at Oklahoma. And then took over as head coach at Toledo, staying there for three years before joining Woob Ewbank and the Jets in 1963.

Joe Namath, Jets All-Pro quarterback when told of Rush's appointment as head coach of the Patriots said, "it's going to be a great loss to us. He really made a tremendous contribution to our championship."

Sauer 56, was an All-American fullback at Nebraska and also played with the Packers before taking over the head coaching job at New Hampshire before World War II. He served on the carrier Enterprise and then led Kansas to the Orange Bowl. He also served at Navy and Bayler before moving to the New York team as director of player personnel in 1961.

His son, George Jr., former Texas All American was a big factor in the Jets win in Miami.

Burke Named Baseball Coach At Jr. College

A former North Quincy baseball and football standout has been named as Quincy Junior College's first baseball coach.

Director of Athletics Bob Basiliere announced that Dave Burke will be coach the first QJC baseball team this spring.

Burke, a 1946 graduate of North Quincy where he was an all-time great as an infielder in baseball and back in football, is currently a teacher of mathematics and assistant football coach at Quincy High School.

Dave went on to star in baseball at Bowdoin College, played a good deal of amateur and semi-pro baseball and coached baseball at Browne and Nichols School for several years.

"Dave has a wonderful baseball background and I think is a fine choice," said Basiliere, who coaches the QJC basketball team but will continue as Quincy High's baseball coach.

U-Mass Chorale In Sunday Concert At Bethany Church

The University of Massachusetts Chorale will present a concert at Bethany Congregational Church, Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The group, acclaimed during a cross-country appearance tour last spring, will present a program of fine music ranging from 16th century choral masterpieces to the modern-day "folk" tunes.

Appearing with the Chorale will be the Chamber Singers, a 10-member group, singing French chansons and two choruses from Alice In Wonderland by Irving Fine.

The Chorale will present Graun's "Surely, He Hath Borne Our Grief", Gretchaninoff's "Nune Dimittus", Brahm's two motets, "Schaffe in mir, Gott" and "Troste mich wieder", and other numbers.

The men of the Chorale will sing a group of sea chanties in a special feature of the concert.

South Shore Dividend Increase

The South Shore National Bank's Board of Directors declared a 20% increase in the stock dividend, raising the dividend from $1.00 a share to $1.20 per share, it was learned this week. South Shore National Bank is a wholly owned subsidiary of Shorebank, Inc.

St. John's Baseball Registration Sunday

Registration for St. John's Boys Baseball League for the coming season will be held Sunday in St. John's Parish Hall in the rectory basement from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. Registration is open to all boys of the parish ages eight through twelve.

All boys including those who played in the league last season must register for the new season. Boys registering for the first time must be accompanied by a parent.

Any fathers interested in helping out as managers, coaches, or umpires are urged to get in touch with Anthony Constantino, League Chairman, during the registration hours.

More than two hundred boys of the parish joined the league last season.

Quincy Greats Return

Wily Old-Timers To Face Varsity In Hoop Benefit

The Quincy (not so) Old Timers will attempt to narrow the athletic gap with the now-generation on the basketball court Friday, (March 28).

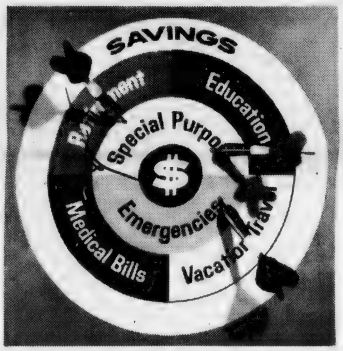
The important hoop benefit will be a tribute to Quincy's late athletic director and coach Munro MacLean. Proceeds of the 8 p.m. contest will be donated towards the newly-established scholarship fund in MacLean's honor.

One player from each of Coach MacLean's post-war teams will represent the starry alumni against the Quincy High School varsity.

Former basketball greats and their class years will include:

Ed 'Cookie' Needel (1946), Carl Leone (1947), Dinny DiNardo (1948), Bob Pettinelli (1949), George Burke (1950), Pete Ramponi (1951), Dick Barry (1952), Henry Berry (1953), Andy Oriola (1954), Jim Colclough (1955), Cliff Marshall (1956), Nick Galante (1957), Bill Dennissen (1958), John Rodaphele (1959).

Coaching the yesteryear stars will be Steve Needel (1956). Slated for duties as referee is City Treasurer Dave Houston.



In addition to a decided weight edge, the Old-Timers also have the law on their side in the persons of Norfolk County Dist. Atty. Burke and Asst. D. A. Barry.

Burke, a one-time Boston Celtic rookie, promises not to put the losers under lock and key. (A word to the Varsity: Burke keeps in shape regularly with basketball workouts).

Another alumnus in shape to go the route is former football Patriot Colclough--also a member of the touring Patriots basketball team.

The contest will be the feature of two events at the Quincy Voch-Tech gym. A 6:30 p.m. preliminary will feature the varsity hockey team vs. the cheerleaders. The hockey team will play with their gloves on.

Tickets for the Scholarship Benefits are on sale at all branches of the Quincy Savings Bank and at the Quincy Sun Office, 7 Foster St.

'Mr. YMCA' To Thousands

City Loses A Landmark As Gil Crofts Retires

By TOM SULLIVAN

After serving the Quincy YMCA for 43 years, Gilbert L. "Crum" Crofts will retire April 1 to start a new career for himself and to say he will leave a huge void at the "Y" is one of the understatements of the year.

I worked with him for many years covering "Y" sports when he handled the athletic program and he is one of the finest men and most dedicated and hardest workers I have ever met.

In making the announcement of Crofts' retirement, Dr. V. James DiNardo, president of the "Y," paid this tribute to the veteran executive and one of Quincy's most respected citizens:

"Gilbert L. Crofts has served this community and our association for 39 years since he was first appointed to its professional staff in 1930. (He served the "Y" for four years before that appointment). Under his leadership as General Secretary, a post to which he was appointed in 1956, the Quincy YMCA has increased its membership five-fold during the past decade reaching a new membership high of 7100 men, women, boys and girls.

"The institution he has led has had a truly significant impact on the lives of thousands of persons it has served. He has truly practiced the biblical admonition 'Not to be ministered unto, but to minister.'"

"I am glad that I have contributed to the amazing growth of the "Y", "Crum" said. "I remember when we had only 500 members at the old building."

He introduced Little League baseball to Quincy in 1951, the first such movement on the South Shore.

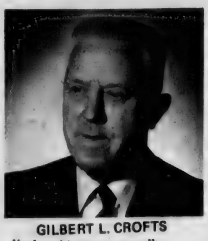
"Beverly and Pittsfield started Little League in 1950 and after I started it in Quincy, I was asked to go around the South Shore area and try to get the movement started in those towns," he said. "Braintree was the last to start it and it has developed one of the finest programs in the State."

Thanks to "Crum," Quincy built an excellent Little League field complete with loud speaker and everything to make it "big time."

I well remember covering Little League ball in Quincy and seeing the program develop with some excellent baseball men at the helm. Quincy's managers included several with extensive minor league experience.

Gil also brought spring and summer outdoor basketball leagues to Quincy in 1947 and most South Shore towns joined in the leagues, which had the backing of the high school coaches.

"Many of the high school teams played intact in our league and although the coaches didn't coe right out and handle them, they had plenty of interest in them," Crum said. "We had the first summer outdoor leagues and many surrounding towns including Hingham, Rockland and others have started similar leagues in recent years."



In 1946 Crofts began a softball league and Quincy had the first lighted field. The Y sponsored a South Shore Tourney for many years and an Open Tourney which attracted teams from all over New England.

"A big reason for the success of our softball leagues and tournaments were several clinics we sponsored including those for pitchers and umpires," Gil added. "I'm convinced that softball can be revived around here if only someone took the initiative. But these days everyone seems to want to get by with a minimum of work and apparently there is no one around to get things started again. We used to have some terrific crowds at our tournaments."

A native of Quincy, Crum recalls playing in a grammar school league back in 1924. "We used to take the train to South Quincy and other sections of the city. It was quite a league," he said.

He was also actively involved with the Y's extensive Sunday School basketball league which now has nerly 1,800 boys and girls playing in it.

"This is a great league for them," he said. "It includes or has included Catholic, Protestant and Greek Orthodox churches and Jewish synagogues. Back in 1952 the B'nai Brith presented me with its Brotherhood Award because of the brotherhood displayed by our league."

The popular Crofts smiled when asked how he acquired his nickname. "It goes back to when I was about 10," he said. "I came out of my house eating a slice of bread and one of my friends asked me for a bite. When I said 'no,' he called me a crumb. They just knocked off the 'b' and I've been known as 'Crum' ever since."

Gil has been a vital cog in every drive of the United Community Fund since 1956, serving in a number of capacities as a member of the Special Gifts Divisions and Residential Committees.

The late Mayor Charles A. Ross appointed him to Quincy's first City Recreation Commission in 1948 where he served with distinction for 14 years, four of these years as vice-chairman.

Another of the many honors bestowed upon him was the DeMolay's Legion of Honor tribute.

His career has been marked with a long period of service to Bethany Congregational Church, where he has served as Deacon and Chairman of the Prudential Committee. He has been a member of Quincy Kiwanis Club since 1941, serving as president in 1951.

He has been serving as vice-chairman of the Quincy Junior College and was appointed to the Site Selection Committee of that college and South Shore Mental Health Building, by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

He is a veteran of World War II and is married to the former Helena Hodgkinson. Their son, Bruce, is extention director of the Westport, Conn., YMCA, and daughter Cynthia, is a junior at Eastern Nazarene College.

His new career fits in well with his interest in boating. Gil is a long-time member of Wollaston Yacht Club and charter member of the Quincy Power Squadron. Upon his retirement from the Y, he will move to Naushon Island near Woods Hole and take care of the boat house for the Forbes family, which owns and maintains the private island.

"They own more than 40 boats of all shapes and sizes and maintain their own ferry service," he said. "They have sheep and cattle roaming at will around the island. I'm eagerly looking forward to my new career, as is my family. It will be a 10-month a year job and I will have two months off during the winter."

Boating has been a hobby with him for years and he has built several boats himself.

A reception will be held for Crum on Sunday afternoon March 30, from 3 to 5 o'clock at the Y. If all his friends and the many people influenced by him during the years show up, it may be necessary to continue it all week long.

Investment In Youth

N. Quincy Boosters Club Launches Membership Drive

The North Quincy Boosters Club has launched an all-out 1969 drive and is calling it "investment in Youth."

Membership chairman Daniel J. Dieso, Sr., has issued the following statement relating to the drive:

"The North Quincy Boosters Club was established to promote sports at North Quincy High School and to assist youth to the meaning of sportmanship, betterment of citizenship, representation of the community in general, and the federation of youth in the City of Quincy."

"In previous years it has received many recognitions from public officials for its extraordinary work for sports at North Quincy High and the supervision of other activities involving all the students."

"Here are some of our achievements since 1957:

"--The Boosters Club has procured over $25,000."

"--Furnished over 3000 trophies, 4000 plaques, 10,000 letters, and 6000 photographs of athletic teams to North Quincy High students."

"--Accomplished the $300,000 gymnasium for North Quincy High with the leadership and endurance efforts of Walter "Cap" Bryant (Posthumously) and Ken Rickson, acquiring the needed 3000 signatures."

"--Furnished bus transportation to games equivalent to a trip to the Moon and back."

"--Furnished over $4000 in Scholarships to the cynosural students of North Quincy High."

"--Furnished hired wheel-chairs to injured football players to attend football games."

"--Furnished crates of oranges to the athletes."

"The Boosters Club had co-ordinated with the "Q" Club of Quincy High School for 25 years (1940-1965) for youth's fellowship and sportmanship in the City of Quincy (The Thanksgiving Day Victory Dance, held yearly at the Armory on Hancock St.)."

"Your support to the North Quincy Boosters Club of one dollar ($1.00), yearly dues, could never be more well spent - and never before has there been such a need to channel the directness and magnanimity of youth into a more encouragement and enlightenment activity."

"The Boosters Club provides athletic achievements to those outstanding in their field and recreations (dances and shows) to all students comparable to those who are going astray and living it up."

"Our Goal is 2500 Members, so come one and all, Parents of North Quincy High Students, Alumni, past members, and anyone and everyone possible, be a NORTH QUINCY BOOSTER."

"Your past co-operation is very much appreciated."

"Once a Booster, always a Booster."

Rich Giachetti Off Down Old Mexico Way

Rich Giachetti, former North Quincy High three sport star, left last week with the Tufts College baseball team for a 12-day tour of Mexico during which time he and his mates will play 11 games in and around Mexico City.

The trip was arranged by Bill Richardson, a Tufts player who lives in Mexico. His father, William, a 1915 graduate and one of the best centers in Tufts football history, moved to Mexico, married and made his home there.

Giachetti last fall broke the New England pass-catching record and led the Jumbos in hitting last spring with a .311 average and also led the team in total hits and doubles.

Rich is the starting left fielder and is a key man in Tufts' hopes this season.

some thoughts to consider when arranging for a funeral

THE PRESENCE OF THE BODY

A funeral with the body present give identity and purpose to the service. With the body present, a climate for mourning exists which makes the sharing of sorrow natural. Without the body, the expression of sympathy may be forced, empty and unnatural for many people and makes the acceptance of death difficult for others.

VIEWING THE BODY

The funeral is a rite of separation. It confirms the reality of death. This, psychiatrists say, is a necessary beginning toward healthy adjustment toward loss.

There are some who want to dent that a person has died and that such a person's life on earth has ended. The presence of the body in the casket actualizes the fact of death. Viewing the body serves to reverse the process of denial while it promotes the acceptance of reality.

Also, a body properly prepared for viewing may erase the effects of a lingering illness or a violent death. Those who survive are then left with an image of the deceased most familar to them. Cosmetic restoration is not an attempt to deny death by creating an illusion of life but rather it gives the bereaved an acceptable image to recall.

Atty. Gen. Quinn Jaycee Banquet Keynote Speaker

State Atty. General Robert H. Quinn will be the featured speaker at the fourth annual Quincy Jaycees Distinguished Service Award Banquet, 7 p.m., Tuesday, March 25, at the Neighborhood Club.

Atty. General Quinn's appearance was confirmed Monday by event chairman William J. Griffin.

The Jaycees are still accepting nominations for the award to be presented by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Nominees to date include:

Wendell Clark, former long-time School Committeeman.

Gilbert L. Crofts, retiring YMCA director and noted youth leader.

Serving on the Jaycees awards committee are Allen Goldstein, Ronald Scolamiero, John Nee, Edward Flavin, Paul DePrisco and James H. Doyle, Jaycee president.

Residents are invited to submit the names and qualifications of nominees to Mr. Griffin, Hancock Bank and Trust Co., 1485 Hancock St., Quincy, 02169. Banquet tickets are also available from any member of the Jaycees committee and at the Hancock Bank.

Selection of the winner from among designated nominees will be made by a distinguished civil panel. It includes:

William Kelly, President, Hancock Bank and Trust Co.; the Rev. Bradford Gale, minister, First Parish Church; the Rev. Bedros Baharian, pastor, Quincy Point Congregational Church and Dr. Charles Djerf, school committeeman, prominent pediatrician and Quincy Sun columnist.

Smyth

Smyth said that the Youth Council members are obviously interested.

"Seven of the 10 members attended this week's City Council meeting and asked several questions," he noted.

The City Council president who conceived the idea of a Youth Council, said there was apparent interest on the part of many youths.

He said 72 students filed nomination papers as candidates and a large number of fellow students participated in the voting.

The Youth Council, elected in February, was seated March 10.

"I have been told by school principals that they are enthusiastic about this program and we have their pledged support," Smyth said.

He added:

"In a new program such as this, you are always going to have disgruntled students who did not participate originally. They usually are the ones who raise criticism.

"Too often youths accuse adults of ignoring them or not wanting to take time out to help them and here is an honest endeavor to help hem.

"We need the enthusiastic support of all students--not just those on the Youth Council. We hope they, including those who have been critical of the program, will join in the effort to help their city. We need them--we want them--to work with us."

Storm-Caused Roof Collapses Examined By Master Builders

The recent snow storms of this past month have exerted between 30 and 40 pounds per square foot of pressure on the roofs of many area buildings.

This alarming situation and the roof collapses that have resulted from it were the topic of discussion at the monthly meeting of the Quincy Master Builders Association at the Hollow Restaurant on March 12.

Barry Coletti, of Colletti Bros., Boston contends that a heavy wet snowfall, similar to the type of snow that fell last month can exert between 6¼ to 7 pounds of pressure per cubic foot on a roof. When there is a snowfall of nearly 5 ft., roofs may collapse under the pressure of 30 to 40 pounds of pressure per square foot, and considerably more on non-flat roofs.

Walter McKinnon, a consulting engineer and designer of the Senior Citizens facility at 1000 Southern Artery, feels that roofs should be constructed to withstand the pressure of 40 pounds, but changing the state code to any higher than this would be unnecessary measure.

He says the problem of roof collapses does not arise from weight exerted on a flat roof as it does on roof of the steeped type, or where snow can drift. Where snow is allowed to drift the live "load" of the snow may reach as high as 80 pounds per square foot. If buildings were built to support this weight over the entirety of the structure the cost of construction would be uneconomical.

Frank Stockwell, of the American Institute of Steel Construction, says that the problem arising from stepped roofs and multiple roofs, might be solved by borrowing some tactics from Canadian constructors.

Under Canadian law, when there is a roof which approaches a sloping surface of a perpendicular wall the strength of the roof should be increased proportionately to a point where the roof could withstand as much as 80 pounds of pressure. Whereas on the flat surface of the roof there would be a need only to support 40 pounds, he said.

George Pasqualucci, chairman of the Quincy Licensing Board and three time past president of the South Shore Master Builders Association, says that complications may lay in the intersections of wood supports and masonry, this situation is considered by him dangerous.

There are other solutions besides coding laws, clearing drains of ice and other obstructions will allow melting snow to flow easily.

If drains are located in the center of a roof surface drainage in melting periods will be more effective.

Another solution to the problem of roof collapses may lay in installment of heating cables on roof surfaces.

Woodward Girls Tapped For Honors

Three students from the Woodward School for Girls have been nominated to the National Honor Society. They were named during the recent Founder's Night celebration honoring the school's 75th anniversary.

The students nominated were Linda Stacey, 182 Elliot Ave., a sophomore; Eleanor Guglielmi, 02 Alton Rd., and Paula Rouleau, 260 Rock Island Rd., both juniors.

Viet Nam Veteran To Reveal Threat At Home Saturday

Vietnam Veteran Robert G. Lo Presti will speak on the work of TRAIN committee organizations in fighting domestic Communism influences on Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Atlantic Junior High School.

A former Army Lieutenant, Lo Presti will discuss the topic, "The Real War is Right Here." The discussion is sponsored by South Shore TRAIN committees.

The Vietnam veteran will expand on his contention that "our government is supporting our enemies in high style, while giving our fighting men the back of its hand."

During his service in Vietnam, Lo Presti claims that he was unable to supply oxygen to a field hospital because of faulty equipment. According to the former officer, gas-producting compressors were sent with the U.S. government approval to the Soviet Union–the arsenal of the Viet Cong.

Quincy Choral Students To Sing In New England Music Festival

Twenty-nine student chorists from Quincy and North Quincy High Schools will participate in the New England Music Festival and Concert on March 20, 21 and 22 in Portsmouth, N. H.

The singers will perform in two days of rehearsals and two concerts to be presented on Saturday at 2:30 and 8:00 p.m.

The Public Schools Dept. of Music Education is under the direction of Ivar O. Nelson, who announced plans for the concert trip.

Tickets for both concerts are available at the auditorium at the Portsmouth High School.

The choral students representing North Quincy High School under the direction of Maurice Carbonneau, music teacher at North Quincy High School are Marcia Freedman, Doris MacKenzie, Leslie Stone, Janet Pearce, Peter Cucchiara, Richard Mullen, William West, Richard Bernasconi, Roger Conboy, Russell MacDonald, and Lewann Carter.

The choral students representing Quincy High School under the direction of Mrs. Gale Harrison are Sylvia Milosevics, Laurel Wainwright, Nancy Ahonen, Virginia De Mone, Anita Comoletti, Steven Keefe, Walter Steenson, Gerard Delcourt, Robert Grady, Jewel Davis, Kenneth Johnson, and Steven Raser.

Students participating in the band from North Quincy High School under the direction of Mr. Carl Leone, Instrumental teacher at North Quincy High are Paul Maloney, Herbert Newell, Cathy Barresi, and Carol Wells.

Participating in the New England Orchestra will be Paul Sullivan, Cellist, under the ddirection of Mr. Irving Pinkofsky, String teacher at North Quincy High School.

The director of the New England Festival Chorus is Mrs. Lorna Cook deVaron. The chorus numbers 235, well balanced as to vocal parts and students from New England schools.

Quincy Police To Honor Slain Boston Patrolman

A Quincy police detail will be among the mourners paying tribute to a Boston police officer and Quincy resident who was slain in a Boston shooting spree Monday night.

A police detachment representing the Quincy Police Relief Association will attend the 10 a.m. Friday mass for Francis J. Johnson, 50, of 26 North Bayfield Rd. Patrolman Johnson was fatally shot by a Detroit drifter in a Trement St. cafe.

Quincy flags were ordered flown at half-mast in Johnson's honor by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Held in the slaying is John Sterling Stewart, 44, who was arrested at the scene of the shooting by police. He was charged with murder and two counts of assault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

A solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated for Officer Johnson, father of six, at St. Ambrose Church, Dorchester. Visiting hours will continue today (Thursday) from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. at the Dolan Funeral Home, 1140 Washington St., Dorchester Lower Mills.

The slain officer lived in Quincy for the past five years. He was a previous resident of North Scituate but had lived most of his life in the Commercial Point section of Dorchester, more than 43 years.

A 23-year veteran of the Boston force, Patrolman Johnson leaves his wife; Mary; two sons, Francis B. Jr., serving with the Army in Viet Nam; and Mark, 9; four daughters, Mrs. Terry Gamel, Janet, 19; Susan, 5 and Nancy, 3.

Buriel will be in Blue Hills Cemetery.

City Escapes With Minor Flooding

Quincy escaped with only minor flooding although surrounding areas were harder hit by heavy rains and melting snows Tuesday.

Traffic was halted by high waters briefly on Quincy Shore Drive. Other streets reported flooded conditions were Washington and Shaw.

Motorists were hampered by wet brakes as they drove through hub-deep rain and snow lakes in some areas.

Some homeowners reported wet cellars which recalled memories of cascades caused by the record flooding a year ago.

Firemen responded to one emergency call on Carter St. where a polio victim was endangered by a water threat to a generator-powered respirator.

Work Far Behind

Mayor Sees MBTA Line Delayed Until 1970

Mayor James R. McIntyre gloomily predicted last night that Quincy will not have rapid transit service until the spring of 1970.

He said it would take a miracle to complete construction of the Quincy MBTA line in time to have trains running by this year's Christmas target date.

"Only the intercession of Heaven can give us rapid transit service in December," he declared. "Construction work is too far behind."

Last year, shortly after taking over as general manager of the MBTA, Leo J. Cusick optimistically promised: "I'll ride the first train into Quincy on Christmas Day, 1969."

Last week, at a meeting of the MBTA board of directors, Cusick still insisted: "It is realistic to say that we expect to be at Quincy by December."

"It is obvious," said McIntyre last night, "that there is a communications gap between the general manager's office and the construction and engineering staff."

He noted that construction on the new bridges--especially the Adams St. Bridge--is "far behind schedule."

He also said that the contract for the Quincy Center Station parking garage to accomodate approximately 750 cars has not even been awarded yet. It will take about a year to complete once the contract is awarded, he estimated.

The line, he said, could operate without the garage though it would be an inconvenience to commuters.

"But the line cannot function until all the bridge work is completed," he said.

"At the rate construction is

'Fool Proof' Meters For Parking Areas

Quincy has taken the first step to "fool proof" the city's parking meters against widespread theft and looting.

A bloc of about 280 new vandal-proof meters have been installed in the Ross Parking area. About 500 meters are scheduled for replacement installation in the city's off-street public parking areas.

The toll lost to thieves in parking meter receipts is an estimated $7500.00 a year.

The meters yield a treasure of coins averaging about $1400 a week in a two-day collection period.

The meters are looted regularly, police say, mostly by youngsters who gain entry through use of doctored automobile keys. The one type of meter that is subject to constant pilferage is being targeted for complete replacement.

The durability of the new meters was summed up by one traffic officer:

"You can hit them with a sledge hammer and they'll stand up."

A second type of meter has become obselete and must also be replaced, although it has proved resistant to thieves, officials said.

A full report on parking meter problems and replacement plans will be made to Mayor James R. McIntyre by Police Chief Francis X. Finn.

Meter collections and control come under the jurisdiction of the General Services Dept. which is responsible to the Police Dept.

Regular stake-outs in an effort to curb the widespread meter thefts have been largely unsuccessful so far and the solutions are being sought in the less vulnerable meters.

MAKES DEBUT

Meter thieves are "robbing us blind," one official said.

The looters apparently have the collections well timed and are able to hit the meters at the jackpot level.

The new meters are opened by a special key which is virtually

'First Railroad' May Rise From Ruins

FIRST RAILROAD AS IT USED TO BE.

The first major move toward restoration of Quincy's long-neglected historic Granite Railway is now under way.

Mayor James R. McIntyre has signed a $3,000 contract with the Boston landscape architectural film of Shurcliff, Merrill & Footit to carry out a restoration feasibility study.

The railway, just off the Southeast Expressway near Swingle's Quarry, West Quincy, was built in 1826 to haul famed Quincy granite for construction of the Bunker Hill monument It is considered the nation's first commercial railroad.

Since 1945 under private ownership, the once attractive site deteriorated into ruins, rust, weeds and underbrush.

Dr. Merrill Will Head CP Campaign

Dr. Charles D. Merrill, of 204 Billings St., North Quincy, has been named Campaign Chairman to lead the 1969 fund drive for Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc. to be held in May.

In accepting the post, Dr. Merrill, who is also President of the Cerebral Palsy organization, called on residents to volunteer their efforts in the fight against CP, which he described as the "number one crippler of our children."

Dr. Merrill noted that Cerebral Palsy affects every member of the family and only a specialized agency can meet their total needs. He said:

"Cerebral Palsy strikes one out of every 170 newborn as a result of brain damage at birth, and while we are seeking preventives and cures, "we must continue to provide all of the services the cerebral palsied of our community require, if they are to have a meaningful life."

After visiting the Nursery School, the Clinic, and the Adult Class, Dr. Merrill remarked that the spirit and motivation of the cerebral palsied. "In spite of their handicaps which include defects in muscular control, speech, sight, hearing and learning ability, nowhere will you find evidence that these children and adults are discouraged by their disabilities," he said.

"These youngsters work harder for the things that come easily to most of us, but given the opportunity, they make a cheerful and a most courageous effort."

The Cerebral Palsy campaign, he said, provides the support for the education and rehabilitation services which are opening up a new life for those afflicted.

To assure the success of the campaign, Dr. Merrill urged local businessmen, housewives and students to join with him by offering their help. Volunteers can enlist by writing or phoning Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc., telephone 479-7443.

'Coffee Day' In City Aids Easter Seals

Mayor James R. McIntyre has declared Friday, April 4, as "Coffee Day for crippled Children" in the City of Quincy.

The Mayor cited the local independent coffee shops, restaurant chains, coffee distributors, hotels and motels in the area for their participation in this program which aids the Easter Seal Society and its annual appeal to help crippled children and adults.

The Mayor urged the public's support of Coffee Day and aasked the community to obtain Coffee Day buttons now on sale from any of the participating establishments. On Good Friday, April 4, anyone wearing a Coffee Day button may drink all the free coffee he wants as a token of helping crippled children.

Average per pupil cost to educate a Quincy youngster in the city's public school system now runs about $631 a year, estimates School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon. Total school enrollment is approximately 15,000.

INCIDENTALLY, observers thought Dr. Creedon made a very professional presentation of the School Department's $13.2 million budget to the City Council's Finance Committee last week. It was his first such appearance since becoming superintendent--his so-called baptism under fire. He came through it without a scratch.

SCHOOL COMMITTEEMAN James F. McCormick, Sr., however, looks a little like a battle casualty. He's sporting a medical "horse collar". Nothing to do with the school department budget session, though. Has pinched neck nerve. But it didn't keep him from attending the budget meeting with the council.

THE CITY HALL Speculation Corps. thinks a city councillor may be in line for a new municipal post. If it jells before the city election, it will mean an open council seat up for grabs. He couldn't serve in both jobs.

Most surprised, however, was Hannon. He hasn't even given it a thought. But, maybe the seed has now been planted.

MAYOR James R. McIntyre is kicking around the idea of holding "cabinet" style meetings once a week with key department heads. The accent would be on more efficiency in operation of municipal government.

QUINCY FIREFIGHTERS had themselves quite a busy year in 1968. Chief Edward F. Barry reports his department responded to 3,817 alarms--an increase of almost 1,000 over 1967.

Total fire loss was $688,242--up $291,959 compared with the year before. The fires caused two civilian deaths and injuries to 29 civilians and 64 firefighters.

And, of course, the "nuts" were in season during the year. Some 499 false alarms were sounded.

NICE-GESTURE-DEPT: Rep. Joseph E. Brett, for the 10th year, will play host and escort to the Quincy student delegation during Student Government Day at the State House, Friday.

Quincy will be represented by three seniors:

Jeffrey Hughes, Granite St., Quincy High School; Thomas Perrin, Herbert Rd., North Quincy High and Eileen Jacobs, Hollis Ave., Woodward School For Girls.

Brett will pick them up at their homes about 9 a.m. and drive them to the State House where they will participate in committee hearings. He then takes them to lunch at a nearby hotel. They return to the State House for a session of the student legislature. Brett then drives them home. It's a day to remember for the youngsters.

THE GOOD OLD summer time will soon be here and the picnic season with it. And, the beauty of living in Quincy, is that you don't have to fight traffic congestion to find the right place. A Feast Fit For Duncan Hines

Quincy Students Whip Up Banquet For 500

PETI-FOURS are prepared by students David Prall and Sean McKenna for the banquet. They were one of the menu big hits. (Quincy Sun Photo by Robert Leo Eng)

If Duncan Hines had been around, he'd have gone back for seconds.

It was that good a meal--whipped up not by professional chefs but 46 students of the Culinary Arts Department at Quincy Vocational Technical High School.

Just ask the 500 persons who polished off 300 pounds roast beef, 200 pounds Delmonico potatoes, 55 pounds mixed vegetables and a variety of choice side tidbits including 200 tasty snails.

Occasion was the recent Eastern Chapter of the Massachusetts Vocational Association banquet at Florian Hall, Dorchester.

The students, directed by George Cole, coordinator of food courses at the Vocational-Technical School, prepared the mammoth family-style feast themselves at the school's Three Seasons Restaurant facilities.

"It went off very well," said Cole. "There were only two pieces of roast beef left over."

The main course also consisted of fresh fruit cup made from 209 gallons of fruit and a tossed green salad with these ingredients: three cases iceberg lettuce, one case chicory, one bushel basket cucumbers, one case small cherry tomatoes, five pounds radishes, two and a half gallons tomato French dressing and 1,200 assorted rolls.

For dessert, there was mint ice cream jubilee concoted from nine gallons of ice cream and 40 pounds of white cake.

The hors d'oeuvres alone were a meal, and a work of culinary art.

The students carved out an ice sculptured shrimp boat with 50 pounds of shrimp and two gallons of cocktail sauce its mouth-watering cargo.

In addition to the shrimp and 200 snails, there were: five trays assorted capapes, a half bushel oysters, a half bushel cherry stone clams, 15 pounds cocktail frankfurts, 30 pounds Swedish meatballs, and two six-pound wheels of cheddar cheese.

The students put it all together at the high school and it was trucked to Dorchester.

The tab, if you're wondering, was picked up by the Eastern Chapter of the Massachusetts Vocational Association.

The evening's program was planned by Lawrence Babin, Director of the Quincy Vocational-Technical High School. Assisting Cole with the dinner project were Edmund Repucci, advanced cooking instructor for the school; Ross Ajemian, basic baking instructor: Robert Steele, supervisor instructor of dining room management, and instructor Kevin Angle.

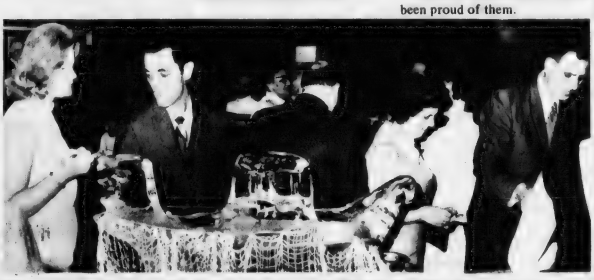
Saul Levenson, art teacher at the school, designed the handsome colored menu and it was printed by Edward Robertson of Everett Trade School.

The students, in addition to cooking and baking the feast, also arranged the table settings and some worked with 15 professional waiters and waitresses serving the tables.

The 46 students participating in the banquet project were:

SOPHOMORES: Linda Allsop, Richard Barret, Gordon Bergstrom, Carol Blake, Gerald Brooks, Michael Conway, Dennis Cardarelli, Stephen Critcher, Gregory Fisher, James Flynn, Stephen Goldrick, Stephen Grosseli, Lawrence Hawes, Paul Montillo, Richard Robertson, Frank Simpson, Robert Sterling, Lynn Whitney.

JUNIORS: James Baker, Joseph Brennan, Gary Connors, Michael Gunning, Larnie Haley, Martin Haywood, Charles Landry, Linda Kislowski, Clifford Mann, James Moore, Eileen Mahan, Fred Mayhew, Sean McKenna, Joseph Montello, Judith Papkey, Walter Parelius, Jane Reardon, Michael Shine, Kenneth Waltington, Joy Volpini.



SENIORS: Michael Desmond, Virginia McCormack.

POST GRADUATES: Susan Curry, David Prall, Norman Rose, Anthony Collucci, Frances Collins.

Duncan Hines would have been proud of them.

FINE ART of ice carving is demonstrated by student Michael Desmond as he sculptures a shrimp cocktail gondola from a 300-pound block of ice. The 50-pound shrimp cargo was quickly consumed at banquet. (Quincy Sun Photo by Robert Leo Eng)

AND, A GOOD time, as you can see, was had by all. The 500 who attended would like to try it again sometime in the near near future.

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

This week's column is written by Dr. John M. McGowan, prominent Quincy surgeon.

Organ Transplants Yield Cancer Clues

In September 1968 I attended a symposium at Dalhousie University Medical School in Halifax, Nova Scotia, my alma mater. The subjects discussed were organ transplants and genetics. Some interesting highlights in both organ transplants and genetics pointed to some fundamental principles in the causation of cancer and a suggestion that a break through in cancer knowledge may be close at hand. Authorities were collected from all over the world, they included such great names as Sir Peter Medawar of Oxford University; Francis D. Moore of Harvard; Thomas D. Starzl of the University of Colorado; and Richard Lee Lillehei of the University of Minnesota. Dr. Lillehei is a member of the team of surgeons at the University of Minnesota who trained Dr. Christian Barnard in heart transplants.

The problem in organ transplants has been the rejection (failure of organ to survive) by the immunity of the recipient. The recipients system rejects the organ because the body mechanism considers it a foreign invader. Of course, it is this same immunity that protects people against bacterial and virus diseases. Because an individual is immune to the tissue of another it is impossible for one person to get cancer from another except in the case of identical twins. Sir Peter Medawar brought out the fact the immunity is divided into two parts: bacterial immunity and tissue immunity. For a number of years now, they have been able to inhibit one side of the immunity system with the use of Immuran and Prednisone. These drugs were used to suppress immunity in the two first heart transplants by Dr. Christian Barnard in South Africa.

Tissue immunity is brought about in another way. By taking human lymphocytes (one of our blood cells) and injecting them into a horse or a rabbit one is able to obtain antibodies, (a profective reaction produced by anothers cells) from the serum of the horse or rabbit which inhibit the lymphocytes.

After a horse has received several doses of human lymphocytes the animal develops a higher titer of immunity to human lymphocytes; so that when the anti-lymph serum is injected into a human the lymphocytes are inhibited. The depressed lymphocytes no longer attack tissues of an organ transplant.

I read in the newspapers in September 1968 that Dr. Kleberg, the world's first successful heart transplant, was deteriorating (failing) and that Dr. Barnard was anticipating transplanting another heart because of rejection. However, Dr. Kleberg refused a second operation and the last notation was the Dr. Barnard was going to procure anti-lymph serum. I I was informed, by an authority on that subject, that Dr. Barnard got anti-lymph serum from France in September. I've been happy to read recently that Dr. Kleberg is now back to work and in apparent good health.

We can attribute this new turn of events to the use of anti-lymph serum. Dr. Denton Cooley of Houston, Texas has had the greatest success in heart transplants. Several of his cases have already returned to work. Dr. Denton Cooley considers the use of anti-lymph serum a major factor in his repeated success. I first heard of anti-lymph serum from Dr. Jejeboy in McGill University, Montreal when I was up there during the time of Expo 67 in June 1967. Dr. Jejeboy demonstrated the value of anti-lymph serum in kidney transplants.

At the Dalhousie symposium in September 1968, Sir Peter Medawar pointed out that the information obtained from the study of tissue immunity will probably lead to information that may be helpful in understanding cancer.

His idea was that when tissues of the body repair themselves after an injury a natural growth of cells occur. Such cell division is like the beginning of cancer. There is other research that indicates that at some point in life that the tissue immunity may be lost. When tissue immunity is lost, one does not necessarily get cancer immediately. But when some other stimulant such as a virus sets up an irritation, a cancer may form when no active tissue immunity is there to prevent it. Dr. Starzl of Denver, noted that some of his patients who had suppression of tissue immunity in connection with liver transplants developed several kinds of cancer.

It now seems to me that if a person gets cancer from loss of tissue immunity his cancer should disappear if tissue immunity could be restored. Since lymphocytes have tissue immunity, a transfusion of lymphocytes should help to destroy a cancer. There are many older people who have a surplus of lymphocytes. This is known as lymphatic leukemia, not a serious disease. Some patients have 300,000 or more lymphocytes when the normal if 3,000. It seems that the blood of one with lymphatic leukemia should help a sufferer of cancer.

OBEDIENT PUPS and their masters convene in weekly dog training sessions at the Quincy Armory every month. "Graduates" at the recent meeting included Diane Mulaney of Quincy and 'Mamby', Robert Daly of Hull and 'Prince', Roy Smith of Hull and 'Mr. Tiger' and Brian O'Neil of Dorchester and pet 'Togo.' Presenting the diplomas was head trainer Lee Schulman. (Quincy Sun Photo by Robert S. Lavers)

Social Security pays up to $4,896.00 towards a College Education
Would your Child USE it ——— or LOSE it?
One of the recent changes in the Social Security Law guarantees continuation of a child's benefit beyond age 18, to age 22, provided the child-beneficiary is a full-time student in an accredited school or college. This means that the child of a deceased worker can have part of his college expenses paid through the Social Security Program, if (and this is a big IF) the additional funds needed to allow the youngster to be a full-time student are available.
With a full line of both Life Insurance and Mutual Funds, we can help take the IF out.

On Beacon Hill

By Rep. Joseph E. Brett

Opportunity knocks but once, it is said; so when the editor of the Quincy Sun invites me to write a column, who knows but what it may be my first step to the editorial staff of the New York Times.

I have written "letters to the editor", individual letters, and press releases on various matters from time to time but never before have I written a newspaper column.

But when the boss says, "Write", I do it. Of course, he put certain restrictions on me; a limitation of 500 words, subject matter pertaining to my own district, and no political tirades against other politicians.

So . . . where do I go from here? I've already used up 116 words, I like all my colleagues in government and don't wish to be critical of them, and my representative district includes Wards 4, 5, and 6; namely, West Quincy, Wollaston, and North Quincy, all with various types of problems confronting them.

I wonder if I may inject a bit of nostalgia at this point. Until the realignment of representative districts last year, I also formerly served the citizens of Ward 3, South Quincy, as their representative. Through the years, I had formed strong feelings of attachment for the residents of that section of our city. Even now, as I drive through the streets of South Quincy, I suffer from pangs of sadness that I am no longer directly associated with the many wonderful people whom I came to know and love. May I insert a silent wish at this point; that someday, in the not too distant future, I will again be representing the wonderful citizens of Ward 3 in one office or another.

Okay, I'll get down to brass tacks. What about the proposal to locate an airport in the quarry section of West Quincy? Believe me, I was mighty pleased a short while ago to learn that the legislative Committee on Transportation has given an adverse recommendation to the idea of committing any public funds for such a project.

My feeling has been right along that Quincy needs an airport like I need another hole in my head. Here we are, only 10 miles and 15 minutes away from Logan Airport in East Boston, from where we hear constantly of the continuous harassment the residents suffer day after day from the noise and vibrations caused by modern day jets.

Yet there are some (not many from West Quincy) who would like to plant another airport smack in the hills of West Quincy. As I have repeated before, I think any West Quincyite who would favor having an airport in his back yard should have his head examined. Such activities should be way out in the open spaces.

With transportation as it is today, there is no need for having these facilities so close to urban areas. Again, I commend the Committee on Transportation, headed by our Mayor and Senator, Jim McIntyre, for representing the best interests of the people on the matter by recommending its defeat. May it rest in peace . . . for a long time.

After all, what makes a community; asphalt, brick, steel; or people?

A. Wendell Clark Wins Jaycees Service Award

Former School Committeeman A. Wendell Clark , 79, received the Distinguished Service Award Tuesday at the fourth annual civic banquet staged by the Quincy Jaycees.

A plaque designating Clark for his civic contributions and public service was awarded by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Certificates of appreciation honored civic notables Gilbert H. Crofts, Bernard Dill, Walter J. Hannon, Alfred Helfrich and John J. Sullivan.

Clark, a School Committee member from 1942 to 1962, was cited at the Neighborhood Club event keynoted by State Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn.

The award recipient's School Committee service was highlighted by a peak building and expansion program in the city's public education system.

A past YMCA president, Clark's School Committee service was a longer duration than any other member except the late Dr. Nathaniel Hunting, a 35-year office-holder.

Clark is a past Masonic Temple Association director and has served with the Quincy Taxpayer's Association, The United Fund, and the Quincy Selective Service Board.

A Quincy High School graduate who never knew the advantage of college, he worked at the Fore River Shipyard before joining his father's firm, the Vulcan Tool Co. He is semi-retired as treasurer.

A lifelong resident of Quincy, he resides with his wife, Charlotte E., at 74 Faxon Lane. They are the parents of three children, W. Gordon Clark, Mrs. Marguerite Young and Mrs. Miriam Harding.

Citation recipients were outstanding civic figures:

Retiring YMCA general secretary Gilbert H. Crofts, 60, of 108 West Elm Ave.

Mortgage banker Bernard Dill, 57, 108 Butler Rd.

City Councillor and Rep. Walter J. Hannon, Quincy, 37, 45 Forbes Hill Rd., tire firm owner.

Telephone Co. supervisor Alfred Helfrich, 63, 231 Everett St.

Labor mediator John J. Sullivan, 50, 23 Marion St.

Rummage Sale

A rummage sale will be sponsored by the Woman's Guild of Wollaston Lutheran Church, from 9:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday at the church, 550 Hancock St.

Wollaston Women On Committee For Ecumenical Event

Two Wollaston women are members of the committee planning the April 11 annual Ecumenical Day program of the Woman's Auxiliary to Morgan Memorial.

The event at which Catholic, Jewish and Protestant leaders will be special guests, will be held at the Morgan Goodwill Inn School for Boys, Queen St., Dorchester, at 1:30 p.m.

Assisting in the arrangements are Mrs. Elestus DeWolf and Mrs. Donald T. Dixon of Wollaston.

A highlight will be a fashion show featuring ladies styles from the period of 1875 to the present day mini-skirt.

Mrs. Frank McDewell of Everett, auxiliary president, will preside at the program.

Communion Breakfast

The Union Congregational Church will hold its annual communion breakfast on this Sunday at 9:30 a.m. in the church hall. Reservations must be made this week by calling the church office, or contacting Mr. and Mrs. John W. Wilson of 114 Rawson Rd.

Ham-Bean Supper

A ham and bean supper sponsored by the Church School will be held at 6 p.m. this Saturday in the Atlantic United Methodist Church.

A program of selections from the musical "Oklahoma" will be presented by Mrs. Harriet Bonnish.

Commander's Message

Heritage Of Legion Rooted In Liberty

The late Sgt. Alvin York of World War I, who was a Congressional Medal of Honor Winner said the following:

"Liberty . . . freedom . . . and Democracy are so very precious that you do not fight to win them once and then stop.

"Liberty . . . freedom . . . and Democracy are prizes awarded to these people who fight to win them and then keep fighting externally to hold them."

I earnestly believe that these few but powerful words describe very accurately our "American Legion" and its basic principles and endeavors.

At this time it is a great honor for me to be the Commander of this illustrious Quincy Post 95 of the American L on on its grand "Fiftieth Anniversary" but the complete honor for this occasion belongs to my fellow Comrades of World War I who through their keen foresight founded in 1919, the great American Legion and the first American Legion Post of Quincy–Quincy Post No. 95.

This great honor belongs to you! Your fellow Comrades of the later wars are deeply grateful to you.

The Commander of a Post is only one person and the tremendous amount of work involved in the complete operation of the Post cannot be accomplished without the splendid cooperation and hard work that I have received from my fellow officers–my fellow comrades--Women's Auxiliary–city officials and the fine citizens of this great City of Presidents. My sincerest thanks and best wishes to these people.

In closing I would like to wish–good luck and God speed to the American Legion and Quincy Post No. 95.

Peter Bolea
Commander

Historic Past Recalled

Golden Year For City's Oldest Post

The historic inception of the city's "original post"–Quincy Post 95–began on June 15, 1919. At that time, Capt. Frank H. Foy, three-times Past Commander, led a small gathering at the City Hall Council Chambers.

The time was three months after the convening of the Paris Caucus in France, which gave birth to the American Legion–and a day prior to the granting of Special Charter Act by Congress.

Elected temporary chairman was Lt. Col. Fred E. Jones, M.D., who was later to serve as the Post's Firs. Commander. Capt. Foy was elected secretary.

The Quincy Post was the first formed following the organization in Worcester of the Mass. Dept.

In the following years, growth was encouraged and sharply accelerated in all areas of community service. As Post 95 grew as a civic influence, quarters were found in the Shaw Building, now the well know Bargain Centre, following temporary housing at two other central locations.

A permanent Post home at the present location was constructed in 1934 at Revere Rd. and Mechanic Sts.

The modern, red brick building was finally ready for memorable dedication on Nov. 11, 1935. Through the years, numerous improvements have been made to the quarters, aiding convenience, utility and beauty.

The Auxiliary was chartered on April 29, 1921 and has been a continuous asset to the activities and objectives of the Post. Dedicating their efforts to these ends are hard-working female members of the Legion families.

Adding lustre to Post 95 has been the Sons of the Legion, Squadron 95, Junior Auxiliary, Drill Team, Band and Drum Corps.

During World War II, the Army commandered for important use all Legion headquarters. When the servicemen returned it was to experience a new era of growth as membership was opened to the new group of veterans.

Little need be said about the Legion-backed "GI Bill of Rights," which encompassed such important benefits for World War II and later Korean veterans.

In tribute to its emphasis on community service, Quincy Post held the first place Chester H. Grant Americanism Trophy and the second place Cladius G. Pendhill Community Service Banner. Both are coveted awards and high Legion honors.

Eng Directs Community Program

Robert Leo Eng, Dept. Vice Commander of the American Legion of Massachusetts a candidate for State Commander, and a Past Commander of Quincy Post 95, serves as State chairman of the Legions' Community Service program.

This program encompasses the entire meaning of The American Legion as an organization, as the more than 50-plus programs with in the four main categories of Youth Activities, Americanism and Patriotic Activities; Community Service Activities and Service and Welfare Activities, all developed over the 50-year period since founding of the Legion at the close of World War I.

"Certainly there is no more important a purpose, for The American Legion, than to assist the veterans, their widows and orphans, but, I feel we must be a moving force with-in our own communities, by being involved and for the past 50 years, the organization has done just this" said Vice Cmdr. Eng.

Twenty four members make up the membership of The American Legion Dept. Community Service Committee, headed by Vice Comdr. Eng, as chairman.

The development of this program is credited to Past National Vice Commander Claudius G. Pendill, a native of Wisconsin and now a resident of Newburyport, who made the presentation of a trophy and banners in 1931, for awards on the state level.

Legion posts who enter the state competition, are required to compile scrapbooks, showing evidence that they conducted active programs in the many catagories. The Posts must claim credit on a one to four Point system, rating themselves on how well they did their work. At the annual competition, usually held the first Saturday in June at the State House in Boston, the judging runs about four hours and has taken as long as nine, stated Eng.

Top winners in each of the 10 districts, which the state Legion is divided, receives a plaque, as a result of the annual Competition. The top first and second place winners, in addition to the Pendill Trophy and Banners, are also awarded honor positions in heading the Dept. Convention parade the year in which they win.

Cyril P. Morrisette, Citizen - Soldier

"None knew but to love him, Nor named him but to praise."

The young man for whom this Post of the American Legion is named was a splendid type of the American citizen-soldier.

He was the first Quincy man to give his life in World War I.

Cyril P. Morrisette was a product of West Quincy and his character was as solid as the granite hills among which he was born. He was the son of Cyril P. and Victoria Morrisette of 57 Crescent Street and was born only a step or two from the sacred ground in which he lies, beneath a monument cut and reared by the loving hands of his devoted father.

Cyril P. Morrisette was 32 years old when he died. He was known personally, by every member of the Post which is named after him. Most of the members of the Post played with him in childhood days and worked with him or chummed with him in the days of young manhood.

He was educated in the Willard School, opposite to the square named for him. He was employed by the Forestry department of the State of Massachusetts, when war was declared. He enlisted a few days after the declaration of war by joining Co. F, 9th Infantry, Massachusetts National Guard. He was prominent as a soldier by his unusual height, and his splendid physical condition told at once that this man had lived a clean life. Of him may it well be said as James Russell Lowell said of Colonel Robert Gould Shaw of the Civil War:

"On the red rampart's slippery swell,
His brave heart beating a charge, he fell,
Fighting, as fits a man"

Post Sparks Drive For Park Memorial

By Albert H. Googins, Adjutant

Everyone of us who has been conducted with the community of Wollaston knows that it is a place to be proud of.

The Wollaston Post has always felt that way.

Back in the early 30's, we obtained a German howitzer and placed this gun on a suitable mount at Safford Park, Beale St., as a memorial to our war dead.

In a burst of World War II patriotism, the Post hauled the gun away during a scrap metal drive. The mount has been vacant since.

At long last a suitable substitute has been found.

The Post, together with the Garden Club and other civic groups, has decided to erect a granite memorial in the Park. Cost of the proposed memorial, to be raised by subscription, will be $1500.

To launch the fund, the Post and its Auxiliary have subscribed one dollar for each name on their honor rolls-about $275.00.

It is our hope that other groups, churches, fraternal and civic, will follow suit.

The names will be enclosed in the base of the memorial in a manner similar to a cornerstone. The names of individual subscribers, each for one dollar will be included.

A card, picturing the memorial, will be given as a receipt.

Contributions may be mailed to: Safford Park Memorial Fund. c/o Arthur Senter, P.C., chairman. P. O. Box, 56, Wollaston, Mass. 02170.

A name should be listed for each dollar subscribed.

Others serving on the Memorial Fund committee are Robert M. Deware, Joseph A. Cunniff, and William J. Shea and Charles W. Wood.

Service For Hospitalized Veterans Responsibility Of Post, Auxiliary

Main activities in Wollaston Legion Post 295 have come under the headings of Americanism fostering principles of Americanism, hospitalization, visiting the sick, graves registration, child welfare, and service to the community.

This post participates in planned recreation and entertainment of Veterans in VA hospitals and cooperated with the Auxiliary in providing gifts for its hospitalized veterans to sent home to their families.

During World War II, Post 295 sponsored a War Bond Drive.

During all conflicts involving American Servicemen The Post has sent a representative to give inductees and volunteers a "send off".

During the time of Col. Sweetser, The post sponsored a Food and Industrial Exposition for the city.

A Junior Legion Band was organized, which participated in many civic affairs.

The Post Drill and Rifle Team won the National Championship in 1936. This group participated in local parades and other military functions.

The Post sponsors a Boys State Program. One of two boys, chosen from North Quincy High School have been sent each year to Boy's State at Bridgewater State College, where they are given an opportunity to "learn by doing", participating in local, state, and county government, in addition to being exposed other fine young people selected for character and leadership qualities.

Wollaston Post assumed responsibility for the Sailor's Home Cemetery, where yearly, it conducts military ceremonies on Memorial Day, besides honoring the dead. Graves of all Veterans are visited and flags provided yearly.

In the 1950's, post members built cabins for The Camp Fire Girl's Association at the Camp formerly known as Camp Kiwanis, now Kiwanee.

The Post provides Scholarships in Americanism to the Local High Schools. During WW II, The post building was used for housing Army Troops in 1941-1942.

Daniel F. McGinley

Post In Big Comeback After 1963 Fire Loss

The American Legion Charter was granted to the Robert I. Nickerson Post No. 382, by the Department of Massachusetts October 6, 1947 with 80 Charter Members.

The first Post Commander was John J. Morley, Jr. who was a resident of Squantum.

From a very humble beginning at the Squantum School and also a store on East Squantum Street the Post prospered to the extent that they acquired a 2 story dwelling on Newland Street.

In 1963 the Post Home suffered a serious setback. As a result of a fire the Post Home burned to the ground. Subsequent meeting were held at the Boston Harbor Marina. Through the extraordinary efforts of the Post Officers at that particular time the Niki Site at 20 Moon Island Road, Squantum was finally acquired and is presently the Post Home. The total membership to date is 165 members.

ANNIVERSARY GIFT--Presenting a check to Robert I. Nickerson Post Commander Daniel F. McGinley is Jr. Vice Cmdr. Arthur P. McIver. The funds will be used to purchase a wheel chair for the Brockton VA Hospital, one of the many public service projects supported by the Squantum Legion.

"Best Post On East Coast", Nickerson Now Looks West

"The Best Post on the East Coast."

This is the rallying cry that adds to the strong bond of fellowship at Robert Nickerson Post 382.

The reasons for the claim are inherent in the "good works" projects sponsored by the Post.

Examples:

A cookout and field day for retarded children.

A clambake for wheelchair veterans.

Sponsorship of a local Sea Scout group.

Sponsorship of a local student of the Boys State American Legion citizenship program.

Donation to the North Quincy High School Science Fair.

Participation in patriotic parades throughout the city.

Presentation of the annual Christmas party for Children.

Support, in finances and work, for the Squantum Fourth of July Committee.

Distribution of a monthly post newsletter and food packages to men and women in the Armed Forces.

Donation of Post facilities to local civic and fraternal groups.

Union at the annual Memorial Mass in April commemorating the death of Lt. Robert I. Nickerson.

There is one additional goal to be achieved by the Squantum Post:

"To be the Best Post on Both Coasts."

Best Wishes

Hough's Neck
Post No. 380

- Commander -
Ernest T. Deveau

Post Cited Yearly For Achievements

By Thomas Hurlebaus

Houghs Neck Post 380 was organized in June 1956 with 250 charter members. John R. Kateon was the Post's first commander. In 1962, an extension was added to the post Home giving it a lounge and a game room in addition to the main function area.

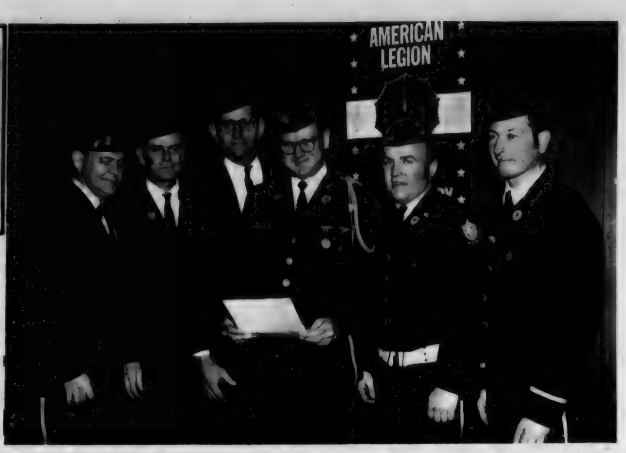
Although the Post is not a large Post in membership, it has constantly been awarded annual citations for its accomplishments in community welfare and Americanism by both the county and state departments of the American Legion.

The Post home is made available to the Houghs Neck Community Council, senior citizens, scouts, church, and other civic organizations who wish to use it for social or business reasons.

As stated in the American Legion preamble, the Post is dedicated to assisting veterans of all wars and helping the community, state, and nation.

Its activities encompass:

- Assisting the young veteran returning from service to readjust to civilian life. Many are not fully aware of the job opportunities, hospitalization, insurance, and family benefits to which they are entitled.
- Initiating drives to aid individuals and the neighborhood in times of personal catastrophe or city-wide disaster.
- Periodically, members of the post conduct small beano parties at the West Roxbury VA hospital for paraplegic veterans. Books are also donated to the hospital.
- Annual Christmas parties are held for the children, safety programs, school awards, and little league and Babe Ruth baseball teams.
- Participation in American Legion boys state college, each year sending a local boy to Amherst for a two-week course in American government.
- Conducts a blood program which is available to all Houghs Neck residents.
- Houghs Neck service men are sent a courtesy card entitling them admission to any American Legion Post in the world.
- The Post covers the expense of mailing the Houghs Neck Community Council news to every Houghs Neck boy in the service.
- It was open for two years to the youths of the neighborhood, pending the completion of the Lawrence Grenham Youth Center which recently opened.
- With the help of the post, through the Quincy veterans council, every young man who enters the service has coffee and doughnuts and is given a gift the day he leaves Quincy.



Our membership presently consists of World War I Veterans, some over 80, to our Vietnam Veterans, some still under 20.

Life membership is awarded by the post for outstanding achievement. There are five life members - Thomas Manahan, John Bonnyman, Thomas Hurlebaus, Paul McKeon, and John McNally.

Commanders since the organization of the post are:

John Kateon, 1956-57.
John McNally, 1958 and 1966.
Paul McKeon, 1959.
Vito Catrambone, 1960.
Thomas Manahan, 1961.
William Clark, 1962.
Thomas Hurlebaus, 1963-1964.
Douglas P. Shaw, 1965.
Eben Robertson, 1967.
Ernest Deveau, 1968.

The post officers and members extend their sincere thanks to The Quincy Sun for its excellent participation in the 50th Anniversary of the American Legion.

Applications Open For Koch Club Scholarships

The Koch Club of Quincy is preparing for its tenth year of presenting scholarship awards. Applications for students are available at the Guidance Offices of Quincy and North Quincy High School and the Quincy Vocational Technical School.

The $450.00 scholarship awards presented this year, will bring the total to $3500.00 awarded since 1959.

Established in 1959 by the North Quincy District of the Koch Club, the Club has awarded a $100.00 scholarship each year to a boy and a girl graduate of North Quincy High School.

In 1964, the scholarship awards were expanded with the addition of the Broadmeadows District of the Koch Club, and a $100.00 scholarship was presented to a boy and girl graduate of Quincy High School, since.

In 1968, a $50.00 scholarship was presented to a graduate of the Quincy Vocational Technical School.. This was made possible by a donation from the Koch Club Women's Bowling League.

The purpose of the scholarship awards, was to impress on the boys and girls participating in Koch Club activities, the importance of education and studies, although the Club is primarily recognized for sponsoring athletic and recreational activities.

Mr. Anthony T. Delmonico, Broadmeadows District Director, is chairman of the scholarship awards committee.

Other members include: Bernard P. Cotter, Houghs Neck District Director; Alexander V. Nihill, North Quincy District Director; Richard J. Koch, Executive Director: Miss Ruth E. Scanlan, School-committee-woman and past recipient; and Mrs. Anthony Delmonico, Division Leader of Girls Acitivities and Joseph O'Donnell, past recipient.

Responsible for establishing the original scholarship fund in 1959 were Robert J. Weafer, Awards Chairman and Mr. & Mrs. Clifford Benoit, Ways and Means Co-chairman.

This year's ways and means committee includes the awards committee, and Mrs. Paul Lambert and Miss Rosemary Nolan.

Rezoning On Agenda For Citizens Group

The monthly meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association Board of Directors will be held Wednesday April 2 at the Montclair Men's Club, Holbrook Road, North Quincy, at 8 p.m. On the agenda for discussion will be proposals before the city officials to rezone Moon Island, Circuit Street and Sea Street, landtakings on Mechanic and Upland Roads, and new dump sites.

All interested voters of the city are invited to attend. Lawrence J. Curtin, Association President, urges all precinct captains and members to be present.

some thoughts to consider when arranging for a funeral

Public or Private Funeral

A public funeral gives the community a chance to offer its support and share the sorrow of the immediate family of the deceased. An outstanding pastoral psychologist has written that "the funeral and the varied events that surround the ceremony are for those who live on."

A private funeral limits those who may attend. It arbitrarily shuts out relatives, friends, associates and acquaintances who sincerely want to bring comfort to the bereaved.

Calling Hours

Funeral practices vary. In some areas the greatest number of people pay their respects to the deceased and to the survivors by attending the funeral service. In other places, the largest number call at the funeral home while the body is lying in state. Some do both.

Sometimes attendance at the actual funeral service is not possible because of the hour or day when it is held, but many people will want to pay their respects during the visitation period.

Having the body lie in state with members of the family present encourages sharing the experience of death and mourning. It is gratifying both to members of the family and to those who care enough to call.

Family Retreat To Open Holy Week At St. Mary's

St. Mary's Parish of West Quincy will open Holy Week with a Family Retreat to be conducted by Thomas Walsh of the Oblate Fathers.

This Retreat will be geared to the whole family and will be a good preparation for the Easter celebration. It will be held on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. Services will consist of Mass and homily and will be held at 9 am and 7:30 pm each day.

Holy Thursday services will consist of a Mass at 9 am and a Concelebrated Mass at 7:30 pm.

Good Friday services will be held at 3:00 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Holy Saturday services will begin at 7:30 p.m. consisting of the Easter Vigil Service, the Light Service, Baptismal Service, and High Mass.

Italian Night will be held in St. Mary's Parish Hall with a full course Italian Dinner, music for dancing provided by Tony Bruno and his orchestra. Tickets may be purchased at the rectory. Reservation for 10 at a table may be made.

Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians will play for dancing on May 29.

Passover Lenten Series Topic

"The Feast of Passover in the Jewish Community" will be discussed by Rabbi J. Jacobs of the Hebrew of Quincy, Sunday (March 30) at 8 p.m. in St. John's Church, School St., Quincy. Rabbi Jacobs is the final guest lecturer being presented during Ecumenical Lenten lecture series being sponsored by St. John's Confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

The children's choir from the Hebrew School will also participate in a chorale program.

The general public is invited to attend and there is no charge for admission.

YMCA Boys Swim Success Channel

CHAMPIONSHIP STYLE is demonstrated by Quincy YMCA's winning eastern medley relay team. The head at left belongs to Billy Connolly. With him are Scott Forbes and Dave Anastasi. They're doing the breast stroke.

For years swimming has been one of the highlights of the Quincy YMCA athletic program and this has been one of its finest seasons in that sport.

Each of the Y's four boys' teams has completed its regular league season and lost only one meet.

The Class A team for boys over 14 lost only to Cambridge, while the B team, boys 13 and 14; Class C, 11 and 12, and Class D, 10 and under, lost only to Needham.

The A and B teams were coached by Al Woodward, while John Gauthier coached the C and D teams.

Quincy competed in the strong Eastern District League which also included Wakefield, Fitchburg, Needham, Newton, Cambridge, Dorchester, West Roxbury, Melrose, Worcester and Hyde Park.

In the Class C district meet two weeks ago at Dorchester, Quincy's medley relay team finished first and qualified for the area meet coming up soon at Springfield College.

This team includes Scott Forbes, backstroke; Jeff Gauthier, breaststroke; Dave Anastasi, butterfly, and Tom Cooney, free style.

Also qualifying individually were Gauthier, Cooney and Billy Connolly.

Last Sunday the Class D district meet was held at West Roxbury and Quincy boys qualifying for the area meet at Norwalk, Ct., were Jack Gauthier, Danny Donovan, Jack McGarry, Tom Clancy, Jeff Shulamn and Lee Dawe.

Class A qualifiers for the area championships were Bob Woodward, John Mulle, Chris Norton, Lennie Forbes and Cliff Cutts.

Class B qualifiers were Jack Falvey and Scott Jenkins.

They will be trying to qualify for the national championships.

"The Class A competition is really strong with many of the boys starting in college and high school," Gauthier said. "There is no maximum age limit and many swimmers are about 26.

"Our youngest swimmers are Tom Falvey and Paul Gauthier, both only five and a half and fine little swimmers. We have some outstanding youngsters in the 10 and under group, led by Jeff Shulman, who is seven, and Tom Clancy, who is eight. Clancy broke several records this year."

Gauthier explained that swimming is a year-round sport for most of the boys, who are all registered with the AAU and take part in several AAU meets during the summer.

Each boy must have a knowledge of the various strokes and meet certain minimum time requirements to make the Y team.

Among the high scorers this year were Scott Jenkins, who was outstanding last summer for the Hanover Swim and Tennis Club, Tom Cooney, Jack Gauthier and Jack Falvey.

Among the members of this year's outstanding teams were:

Bob Woodward, Rich Kelly, Jack Falvey, Rich Kilfoyle, John Mullen, Scott Jenkins, Chris Norton, Dan O'Malley, Dave Karoff, Paul Murphy, Jeff Walker, Tim Falvey, Addison Raines, Jeff Frost, Frank Morgan, Tom Cooney, Dave Anastasi, John Burke, Jeff Gauthier, Jack Cunniff, Billy Connolly, Jack Gauthier, Danny Donovan, Steve Clancy, Terry Tedeschi, Joe Maguire, Steve Cutts, Mike Morgan, Greg Pierce, Scott Forbes, Les Dawe, Fred Kussman, Steve Anastasi, Jack McGarry, Tom Clancy, Lyle Jenkins, Paul Braman, Dave Walsh, Paul Connolly, John Barcella, Tom Falvey, Paul Gauthier and Jeff Shulman.

The Jenkins brothers, Cutts, who came to this country only a year ago from England, Karoff and Tedeschi all starred last summer with the Hanover Swim and Tennis Club team, which had an outstanding season.

"There is a lot of interest in swimming here and this was a great group of boys to work with," Gauthier said.

A banquet for the teams will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Y with several awards being presented. Tufts Coach Ed Reed will be the speaker and there will be movies of the Pan-Am meet.

N. Quincy's Mike Greenlaw To Captain Colgate Team

Four years ago Mike Greenlaw starred for the North Quincy High basketball team which breezed to the school's first Greater Boston League championship with an unbeaten record.

Next season the former Raider star will captain the Colgate University team.

Mike, a 5-10, 150-pounder, excelled as the Red Raiders' playmaker this year and was largely responsible for teammate Rick Caputo going over the 1000-point mark. Mike averaged only eight points a game but was able to control the ball until Caputo, who averaged 18, got free and he set up many of Rick's baskets.

When asked his biggest thrill in college play, he answered, "Seeing Caputo score over 1000 points."

Colgate played at Boston University late in the season and dropped a one-point heartbreaker, and many of Mike's North Quincy friends, including former teammates, watched the game.

Greenlaw feels the most exciting game of his career was a month ago against St. John's of New York, one of the country's top-ranked teams.

Colgate, only 5-17 for the season, gave St. John's a genuine scare, cutting a 15-point deficit to just three for a moral victory.

Although Mike has played against some of the best players in the country, his toughest game came just after graduating from North.

"I played against Calvin Murphy (All-American at Niagara University) at Red Auerbach's camp," he said. "Auerbach has said that Murphy is the only college player he would pay to see and he's the best I've seen. He can do everything."

Colgate coach Ed Ashnault feels Mike is good coaching material. "He is a thinking player," he said. "For his size, I don't think there is a better player in the East. I wasn't surprised that he was elected captain. He has already been an outstanding leader for two years."

On weekends, Al Tino sounds different

Oh it's the same great Al Tino at his Hammond organ. Just like every other evening at the Sheraton Motor Inn, Quincy. Except Monday. But on Friday and Saturday, Al is joined in our colorful lounge by Rocky Page and Lou Pellaggi. On guitar, drums, and sax. Stop in early. And have a snack or dinner in our adjoining restaurant. If you'd like reservations, call 471-1500.

Koch Club Boys Bowling Awards Banquet Tonight

The Koch Club's sixth annual Boys Bowling League Banquet will be held tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. at Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

Awards will be presented to the winning team and individual high scorers as the highlight of the father-son affair.

Team Four, captained by Chuck Graham, defeated Dickie Koch's Team One in the championship roll-off, winning the first and third strings by 27 pins and four and losing the second string by four.

The Team Four champions also include Joseph Pearson, John Mahoney, David Koch, Robert Wheeler and Paul Cameron.

Steve Marinelli won the high average with a 97. Art Connolly took high three honors with a 332 pinfall and Dickie Koch the high single with 136.

The Koch Club Termites Girls Bowling League held its fifth annual awards banquet Tuesday night at Sacred Heart School Hall, North Quincy with 120 attending the mother and daughter event.

Winning team receiving trophies comprised Capt. Maura Duggan, Danette Welch, Noreen Mannix, Mary Ellen Troy and Brenda Joyce.

High average award honors were shared by Carol Morris with an 85.1 and Marie Calarese with an 84.7. Judy Abbruzzese was high three winner with 297 and Mary McCoy, won the high single with 112.

Miss Morris appeared on the Ch. 5 TV bowling show, "Winning Pins". She won three weeks in succession but was defeated in her fourth appearance.

Church League Title Winners Sport Crowns

The YMCA Church School basketball league decided its championships over the weekend with the title and consolation games being played in each division.

In the David League, for boys 17 and under, Emmanuel won the crown with a 60-45 win over Christ Church, while United Presby won the consolation game for third place, 64-50, over Quincy Point.

Quincy Point A defeated Union Cong of Weymouth, 40-34, for the Jonathan League crown for boys 15 and under. First Cong of Braintree nipped Christ Church, 29-28, in overtime, for third place.

Union Cong of Weymouth edged Bethany Cong, 23-22, for the title in the Goliath League for boys 13 and under, while Temple Bnai Shalom squeezed by Quincy Point A, 38-35, in the consolation title.

In the Daniel League for boys 11 and under, First Cong of Braintree A defeated Christ Church, 27-19, for third place.

Emmanuel of Braintree edged Union Cong of Weymouth, 11-10, for top honors in the Samson League for boys nine and under, while Quincy Point A topped Temple Bnai Shalom, 14-3, for consolation honors.

The games finished off another successful season for the popular league in which nearly 1800 boys and girls competed.

World Series Film To Be Shown Today

Today (Thursday) at the regular meeting of the retired men from the Fore River Long Service Club at the Quincy YMCA, the 1968 World Series film and a TWA film on Ceylon will be shown.

Any retired men is welcome to view the 2 p.m. movies and all are invited to bring a friend.

YMCA NOTES

Helping Keep America Strong

By Adele Wilson
YMCA Women's Council

The Y.M.C.A. grade-school Rifle Club for boys participated in a match recently against "arch rival" West Roxbury "Y". Revenge was sought from last year's riflery defeat, but by a thin margin of 17 points, Quincy was defeated. This seemed as good as a win to the young sharpshooters who last year lost by some 200 points. The Quincy riflemen won 16 out of 27 individual ribbons with high scorers as follows: First place-Kevin McAlarney, Tim McAlarney; Second place-Keary Naughton, Tim McAlarney, Steve Vignoni; Third place-Dick Matthews, Steve Vignoni, Tom McDermott.

JUNIOR LEADERS

The purpose of the Girls' Junior Leaders Club of the Quincy "Y" is to provide service to all the "Y" program by volunteer duty, under adult staff supervision, in the pool, gym, control desk, youth room, locker room, etc. Girls qualified by age (14 years and up) and leadership potential are sent to Springfield College for ten days in August for intensive training in physical education leadership. To finance the $67 fee (cost for each girl), various money-making projects are held throughout the year, one of which coming up is a.....

This Junior Leaders scholarship benefit auction will be held in the "Y" at 7 p.m. April 10 with auctioneers Mrs. Kay Richards of the Girls' Council and Miss Adele Wilson of the Women's Council. Sale contributions are welcome and needed! - donations may be dropped off in the "Y" office of Women's and Girls' Director Alice Beagan between now and April 10.

Officers and members of the Girls' Junior Leaders Club include:

President-Christine Finnegan; Treasurer-Janie Morrissey; Vice President-Nancy Morrissey; Recording Secretary-Diane Leone; Secretary-Pat Murphy; Chaplain-Barbara Quinn.

PHYSICAL FITNESS CAMP

The Quincy "Y" is seeking gals! - plump preferred!! If you're a lady with a little bit of fat and a lot of good will (or vice versa), you're wanted - by the Women's Physical Fitness Camp of the Quincy Y.M.C.A. Forty members of the feminine gender are again being recruited to attend slimnastic courses of seven or nine days at Camp Burgess in Sandwich (Cape Cod) from June 14 through June 22, 1969. And for those who can't get away for that long a time, two weekends of camping are offered, June 14-15 and June 21-22, with a planned take-home program in the week in between.

The self-improvement program includes board, a specially-prepared "nutrition-rich" diet, exercise sessions, swimming, boating, hiking, massage, steam bath, and personal consultation. Camp Director Mrs. Penny Howarth is a Bonnie Prudden trained fitness instructor who currently directs classes for women in the Worcester County area; 1969 will be "Penny's" 4th season as Physical Fitness Camp director in June for Quincy.

To be eligible for admission, women must be over 21, single or married, wife, mother, or grandmother - which covers just about everyone! Those interested in getting back to the dear old days when gals were sylph-like sirens who drove men mad are asked to contact Women and Girls' Director Alice Beagan, Quincy Y.M.C.A., 79 Coddington Street. Enrollment is limited . . . Register Now!!!

Del Gallo To Compete In National Gymnastics Meet

North Quincy gymnastics coach George Golding recently listed his outstanding graduates and he placed Richie Del Gallo right at the top, describing him as "one of the top gymnasts in the country."

Richie lived up to his former coach's praise and the University of Mass. captain will compete in the National Collegiate championships at Washington State April 3-4-5.

Del Gallo won the Eastern Intercollegiate championship in the still rings event recently at West Point to qualify for the nationals.

Last year the former North Quincy standout placed second in the still rings and competed in the nationals at Tucson, Ariz., where he placed eighth.

Old Granite Railroad Restoration Studied

was a spearhead in a campaign to have the site restored, called it: "West Quincy's second dump."

City Historian William C. Edwards sadle commented: "I'm ashamed to bring visitors up there."

Students at St. Mary's School, West Quincy, launched a civic campaign in 1963 to have the site restored.

A bill filed by Rep. Joseph E. Brett deeded the site to the MDC in that year but little was done other than clearing of debris in the area.

Last year, through legislation filed by Mayor McIntyre who is also a state senator, deed to the site was transferred to Quincy.

"We hope it can at last be properly restored and made another outstanding tourist attraction," said McIntyre. "It's a shame the site was allowed to deteriorate."

McIntyre--and others--vizualize the site as an attraction to intercept tourists travelling the Southeast Expressway on their way to see the Plymouth Rock and the Mayflower replica or to Cape Cod.

The feasibility study will be financed by an $1,800 grant from the State Department of Arts and Humanities and a $1,200 city appropriation.

The study will be carried out in three phases, as outlined by Shurcliff, Merrill & Footit:

Phase One: Prepare a study of the feasibility of access to the Railway site from the Southeast Expressway for both north and southbound traffic in conjunction with City, State and Federal Officials. Also study amount of potential space available for parking.

Phase Two: If a reasonable means of access and exit can be satisfactorily achieved and sufficient parking facilities for visitors provided for, prepare a study of the feasibility of developing the general area in order to make it attractive to the public.

This would be based largely on our own past experience with restoration and display projects, but would also involve consultation with City Officials, interested citizens, historical societies and organizations who have been involved in this type of operation.

Phase Three: If studies conducted under Phase II indicate that the area has sufficient potential to become a successful attraction to the general public, prepare more detailed studies of the general area including submission of preliminary plans, graphic presentations and estimates of development costs.

Rep. Brett Elected To State Legislators Executive Committee

Rep. Joseph E. Brett (D-Quincy) has been elected to a three-year term as a member of the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Legislators Association.

Harold E. Rosen of Dedham, former legislator, was elected president for a one year term.

Installation of the new officers will be held in the House of Representatives Chamber April 29.. The annual dinner meeting of the Association will follow at the Parker House, Boston.

Dr. Wolk To Address SSARC Thursday

Dr. William P. Wolk, Director of the South Shore Rehabilitation Center, will address the South Shore Association for Retarded Children tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. at 77 Parkingway, Quincy. His topic will be "Rehabilitation through Training".

Formerly a consulting psychologist at the Massachusetts Correctional Institution at Bridgewater, the Neighborhood Youth Corps and the Judge Stone Child Guidance Clinic in Brockton, and the Brockton Veterans Administration Hospital, Dr. Wolk is now directing his attention toward a broader educational and vocational training program for the mentally handicapped.

SSARC provides services to the retarded of all ages of Milton, Quincy, Randolph, Braintree, Weymouth, Hingham, Hull, Cohasset, and Scituate, and to their families.

The meeting is open to the public. All persons interested in the expanding field of rehabilitation are urged to attend.

going, we will be lucky to have trains running until the spring of 1970."

Some members of the MBTA board of directors appeared to share McIntyre's pessimism at last week's meeting.

They pointed out that construction of the Quincy line has been handicapped by a steel strike and the three recent severe snow storms.

Director Robert Springer expressed hope the construction schedule would be met but added there is a possibility the work will not be completed on time.

The directors assured McIntyre the rapid transit line will be extended through Quincy to South Braintree at an estimated cost of $110 million.

McIntyre, who appeared at the meeting, said rumors were circulating that the MBTA planned to end the extension in Quincy and now carry it to South Braintree.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

Sacred Cows

She was educated . . . pretty . . . young . . . mother of three. She sat on the divan with her husband. They were having trouble to relate. She was speaking . . . "I have a problem of inflexibility . . . It bugs me . . . while other people seem to be casual, free and warm in their close relationships, I get up tight. I hurt this man . . . " She reached over and laid her hand on his leg. "How do I break out of this rigid pattern? I know why it is . . . I'm just like my mother . . . and I hate it."

I wanted to answer . . . "Counseling, my lady, counseling . . . Just getting right in here and talking it out so you can free yourself from this prison." But I was discreet and refrained. Anyway . . . this was exactly what she was doing . . . talking it out.

Then she said something very interesting . . . "Once I could easily accomodate myself to my rigid ways . . . but that was before I knew Ned. I admire his openness . . . his flexibility, his stability . . . his freedom . . . I want it too. But I seem to be caught . . . I no longer can accept the "black or white" distinctions. I guess what I have to do is to recognize that in real life we live in the "gray zone."

This girl had almost arrived. She still had the residue of her rigid childhood conditioning from her mother (sometimes it's a father or rigid religion) . . . But she was fast breaking the stranglehold of her earlier conditioning, so that life was opening up to her.

The "sacred cows" . . . the cliches . . . the do's and don'ts which are our barbed wire fences . . . stifle life. The fear of not being accepted . . . the fear of hell . . . for a time may keep some people "in line". But the price may be devastating. Sooner or later such limitations cause life to close in on us.

"My housework has to be done by 11:30 a.m." . . . "my baby has to be toilet trained by fifteen months" . . . "I have to be on the golf course by 1:00 every Wednesday" . . . "I wouldn't think of missing the Red Sox opener at Fenway" . . . "I would rather take a beating than miss church on Sunday" . . . "I refuse to leave the baby with a babysitter" . . . "I have to have my cocktail before dinner or I couldn't eat." What is your "sacred cow?" Never mind that these may destroy a relationship . . . destroy a comradeship with a partner . . . My "sacred cow" must be taken care of first . . . then comes my husband or wife.

I only know of one way to conquer the "sacred cows" . . . that is to pull them right out into the open . . . see how ridiculous they are . . . see how I am being ruled by them . . . and determine to be a free person. It helps greatly to have a patient, understanding partner. No "sacred cow" is worth the cost of the loss of a human relationship.

The most flexible person I know was Jesus . . . so far as associates . . . hours He kept . . . what He said . . . where He went . . . He was a free man. Said He . . . "No one takes my life from Me . . . I lay it down of myself." To get free is a real goal for Lent . . . or any other time. FOR YOUR COMMENTS: Call Dr. Knox at 326-5990, 585-4995, 945-9800, or write him at 628 High Street, Dedham, Massachusetts. 02026.

Fund To Aid Johnson Family Organized At Junior College

A fund to aid the family of slain Boston patrolman Francis B. Johnson has been organized by the Quincy Junior College Student Government.

Johnson, who was killed in a wild shooting in a Boston cafe on March 17, lived at 26 North Bayfield Rd., Quincy.

Heading the committee to aid the family of the 50-year-old patrolman are Jeffrey Silver and John Ross.

The co-chairmen said that "We feel that since the Johnson family lives in the city, it is only right that the residents help as much as possible to aid the family."

The popular Boston officer was the father of six. Funeral services were held in Dorchester for Patrolman Johnson last Friday. Thousands of fellow-police officers from all over Massachusetts paid their final respects to the 23-year police veteran.

Checks and donations to the Quincy Jr. College fund may be made out to:

The Francis Johnson Fund, c/o Quincy Junior College, Coddington St., Quincy, Mass. 02169.

$34.5 Million Budget

Quincy Facing $112-TO-$115 1969 Tax Rate

Quincy taxpayers face a threatened $112-to-$115 tax rate following City Council approval last night of a record-high $34,594,682 municipal budget for 1969.

Councillor John J. Quinn, chairman of the council's Finance Committee, said the budget, anticipated loss of state revenue and other factors will mean a tax rate impact of "between $14 and $17."

The 1968 rate was $98.90.

Quinn's predicted figure is about $3 under that forecast earlier by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

The council passed the amended budget last night exactly 45 days after receiving the original proposed one from Mayor McIntyre.

The Finance Committee, in session with department heads, trimmed the budget by $286,594--reducing the rate increase by approximately $1.55.

McIntyre had already slashed $2.6 million from original appropriation requests before submitting the budget to the council for further pruning.

In its final form, the 1969

A Bell And A Prayer

'Would That God Might Give Us Others To Take His Place'

The bell tolled sadly and solemn words were spoken this week at Quincy's historic United First Parish Church in a farewell tribute to Dwight David Eisenhower.

The Rev. Stephen W. Brown, pastor of First United Presbyterian Church, Quincy, pin-pointed the feelings of a mourning nation with these words:

"Dwight David Eisenhower is a symbol of that which is good, and right, and strong in our nation.

"Would that God might give us others to take his place."

His eulogy to the 34th President and General of the Army was given during an Ecumenical Memorial Service at the "Church of the Presidents" Monday noon.

And at 4 p.m., the big, 2,000-pound bell in the belfry tolled for five minutes as funeral services were being held in Washington, D.C.

The church's bell has thus been sounded in tribute at the death of every President since George Washington.

"Dwight Eisenhower," said The Rev. Brown, "was a warrior whose chief aim was peace."

"Our time is a time of extremes when some are willing to have peace at any price, even the price of chains, and others are willing to have war at any price, even the price of annihilation."

"His words are to be remembered. He said, 'I hate war as only a soldier who has lived it can, only as one who has seen its brutality, its futility, its stupidity.'

"He also said, 'Today ... we still must be wise and courageous enough to live fully, confident in the knowledge that we have taken every reasonable step to deter agression, and that we shall always be ready to defend liberty ... "

"His words need to be heard in our time."

The Rev. Brown's eulogy was listened to attentively by approximately 150 persons attending the service at the church that contains the remains of Quincy-born Presidents John and John Quincy Adams and their wives.

Other Quincy clergymen participating in the service were: Rev. Bradford E. Gale, minister United First Parish Church; Rev. Demetrics Michaelides, St. Catherine's (Greek Orthodox) Church; Rabbi David J. Jacobs, Temple Beth El; Rt. Rev. Richard J. Hawko, pastor Sacred Heart Church, Rev. Dean E. Benedict, Quincy Centre Methodist Church.

Operation Sweep: 15,000 Tons of Sand

"Operation Sweep-Up" is under way in Quincy.

Public Works Department crews are tackling their annual spring chore of cleaning city streets of winter storm spread sand.

And this year, it's quite a project. An estimated 15,000 tons of the stuff.

"This is much more sand than we have put on Quincy streets in many winters," noted Public Works Commissioner John M. Browne. "We had five sanding storms alone in December and January--not to mention the three big ones in February."

Browne has had his men working in the hills areas--Wollaston, Penn's and Quincy City Hospital.

And because of strewn branches and twigs--souvenirs of the heavy February snow--much of the work is being done manually.

The branches and twigs, Browne noted, foul up the mechanism of sand sweeping equipment.

Browne said most of the fallen branches from city owned trees have been cleared.

But he asked residents to cooperate with the sand clearing operation by not placing branches from privately owned trees in street gutters.

Fond Memories Of...

'A Wonderfully Human Person'

(Donald MacDonald, assistant principal of Quincy High School fondly recalls his Boston College classmate Cardinal-Designate John Wright in the following article written especially for The Quincy Sun.)

By Donald MacDonald

It was a time when college students were probably less sophisticated than those of today.

A meeting of the Boston College and Harvard Debating Teams was something to generate excitement at Boston College. Opportunities to engage in competition with our friends "across the Charles" were few and far between, and great was our excitement when B.C. was declared the winner.

Subsequent to the debate, a meeting of the two rival anchor men was held at Post Island, Quincy, so that the two friendly rivals could continue discussing the subject of the debate in a more informal manner. I was told of this Quincy meeting by our B.C. '31 classmate Father Bill Donlan, formerly of Blessed Sacrament Church, Houghs Neck.

That discussion must have been something to hear as both men were outstanding exponents of the art of debate who gave promise of a great future. That promise has certainly been fulfilled by Paul C. Reardon, Harvard '32, an eminent Massachusetts Supreme Court Justice and Bishop John J. Wright, B.C.

Cardinal-Designate JOHN J. WRIGHT

'31, soon to be consecrated John Cardinal Wright.

I first say John Wright in the spring of 1927. Paul Reardon, my Quincy High 1927 classmate, invited me to attend a Sunday afternoon debate at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Foster Street, Quincy, between the debating teams of the K of C Civic Institute and Boston Latin School. John Wright, representing Boston Latin, made quite an impression on both of us.

Shortly after World War II, Bishop Wright, on my invitation, addressed the student body at Quincy High School during Brotherhood Week. I was somewhat nervous waiting for him to arrive. I wasn't in the habit of conversing with Bishops every day, but this brilliant, wonderfully human person put me at ease with a big smile, a friendly handshake, and a "Hi Mac".

The Twenty-Fifth Reunion of the B.C. '31 class was a Great Books Club Opens Member Drive

The Quincy Chapter of the Great Books Discussion Groups, led by Dr. Charles Djerf & Mrs. Mary Jane Mudge of Quincy is now starting its annual drive for new members.

This year the drive is being launched at a Great Books Get-Together to be held at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, on Sunday, March 30, at 3 p.m.

A staged reading of the controversial "The Lesson" by Eugene Ionesco, followed by an open discussion, will be the feature of the afternoon. Anyone interested in the Great Books discussion procedure of education through people-to-people dialogue is urged to attend absolutely free of charge.

The Quincy local Great Books Discussion Group meets every other week for a two-hour discussion of selected readings from the greatest thinkers of all time--Shakespeare, Plato, Freud. There are no lectures, only a trained moderator guiding the dialogue. There are no educational requirements. The Great Books Foundation, a nonprofit organization, because of their belief in a free liberal education for adults, sponsors over fifty such Discussion Groups in the greater Boston area alone.

Everyone in the Quincy area who is interested in the Great Books idea is urged to attend the Great Books Get-Together at MIT or to contact Mrs. Kay Speculation around City Hall is that Edward Roberts will succeed John E. Schmock as Quincy's Civil Defense Director.

Roberts, commander of Wollaston Legion Post, has served as Fallout Shelter officer under Schmock. The director's job pays $4,000 per year.

Schmock recently was named Superintendent of Fire Alarms by Mayor McIntyre. That post pays $10,300.

ON THE MEND: Ronald Orcutt, president Local 5 shipyard workers at General Dynamics' Quincy Division, is out of the hospital. Orcutt collapsed after participating in around-the-clock bargaining sessions with management and federal mediators. He put a lot of hard work into the negotiations which ended successfully with a good contract for his men and guaranteed five years of labor peace at the big yard. The latter accomplishment will allow management the chance to firm production costs and zero in on contract awards.

INCIDENTALLY, the Quincy-South Shore business community breathed a big sigh of relief when Local 5 voted to accept the new five-year contract. If the workers had voted to strike, it was feared it would be a long one, seriously hurting the local economy. Weekly payroll at the yard runs about $1.2 million. It makes the yard the economic backbone of the area.

FORMER President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who died last week after a courageous battle for life, shares one of two Presidential longevity records with Quincy's John Adams.

Eisenhower celebrated his 70th birthday Oct. 14, 1960 while still in the White House--the first man ever to serve to that age as President of the U.S.

Adams lived the longest of all our Presidents. He was but three months and 15 days away from his 91st birthday when be died peacefully at the Adams Mansion in Quincy.

Death came on July 4, 1826--the 50th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence Thomas Jefferson who with Adams played a major role in bringing that document into being, ironically died the very same day at the age of 83.

AND, IRONICALLY, Quincy barber Paul Mayo, a close friend of another President, died the same day as Eisenhower passed away.

Paul, a popular figure and astute political observer in Quincy Sq. for more than a half-century shared a secret with late President John F. Kennedy.

Paul had been a long-time friend of the President's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, since 1917 when the senior Kennedy was assistant general manager of the Quincy Shipyard and Paul began cutting his hair once a week.

A few years later (1928), Kennedy invited him to be his guest at a Jack Dempsey fight in New York.

In 1952, Jack Kennedy dropped into Angelo's Barber Shop where Paul performed his tonsorial artistry. The late President, then a young Congressman, was stumping for the Senate.

He didn't need a haircut that day. Nor a shave. He just wanted to chat.

"Paul, how's everything?" Kennedy greeted him.

"Just fine," Paul smiled.

The pair then suddenly disappeared together down a flight of stairs into the cellar for a private talk, leaving Kennedy's escorts and Paul's customers upstairs wondering.

When they re-appeared a few minutes later, someone asked Kennedy what he and Paul had talked about in the cellar.

"You'll have to ask Paul about that," Kennedy grinned.

So, they asked Paul and got what remained his stock reply: "You'll have to ask Mr. Kennedy."

Paul never disclosed what he and the future President of the U.S. chatted about in the cellar of the Quincy barbershop.

Even after Kennedy was assassinated, Paul refused to tell. And now he has taken their secret with him.

HERE'S ONE: You girls probably have already picked out your Easter bonnet. Maybe it was a difficult choice. But, if you lived in Owensboro, Ky. you could have a real problem is an old law was enforced.

The law, reports Jack Golden, the Quincy printer, stipulates a female inhabitant of that town cannot buy a new hat without her husband's approval. (Wonder what the divorce rate is?)

AULD LANG SYNE: Members of the od Braintree White Sox will be stepping up to the plate--the dinner plate--at a nostalgic reunion Saturday night at Sons of Italy Hall, King Hill Rd., South Braintree. And many of their Royal Rooters Club--including Quincy fans--will join them and relive the old days when the White Sox and some of the other clubs in the South Shore League were good enought to knock over some of today's major league teams.

Ecumenical Memorial Service For Ike

City Historian William C. Edwards who attended the service, said First Parish Church bells have tolled in memoriam to every President since Washington.

This is the fourth bell and was installed by the then Town of Quincy May 16, 1860 in the church's present fourth edifice.

It has been sounded, Edwards said, at the death of every President since John Tyler Jan. 18, 1862.

At the time of John F. Kennedy's assassination in 1963, the church belfry was being renovated and repaired. The bell could not be rung by its own tongue. But recalled Edwards, late custodian, Carl Seppala carried out the traditional tribute by striking the bell manually with a hammer.

Edwards said that three prior bells, including one cast by patriot Paul Revere, were sounded at the church's three earlier edifices in tribute at the deaths of 10 Presidents--Washington in 1799 through Zachary Taylor in 1850.

Included among these Presidents were John Adams who died in 1826 and John Quincy Adams who succumbed in 1848.

The pew where the sixth President worshipped is still used today.

memorable occasion and, at one of the meetings, Bishop Wright was to speak. Seated on stage with him were two Monsignori, the late Very Reverend Charles Flanagan and Very Reverend George "Pinnie" Mason of Columbus, Ohio via Wollaston. It was quite evident that all three were fighting a losing battle of the "bulge". Bishop Wright's opening remarks went something like this: "Our good friends among the Protestant clergy may have their 'better halves' but, as you can see, we have the better quarters."

The newly appointed Cardinal has asked for the prayers of his Boston friends. I'm sure he'll have them from his B.C. '31 classmates from Quincy and the South Shore. These include Rev. Joseph Daley, Pastor of St. Boniface Church in Germantown, Rev. Arthur Norton, Pastor of Saint Francis of Assisi, South Braintree, Doctors Leo Amrhein, Edmund Carey, William Helfrich, of Quincy and Kenneth Dalton of Braintree, and Weymouthites Preston DePlacido, Principal of the Eldon Johnson School and Harold Ford of the U.S. Postal Department.

Burke Lauds Schools For Drug Education

Quincy school officials have been praised for their initiative in setting up a drug educational program.

Norfolk County Dist. Atty. George G. Burke informed School Committee vice chairman James McCormick that the new program "should serve as an example to all of the school systems within Norfolk County."

Burke promised the full cooperation of his office and the use of audio-visual aids and library material to support the program. He commended the schools for the appointment of Martin Finnegan as drug educator.

Quincy School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon and school committee officials were cited for "farsightedness in providing this education needed for the well being of the youth of Quincy."

Mayor 'Good', May Be Home For Easter

Mayor James R. McIntyre was reported in "good" condition last night at Quincy City Hospital where he was admitted Tuesday after taking ill in the State House Senate Chamber.

An aide said the 38-year-old chief executive and senator, might possibly be home from the hospital for Easter.

The aide said the Mayor definitely did not collapse and did not suffer a heart attack, but merely "suddenly did not feel well."

According to the aide the Mayor's illness has been attributed to a recent virus or a possible gall bladder condition.

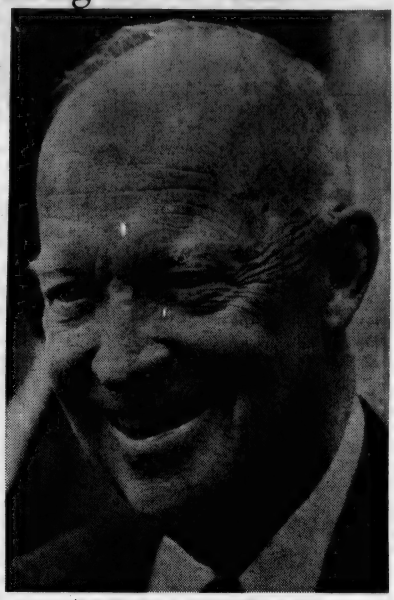
Dwight David Eisenhower

'His Passing Is More Than The Passing Of A Man....

(Following is the text of the eulogy to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower given by The Rev. Stephen W. Brown, at the Ecumenical Memorial Service Monday in Quincy's historic First Parish Church)

We are gathered here this afternoon to remember one, Dwight David Eisenhower . . . Supreme Commander of the Allied Forces in Europe during World War II and the 34th President of the United States.

His death on Friday last leaves our land a sadder place. And yet, because Dwight Eisenhower was full of years, because he was covered with honors and praise, because his efforts, perhaps more than any other man of our time, bore much fruit and because death is the inevitable precondition of life . . . the passing of Dwight Eisenhower does not have the overtones of tragedy that would be quite evident in the death of one not so successful, not so full of years and not so highly esteemed.



It is for that reason that the passing of Dwight Eisenhower wouls inspire in us not only sadness and hurt, but even more, a feeling of somber thoughtfulness, for his passing is more than the passing of a man . . . it is the death of an era in which giants walked the land, the passing of a period in history when men seemed taller and heroes were easier to come by, the passing of a quality of life that we have somehow lost.

Dwight Eisenhower was a warrior whose chief aim was peace. Our time is a time of extremes when some are willing to have peace at any price, even the price of chains, and others are willing to have war at any price, even the price of annihilation.

His words are to be remembered. He said, "I hate war as only a soldier who has lived it can, only as one who has seen its brutality, its futility, its stupidity . . . ." He also said, "Today . . . we still must be wise and courageous enough to live fully, confident in the knowledge that we have taken every reasonable step to deter aggression, and that we shall always be ready to defend liberty." His words need to be heard in our time.

Dwight Eisenhower was a politician whose aim was statesmanship. He was a man who invested in the word "politics" its rightful qualities of honesty, integrity and service. In a time when there are those who would place self-interest above national interest, who would sell their souls for a vote, who would rather have position than honor, his life would guide us.

Called to serve his country as President, he found the business of politics distasteful and at the same time to give that business the depth and quality that a nation governed by political forces must have if it is to survive. He prayed in his first inaugural address, "Give us, we pray, the power to discern clearly right from wrong, and allow all our words and actions to be governed thereby . . . May cooperation be permitted and be the mutual aim of those who under the concepts of our Constitution, hold to differing political faiths, so that all may work for the good of our beloved country and Thy glory."

DWIGHT DAVID EISENHOWER

Dwight Eisenhower was a citizen whose aim was to serve his country best by the life that he lived. There was in him a quiet simplicity that seems alien in an age of sophistication and cynicism. He loved his God; he loved his family; he loved his country . . . sentiments, if expressed by a lesser man, would bring on the snide, knowing smiles of a generation that has outgrown that kind of naivete.

However, those were the sentiments with which he worked as he forged together a group of nations and articulated those nations' goals. Those were the sentiments with which he worked as he led his own country in a time of crisis. Had Dwight Eisenhower been only an unknown private citizen who operated the general store in Abilene, Kansas, I doubt that the qualities that he personified as a Supreme Commander, a university president and president of the United States . . . I doubt that those qualities would have been different.

Let us once again listen to his words: "As friends of free people everywhere in the world, we can by our own example . . . our conduct in every crisis, real or counterfeit; our resistance to propaganda and passion; our readiness to seek adjustment and compromise of difference . . . we can by our own example ceaselessly expand understanding among the nations.

We must never forget that international friendship is achieved through rumors ignored, propaganda challenged and exposed; through patient loyalty to those who have proved themselves worthy of it; through help freely given where help is needed and merited. In this sense there is no great, no humble among us. In rights and in opportunity, in loyalty and in responsibility to ideals, we are and must remain equal. Peace is more the product of our day-today living than of a spectacular program, intermittently executed.

The best foreign policy is to live our daily lives in honesty, decency, and integrity; at home, making our own land a more fitting habitation for free men; and abroad, joining with those of like mind and heart, to make of the world a place where all men can dwell in peace. Neither palsied by fear nor duped by dreams but strong in the rightness of purpose, we can then place our case and cause before the bar of world opinion . . . history's final arbiter between nations.

Dwight David Eisenhower is a symbol of that which is good, and right, and strong in our nation. Would that God might give us others to take his place. Amen.

Monitor Writer To Deliver Final World Affairs Lecture

Geoffrey Godsell, editorial writer of the Christian Science Monitor and news analyst for WGBH radio and television, will give the closing lecture of the current public World Affairs Series sponsored by the United Nations Council of the South Shore. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday (April 10) in the parish hall of the United First Parish Church, Quincy Square.

From his background of first hand acquaintance with many international trouble spots, Mr. Godsell will give his assessment of the world situation and prospects for the future. His address will be entitled "From Here On."

British born, Mr. Godsell has been at the Monitor's Boston headquarters since 1958. For seven years before coming to this city, he was on news reporting assignments abroad, first as a staff correspondent for the BBC (the British radio), and from 1956 onwards for the Christian Science Monitor. While with the BBC he had long-term assignments in Paris, Washington, The United Nations, Ottawa and the Middle East and East Africa. From 1956 to 1958, he was the Monitor's Cairo-based correspondent. Serving after this as the Monitor's Assistant Overseas News Editor, he made the move from news editing to editorial writing in 1963.

Mr. Godsell is appearing for the sixth season in the World Affairs Series of the South Shore Council.

Reservations for the 6:30 p.m. catered dinner should be made no later than Monday, April 7, through one of the following: Miss Vera Call of 55 Spear St., Miss Edith K. Coulman of 20 Woodward Ave., or Mrs. Arhtur H. Shattuck of 44 Huntly Rd., all of Quincy.

On Beacon Hill

Rep. Clifford H. Marshall

At the outset, I would like to say that I personally feel The Sun is to be complimented, for the opportunity it is providing Quincy members of the Legislature to communicate news, views, and opinions affecting you from Beacon Hill.

As the newest member of the General Court from Quincy, I owe a sincere "thank you" to Representatives Brett, Hannon and Tobin for the assistance and guidance they have given me thus far. Without their help it would be undoubtedly most difficult for me.

As for news from Beacon Hill, I have been appointed to the Committee on State Administration which is headed by Senator Kelly and Representative McGlynn. This Committee is studying many important bills such as Reorganization of the Youth Service Board, Stadium Bills and the proposed State Reorganization. All of these proposals require a great deal of study before recommendations can be made. The Committee has hearings on Mondays and Wednesdays and executive sessions on Thursdays.

The Youth Service Board has been of primary importance to us, and we have been visiting institutions at Lyman School, Bridgewater, etc. to seek first-hand knowledge of the present conditions and administrative set-up.

Two bills to reorganize the Youth Service Board have been filed (S. 1001 and H. 2870), and we recently had a public hearing at the State House that lasted more than six hours. There will be additional hearings as well, I expect, prior to a decision of these bills.

Another bill of particular interest is H. 424 which calls for physicans to use generic names in addition to brand names in prescriptions. This bill is designed to reduce the cost of prescription drugs to the public. (I might add, I will be most happy to provide literature and information on this bill if desired).

A typical day at the State House can seem (and sometimes is) most confusing to visitors. Many Representatives can be seen running from one hearing room to another to record themselves on bills being heard (either for or against proposed legislation, depending on letters and calls received and personal feelings.

Thus far, in my first three months in the State House, I have tried to gather information and locate officed and people one has to know to better serve the people. Soon the committees will have finished their hearings and more and more bills will be reported out on the floor of the House for action.

It is interesting and challanging, yet confusing sometimes as debate on issues is conducted on the floor of the House. As of this writing, I have not made my "Maiden Speech" on the floor of the House, although I have appeared at a number of hearings to record myself on bills. Perhaps by the time you read this article I will have "carried" my first bill onto the floor of the House and before the membership for my Committee. I am set to carry a bill calling for a Junior Olympics set up on a state-wide basis. This bill has a good deal of merit and I am sure you will hear more about it at a later date.

I look forward to Quincy residents visiting the State House. Stop by and see your State Government at work.

Richard J. McCormick To Be Installed Quincy Elks Exalted Ruler April 12

Atty. Richard J. McCormick will be installed as Exalted Ruler of the Quincy Lodge of Elks April 12.

A social hour and a dinner and dance will follow the 6 p.m. ceremonies at the lodge.

McCormick was elected March 25 to succeed retiring Exalted Ruler Thomas M. Garrity. Garrity was elected trustee for a five-year term and alternate to the Grand Lodge. Also elected were:

William J. Whelan, Esteemed Leading Knight; William V. Morrissey, Jr., Esteemed Loyal Knight; Vincent P. Murphy, Esteemed Lecturing Knight; Edward A. Densmore, secretary; Anthony F. Casna, treasurer; Theodore C. Collagan, tiler.

Elected to the Board of Directors were:

Robert L. Stone, Samuel G. Craig, Paul Mullen, Leo J. Hannon, Jr., George C. Fay and George A. Goodhue, Jr.

$1.12 TO $1.15 1969 Tax Rate

budget is $2.1 million higher than that of last year.

The $13.6 million school budget is the highest of any municipal department. Other largest department appropriations: hospital, $7.5 million; public works, $2.7 million; police and fire departments, $2 million each.

"It is hard to exactly pin-point the impact on the 1969 tax rate," said Quinn. "We will have to wait until we know for sure what we are losing in state revenue. But I would say we can expect an increase of between $14 and $17."

The actual tax rate could drop if the city implements new appraisal figures based on fair market valuation.

But in most instances, it is generally believed, the tax bill on homes would still be higher even if the tax rate plunged to $50 on fair market valuation.

A city-wide appraisal of all property was carried out by a private firm after a taxpayers' suit forced revaluation.

City Auditor Alexander Smith said that state estimated revenue aid for Quincy, the so-called "cherry sheet", is not expected to be known until late this month.

Mayor McIntyre said the 1969 budget, city employee pay raises voted over his veto and anticipated loss of state aid could send the 1969 tax skyrocketing $20.

The $13.6 million school budget alone is equivalent to approximately $10 on the tax rate, he noted.

"But," said Quinn, "I definitely think the increase will be less than $17."

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

(This week's guest column is written by Dr. Aubrey Milunsky, Director, Child Development Clinic)

Cystic Fibrosis

Cystic fibrosis is one of the commonest serious inherited diseases in childhood. It occurs in one or two out of every 2,000 children. The disease is carried by both parents, who incidentally are both healthy, and is passed on to an average of one in every four of their children. Some parents have had three consecutive children each with cystic fibrosis.

Cystic fibrosis mainly affects the lungs and the pancreas. The normal body secretions of mucus in this disease are found to be much more sticky than normal. In the lungs the excessively sticky mucus is not as easily removed by normal breathing and tends to remain in the lung. These pools of mucus serve as a breeding ground for infection and these children therefore have many bouts of pneumonia which progressively damage the lungs.

The sticky secretions from the pancreas steadily lead to damage of that organ. In cystic fibrosis the digestive juices from the pancreas may therefore be entirely absent or markedly reduced. As a result, the children may have severe intestinal upset with foul-smelling, loose, greasy stools.

Pneumonia and/or diarrhea are the commonest symptoms and may occur at any time after birth. Children may also present with repeated attacks of bronchitis or even asthma-like episodes.

The diagnosis is made by examining a sample of the child's sweat (simply and painlessly obtained) which has an abnormally high salt content. The main aim of treatment is to prevent and treat lung infection. The missing digestive juices from the pancreas are easily supplied (tablets or powder) and taken before meals. In general, the stools assume a normal appearance on treatment in most children.

Lung infection is prevented by daily physical therapy to the chest and by having the patient sleep in a mist tent (the mist makes the mucus in the lung less sticky). Prompt treatment with antibiotics is necessary when infection occurs, and some children are kept on theses drugs continuously to prevent infection. Of course, an early diagnosis (e.g. soon after or at birth) will ensure quick institution of preventive measures against infection.

Present research on a wide front continues to provide new clues. Recently, new methods have been described (and are still experimental) to diagnose the carrier of cystic fibrosis. This represents a very important advance, and hopefully in the near future it will be possible to determine which of the brothers and sisters of children with cystic fibrosis are carriers. Further work on making a diagnosis of cystic fibrosis in early pregnancy is also in progress, Screening tests on the newborn's sweat and stools are being perfected and will provide an important aid to the important early diagnosis of cystic fibrosis.

Results of treatment today are much better than years ago, and many children with cystic fibrosis are going to high school and college, have married and had children of their own.

A 'Capella Choir To Feature Concert At Sterling School

The A'Cappella Choir of Golden Valley Lutheran College of Minneapolis, Minnesota will appear in concert at Reay E. Sterling Junior High School, 444 Granite St., Quincy on Wednesday (April 9) 8 p.m., sponsored by the Lutheran Churches in the area.

The 65-voice a cappella choir is directed by John C. Seagard, head of the music department at Golden Valley Lutheran College. The concert program consists of American compositions entirely, some dating back to the 16th century. Spirituals and classical contemporary music are inclined and some of the numbers are accompanied by brass instruments, guitars or drums.

The choir has traveled extensively on its annual tours. In recent concert seasons the choir has toured the southwestern and southeastern states and also presented a concert in the Grand Bahamas. In the summer of 1969 the choir will make its second tour of Europe, visiting England, Scotland and the Scandinavian countries.

Golden Valley Lutheran College is a two-year college located in a western suburb of Minneapolis, continuing the work of The Lutheran Bible Institute. The inter-Lutheran college offers the Associate in Arts degree in programs of liberal arts study that include Bible-centered courses in the Christian faith.

Tickets will be available at the door at $1.00 each.

New Women's Specialty Store To Open In Quincy April 19

A new and distinctive women's apparel store, Ross of Quincy, Inc., under the management and ownership of Sol Ross of Quincy, well known fashion store executive, will open on April 19.

The new specialty store will occupy 3,000 sq. feet in the former Paine Furniture building in the Mayor Charles Ross Parkingway, Quincy Square.

Designed by John Gougian of Squantum, the decor will reflect a tasteful blend of the old and new worlds. Italian, contemporary and continental inspiration will be utilized in tones of wedgewood, French and Empire blue.

The finished construction will display columnar supports and old world hand carving with transluscent amber arches. An entranceway with the contemporary touch will feature cases of micarta teak.

Mr. Ross is the former general manager of Quincy and Wellesley Anne Starr stores and more recently was affiliated with Browning King, Inc. of Newton as vice president.

His career in the women's fashion field includes many years in the New York fashion capitol. Merchandise bearing a selective hallmark will represent other world fashion centers in Milan, Florence and Los Angeles.

Riot Class Now On Curriculum At North Quincy High School

By Peter Chella

Rioters have "invaded" the classroom at North Quincy High School.

Due to the efforts of a bright young innovative teacher, students at North are learning about racial disturbances through a unique form of participation.

Michael Hurley, a graduate of Fairfield University and Boston State College, is teaching his Problems of Democracy students the problems of racial tension.

Hurley doesn't use books. He uses situations. He divides his classes into four groups and assigns a role to each group. One of the groups will take the part of policemen, one the part of the Negro. The final two groups are politicians and businessmen.

Most recently, the class studied the problems which led to the Watts riot of 1965. Mr. Hurley explained the events which were involved in the riot. He then divided the class and let them debate.

One of the students took the part of the Mayor to conciliate between the groups. His role included chiding, soothing, postponing and finding excuses.

His favorite phrase during the debate is an accepted political cliche.

The young Mayor explained to his constituents that in order to solve their problems "it will take time."

The other students, meanwhile, seemed deeply interested in the problems of the particular group they were representing. They argued vehemently with each other.

Mr. Hurley has come up with an interesting device to expand the perspective of his students in these confrontations. He will have his groups switch roles. Half way through a class he will have the policemen switch places with the group representing Negroes. Each new group will then argue from the "other side of the fence."

Hurley explains that this process of teaching will give his students a greater understanding of the problems that face the people of America's ghetto areas. "It comes much closer to reality when the kids play the parts themselves, than if they just read about the problems, says Hurley.

Basiliere Hopes High

Quincy Has Winning Ways On Diamond

In five years as Quincy's baseball coach, Bob Basiliere has had four winning seasons and one Greater Boston League championship.

Last year's team had a 10-7 record with ace pitcher Steve McDevitt sidelined a good part of the season following an appendectomy and Basiliere has high hopes for a better season this year.

"I am building around McDevitt and outfielder Steve Carrera, both three-year starters," Basiliere said. "McDevitt is one of the league's best pitchers in the league and Carrera one of the top batters. Both started as sophomores and were key men in our winning the championship. McDevitt lost a 1-0 decision to Medford in the tournament."

Bob explained that McDevitt has everything a good pitcher needs, control, speed and a lot of stuff. Carrera is a consistent .300 hitter and an excellent outfielder.

Both boys were also outstanding football players last fall, McDevitt excelling at quarter back and Carrera winning the Jack Granville Award as the outstanding Quincy player in the North Quincy game.

Another three year veteran is Steve Meyer, a good catcher and first baseman. "If one of my other two catchers, Mike McNally or Cliff Mattson, comes through for me, I'll use Meyer at first base," Basiliere said. "Otherwise, I'll use him as catcher, where he played two years ago as a sophomore."

Ed Hutchins, a letterman, has the inside track at third base, while John Langton, who worked in relief last year, Paul Duff, who started some games, and Bob Pettinelli are all fine pitching prospects.

Kevin Ryan is a fine shortstop and Rick DeCristofaro and Paul Kaplan are good looking second basemen who can play at any infield spot. Meyer or John Stevens will handle the first base chores.

The top outfield hopefuls are Rick Pettiti and Bruce Carlson, Bob Brown and Steve Sullivan are good pitching prospects.

Other leading candidates include McNally and Mattson, catchers; Paul Hand, first base; Kevin Grogan, outfield; Jim McNally, Mike's twin brother, second base, and Lloyd Allen, first base.

Basiliere has several good sophomore prospects working out among his 70 candidates.

Among the best looking are Dick Menchi, Billy Maver, Bobby Sacchetti, Bob Gallo and Russ MacDonald.

"I feel we have a good nucleus and the interest s high, thanks to having winning seasons," Basiliere said. "We are in a strong league but, if everyone stays healthy, I think we give everyone a battle."

Art Mosher is again Basiliere's assistant.

The Presidents will open their league season April 14.

Soph Varney No. 1 Catcher At Harvard

North Quincy's Pete Varney, who promises to be one of Harvard's all-time great athletes, will be the starting catcher for the Crimson's baseball team although only a sophomore.

Pete, a starting end last fall in football and one of the key men in Harvard's unbelievable comeback to tie Yale, was an outstanding catcher at North Quincy and Deerfield Academy.

He was sought by many major league teams and was offered a sizeable bonus by Cohasset's Bill Enos, scout for the Athletics. Pete put a dent in Fenway Park's left field fence during a workout before Enos and the Athletics team.

Pete refused the A's offer as well as those of other teams to enter Harvard.

"If they still want me after I finish college, I might be interested," he said.

Million Dollar Cost For Suffolk Renewal

The new look is shaping up at Suffolk Downs.

With only two weeks remaining before its April 19 opening under new management, it looks as if president Bill Veeck is going to accomplish his goal of spending $1 million in the short period of time since he took over officially on Jan. 6.

In addition to the 150 painters who presently are working in the grandstand and on the outer surface, a large crew from Gilbane Construction Co. has been wielding razing tools.

The club house box seat area, which looked like an old-type English jury box, has been wiped out and will be replaced. In addition, most of the rest rooms have been completely torn asunder and will be rebuilt with new fixtures.

Quincy Athletes Top Prospects At College

A top candidate for Dartmouth's 1969 football team is 6 ft., 214-pound Bob Kelcourse. A middle guard, the outstanding prospect is in his junior year and considered one of the Big Green's brightest stars.

One of the berths on the U-Mass varsity lacrosse team is held down by John Lanata. The Quincy boy is one of several South Shore performers on the team.

New Coach Optimistic

Bunker Eyes Baseball Upturn At North

North Quincy has a new baseball coach this year. He is Charlie Bunker, an outstanding pitcher for Boston College and the Red Sox minor league system, who hopes to improve on last year's .500 record.

"We had a good turnout of 75 and there are some good looking boys," Bunker said. "We have several experienced pitchers and some of the boys show good hitting ability."

Among the veteran pitchers are Garry McGrath, Craig Bogosian, Steve Brustin, Frank Costa, the only southpaw, and Bob Pastor, also a capable catcher.

Bunker has a wealth of catching material led by veteran Dennis Driscoll, one of the best batters, and including Tony Kelley, Steve Donaghey and Mike Dormandy.

Brustin, Bill Corbin, also an outfielder, and Dan Zink, outstanding sophomore athlete who also is a good pitcher, are battling it out for first base and any one of them could make it. Brustin shapes up as another of the Raiders' top batters.

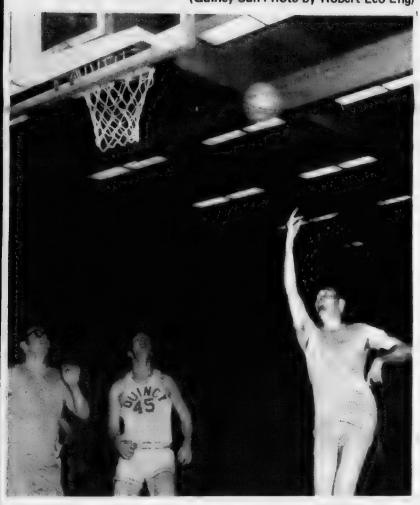
Trying out for second base are Tom Flynn, John Murray and Bill Deshler, while Jim Broderick, a good hitter, and Jim Alabiandi are the second base hopefuls.

At third base Bunker has several likely prospects including Jim Donovan, Dave Murphy, Bob Langley and Kevin Colleran.

"Colleran can play just about anywhere and will be my number one utility man," the new Raider coach said.

In the outfield will be Gary Watson, a good batter; Tom Perrin, Jim Alberino, another good batter; Steve Tomasetti, who also hits well; John Ward and Tom Piscatelli.

"I honestly think we should do all right," Bunker concluded. "Of course, like everyone else, we have been greatly hampered by the weather (the Raiders got outside for the first time last Friday), but these kids have a lot of desire and are working hard."



Bunker, who has been at North four years and was junior varsity coach two years ago, has John Bowes back as assistant coach.

His managers are Frank Sickel and Dick Kelleher, two hard workers.

The Raiders open their season next Wednesday against Abp. Williams and their league opener will be played on April 14 against Revere.

AGE TRIUMPHED in the benefit game staged for the Munroe MacLean Memorial Scholarship. Sparking the Old Timers over the Quincy High varsity 76-58 was Norfolk County Dist. Atty. George G. Burke. The one-time schoolboy star scores here over the blocking efforts of Jim Fufari. Pursuing are DiCristoforo and Burke.

ON TARGET with an underhand toss is Old Timer star Dick Barry. Teammate-coach Ed "Cookie" Needel and Quincy High's Steve McDevitt look to the basket. The Old Timers returned to notch a victory and relieve their former days as schoolboy stars for Quincy.

some thoughts to consider when arranging for a funeral

An Experience of Value

A funeral is a unique event in the life of a family. No two are exactly alike. Yet each is an experience of value, if it meets the different needs of those who mourn.

It should be remembered that the funeral of every man, famous or unknown, rich or poor can be equally important for those bereaved he leaves behind.

The funeral is one of the few personal events and ceremonies to which none is invited but to which all should be able to come. In a very real way, the funeral not only recognizes that a death has occured, but it is also testimony that a life has been lived.

Easter Devotions To Climax Holy Week In Area Churches

Area church services will strike a religious note of family unity in Holy Week devotions culminating in the joyous celebration of Easter on Sunday.

Among the churches offering Maundy Thursday devotions is St. Chrysostom's Episcopal, Wollaston, where a memorial celebration of the Lord's Supper will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Most churches will conduct sacramental services of Holy Communion Thursday evening.

Participating in these traditional solemnities will be congregations at Atlantic United Methodist, Christ Episcopal, Union Congregational, Bethany Congregational and Wollaston United Methodist.

A union Good Friday service will unite six Quincy churches at the host church, Bethany Congregational, from noon to 3 p.m.

Theme of six devotional periods will be "The Meaning of the Cross." Interludes between the half-hour services will allow for the flow of worshippers to and from the devotions.

Churches participating in the order of the devotional periods will be the First Church of Squantum, the Rev. Ernest H. Hayhow, preaching; the Houghs Neck Congregational Church, the Rev. Mrs. Alice Corea; the Adams Shore United Methodist Church, the Rev. William L. Newcomer; Bethany Congregational, the Rev. John D. Banks; Atlantic Methodist, the Rev. John Sutton and the United First Parish Church, the Rev. Bradford E. Gale.

A single family service will be held at 10:30 at Union Congregational Church. A nursery will be provided for children three years old and under.

At Atlantic Methodist, identical services will be conducted at 9:30 and 11 a.m. Traditional vigil services will be held on Good Friday when the church will be open for meditation and prayer.

Christ Church will be open from 7 to 9 p.m. for Good Friday prayer and meditation. Easter Day Holy Communion services will be conducted at 6:30, 7:30, 9 and 11 a.m. Children's services will be held at 3 p.m. and feature the presentation of Lenten Mite Boxes filled by the children during the pre-Easter period.

At Bethany Church, Easter services will be held at 9:30 and 11 a.m. with the Resurrection story told in the anthems of three combined choirs.

Leading the congregation in devotions will be the Rev. Harold G. Landwehr, Jr. Church school classes will not be held on Easter, except for nursery school children.

Two Easter Sunday services will be conducted at Wollaston United Methodist Church at 9 a.m. and 10:45 a.m.

The Easter theme at Salem Lutheran Church will be "Easter Celebration," at 9 and 11 a.m.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

To Smoke Or Not To Smoke

"To smoke or not to smoke"... that is the question which millions of people are facing today. Millions are stopping... 150,000 physicians have stopped... others are struggling with it... more or less successfully.

The reasons for this unrest are two-fold... first the Surgeon General's initial report and follow-up studies which quite conclusively link cigarette smoking with cancer... emphysema... heart disease... perhaps some other ailments too. Then... the continual barrage from radio and television of anti-smoking "commercials." Like the one where the fellow coughs his way off the air... or where the little boy is sitting by the tree trunk mimicking everything his daddy does... then the daddy reaches for his cigarettes... lights one... turns... sees his little four-year-old picking up the pack. We get the message loud and clear.

Now... there aren't many voices being lifted in defense of the smoking habit. Unless my observation is askew, it seems to me that the cigarette advertising on radio and television has been reduced... or switched to a "change your brand" emphasis. Of course you hear those who justify the habit with... "I just enjoy a cigarette"... "If I didn't smoke, I'd probably pick up some other habit"... "It keeps my weight down"... "I'm less nervous when I smoke"... "It would make a big hole in our national economy if everybody stopped"... (You probably have your own pet defense.) But the fact remains that a very large percent of the smokers want to stop. They have heard the scientists... believe them... and want desperately to quit. Why don't we?

Consider first why we smoke? Three words: comraderie... habit... chemistry. Comraderie comes from the word comrade (I had to look it up too)... companionship. Smoking is a companionable thing. It is a sharing of something. Often one of a couple will take out his/her cigarettes and light two... handing one to his/her mate. Lighting each other's cigarettes is a courtesy which many married couples have never ceased to observe. Beautiful from a courtesy standpoint... and we need a lot more courtesy in the home.

The second word is habit. You reach for the telephone and simultaneously you reach for your cigarettes. You want to smoke after meals... at coffee breaks... in conferences. You get in your car, start the motor, fasten your seat belt, drop the lever in "drive"... reach for your cigarettes. There is also the fun of lighting cigarettes with lighters... how we Americans do like gadgets.

Then... chemistry. I'm not a chemist... but I'm told that certain elements of the smoke get into the blood stream, and that this calls for more... just as alcohol in the blood calls for more alcohol. Yet, tobacco and alcohol addictions operate quite differently: 1. Addiction to smoking takes hold promptly while time is required to bring one to alcohol addiction. 2. Practically everyone who smokes becomes addicted... not so with alcohol... everyone who drinks does not become an alcoholic. 3. Withdrawal from smoking has no danger. It may cause temporary tension... a little anxiety... all of which usually passes in a couple or three days. Sudden withdrawal in cases of advanced alcohol addiction can cause acute discomfort, D.T.'s and even death.

PROBATE COURT

To ALAN L. HOLBROOK of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk.

A petition has been presented to said Court by your wife LINDA HOLBROOK of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, representing that you fail, without justifiable cause, to provide suitable support for her; have deserted her; she is actually living apart from you for justifiable cause; and praying that the Court will establish that she is so living apart from you for justifiable cause and by its order, prohibit you from imposing any restraint on her personal liberty, and make such order as it deems expedient concerning support, and the care, custody and maintenance of your minor children.

If you desire to object thereto you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Quincy before ten o'clock in the forenoon on the ninth day of April 1969, the return day of this citation.

Witness, JAMES F. REYNOLDS, Esquire, First Judge of said Court this tenth day of March 1969.
Bennett V. McLaughlin, Register.

Operation Sweep-Up

"A sudden heavy rain," he explained, "could wash branches and twigs into catch basins and clog them causing potential flooding."

He asked residents to either place branches in trash receptacles or bundle them and place them on the sidewalk with their rubbish collection.

As soon as the hill areas are swept--and in some cases, shoveled--public works crews will move into lower sections.

"Every street has got to be done," said Browne. "It's quite a job."

Housewives really don't have it so bad, after all.

Dist. Atty. Burke Urges:

'Educate Sixth Graders Against Drug Evils'

NO, THESE YOUNGSTERS aren't dozing in class. Janet Kressler and Earl Landry, students at Broad Meadows Junior High School, are listening to the playback of classroom study notes they put on tape recorders. Thirty students are taking part in the experiment being conducted by teacher Peter Bizinkauskas to determine if tape recorders are more effective than old fashioned note books.

Dist. Atty George G. Burke proposes a sixth-grade level drugs educational program in Quincy and other Norfolk County communities to "win the minds of youngsters before they experiment with this poison."

Burke said he will also urge television networks and radio stations to run anti-narcotic public service messages–similar to anti-cigarette appeals–to help battle the menace on a national scale.

"The drug situation in Quincy is very bad and getting worse," Burke told The Quincy Sun last night. "It's the same in every community.

"People who say their community doesn't have a drug problem or their children would never get involved are only kidding themselves. They're like the ostrich sticking his head in the sand hiding from reality."

Burke said no youngster is safe from the drug menace and that every effort should be made to protect them before it produces a future generation of addicts.

He pointed to an ominous 1000 per cent increase in drug cases at Quincy District Court.

"I would recommend that we start drugs education in the sixth grade to win tthe minds of youngsters before they experiment with this poison," he said.

"The menace has already invaded our junior high schools. Youngsters there are fooling around with glue-sniffing and marijuana.

"We have got to reach these youngsters before they experiment. I think we have to

West Quincy Residents Map Open Dumping Battle Plans

The St. Moritz Association of West Quincy will expand its organization and broaden its opposition to proposed open dumping sites in West Quincy.

A 10-member committee on dumping problems was established and will formulate opposition to a proposed landtaking for an access road to the quarry holes proposed for additional open dumping purposes. Mr. Ernest Poose was named chairman of the dumping committee which was appointed at a lively meeting of the Association at St. Mary's Hall Monday night.

The landtaking hearing will be presented at a public hearing before the city council on April 23 at city hall.

More than 200 persons attended the meeting of the civic group to register strong opposition to open dumping and the current West Quincy proposals.

Presentation of city plans to augment quarry area dumping was outlined by St. Moritz Association president Robert E. Watts, Jr. The group also adopted a resolution to expand its organization to represent the entire West Quincy area in opposition to open dumping.

Speaking on community strategy in developing effective opposition to open dumping was David Shepard of the Community Concerns Association, a Cranch Hill organization active in the successful fight against open dumping in the Faulkner's Quarry area a year ago. He outlined his group's four-point plan and proposed organization of petitions to be submitted to the mayor, city council members and state health authorities.

Following a unanimous vote against open dumping the following committee was named to serve with Mr. Poose:

John Bonomi, George Wey, Richard Norse, Norman Cutler, Paul Ford, Paul Schweman, Edward Mackie, Robert O'Leary, Dorothy Grindle, Peter Traficante.

Members will meet at Mr. Poose's home on Thursday (April 10) to discuss plans for the group's presentation at the April 23 hearing.

Also addressing the group was State Rep. and former City Councillor Joseph E. Brett. He reviewed the history of dumping problems and the long-standing proposal to construct a municipal incinerator in Quincy.

Rep. Brett, as a Councillor, served as chairman of an incinerator study committee in 1959. The committee's report concluded that incinerator construction would be beneficial for the city's health and economic welfare. The incinerator was then viewed as a

Donahue On Whirlwind Tour Here Friday

Sen. President Maurice A. Donahue, an expected candidate for Governor, makes an all-day whirlwind tour of Quincy tomorrow.

The Holyoke Democrat will address several groups–political and non-political–during his busy day-evening schedule.

He will be met and escourted by Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre, Rep.-Councillor Arthur Tobin, Quincy Democratic City Committee chairman and other local Democratic leaders.

In pre-noon stops, Donahue is scheduled to address the North Quincy High School student body at 9 a.m., visit the site of the new Community College and the Senior Citizens Drop-In Center.

At 12:15 p.m., he will be guest speaker at a luncheon meeting of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce at the Sheraton Motor Inn, North Quincy.

Donahue will discuss Gov. Sargent's $154 million dollar tax package and legislative matters pertaining to the Quincy-South Shore business community.

At 3:15 p.m., he will address the Quincy Teachers Association at a reception at Sherry's and at 4:45 p.m. attend a cocktail party in his honor at the Sheraton Motor Inn given by "Quincy Friends".

He will also attend Italian Night at St. Mary's Hall and at 8:30 p.m. address the Democratic City Committee and Democratic Women's Club at The Hollow.

Editors, Quincy Sun:

You are to be commended for a wonderful job on a newspaper which is an asset to our community.

I can hardly wait for the mail on Thursday to read my Quincy Sun.

Thank you.

Sincerely
Mrs. D.B. McArthur

Editors, Quincy Sun:

It gives me a great deal of pleasure to extend to you my thanks for your support in making the reception for Gil Crofts successful.

Many people have exclaimed how pleased they were to be able to attend this affair. I believe we had over 400 extend their best wishes to the Crofts at this occasion.

Thank you again for your help in extending the warm greetings of the Quincy YMCA to their many friends.

Sincerely yours,

Fishing 'Poor' At Braintree Dam

Fishing prospects rate a definite "poor" for Braintree Dam this year.

Following a report from the State Division of Fisheries and Game to City Councillor John F. Koegler, the Quincy official issued a pessimistic prognosis for local anglers:

"It appears that fishing is doomed this year."

In a lengthy report of their investigation of the Quincy-owned former reservoir waters to Councillor Koegler, the State agency noted that:

Land use developments within the drainage system and along Rte. 128, apparently produced conditions which rendered the Reservoir unsuitable for further trout stocking.

The judgment was made following studies of chemical tests made last October by a Division of Fisheries and Game biologist. Several analyses were made to determine thyunsuitability of the Dam for trout management, the report noted.

Present conditions at the water site may constitute a violation of state water pollution laws, the report pointed out.

In addition, it was disclosed that a heavy flow of ground water is responsible for the pollution problem. Recommendations to abate the runoff and eliminate the major pollution cause were recommended by Colton H. Bridges, Wildlife Research Superintendent.

He recommended that steps be taken to contain the runoff by methods such as bulkhead construction. This could be done if the flow was not too great, according to the state official.

The problem would have to be resolved through the Division of Water Pollution Control if the Braintree-owned 36-acre site remained in its present condition.

Application of limestone chips was suggested although this would involve facility construction, operational and maintenance costs.

Sunbeams

Mayor James R. McIntyre returned to work yesterday "feeling great" after a week's rest at Quincy City Hospital.

But, actually it wasn't all rest. A couple days after he took ill in the Senate Chamber at the State House, apparently from plain over-tiredness, he was running the city from his private room at the hospital.

Was in touch with his office by telephone and visits from his executive secretary, James J. Ricciuti and personal secretary, Mrs. Louise Brabazon.

He kept busy dictating letters to Mrs. Brabazon and going over City Council agenda items with Ricciuti. All the while champing at the bit to get back to his desk.

He was also kept busy reading a flood of get-well cards.

THE ALL DAY visit to Quincy tomorrow by Sen. President Maurice Donahue is looked upon by local political observers as the South Shore kick-off to his bid for Governor next year. On his busy schedule is a 4:45 p.m. cocktail party at the Sheraton Motor Inn sponsored by "Quincy Friends of Maurice Donahue". That looks like the launching pad.

MILESTONES: Americo Faiella of South Walnut St., former city forestry department employee, reached a young 72 Monday. And his grand-nephew, Billy Carullo, turned 14 on the very same day. The youngster is the son of popular Patrolman William Carullo who soon has a milestone of his own coming up. The latter becomes Quincy's No. 1 patrolman when Ralph Lewis retires April 16. Will take over No. 1 badge denoting longest service.

NORFOLK COUNTY Dist. Atty. George G. Burke decided to give up the basketball court for the courtroom back in the 1950's. He was a Celtics rookie with a promising future. But he has no regrets at making the career switch. Burke, however, still has his shooting eye as was evident during the recent benefit game between the Quincy High School varsity and the "Old Timers" for the Munroe MacLean Memorial Scholarship fund. Old-timer Burke sand 27 points as age triumphed over youth.

APPARENTLY no one's car is safe from auto thieves. George Swartz, head of the Massachusetts Hundred Club that generously financially aids families of police and firefighters killed in the line of duty, had a luncheon engagement the other day at Sherry's with Quincy members Denis Donoghue and Ernie Montilio. When Swartz went to get his car, across from his Beacon St. residence, it was gone--stolen.

Donoghue drove in town to get him so he could keep the luncheon date. The thief who took the car probably didn't realize that it's one of the best known cars in the state. Registration plate: G-100. And that every police officer in the state will be looking for it.

WELL, apparently a lot of people have no problem tearing themselves away from the television set to enjoy a good book. Registered borrowers at Quincy's Thomas Crane Public Library totaled 44,425 last year, notes Director of Libraries Warren E. Watson. This is more than half the city's population. Of these, 32,390 were adults and 12,035 juveniles. Incidentally, the library has some 679,901 books and periodicals--391,010 fiction and 288,891 non-fiction. (And have you read a good book lately?)

REMINDER: Young men between 17 and 21 interested in attending West Point, Annapolis, the U.S. Air Force Academy or Merchant Marine Academy have until Sept. 15 to contact U.S. Rep. James A. Burke for full details. You can check with him through his office in the Quincy Post Office building.

Brazil Military Officers To View Quincy Civil Defense Operations

Four military officers from Brazil will inspect Quincy's Civil Defense headquarters and operations system April 15.

City Civil Defense Director John E. Schmock said the four visitors are touring various CD installations in the U.S.

In Quincy, they will view the modern CD Emergency Operating Center in the new Public Works Complex on Sea St.

The center is equipped so that the city government could be operated from there in the event of a disaster or nuclear attack.

It has a two-way communications system, emergency power unit, cots, blankets and various other supplies.

It also has special shower stalls for cleansing radio active particles.

While here, the four visitors will also inspect Quincy's link to the National Warning System--the alert "hot line" in the event of a nuclear attack or disaster.

The city was tied in last December to a direct communication line from NORAD Headquarters at Colorado Springs, Col. to receive immediate attack warnings simultaneously with strategic military installations throughout the U.S.

Schmock estimates the hook-up, installed in the Fire Alarm Division at the Central Fire Station, gives Quincy an approximate vital two-minute advance warning over prior alert methods.

The Brazilian officers will meet with Schmock, Mayor James R. McIntyre, Executive Secretary James J. Ricciuti, Fire Chief Edward F. Barry, Police Chief Francis X. Finn, and Public Works Commr. John M. Browne.

Also making the Quincy tour will be federal and state Civil Defense representatives.

Teacher Tribute For Dr. Creedon

Quincy School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon will be honored at an informal dinner dance Thursday (April 10) at 7 p.m. at Sherry's Restaurant, Southern Artery.

The tribute has been organized in recognition of Dr. Creedon's recent appointment to the Superintendency by faculty members at Quincy Point Junior High and Daniel Webster Elementary Schools.

Dr. Creedon is a former assistant principal at Quincy Point Junior High where his brother, Eugene, teaches English. Chairman of the dinner-dance is Mrs. Louise Schofield, a math teacher at Quincy Point Junior High School, who taught Dr. Creedon when he was a student at North Quincy High School.

"We are all very happy about his promotion and this is the first opportunity we have had to recognize it in a formal way," Mrs. Schofield said.

Faculties and families representing both schools are expected to attend, in addition to Dr. Creedon's mother, Mrs. Mabel E. Creedon of North Quincy.

Hadassah Donor Luncheon May 7

Plans have been finalized for the Hadassah Donor Luncheon, to be held May 7 at the Metropolitan Yacht Club, Braintree.

Mrs. Henry Cutler, is chairman. Mrs. Herbert Hodess is hostess. Chairman assisted by Mrs. Stanley Sorkin, Mrs. Samuel Lampert, Mrs. Floyd Wolfe and Mrs. Henry Levin.

92 Permits For $21,865 Wiring Issued In March

Ninety-two permits for wiring totally estimated at $21,865 were issued during the month of March, City Wire Inspector William H. Pitts reported.

Major wiring projects for the month, he said, were a new building for the Fruit Basket, 145 Granite St. and a new service station for Humble Oil Co., at 681 Adams St.

Fees collected for the 92 wiring permits amounted to $379.

During the month, 97 inspections were made, Pitts reported.

Lt. Frank Vallier Attending Command Training Institute

Quincy Police Lt. Frank W. Vallier is attending the Command Training Institute for police officers being held at Babson Institute, Wellesley.

The institute is the 16th session sponsored by the New England Association of Chiefs of Police. It opened March 31 and will continue through April 18.

Lt. Vallier is one of 30 police officers attending the classes.

Arthur D. Kehas, deputy chief of police, Manchester, N.H. is director of the Institute, which is supported by a grant from the U.S. Department of Justice. A total of 450 police officers from the New England area have attended sessions at Babson to date.

Courses include lectures and seminars on a variety of subjects in addition to law enforcement, including community relations, human relations, decision-making and related topics.

Koegler Seeks Fence For S. Quincy Freight Depot

City Councillor John F. Koegler has asked the MBTA to consider fencing in a temporary freight yard at the former Quincy Adams railroad depot to keep youngsters from getting hurt.

Koegler made the request in a letter to James Fitzgerald, Director of Construction for the MBTA.

The temporary freight depot is being used during construction of the MBTA's rapid transit extension to Quincy.

Noting that he has received several complaints from residents of the area, Koegler wrote to Fitzgerald:

"This area has become quite attractive to the young children in the vicinity. There is a large quantity of metal and other materials stored here, and the children are climbing over these piles. The parents in this area feel that the children are apt to get hurt as several of these piles have toppled over.

"If there is any possible way that your department can cooperate by fencing in this area to discourage the children from playing in this area, it would be greatly appreciated. Also, there are scattered amounts of debris which are creating an eye sore. Could this area be cleaned out?"

On Beacon Hill

By Sen. James R. McIntyre

Being the Senator in the Commonwealth from this district is an extremely interesting, enjoyable and exciting role.

Usually, as a member of the majority party, a Senator has an additional responsibility of being a Committee Chairman which necessitates important duties of setting up hearings on legislation, moving bills onto the floor of thee Senate, defending Committee reports and making sure that all petitions are properly heard and reached before the end of April in each session of the legislature.

As Chairman of the Committee on Transportation, I have had several hundred bills referred, mostly dealing with matters concerning the M.B.T.A., Massachusetts Port Authority, State Department of Public Works, Nantucket Steamship Authority and the Massachusetts Aeronautics Commission.

On Tuesday and Thursday mornings, I must be in early in order to hold hearings with the Transportation Committee and make reports in Executive Session on pending legislation. There is a great deal of activity this year on the Transportation Committee with ever increasing support building up for the creation of a Department of Transportation in Massachusetts.

Controversies exist over various aspects of the M.B.T.A., - power plant continuation, railroad operation, transit extension, and various other problems internally with the M.B.T.A. The pressing need for a second airport to serve Massachusetts is a continuing problem which seems to erupt the residents of East Boston dramatically. These problems alone certainly are enough to keep the Committee on Transportation in high gear for most of this session along with another multimillion dollar anticipated bond issue to expand our highway system.

However, much of my time in the Senate, in the afternoon, is spent in debate where bills in which I have a specific interest regarding my district, general bills affecting all cities and towns of Massachusetts, and Transportation are debated. Some debates we win, some we lose, but in my estimation it is of true benefit to my area, during this trying period of the M.B.T.A. extension into the South Shore, for me to have a concurrent interest in municipal affairs because of the tremendous impact state governments are now making on municipalities not only in the area of transportation, but also in local aid and municipal finance.

Another important role as Senator is to provide services for constituents and I hope that I will be able to see more of you on Beacon Hill in the ensuing two years. I will be opening a new office on the Fourth floor of the Senate in Room 406 and hope that you will be able to come in to meet me and my new legislative aide, Henry Bertolon, and my secretary, Patricia Small, who will be willing and able to assist my constituents in Quincy, Braintree and Randolph in problems which might occur with various state agencies and departments.

Please drop in as all systems are Go and the red welcome mat is always out to the wonderful people of Quincy, Braintree and Randolph.

St. John's Baseball Tryouts This Sunday

Tryouts for St. John's Boys Baseball League will be held at Faxon Park Sunday at 1:30 p.m. All boys who have registered to play in the league for the first time must participate in the tryouts before being assigned to a team.

Close to 300 boys ages eight through twelve have signed up to play for the coming season.

League chairman Anthony Constantino urges all interested fathers to contact him as more assistants, coaches, and umpires are needed.

The season opens April 26 and closes June 28 with an all-star game and field day.

SPRING FEVER

The rigours of the unusual winter we have just weathered can easily be forgotten with the glorious spring just ushered in with an ache for the pussy willow, early flowering, and the burgeoning buds of the maple. The tang of the bristling air can't prevent us from lowering our car windows, nor from dispatching coats to a closet, even if a little early! There is an encouraging zest to the discomfort of early discarding of winter's things.

However, with such recklessness may come other inconvenient discomforts--accidents! Exuberant youth may become involved in these too easily. Through his own commission, or the omission of care by adults, irresponsibility is a charge we expect to make to children or adolescents. Yet in auto accidents almost two-thirds of the blame can be attributed, statistically, to adults through either omission or commission. Unfortunately, accidents remain the number one cause of death in children from five to twenty. In the earlier years boys out-proportion girls three to one but toward adolescence the girls manage to catch up pretty rapidly.

There are about 80 million younger persons in this country and out of these 17 million will visit a clinic or doctor for an accident in the coming year. The most serious agent causing the more severe accidents and death is the automobile-not mentioning the disabilities and disfigurements. Other causes include falls, lacerations, chemicals, fire, guns, and sharp instruments. Drowning ranks high--too high.

Automobiles to me are a luxury but it would be hard to convince most people that they are not a necessity and least of all youth. Nothing seems more unnecessary to me than high school students needing cars to attend school.

Since autos are here to stay regardless of my belief, every person, prior to licensing, should be required to take Driver Education courses under private of public-school instruction. In Quincy we dropped the program because of costs. In pondering over the value of such training I am inclined to encourage the reinstitution of these courses. Miss Betty Scanlon of the Quincy School Board is adamant about their revival. She has been patient in her insistence and needs support! Economy is of secondary importance if lives can be assured intact and present.

"Death by Drowning"! What a memory to eradicate--Haunting, disturbing and often unnecessary. This is an area where a concerted drive by parents is needed to reduce a horrible statistic. Swimming is as natural as walking. A newborn infant can effect both postures-walk and go through the attitudes of dog-paddling, instinctively demonstrating the evolutionary origin of these actions. Effective education should include in its Physical Education program compulsary swimming instruction for every able child.

"Accident Proneness" is a definite entity. Every emergency floor has its habitual customers and most large families have on such unfortunate. Possibly, the one the pigeon would hit! The person through daring, carelessness, clumsiness or just plain tough luck, not attributable to a sensible detection, seems to get it in the neck. One such child came to the office with an impaled fish hook successfully removed. Two minutes later the child was screaming, because he had his arm up to the elbow in the jamb of a telephone booth, requiring a crowbar to remove him! It isn't possible to constantly protect such people or restrict their excursions without making them dependent, or injuring their ego. Sort of a fix, isn't it?

Sixth Graders Should Have Drug Education Says Burke

reach them down in the sixth grade or we may lose them at the junior high and senior high level."

He recommended that special films and literature designed for the sixth grade age level be made available for classroom viewing. And that trained speakers go in and talk to the youngsters.

"It's delicate at that age, but it can be handled properly," he said.

Burke will leave for the Virgin Islands Saturday to follow up a drugs program he helped institute there last November at the invitation of the legislative Crime Control Committee.

The program at St. Croix and St. Thomas is aimed at the sixth grade-through high school age level similar to the one he now proposes for Quincy and Norfolk County. Burke will be gone for 10 days.

Burke comended Mayor James R. McIntyre and Chief Francis X. Finn for creating a Narcotics Division in the Quincy Police Department. He also praised school officials for establishing a drugs educational program in the upper grades.

"These are good positive steps the city of Quincy is taking to stop the spread of this menace," he said. "But we have got to do even more."

Burke is setting up a Narcotics Division in his own office with the accent on both education and law enforcement.

He already has 12 drugs films and literature and has been sending speakers out to seminars, classrooms, social and civic groups.

Burke disclosed he will request TV networks and radio stations to donate their time to anti-drug public service messages.

"They are carrying anti-smoking spot messages now," he said. "I think drugs are a much bigger threat than cigaretts. Drugs are both a physical and mental menace."

"People can kick the nicotine habit," he said. "But once you've become addicted to drugs, you are trapped. Less than five per cent are saved. The others go back on drugs even though they temporarily stop."

There are many reasons youngsters experiment with drugs, he said.

Among them: curiosity, escape from responsibility and reality, stresses and tensions of today including the fear of a nuclear war.

"But youngsters today have got to face up to life," Burke said. "They have got to help themselves. But we have got to help them, too."

Burke continued:

"It appalls me. The kids don't know what they're doing when they start fooling around with drugs. Many of them have a complete lack of respect for authority--parental, schools, church and law enforcement."

"We've got to reach them early and lead them away from this menace. If we don't, we may be allowing the creation of a future generation of drug addicts and criminals. We may be creating a social monster that will destroy this nation."

WOLLASTON WOMAN AIDS PROJECT--Mrs. Donald T. Dixon, right, of Wollaston, will be among the Morgan Memorial Auxiliary officers celebrating annual Ecumenical Day. The event will feature an antiques Flea Market, May 24 at the Topsfield Fair Grounds. Items such as this old English platter and antique jugs also admired by Mrs. Frank H. McDewell of Everett and Mrs. Frank H. Cousens of Waltham, will be featured.

Quincy Brand Names Day Also 'Pete & Remo' Day

Mayor James R. McIntyre has proclaimed today (Thursday) Brand Names Day in Quincy in connection with a national award being presented to South Shore Television, 1570 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The downtown store, a regular advertiser in The Quincy Sun, was selected from among 286 finalists in the country for a top national award for outstanding retail merchandising and advertising.

The store will receive Certificate of Distinction honors in the 21st Annual Brand Name Retailer-of-the-Year Awards Competition.

Advertisements appearing in The Quincy Sun were part of the presentation submitted by Ferdinand (Pete) and Remo DeNicola, owners of South Shore Television.

Representatives of the nine winning firms will accept their awards tonight (Thursday) at the annual banquet at the Americana Hotel, New York City.

YMCA NOTES

Helping Keep America Strong

By Adele Wilson
YMCA Women's Council

The National Convention of the American Association of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation will be in April, during which "Mermaids" from the Quincy YMCA Synchronized Swimming group will present a number from "Camelot," this year's theme of the annual "Y" water show to be held May 6th and 7th.

Under the instructorship of Mrs. Norma Finnegan, the following Mermaids (varying in age from 30 to 50 years young!) will swim the "Guenevere" number from "Camelot": Jean Bonney, Jean Rainey, June Doherty, Dorothy Anderson, Virginia Gauthier, Priscilla Brown, Martha Baker, Perry Thompson, Joan Cook, Hertha McConville. Here's living proof that you can "Keep Fit from 3 to 83 by Swimming" - incidentally, one of the workshop subjects at National Convention.

JUNIOR RIFLE CLUB, BOY'S DEPARTMENT: Under Club Instructor William Flaherty, the Quincy "Y" Minutemen Junior Rifle Club shot in competition with the Quintree Junior Rifle Club from the West Roxbury YMCA and the St. John's Boy Scout team. In a four-point competition, the Quincy team placed second and were so awarded ribbons. Team members include: Robert Anastasi, Mike Hurney, Jonathon Burak, Robert Fitzgerald, Darrah Flaherty, Robert Gordon, Mike Cashman, Mike Perito, Steve Atran, Tim Tedeschi.

GYMNASTIC EXHIBITION

Perhaps once or twice during "Y" membership an opportunity presents itself for the display of achievements to other members, friends, and family. Such an opportunity came to the Quincy "Y" Gymnastic Teams recently when a capacity crowd of 500 people braved the winter weather to see 100 boys, girls, men and women gymnasts present tis year's exhibition, "Quest for a Free Self."

The evening's program began with all members of the Gymnast Team marching in to the National Anthem, following which coaches Evelyn Murphy, Marty Butler, Jim Hutt, Bill Jenness, and Earl Johnson were introduced. Presentations included demonstrations of all gymnastic apparatus, the "Born Free" floating-parachute number, rope-skipping number performed by girl gymnasts, tumbling moves in dance form presented by 60 girls, and six tableaus in finale written by Marty Butler.

Timing, strength, and skill were demonstrated in the triple balances done by Jim Hutt, Bill Jenness, and Marty Butler, one triple balance specifically honoring retiring YMCA General Secretary Gilbert Crofts.

Gymnastic dancing, a feature seldom seen by the public, was presented by Jim Hutt, Alice Damon, Marty Butler, and Linda Linscott. Other individual performances included: Dave Merrill, parallel bars; Dan Riley, trampoline; George Winters and Tom Campbell, still rings; Tom McDermott, side horse; Laura McCarter, balance beam; Gritha Ruark, uneven parallel bars; Marty Butler, high bar; Jim Hutt, flying rings; Alice Damon, free floor exercise; Mike King, tumbling; Bill Jeness, parallel bars. Organ music by John Burak was enjoyed throughout the exhibition.

Rev. Hoffman To Be Ordained Thursday Night

The Rev. Charles Lance Hoffman will be ordained a priest in the Episcopal Church by The Rt. Rev. Gerald Francis Burrill, Bishop of Chicago, at St. Chrysostom's Church, Wollaston, tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m.

Rev.-Mr. Hoffman has served as Curate for the Parish of St. Chrysostom since September, 1968.

He is a graduate of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., and served as a Lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force before entering the seminary. He attended the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, and was awarded a Bachelor of Divinity Degree in June of this year.

Since coming to Quincy, Rev.-Mr. Hoffman has been active in the Quincy Community for Human Rights, serving as Chairman of the Education Sub Committee. He is a consultant to the Joint Commission on Renewal of the Episcopal Church and is a member of the Episcopal Peace Fellowship.

Rev.-Mr. Hoffman is married to the former Margaret Fairchild. They have one child and expecting their second in June.

Eye-Better Records

Quincy, North Trackmen Ready To Go

Quincy:

Tom Hill is starting his second year as Quincy's track coach and, with a good nucleus of veterans, including several who participated with the winter team, he has high hopes of bettering last season's .500 record.

"We are again in the Suburban League but this is our last year in this league," Hill said. "Next year the leagues are being realigned and we will be in the Greater Boston League, as we are in other sports."

Among the better looking candidates among the more than 50 who turned out, are Joe Goguen, a fine looking sophomore who will try the 220, broad jump and high jump; Kevin Luggelle, high jump and low hurdles; Ken Prouty, an excellent broad jumper and hurdler; Pat Grimes, a fine mile prospect; Peter Laing, a strong two-miler; Chris Potter, half-mile, and Rich Hines, quarter-mile.

"These are the boys I'm building around," Hill said. "Prouty placed third in low hurdles in the state meet last year. Luggelle was a standout in winter track and Laing was Quincy's best cross country runner last fall."

Other promising candidates include Larry Butler, quarter-mile; Scott Brand, shot put; Dave Esau, two-mile, Fred Howard, quarter-mile; Bill Bloomer, half mile; Jim DuBois, two-mile; and John Hacunda, half-mile.

"We should be strong in the dashes and all jumping events, but need help in the discus and pole vault in particular," the Presidents' coach added.

Quincy opens its season Tuesday against Abp. Williams and will face cross-town rival North Quincy in its league opener April 22 at Veterans Memorial Stadium

Kenny Hayes is again Quincy's assistant coach.

North:

North Quincy's track team, under second-year had coach Ralph Frazier, has been working hard for its season's opener, tentatively set for Tuesday against Revere, and its Suburban League lid-lifter against arch rival Quincy April 22, with a determined squad of 60 candidates.

"We were 4-5 a year ago and I hope to improve on this record this year," Frazier, a former North football and track standout himself, said. "We have a really fine looking group working out and I think our chances depend to a large extent on our strengthening ourselves in the dashes. Last year we were very weak in these events."

Frazier has a large number of experienced seniors including Roger Conboy, 220 and javelin; Bruce Healey, mile; Butch McIver, shot put; Mike Noonan, two-mile; Dick O'Hanley, hurdles; Steve Poore, half-mile; Dan Polvere, javelin and 100; Bobby Sleeth, javelin and relay; Lou Trubiano, hurdles and high jump; Jackie Yee, mile; John Cavagnaro, half-mile; Larry Frechette, hurdles; Rick Marinic, javelin, and Joe Lane, 100.

Among the more promising juniors are Paul Affsa, 100, 440 and broad jump; Bob Hale, 440; Bill McCall, high jump; Dave Haight, high jump; Pat McCormack, two-mile, and Jerry Mulcahy, pole vault.

A large number of candidates starred for the winter team and several ran cross country last fall. Noonan, Yee, Affsa and McCormack in particular excelled in cross country.

"We have a good looking group of sophomores and I expect several to help us," the Raider mentor explained. "We should be strong in the weights and distances and in an effort to strengthen the shorter runs, I have shifted Affsa from the mile to the 100 and 440 and also expect Lane to score points in these events."

Before taking over as head coach last year, Frazier was Bob Gentry's assistant at North for a year after being head coach at Medway High for three years and an assistant in Florida for two.

He has John "Skip" Pierce back as his assistant coach.

Raiders Dominate Basketball Awards

North Quincy's basketball team, Greater Boston League champion for the second time in four years, dominated the league awards this season.

Bob Nolan, who piloted the Raiders to their only league titles, was named the Coach of the Year.

Mark Jellison, North's high scorer, was named the league's most outstanding player and received the J. William Kennelly Award.

Bobby Sleeth was selected by the coaches for the Munroe MacLean Award as the league's outstanding sportsman.

And North's assistant coach, Joe Amorosino, was elected the league's secretary-treasurer.

Jellison, Sleeth and Quincy's Luigi Eleuteri were selected on the GBL all-star team.

Four Veterans, Newcomers Spark Quincy Golf Hopes

Last year Quincy's golf team had a 5-5-1 record and Coach Bob Breagy expects to improve on that record this spring.

"I have a fine squad working out and I think our new indoor net in the Vocational school gym will help the boys a lot," he said. "I was quite pleased with our record last year and am confident of bettering that mark this year. I have four veterans and some other fine looking prospects."

Breagy's squad includes John Pope, Tim Tormey, Russ Keegan, Carl Green, Ken Erickson, John Coleman, Joe Lombardo, Brad Buckley, Dave Volinn, Steve Fine, Ralph Fisher, Jay Sugarman and Ron Cardarelli.

Pope, Tormey, Green and Erickson played last season.

"I don't have much information on the newcomers as yet but Buckely, Volinn, Fine and Fisher filled out some favorable looking questionnaires relative to their past experience," Breagy said.

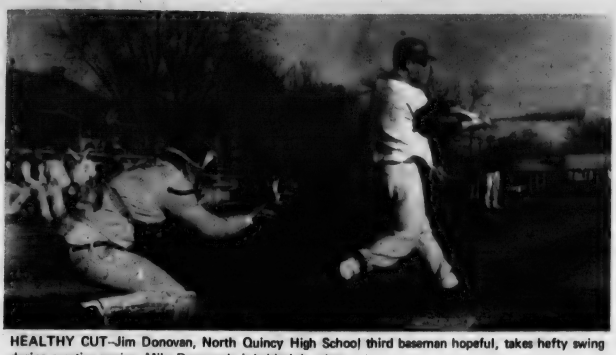
The Quincy skipper expects his top five to score points in all matches and hopes to find a good sixth man to count on.

"I hope to find my sixth man from among Buckley, Volinn, Fine and Fisher," Breagy added. "If one or more of them comes through, I believe we will have a winning year."

The coach plans to enter Pope and Tormey in the state schoolboy tourney May 27 if they consistently score under 80. He has high hopes for Tormey, who has been playing well during the summer and winter golf seasons. He also feels Pope, grandson of John Pope of the South Shore Country Club will have an excellent year.

Jim Ducey Now College Looking

Jim Ducey, former North Quincy basketball star now at Bridgton Academy, hopes to attend either U. of Vermont, Colgate or Tuft's next year. He was recently named to the New England All-Prep basketball team.



Ducey, Bridgton's captain, averaged 22 points a game and led his club to the finals of the N. E. Prep School tourney before bowing to Wilbraham Academy. Bridgton won the Maine Prep School title.

A Diamond Debut

Junior College Baseball Team Opens First Season Wednesday

Quincy Junior College's first baseball team opens its season next Wednesday against Dean Junior College at Franklin and Coach Dave Burke feels the team could do all right with some adequate pitching.

"We have had only a few workouts and I won't know much about our chances until we play a couple of games," Burke said following last week's scrimmage against Quincy High School. "However, there is a lot of interest with 36 turning out and most are former high school stars. I think pitching is our main worry. If we get some adequate pitching we ought to be able to hold our own."

The top pitchers are Tom Powers from Boston English and Paul Juster from Braintree, while Jim Marzetti of Quincy shapes up as the number one reliever. Other hopefuls are Greg Stevens and Bob Welch, both of Quincy.

Quincy's Billy Osborne is the number one catcher, backed up by George Reagan of North Quincy.

At first base is Dick Howe from Boston English; Frank Driscoll from South Boston and Ed Lorentz of Cathedral High are trying for second base, Mark Fitzgerald and Jim Carrera, both of Quincy are the shortstop hopefuls and Mike Flynn of Hull and Ed Burke of Braintree are battling for the third base job. Ed Culkin of Quincy and Les Rubin of Sharon are other infielders.

Burke has several good looking outfield prospects including Art Coughlin from Don Bosco High, Ron DiNardo of Quincy, Kevin O'Day from Abp. Williams, Steve Blythe of Wellesley, Paul Mahoney of Holbrook and Pat Curry of Quincy.

Ron Pasqualino of Norwood is the Colejuns' manager.

Quincy is playing in the Mass. Junior College League, in which the basketball team finished fourth.

All home games will be played at Fore River Field.

Central, Atlantic Leads City-Wide Hoop Tourney

Central and Atlantic led qualifiers in the first round of the 17th annual city-wide basketball tournament of the Quincy Recreation Department.

Thirty five teams, comprising 350 youngsters, are taking part in the tourney which featured a final-second win by the Atlantic Seniors over favored Squantum, 53-52.

Central posted a 52-44 victory over a stubborn Atherton Hough team. Charlie Holmes sparked the winners with 18 points. Frank Petrucci had 21 points for Atherton Hough.

In the Atlantic-Squantum squeaker, five players hit in double figures. Steve LaShane led Squantum with 18 points.

On the basis of play to date, Central rules as co-favorites with Broad Meadows to replace Point as the Quincy Senior Champion. They are the only team to emerge on top of all three divisions in opening play.

Point defeated Snug Harbor seniors 50-47 behind Robert Walker's 19 points. In the Junior High Division, Central, coached by Brian Buckley of Archbishop Williams High School, used a variety of defenses in overwhelming Atherton Hough 62-22. Ken Marsters, Steve Mele, and Paul Varney were outstanding for Central. Point, behind a 35 point performance by Ray Papile, bombed helpless Snug Harbor 70-12 in the Junior Division.

Squantum's Juniors, with Paul Shea hitting for 18 points barely edged stubborn Atlantic 37-36. Central scored its third victory of the day in the elementary class by eliminating Atherton Hough 28-21 with Ted Wiedeman scoring 14 points. Snug Harbor upset the Point Elementary team 32-6 with Don Connors pacing the winners with 13 points. Adams School, fielding its first team ever in the city tournament scored a stunning upset by easily defeating Broad Meadows 30-8. Marco DiCenso had 10 points.

Condos Stars On Ice Against Canada Club

Chuck Condos, leading scorer on this year's Quincy High hockey team, played a prominent role for the midget team from the South Shore area which divided two games with a team from Mount Royale, Quebec, last weekend at the Weymouth Skating Club.

Condos was one of 18 high school players, drawn mainly from the South Shore, who will travel to Canada next weekend for return games.

Chuck, who along with Jim Cedrone and Wayne Milford, combined to score the most goals on any Quincy line this year, with Condos scoring 24 points, had two goals Sunday in a 6-4 loss to Montreal, the only loss in six weekend games between South Shore midget, bantam and pee wee teams and their Canadian counterparts. He also excelled in Saturday's 4-1 victory in which Catholic Memorial's first line starred.

Along with Condos, Chuck Lambert, a defenseman on this year's state champion team Needham, played.

Others playing on the team were Ray Darcy, Norwood and Catholic Memorial, Jim Scott, Norwood and the Weymouth Jr. Bruins, Bud Powers, Hyde Park and Catholic Memorial, Jim Doyle, Norwood and Catholic Memorial, Brian Cox, Holbrook and Archbishop Williams, Chris Donovan, Braintree and Archbishop Williams, Joe Gillis, Milton and Thayer Academy, Bob Corliss, Whitman and the Weymouth Jr. Bruins, Tim O'Connell, Cohasset, Kevin Mahoney, Weymouth and B.C. High School, Ted Child. Dedham, Steve Cappelini. Weymouth, Greg Sullivan, Scituate, Paul Garvey, Weymouth, Tom Gavin. Cambridge, and Matignon High School and Frank Evans. Cohasset and Archbishop Williams.

The South Shore Bankers Peewee and Bantam teams swept four games from their Canadian opponents. The Peewees, defending National Peewee champions, won, 5-3 and 3-1, while the Bantams, recent winners of the Capitol Inviational Tourney in Washington during which they topped Barrie, Ontario, 2-0, defeated the Montreal Bantams, 7-1, and 3-0.

Mount Royal has however had t least a finalist in the Greater Montreal Jr. Hockey Tournament every year for the last 10 years and the Midget team is loaded with players that played for the Mount Royal Jr. team which plays in Montreal Jr. Hockey league, a league for boys ages 14-19 years old.

Kevin Lewis Shines During Hockey Tour

Kevin Lewis of Quincy, a member of the New Prep hockey team, recently returned from a tour of Germany, Switzerland and France during which the team compiled a 3-1 record against units with much older players.

According to coach Owen Hughes, Lewis, who has been accepted at Merrimack College, played fine hockey on the American Sports Ambassadors tour.

The Quincy star and his mates broke even in two games in Switzerland and won two games in West Berlin.

The team defeated what the Germans call a Junior Division team 7-1. The German players averaged 17-24 years of age while New Prep's players average 18. They also topped a group of players of Berlin, 3-2, and that club, too, averaged 17-24.

New Prep topped a Junior A Division team in Davos, Switzerland, 6-2, with their players averaging 22 years old. The only game lost by New Prep was 3-1 to a Swiss team that is going to Finland next year to play in the University Olympics of Europe.

Lewis, who admitted it was a wonderful experience, was impressed with the interest in hockey in the countries he visited. A highlight of the tour was a visit to East Berlin.

"The trip to Communist Berlin opened the kids' eyes," Hughes said. "They saw the East Berlin youngsters working 12 hours a day and they don't have that much. One of the kids mentioned that no one smiles there and this is true. It makes you appreciate more what we have here in America."

Quincy Junior League Baseball Tryouts Scheduled On Saturday

Tryouts for the Quincy Junior Baseball League will open on Saturday at Pond St. Field beginning at 9 a.m. for boys age 9 to 12.

The tryouts were originally scheduled for Faxon Field but were relocated because of a resurfacing project at Faxon. Pond St. Field is located behind the A & P Market off Southern Artery.

The following schedule for tryouts was announced by League Commissioner Thomas M. Joyce.

Age: 9 years, Saturday, April 12 & Sat. April 19, 9 a.m.; 10 years, Saturday, April 12 & April 19, 2 p.m.; 11 years, Sunday, April 13 & Sun. April 20, 1:30 p.m.; 12 years, Sunday, April 13 & Sun. April 20, 4 p.m.

The Leagues comprise four different divisions. Babe Ruth, age 13-15, 10 teams, Junior League, 9-12, 12 teams; triple-A, 11 and 12 years, eight teams. Junior Farm, 9 and 10 years, 10 teams.

Division officers are:

Babe Ruth, John Prescott, 21 Ryden St., president: Junior League Gildo Carrera, 9 Buckley St.; Triple-A, John Rossi, president, 158 North Central Ave.; Farm League, James Piccini, president, 410 Washington St.

To be eligible for play, boys must be Quincy residents born after July 31, 1953 and prior to August 1, 1961. No boy may play in more than one league at the same time.

A total of more than 600 boys will participate and those selected for teams will be notified by managers in the respective leagues before April 30, except in the Babe Ruth League where a May 30 deadline will be in effect.

All participants not selected will be placed in a player pool which will be used as a reserve source for players during the season when new players are needed.

Youngsters were reminded to bring their gloves and to arrive at the field on time.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

Marriage Is Not A Reform School

A lot of people think marriage is a reform school. After a few years of marriage they find it more like a great university laboratory . . . a place of honest search for truth . . . a place where people learn how to meet human needs.

You know the "wild boy" who really settled down when he married Jane . . . or the immature daughter who has become such a "wonderful little mother" . . . these are the normal growing-up situations which usually take place in young people if they do not have too many hand-ups. But their leopard spots don't change . . . only their superficial habits are adjusted.

I believe that a relationship between a man and a woman should reach a level that they can be happy in . . . where human needs are satisfactorily met before they decide to marry. There is no assurance that these will happen after they leave the altar if they haven't happened before they marry. A faulty motor doesn't run more smoothly simply because it has changed ownership. Neither does changing a relationship by marriage usually correct human faults. Here is a man who drinks excessively . . . "because," he says, "I am so lonely . . . when we are married, I won't drink." But fifteen years later he has an insurmountable number of bills . . . a wife who bears both physical and mental scars from his violence . . . three or four children who are failing in school and showing definite signs of maladjustment . . . a record of several severe accidents . . . now in his tenth job. What his wife didn't know is that marriage is not a reform school.

The matriarchal woman . . . domineering, though perhaps good looking . . . talks of sharing and togetherness before marriage. But in the marriage she has her own way . . . rules her children until they are rebelling . . . has few friends . . . downgrades her husband so that he is resentful and rebellious. What this husband didn't know twelve years ago is that marriage is not a reform school.

Anyone who goes into marriage does well to take a deep hard look at the behavior patterns of his/her partner and to ask himself/herself if he/she can tolerate happily what he/she now sees . . . because it probably won't get any better in marriage. Some things you don't have to guess about. Selfishness will produce hurt feelings. Silence will destroy communication. One partner insisting on his/her way will produce hostility. Laziness and sloppiness will produce criticism. The sexual cripple will produce frustration and probably unfaithfulness in a partner. I'm suggesting that if these conditions exist before that it will take more than a marriage to correct them.

You may be saying now, "If I had only read this fifteen years ago . . . this is my very situation now . . . but I can't turn the clock back . . . what do I do now."

First . . . be honest with yourself, recognize your own and your partner's personality and inadequacy. Know your needs and his/hers . . . determine whether or not you are qualified to fulfill them.

Two . . . stop placing the blame on your partner . . . don't be so touchy that you can't accept your human frailties. You can't cover them up in the one-to-one relationship.

Three . . . if you can't correct these personality "sicknesses" yourself, seek professional help. Lay yourself bare with your counselor . . . pull off the masks you are wearing . . . let your counselor help you to see yourself as you really are.

In all likelihood you are a very fine person basically . . . you can form a happy relationship in your family situation. But first, you must get yourself squared away. Marriage is not a reform school.

A father was bothered by his ten-year-old son each evening as he tried to read. One day he bought a jigsaw puzzle of the world for his son. That night when Johnny began pestering, he brought out the puzzle and turned the pieces on the coffee table . . . thinking he would be occupied at least a couple of hours. Ten minutes later Johnny was back, "Dad come and see my world that I put together." Surprised, the father went to see the puzzle completed. "How did you finish it so quickly?" "Well Dad," said Johnny, "on the back was a picture of a man . . . when I got the man right, I had the world right."

When individuals are healthy and whole . . . the relationship can be healthy and whole. But don't expect marriage to be a reform school.

West Quincy Residents Plan Dump Battle desirable method of eliminating "disease-ridden, rodent and insect-infested open dumping areas."

City Council action five years later appropriating $1.5 million for a facility to be constructed on Quarry St. was blocked by legal action initiated by Adams St. residents.

It was the consensus of the meeting that "as long as there is an open hole in the city there will be no incinerator."

St. Moritz Association spokesmen stressed that the projected open dumping expansion will not constitute a sanitary landfill program. Also emphasized was the West Quincy committment that set the area apart as the only one to pay for the school bussing of children by parents because of expressway conditions. Association members expressed the feeling that area property values should be maintained and were based on residential characteristics which would be adversely affected by additional open dumping.

Drug Problems

There were looks of shock and amazement on every face as the Torre dei Passeri Women's Club viewed the film "L.S.D." put on by the State Narcotics Bureau.

Peter Carr, a Braintree School Committee member, addressed the ladies on the subject and answered questions after the film.

Mr. Carr, a former school teacher and also a former undercover man for the Bureau, is well versed in the subject of drugs and how they fall into the hands of teenagers. He made the startling announcement that at least one-third of the students on our junior high and high schools have tried or are now "on" some form of narcotics.

"The kids are goaded into taking Drugs by their friends," he explained. "They are led to believe that marijuana is not harmful. The truth is, of course, it affects the mind and the consequences are unpredictable."

"It is also a fallacy that marijuana will not lead to a drug habit," continued Carr. Ninety five per cent of the people who are today on heroin, started as kids on marijuana."

The ladies, most of whom are parents, were shocked to discover that there may be pushers of narcotics in their own neighborhoods. These drugs could be anything from barbiturates to L.S.D. The prices vary, it was pointed out. A small bag of marijuana will sell for five dollars. Other drugs will go for twenty dollars a few hundred, or even a few thousand for a shot of heroin.

Because we live in an affluent society many of the drugs are now within the purchasing range of our youngsters, mothers were told.

Parents should not turn their backs on what might be a monstrous problem. Simply put, there is a 35% chance that your teenage is experimenting with drugs. Don't say "not my kid" because it could very well be "your kid."

Carr says that the best way to combat the use of drugs is through education. As interested parents, he stressed to make sure that your school has an effective program geared to drug prevention.

If you have a suspicion that your teenager is already on drugs, don't panic, get in touch with your family physician or with the State Narcotics Bureau. Most drug habits can be snapped if spotted soon enough.

Parents should also be educated on the effects of drugs. This knowledge could serve them well in the handling of a possible problem.

Learn about this growing menace as did the women of the Torre dei Passeri Club. It certainly left an impression on them.

Tax Revolt Scores Gain

The mushrooming austerity drive, dubbed the "Teabag Rebellion," fired its opening volley in Quincy two weeks ago. At that time, 500 signatures were collected on petitions opposing higher taxes and urging "more economy and less waste."

Five volunteers returned for a second signature sortie Monday and again reported heavy action.

The citizens' group which has organized state-wide has already marched on the state house in opposition to budget increases and deluged officials with the symbolic tea-bag. Monday they were visibly encouraged by "quite a few signatures in Quincy."

The economy-minded taxpayers are scheduled to continue their drive for support next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from their Wollaston headquarters.

As they departed Wednesday, they pledged, like another famous soldier that "we will return."

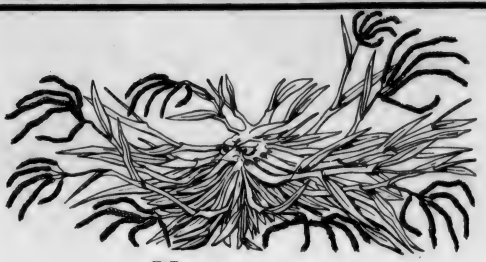
School Committee May Consult Cardinal On St. Ann's School

The Quincy School Committee will seek additional information on fall term plans for St. Ann's Parochial School following the reassignment of teaching nuns from the school.

School officials responded to an urgent plea from St. Ann's school parents at an open hearing last night. A delegation of school parents expressed strong about the school's future and the possibility of an unqualified lay teaching staff to replace the departing nuns.



The investigating committee will consist of Mayor James R. McIntyre, School Committee chairman, James F. McCormick, Sr., vice chairman and School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

School officials told parents they would establish contact with St. Ann's Pastor, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter Leach, within seven to 10 days, for additional information on the school's status. Previous attempts to contact Msgr. Leach have not been satisfactory, school officials said.

The Quincy school officials will consult with Cardinal Cushing if communication with Msgr. Leach does not produce the necessary date, it was decided.

School officials expressed concern that a majority of the elementary pupils may be added to the public school rolls next year. Parish priests at St. Ann's are currently conducting a fall registration drive for pupils, school parents reported.

The Sisters of Charity of Nazareth announced their intention to withdraw last fall.

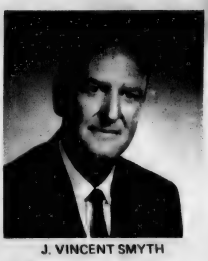
Cures For N.Q. Headaches

Squantum Park Purchase, Moon Island Rezoning To Be Pushed By Smyth

City Council President J. Vincent Smyth will attempt to bring to a head next week a solution to two perennial North Quincy headaches–Moon Island and Squantum Park.

Both are located in Quincy but Boston owned–the root of the vexing problem for Squantum residents and Quincy officials.



Squantum Park has spelled trouble for many years as the scene of nocturnal beer-liquor drinking parties and as a lovers' lane.

Moon Island poses a serious future threat to the picturesque Squantum area as a potential industrial development site.

Smyth, who represents the Ward 6 area, will carry the legislative ball on the City Council chamber floor to re-zone Moon Island from its present Industrial "B" to Residence "A" as requested by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

"I will urge my City Council colleagues at next week's meeting (Tuesday) to set in motion approval of the re-zoning," Smyth told The Quincy Sun last night. "I will ask for a necessary public hearing date."

"This would give Quincy officials absolute control over future development of Moon Island. It would keep industry from sprouting there and spoiling the residential character of Squantum. If it is to be developed, I want it to be residential."

J. VINCENT SMYTH

Industry, even light, would also bring heavy vehicular traffic along Dorchester St. the only excess and egress link to Moon Island. Cont. on Page 3

Bar Assn. Pays Tribute To Three Late Members

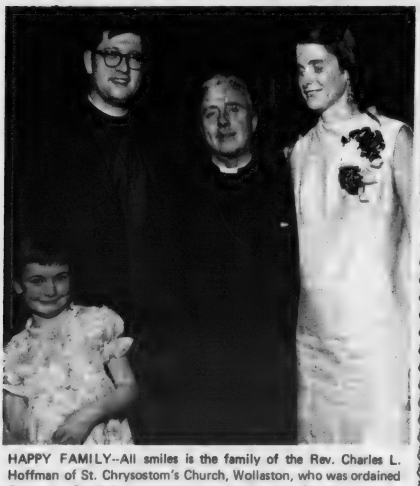
The Quincy Bar Association paid tribute to three prominent late members at solemn memorial exercises at Quincy District Court.

Honored were Attys. George W. Arbuckle, Raymond F. Barrett and John D. Smith, all of whom had died during the past year.

Atty. Stephen T. Keefe, Jr., Quincy Bar Association president, presented motions in the main courtroom to "spread upon the records of the court" the names of the three deceased members.

The three were eulogized by Attys. Melvin Thorner, Myron N. Lane, former Norfolk County district attorney, and Joseph Avitable.

The proceedings were presided over by Judge Kenneth L. Nash, Chief Justice of the Massachusetts District Court and presiding justice of Quincy Cont. on Page 8



Mayor Presses MDC For Action On $900,000 Beach, Creek Plans

Mayor James R. McIntyre has pressed the MDC for an urgent adoption of a $900,000 proposal for Wollaston Beach improvements and Black's Creek flood control.

A City Council resolve supporting McIntyre's plan for the projects was submitted to MDC Commissioner Howard Whitmore, Jr. The resolve passed the Council by a unanimous vote.

McIntyre cited additional support to Commr. Whitmore from several other city officials and civic leaders. Among the proponents were William A. O'Connell, Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce Executive Director; Planning Director Geoffrey Davidson and Richard J. Koch, Park and Recreation Dept. Executive Secretary.

"I hope that this resolve and these letters representing a background of the active agencies of our City and in turn representing several thousand people will impress you as an urgent need for the adoption of this proposal," Mayor McIntyre Cont. on Page 15

Ruth Gordon's Oscar:

Another Proud Milestone For Quincy High's 'Worst Class'

When Wollaston's Ruth Gordon stepped into the TV limelight this week to accept her Oscar as best supporting actress in "Rosemary's Baby" it would have been an appropriate spot for a current commercial.

That's the one that goes, "You've come a long way, baby."

And she certainly has come a long way for a girl named Ruth Jones who was a member of Quincy High School's now famed "worst class".

Miss Gordon who grew up on Elmwood Ave. as Ruth Jones graduated with the Class of 1914 from Quincy High School

A teacher dubbed it the "worst class" because not one made the honor roll. Consensus was that no one in the class would ever amount to much.

RUTH GORDON

But class members left behind a valuable lesson adults of today should remember: Give youth a chance to find itself.

For out of this class has come some of Quincy's most famous and successful sons and daughters.

Ruth Jones Gordon certainly found herself. So did many of her classmates. Among them the following and the rungs they reached on the ladder to success:

*Giles Chester Stedman, Rear Admiral and vice-president of the United States Lines.

*Andrew Deane, vice-president of the U.S. Steel Co.

*Ernest Gellotte, professor at MIT.

*Leon White, doctor, and Fred (Ted) Rollins, dentist.

*Harry S. Burr, class president, assistant vice-president Wollaston Federal Savings & Loan Co.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I received a gift subscription of The Quincy Sun from my sister. It is wonderful to be able to read all about Quincy and things that are happening there.

I have been away from Quincy for over a year now. My husband is stationed down here in the Air Force. I miss Quincy very much. We will be moving back to Quincy this fall.

I wish you continued success with your paper.

Mrs. Linda G. Gentry
Ft. Walton Beach, Fla.

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Local news and events and your special articles are very interesting. We look forward to receiving your new paper. Continued best wishes and good luck.

John and Anita Ricciuti

Editor, Quincy Sun:

How delighted we all were with the publicity you gave us in The Quincy Sun. And on the front page, too!

This is exactly what we need to fight the general apathy and let the public know that The Taxpayers' Voice is not dying on the vine as was expected, but is still very much alive! We desperately need the help of all concerned citizens, however, because it is only by a massive concerned effort that we can have an impact on the legislature.

Thank you very, very much again for your interest and attention.

Mrs. John D. Riley

Taxpayers' Voice Explains Goals, Seeks Volunteers

As The Taxpayers' Voice continued its Taxpayer's Revolt petition drive at the Mug 'n Muffin in Wollaston this week, some residents were still wondering what it was all about.

For those who may not be acquainted with the organization and its campaign officials released the following get-acquainted statement:

"The Taxpayers' Voice is a grass-roots, non-partisan organization opposed to any tax increase whatsoever. Instead it would have our state and local governments economize and demonstrate more fiscal responsibility by spending within the limits of their income.

Among the goals of the TTV are:

*The reorganization of the total tax structure so as to make the tax burden more equitable.

*The establishment of stronger auditing powers and greater authority for evaluation of all expenditures of funds.

*Reduction in the size of the legislature.

*Retention of the 50% federal tax deduction on the Massachusetts state income tax return.

The appalling apathy of the general public is the tragedy of today. This is why TTV urges you to read the newspapers and keep informed about its activities and come to our meetings.

If you agree with the above points we beg you to write to your elected representatives in the State House and tell them so. The pen is a mighty sword!

The Taxpayers' Voice is only as strong as you make it. Petitions are important but your letters are the real weapons. Never forget that this is, after all, your battle!

Volunteer workers are gladly welcomed into the TTV."

Sunbeams

Will he or won't he? That's the big political question in Quincy right now.

He, of course, is Mayor James R. McIntyre. And, the question: Will he or won't he run for a third term this fall?

His Honor has bounced right back from his recent illness, looks good, feels good. In fact he's getting in a little golf.

According to City Hall insiders, McIntyre hasn't made up his mind yet as to run or not to run. There are days they think he will and days they think he won't. And apparently, days he thinks he might and days he thinks he won't. But no final decision yet.

If he doesn't run, there'll be a scramble for the job which has more prestige--and more headaches--than any other job in the city.

If he doesn't make a third term bid, be careful crossing the street. You're liable to be run down by any number of speeding candidates.

If he does seek re-election, this could be one of the quietest city elections in many years. At best he will have taken opposition. And it would keep some of the City Council seats from opening up as present councillors--some of them potential mayoralty candidates--would seek re-election instead.

Will His Honor run? Right now your guess is as good as anyone's--maybe even his.

SPEAKING OF McIntyre reminds us that time really zooms by. It seems like only yesterday (actually 1959) when he was only 29 and running for mayor against veteran Amelio Della Chiesa. And lost some votes because some people thought he was too young. (He was defeated by only something like 2,100 votes).

And come May 25, McIntyre will turn 39--pushing the "life begins at 40" mark.

Yet, if he had been elected at 29, McIntyre would not have been Quincy's youngest mayor. Charles Francis Adams, the city's third chief executive was that age when elected in 1895. (And he went on to become Secretary of the Navy under President Hoover). And he wasn't the youngest mayor. That honor went to Russell A. Sears who succeeded Adams at the ripe old age of 27.

AND, WHILE WE'RE talking about City Hall, have you noticed the improved appearance of historic Hancock Cemetery?

Under the city's Urban Beautification Program, the burial ground, dating back more than 300 years, has really been spruced up. Some 100 grave markers which had been vandalized were replaced and others cleaned. Dead trees were removed and other tree branches pruned.

The work was carried out under the watchful eye of Park-Recreation Board Executive Secretary Richard J. Koch, Hobart Holly, president Quincy Historical Society, City Historian William C. Edwards and Veterans Graves Registration Officer Anthony Famigletti.

Oldest headstone in the cemetery--dated Dec. 10, 1666, is on the grave of Rev. William Tompson, first minister of the Church of Christ.

According to City Hall records, 807 persons are buried there including Col. John Quincy for whom the city was named; Rev. John Hancock, father of the Quincy-born patriot and descendants of John Alden.

Incidentally, the bodies of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams and their wives were buried there before being moved to the crypt at First Parish Church.

Residents who have not strolled through the cemetery will find it interesting just looking at the epitaphs on the old gravestones.

FORMER CITY COUNCIL President and Rep. Charles L. Shea reportedly still "very seriously" considering a council at-large this fall. But friends say he definitely will not run against any present incumbent, all of whom are personal friends. But he will go if one of them decides not to seek re-election.

NORTH QUINCY viewers should have recognized the actor portraying Barker in the Rock Hudson starring movie "Blindfold" on Ch. 4 the other night. He's Paul Comi, class of 1949, North Quincy High School, who lived on Royal St.

Quite a talented lad and it is not surprising he wound up in movies. You might say he grew up with celluloid. His father, Perino, was a founder of the Weymouth Drive-In Theater in 1936--the first in New England. He now owns a Boston movie equipment business.

Blessed are the systematic givers, for there shall be order in their lives and in their quarterly statements.

Blessed are those who use the offering envelopes, for their contributions shall be recorded, and shall be deductible from their income tax."

Aerial Spray For Quincy

Marshland Breeding Site War Stinging Rebuke For 'Skeeter'

Where the mosquito population is concerned, everyone seems to agree on birth control.

Reducing new crops of the pesky skeeter is a year-round job for the South Shore Mosquito Control Project.

The massive anti-population measures are unanimously favored by every homeowner buzzed at a barbecue or beleaguered at bedtime.

Spring welfare plans are on the battle map to take the sting out of summer all along the South Shore. In Quincy, the battle has been going on all year long.

According to Simon J. Veneau, Project Superintendent, drainage machine operations have been going on in Rock Island salt marsh areas. The anti-mosquito program is aimed at eliminating the prime breeding grounds for the coastal, or salt-marsh mosquito.

Some mosquito fanatics, thinking of the stingers as eagle-sized, dub this breed the New Jersey mosquito. Actually, he's just as at home in the Quincy marshes.

But, however slowly, he's being evicted from his salt box in the salt marsh.

An estimated six million mosquitos can be produced from a "diked up" salt marsh, estimates Veneau. Like Many undesirables that come in with the high tide--this mosquito appears in large numbers when the waters crest and brackish run-offs are plentiful.

The off-season "ditching" machine eliminates the excess waters and robs the skeeter of his cradle. He has to look elsewhere for breeding sites where he is-hopefully-flushed out by insecticides.

The constant ditch clearances prevent a situation of mosquito breeding that would be "unlivable" in the salt marsh sections of Quincy, Veneau points out.

Those areas that we can't reach by machines--usually small so-called corner areas, we reach with insecticides, he adds.

The biggest mosquito problem in Quincy?

"Catch basins," says Veneau. "In a city this size, catch basins are a real problem."

A single storm drain can be "home" for about 5,000 of the critters. But, if anyone cares or can tell the difference, every mosquito isn't dangerous. Only the female bites.

Catch basin spraying will start about the second week in June. The curb level operations are handled by a specially mounted Jeep with wrong-side steering and spray equipment. Veneau expects that a second catch basin gunner will be added this year to the Quincy fleet. Workers can cover about 350 to 400 catch basins a day.

Eliminating the breeding sites are "a primary target." Successes here enable mosquito control programs to rely less and less on the use of chemicals.

Work in Quincy has been nearly completed in the salt marsh areas--particularly in Houghs Neck and the Rock Island Cove sections.

Attention is now being centered on the seasonal mosquito--the spring species. There are actually about four or five hundred varying mosquito species--35 or 40 in New England alone. In shore, mosquitos for all seasons-all mean, noisy and hungry.

"If we get good coverage from our Spring spraying program we can reduce the population considerably," Veneau claims. He cites West Quincy, in the Blue Hills area, as the most troublesome Quincy spots. Large swamp acreages account for the problem. Skeeters are always happier and more prolific here.

Aerial applications will begin about April 21 and are expected to be completed about May 12.

The targets: mosquito larvae.

The spraying will be carried out in dawn "raids" from two types of aircraft--a helicopter and a Piper type. The spraying will be timed when the wind turbulence and drifting of the spray will be minimal.

D.D.T. or any other chlorinated hydrocarbons considered cumulative in the environment, will not be used. The organic phospate type spray is considered harmless in minute doses--except to the skeeter. Only small doses are required where a larval control is desired.

As a safety measure, however, the Project still recommends these routine precautions in areas near fresh water swamps or other spraying sites:

Small children's playthings should be put under cover.

Animals and pets eating and drinking utensils should be covered.

Ornamental ponds, stocked, should be covered if possible. If not, notify this project of location.

Automobiles parked outside should be left in the open so they may be seen from the air.

Laundry drying, the same.

Other towns to be sprayed under this operation are Braintree, Cohasset, Duxbury, Hingham, Hull, Marshfield, Norwell, Scituate and Weymouth.

Many of the areas to be sprayed have been done in past years. Persons having any areas or objects adjacent to swamps they feel should be avoided must notify this Project (773-9191) as soon as possible before the operation. However, if they have notified us in past years, it would not be necessary, for a record is kept Veneau said.

Symth Pushes For Solution To Squantum Headaches

"We've got enough traffic going out to the Long Island Hospital," Smyth said. "We certainly do not want any more--especially trucks."

Moon Island is on the approach to the Long Island Brige just off Dorchester St.

Industrial development of the island will come, it is feared, after sewage vats are closed when the MDC installs a new forced main line between the Squantum Causeway and Quincy Shore Drive.

Smyth said he will also make another effort to seal the long-sought purchase of Squantum Park from Boston.

"The Mayor and I are still hopeful we can close the transaction and turn the area over to our Park Department for supervised park purposes," Smyth said.

"Boston owns it and we have all the problems. The Quincy Police Department is constantly being called there because of trouble--drinking and a lot of other things that go on there. The Boston Police Department doesn't bother with it. They let Quincy worry about it."

Smyth said he will appeal to Boston Mayor Kevin White to let the proposed purchase by Quincy go through.

The Boston City Council, he noted, approved the sale to Quincy a year ago. But the transaction has bogged down in White's office.

Quincy fears Boston is holding onto the park in case it wins the 1976 World's Fair--"Expo 1976" commemorating the 200th anniversary of the birth of American freedom.

"We're afraid Boston will build a road from Columbia Point to Thompson's Island to Squaw Rock in Squantum Park," said Smyth.

"It would be used for Expo 1976 and then remain as a traffic dumper into Squantum adding more problems for Quincy."

Smyth said that as long as Boston holds the deed to Squantum Park, Quincy will have problems there.

And, unless Moon Island is re-zoned to Residence "A", there will be even more problems for the area, he said.

"We've got to get control of these two places or we will have years and years of trouble ahead of us," he declared.

Olin A. Taylor New Library Trustee

Olin A. Taylor, 18 Taft St., was named this week to the Board of Trustees, Thomas Crane Public Library.

The appointment was announced by Mayor James R. McIntyre and was effective immediately. Mr. Taylor fills out the term created by the recent death of D. Foster Taylor. The term will expire in 1970.

Mayor Names Four To Municipal Posts

John J. McKenna of 75 Thornton St., Wollaston, present chairman, was re-appointed by Mayor James R. McIntyre this week to another term on the Board of Zoning Appeals.

Walter Holland of 30 Seaway Rd., Squantum was also appointed to the board.

McKenna's term will run to the first Monday in February, 1972 and Holland's until the same Monday in 1971.

Mayor McIntyre also named Walter J. Hurley of 157 Palmer St., Adams Shore, and James R. Deitsch, 81 Arnold St., Quincy Point, assistant shellfish constables. Their terms will run to February, 1970.

Second BSE Clinic For Quincy Women To Open On May 5

A free breast self-examination program will be conducted for women of Quincy and surrounding towns at the Quincy City Hospital next month.

In conjunction with the Southeastern Unit of the American Cancer Society, the Wollaston Woman's Club Juniors and the hospital, the demonstration program will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on May 5, 7, 12 and 14. The first program was conducted at the hospital last year and proved successful in screening conditions involving suspected lesions ad in demonstrating the proper method of regular breast self-examination by women.

The life-saving procedures will be demonstrated by local physicians and include a film showing on the subject. Pre-registration will be necessary to attend the free demonstration and registrants are requested to bring a large towel with them.

In charge of registration at the hospital is Mrs. Frances LaMontagne, director of nurses. Registration forms will be available at the hospital and through distribution by members of the Wollaston Jr. Women's Club to numerous store and market locations in the Quincy area.

"Urgent Appeal" To Msgr. Leach

St. Ann's School Crisis Could Cost Quincy $177,000

Quincy School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon has underscored a request to the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter Leach, St. Ann's pastor, to move up a proposed April 22 meeting for discussion of an interlocking school crisis.

Dr. Creedon, expressed the dissatisfaction of the School Committee with the proposed April 22 consultation, stated that the committee was "seriously distressed" at the reply to the School Committee's recommendation for an urgent meeting with Msgr. Leach prior to April 19.

The School Committee's bid to discuss the uncertain future of St. Ann's Parochial School followed an appeal by parochial school parents to the School Committee. The parents have expressed continuing concern about uncertain 1969 registration at St. Ann's, the withdrawal and reassignment of the teaching nuns at the school and the replacement of the staff with lay teachers.

In a communication to Msgr. Leach on April 10, Dr. Creedon stressed that the strain of absorbing a possible 450 St. Ann's youngsters into the public schools would cause "a great burden on our system."

The following alternatives would then have to be considered by the School Committee, Dr. Creedon informed Msgr. Leach:

Redistricting of several schools.

Placing several schools on double session.

Hiring of additional qualified staff members next September.

Incurring of substantial costs not provided for in the 1969 school budget.

It would be all but impossible to hire qualified staff personnel at the late date, Dr. Creedon noted.

A subcommittee was named by the School Committee to contact Msgr. Leach for consultation within ten days of the April 9 School Committee meeting.

Serious concern at the possibility that a meeting would be delayed was evident in the School Committee's reaction to Msgr. Leach's April 22 proposal.

"It is our understanding that Msgr. Leach ill be leaving the country for an extended period on April 24," Dr. Creedon said.

He stressed that it would be unlikely that the problem could be resolved "at St. Ann's in one afternoon meeting."

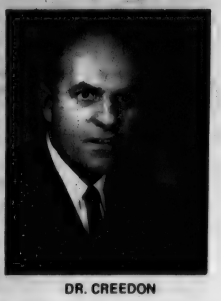
"If St. Ann's does not open in September of 1969 with a qualified staff, we expect that the parents of the 450 youngsters now attending that school will attempt to register them in public schools. Our school plant is now operating beyond maximum and we would not be able to receive large numbers of additional youngsters without disrupting the entire educational program in several schools."

Schools lying in the boundaries of St. Ann's where youngsters would be enrolled include Central Jr. High, 115 pupils; Beechwood Knoll, 65; Furnace Brook, 36 Merrymount, 16; Mass. Fields, 95; and Wollaston School, 91.

"None of these buildings is capable of receiving an influx of this magnitude in such a short period of time," Dr. Creedon explained.

Dr. Creedon described the necessity of meeting with Msgr. Leach before April 22 as an "urgent appeal."

The School Committee, in its letter to the parochial school official, had suggested possible meetings on April 12, 13 or 14 at St. Ann's, or for any convenient time before April 19.



The additional cost to the city caused by the enrollment of parochial school students would be approximately $177,000," Dr. Creedon estimated.

The funds would be required because of:

Additional staff for four months from Sept. through December 1969.

The purchase of approximately $47,000 of additional learning materials.

"None of this has been provided for in the existing School Department budget and it would be necessary for the School Committee to request a special appropriation from the City Council," Dr. Creedon said.

St. Joseph's Church will take a census of its parish this Sunday.

Census cards will be distributed to every home in the Quincy Point parish. There will be a letter of explanation and a manila envelope attached to each census card.

On Sunday afternoon April 27, the same representatives will pick up the envelope in which the completed census card has been inserted.

Father Robert D. Tyrrell, who is running the census explains that the poll is being taken so that the church can get a profile of its parishoners. This will enable St. Joseph's to better serve the Parish.

"I have a feeling that we are saving the saved," stated Father Tyrrell. "Every Sunday pretty much the same people are coming to church. This is very good for the people who are coming. However, we are trying to reach other Catholics in the parish to let them know we are interested in them. Those are the ones that need us most.

"There are, of course, other reasons for the survey," continued Father Tyrrell. "Some questions concern a recent census taken by Cardinal Cushing in regards to the maintaining of Parochial schools. There are also a few questions concerning the Parish Council we are forming at St. Joseph's.

"However, we want this information mainly so we can better serve the people of our parish."

One effect of this concern with serving the people of the parish can be seen already. Daily Mass at St. Joseph's has been changed from 7 A.M. to 7 P.M. The result has been an increase in attendance of more than 500%.

• • •

The Dramatic Club of the Quincy Point Neighborhood School Center will present a play, Thursday (tonight) at 7:30 P.M. in the Quincy Point Junior High School Auditorium.

The play, "Oliver", is directed by Mr. Creedon an english teacher at the school. It is an adaptation of the original musical based on the Charles Dickens book.

The School Choral Group will sing the numbers for the play.

Golden Rule Award To Keohane Funeral Home For 5th Year

Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock Street, has been accepted as a member of the Order of the Golden Rule for the fifth consecutive year.

Official notification of the firm's reacceptance by the Order stated: "Your organization has again been proven, after careful examination and evaluation of your past year's services and prices, to be completely trustworthy. We are exceedingly proud to count you among the approximately 1,400 funeral firms throughout the world who now belong to the Order of the Golden Rule."

The Order was founded in 1928 with the purpose of screening funeral establishments on a global scale and recommending one which is found to be dependable in each community.

Membership is granted for one-year periods only. At the end of each period, firms undergo another extensive investigation to insure that standards have remained above the accepted level.

A plaque denoting membership and a copy of the official "Credo" of the Order of the Golden Rule may be seen at the Keohane Funeral Home at any time.

Comprehensive Child Care Program By Educators Nears Completion

A program remedy for what has been described as "chaotic conditions in child care in Massachusetts" is near completion and will soon be made public.

The report is being prepared by the Massachusetts Committee for Comprehensive Children's services.

Quincy School Committeeman Dr. Charles Djerf, a member of the state committee, has labeled the child care problem in the state "a chaotic mess."

Dr. Djerf has outlined concern over the crisis and called the feeling widespread among experts in health care and among prominent educators.

Extending the problem to national levels, Dr. Djerf said, "the many activities in and resources for the health and medical care of children comprise a magnificent non-system in Massachusetts and throughout the United States."

The Massachusetts remedial program is being designed by Dr. B.R. Hutcheson, chairman pro-team of the state study committee on Child Care Crisis.

Emblem Club To Conduct Rummage Sale On April 24

Proceeds from a Rummage Sale to be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on April 24 at the Elks Hall, 1220 Hancock St. will benefit the State Convention fund of the Quincy Emblem Club.

Chairman of the sale event is Mrs. Margaret Gibbons, past president. Serving as co-chairman is Mrs. Josephine Carnali, state press correspondent.

It was announced that on May 3, Mrs. Philip Garcia will install Mrs. George Andrews as president of the Sanford, Me., Emblem Club. The ceremony will take place in Sanford installing Mrs. Andrews who is a former North Quincy resident.

Several members of the Quincy Ladies of Elks and the Emblem Club are planning to make the trip with Mrs. Garcia, supreme past president of the Emblem Club.

Installing president for the occasion will be Mrs. Harry Weatherill of the Brockton Club.

It was also announced that a new Emblem Club, No. 448, will be installed in Pembroke on May 4. The installing officer for the new unit will be Mrs. Madeline Parker, past supreme president of the Chelsea Emblem Club.

On Beacon Hill

Rep. Arthur H. Tobin

Of utmost concern to the people of Quincy at this particular time is the vexing problem of revaluation and the high cost of running government.

Revaluation has plagued the citizens of Quincy for the past several years, and I have been most fortunate and proud to have been given the opportunity to take an active part on behalf of the citizens of this city by co-sponsoring corrective legislation against 100% revaluation, which will benefit every taxpayer in the city. The burden of revaluation works a direct hardship on working people and their families, senior citizens on fixed incomes, and newly married young couples who are just starting as partners in life.

The business community and investment landlords must share a heavier burden in regard to taxation because they have available to them certain tax loopholes in our present tax structure such as tax write-offs and tax loss credits, which the ordinary homeowner does not have available to him.

The Quincy delegation to the State Legislature has worked long and tirelessly for this corrective legislation to change the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, which would in essence, allow the assessors of the cities and towns in our Commonwealth to assess property according to its use. The amendment to the Constitution, if passed by the 1969 Legislature, as it was by the 1968 Legislature, would allow industrial property to be assessed in one category, commercial property to be assessed in a separate category, and further allow residential property and marsh land to be assessed in still a third and fourth category.

It is observed from the history of the past Constitutional Conventions that similar legislation such as this amendment, was first introduced in 1961 by the Springfield delegation to the General Court, and a roll-call vote produced 19 favorable votes. Similar legislation has been introduced several times later, and has subsequently been defeated on each occasion.

The Quincy delegation, with the full support of the citizenry of Quincy and the whole hearted endorsement from many of our hard working civic organizations, brought forth into fruition one of the finest victories the people of Quincy have ever enjoyed by reversing the years of defeat at the 1968 Constitutional Convention and won by over 150 votes the amendment to change the Constitution in regard to the assessing of real property. It was indeed a joint victory and a hard fought victory by the Quincy delegation under the leadership of State Senator and Mayor James R. McIntyre with the loyal support of my two colleagues, two of Quincy's hard-working legislators in State government, Representative Joseph Brett and Representative Walter Hannon. My personal satisfaction at the time of victory was the sincere feeling that I kept my word to the people of Quincy to devote my total energies to this particular issue, and the fact that of all the 150 votes cast in favor of the amendment which would benefit the taxpayers of this city, I personally contacted 122 of my colleagues in state government to support this legislation.

The amendment to change the Constitution must be passed by two consecutive legislative bodies for two consecutive years at the Constitutional Convention. We must join battle and win a victory in 1969 before the amendment will be allowed to be placed on the ballot before the people in 1970.

I am ever mindful at this time that the lines will be drawn, that the vested interest and the Greater Boston Real Estate Board will bring out their heavy guns in an attempt to shoot us down. The issue is great, the stakes are high, and we shall go forth once again so the voices of the little people can be heard against the giants in industry. Once again, I intend to devote my energies to victory in 1969.

There are many other problems facing the people of this city at this time, but I feel the utmost problem right now is that of revaluation. I wish to express my sincere thanks to The Quincy Sun for allowing the State Representatives to address ourselves on these issues, and possibly at some future date, we may be allowed to speak briefly on other issues so that the people we represent will be better informed.

German Measles

A child born recently at the Quincy Hospital had cataracts and a severe congenital heart with the added possibility that in time it would be mentally retarded. A sad condition: The mother contracted the disease when but a few months pregnant and was apprised of the hazard to her baby. She chose to take the risk-the price was severe. In some areas, interruption of the pregnancy is permitted.

The dangers of the disease, unfortunately are not solely limited to the mother and foetus because many innocent pregnant nurses who have not had immunity to this disease have also become afflicted. Is it worth this?

It is known that 85 to 90 percent of women in the child-bearing age had had German measles and its subsequent immunity. Also that only about 30 percent of the remaining, if exposed, would have vulnerable babies. Yet, listen to this-in 1964 about a quarter of a million mothers developed defective babies like the once described above. What a future! When these children reach school age their difficulties multiply and so do yours. It is estimated that it costs about $9000 a year to educate each of these unfortunate children.

We used to be smug in the belief that the foetus (baby in the uterus) was safe after the ninth week of pregnancy if the mother should come down with this illness. Another blow has been given to us since recent reports reveal that it may affect children up to the first six months. Nature enjoys giving us a jolt every now and then to lessen our conceit.

What about the history of the German measles virus? An Australian optholmologist first related cataracts to the German measles epidemic. A break-through indeed! In 1962 the virus was isolated.

Having recognized the relationship of the disease and its cause-then the offending organism isolated-the next step is the development of a vaccine. Voila-it is here!

Research, testing and cooperative enterprise with many nations has resulted in a safe vaccine to eliminate German measles. Children have suffered no adverse symptoms or effects but adults have been annoyed by arthritis, albeit brief. (Children suffer very few complications with the natural disease but adults have the same discomfiting arthritis when ill).

A recognizably effective and safe vaccine will soon be available for immunization produced by three companies, Merck Sharpe and Dome, Roxane, and Smith Klein and French.

The recommended administration will be routine for children above one, then the elementary school population. Particular concentration will be given to the pre-adolescent and young doubtful mothers. There is some hesitation in giving it to women during pregnancy.

Stroke Program Set Today At Quincy City Hospital

The Southeast Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association, in cooperation with the Quincy City Hospital, is presenting a professional education program on the "Rehabilitation of the Patient with Hemiplegia."

The program will be held today (Thursday), at the Quincy City Hospital in three time segments of 9:15 a.m. to 10:15 a.m.; 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.; and 2 p.m. to 3:15 p.m.

Wesley G. Woll, Jr., M.D., Chief, Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, at the Lemuel Shattuck Hospital, Jamaica Plain, will lead the programs of demonstrations, discussions and conferences.

Dr. Woll, is also Chairman of the Southeast Chaper, M.H.A. Stroke Committee, said, "The objective of the Heart Association Stroke Program is to create in the community a climate wherein the victims of stroke, or the potential victim, may have access to the optimum professional and related services for the prevention, diagnosis, treatment, care and rehabilitation, which are within the capacity of the community and its professional personnel to provide. This particular phase of our Stroke Program will be primarily concerned with the rehabilitation of the stroke patient." He added that "Presently, there are 6½ million Americans who are completely disabled in hospitals, rest homes, or in private homes, depending completely upon others for their care.

Dr. Woll and Mrs. Frances LaMontagne, R.N., Supervisor of Nurses, Quincy City Hospital, are members of the Heart Association's Stroke Committee, who were instrumental in organizing this rehabilitation stroke program.

*John Dingwell, U.S. Navy captain.

Miss Gordon and her playwright husband Garson Kanin were among the 72 class members and guests attending the 50th anniversary reunion at the Sheraton Motor Inn, North Quincy in June, 1964.

And they all shared a big laugh when the 50th anniversary cake was wheeled in.

Its decorations included the word "worst" surrounded by figurines wearing dunce caps.

And they smiled as Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa and School Supt. Robert E. Pruitt extended personal greetings and letters of congratulations were read from Gov. Endicott Peabody--and President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

Our Starving Women

She was college educated . . . mother of three . . . wife of a promising young junior executive . . . "I get so tired of talking only with children," she was saying . . . "I long for adult conversation . . . I'm so lonely . . . now I'm drinking too much . . . I even go to bed early to escape boredom."

This woman has two problems . . . the same two as millions like her. She is being starved intellectually and she's being starved for love. A woman is busy with her children and home . . . routine work like laundry . . . cooking . . . polishing floors . . . dusting . . . making beds . . . these common things, and a hundred other home duties that men never think of. Morning coffee with the girls is not usually intellectually stimulating. If it's a one-car family she is grounded most of the time. If there are two cars she runs a taxi service. Of course . . . there are talk programs on the radio . . . but some of the comments are more disgusting than uplifting intellectually. So the life of the educated suburban wife is often marked with boredom and trivia. She is being intellectually starved . . . and very often her man outgrows her . . . and an intellectual separation follows.

Being starved intellectually is bad enough . . . being starved for love is devastating. A woman marries hopefully for companionship and to feel needed and loved by a man. But if her man is "married to a company" . . . interest such as sports and other companions occupy his leisure time . . . then his wife feels neglected and lonely. Of course, he has the problem of getting ahead . . . in climbing the success ladder companies like the "good company man." The better liked he is, the faster the promotions and the better he can supply his families with needs and luxuries. His task is to strike a balance between home and work.

Furthermore, great numbers of men are rendering themselves sexually impotent by sheer fatigue . . . overconcentration and worry about their work. When affection and sexual relationships are destroyed in a marriage, that woman is going to feel starved . . . and that marriage is in trouble. A wife asks, "What's wrong with me?" . . . when the frequency and zeal of the sexual relationship wanes.

When a woman is starved for love and intellectual stimulation, she begins to wither as a person . . . she may indulge in drinking . . . she's hurt so she withdraws herself from her husband. Instead of feeling warm toward him, she feels resentment. This situation can lead to divorce.

What is the remedy for this starvation? Just as it is wise for a woman to take care of her figure and outward appearance, it is just as important that she look after her intellectual appearance. Perhaps she should take a job . . . full or part-time. It will be beneficial if she sets aside a definite time for her intellectual development . . . reading . . . seminars . . . adult education courses . . . groups with similar needs. Some of her reading might well be in her husband's field of work. She might do well to get involved in some of the great issues of our times . . . education . . . the racial problem . . . or in active opposition to the damnable war in Vietnam. A million letters from women to the powers that be in Washington might make quite an impression . . . I'm certain that a "march on Washington" by a million women would make quite an impression.

WOMEN CAN CHANGE MEN'S THINKING.

Take some initiative to satisfy the love need from your husband. Call him at his office Friday afternoon . . . tell him you've made reservations at a Boston Motel . . . that you'll meet him there at six . . . that you have tickets for the theater . . . and that you've made arrangements for the children. A change of scenery . . . a relaxing place . . . loving environment is good for both of you. And while you are there, he may see how he's starved you for love and affection . . . if you're real good, he may realize what he's been missing.

Mayor Presses For Beach, Creek Plans

informed the MDC official.

The City Council resolve cited the Wollaston Beach overcrowding and traffic problems handicapping both Quincy and MDC police. Flooding from the Blue Hills area to Black's Creek was also noted.

McIntyre's proposal would tie in with area flood control, highway safety and soil erosion projects.

Supporting the proposal the Planning Board recommended for Wollaston Beach renewal:

Additional tree plantings.

Green strips adjacent to the beach and parking areas.

A new sanding to be determinded by a study of the most appropriate and attractive sand available.

The Park Board, in voting its unanimous support, recommended that:

St. Moritz Pond and Black's Creek be cleared of obstructions.

Renovations assure an elimination of flood-prone conditions and dangers arising during high-tides and rainy periods.

The Park Board cited safety factors in calling for the Wollaston Beach improvements.

Fatal accidents involving motorists and pedestrians have resulted from the present road curve and existing bridge construction.

Black's Creek drainage and culvert construction would provide improved water donations where the municipal boating program is conducted.

A new culvert with tide gates at the Quincy Shore Drive section of Black's Creek could be operated in case of flood emergencies. The facility would lessen flooding along the entire Furnace Brook area from St. Moritz Pond to Furnace Brook Parkway at Black's Creek.

It was recommended that tide gates be installed at the present proposed location of Quincy Shore Drive allowing greater flood water storage in the salt marshes of the Black's Creek Basin.

Merrymount Park and Southern Artery, the area from Quincy Bay to Furnace Brook Parkway and Hancock St. may be one of the finest and most beautiful park, recreation and beach sites

A Good Start

Presidents Eye Second GBL Diamond Crown

Quincy baseball coach Bob Basiliere is seeking his fifth winning season in six years and his second Greater Boston League championship.

The Presidents got him off in quest of both these goals Monday with an impressive 6-1 victory over veteran Somerville at Lincoln Field in Somerville.

Yesterday Quincy player Revere at home and Friday will play at Medford. Monday it will host Malden in a 10 a.m. game at Adams Field and Wednesday will play at Everett, also at 10 a.m.

Steve McDevitt, mainstay of the Presidents' pitching staff for the third year in a row, hurled fine four-hitter against Somerville, rated as a league power this season.

Quincy had six hits off Roy Peterson, McDevitt's rival at quarterback in last fall's football game, and two relievers, and scored two runs in the first, all it needed.

Singles by Steve Sullivan and Ed Hutchins, a wild pitch and a throwing error accounted for the first inning runs.

In the sixth Kevin Ryan was hit by a pitch, bunted to second by John Stephens and scored on a single by Dick DiCristofaro.

Three runs came across in the eighth on two errors, a sacrifice, a single and two walks.

"McDevitt was in complete control throughout the game," Basiliere said. "He was real strong and his control was remarkable for the first game."

Bob also singled out catcher Ted Meyer, first baseman Sullivan, Ryan and Hutchinson for their performances. Hutchins had two hits and was on base five times in a row, while Sullivan also had two hits.

Face Abp. Williams Friday

Quincy Tennis Hopes High Despite Loss To Dedham

Despite an opening day 3-2 loss to Dedham, Quincy tennis coach Bill Mitchell has high hopes of improving upon last year's disappointing 3-7 record.

Bill had 25 boys report and there was keen competition for the 12 spots.

"The team probably won't equal the school's first state championship team of 1965, but with the enthusiasm and dedication displayed by the candidates, we should improve on last year's record," Mitchell said.

The lone returning starter from last year is Kenny Rickson, a senior, as Quincy graduated six starters.

"I have five returning players from last year's junior varsity team," the Presidents' coach said. "As a rule, they would move in to fill the vacancies but they are being challenged by some potential junior and sophomore newcomers."

Bill's singles players will come from among Rickson, Ron Rand, Stuart Miller, Mike Cully and Ron Berman.

Among the doubles candidates were Rich Leavitt, Jay Wye, Mark Sandler, Curt Penny, Bob Barra, Ron Lund, Dave Jones, Phil Malley and Steve Sellers.

In the opening match at new Quincy Vo-Tech courts Quincy took a quick 2-0 lead with wins in the first two singles by Rickson and Miller. However, Berman lost his singles match and the President lost both doubles events and the decision. Leavitt and Barra made up one doubles team, Wye and Lund the other.

Quincy plays Abp. Williams Friday at home and plays at Weymouth next Wednesday.

Quincy Trackmen Eager To Meet Rival North

Quincy's track team is looking forward to Tuesday's meet with North Quincy at Veteran's Memorial Stadium (1 p.m.) after bowing to a strong Abp. Williams team Tuesday at the Stadium. Tuesday's North meet will be the first Suburban League opposition for the Presidents.

Williams, with Quincy boys scoring many of its points, topped Quincy, 74½-56½, with the weights proving the Presidents' big weakness.

"They are strong and won the state indoor championship so I expected plenty of trouble," said Quincy's second-year coach, Tom Hall. "They have several boys from Quincy and two of them won while others added valuable points."

Quincy's top man was Kevin Luggelle, a triple winner. He won the high jump, the triple jump, a new event this year, and low hurdles.

Quincy took 1-2 in the long jump with Ken Prouty winning and Larry Finneran second. Williams' Jack McGee from Quincy was third.

Williams' Harrington, another Quincy boy, won the shot put with Quincy's Jim Bucchineri second. Williams swept the discus and took the first and third in the javelin, Quincy's Jay Finn taking second.

Kevin Egersheim was second to Luggelle in the high jump and Joe Goguen took third in the triple jump. Luggelle, had a leap of 40 feet, 1 1/3 inches in this event.

McGee gave Williams a win in the high hurdles and Quincy's John Dempsey was third. Finneran won the 100 with Prouty second, Chuck Potter took second in the 440 and John Hacunda won the 880 with Potter third. John Kelley of Williams, still another Quincyite, won the two-mile with Pete Laing of Quincy Prouty was third in the 220. Pat Grimes of Quincy was third in the mile.

Quincy won the relay with Goguen, Egersheim, John Bonfiglioli and Finneran running for the President.

"Lugelle was really outstanding and I was pleased at the way some of our times and distances came down," Hall said.

Eastern Nazarene Nine Shooting For Playoffs

A year ago Eastern Nazarene College of Wollaston had a fine 12-4 baseball record but missed the Regional NAIA playoffs.

Coach Carroll Bradley is aiming to make the playoffs this year and his hopes are high despite an opening day 6-3 upset loss to Southeastern Mass. Tech.

"We have a lot of experience, which should help us," the veteran coach said.

There are only a few area boys on the squad. A freshman, Ron Bradley of North Quincy, 4-2 with last year's Raiders, is a top pitching prospect, while two Weymouth players are key performers.

Senior Doug Von Iderstein, a converted infielder, is the top catcher after playing there for the first time last year, and Jack Willy, another senior, is the center fielder. Willy hadn't played baseball since the Weymouth Little League until last year and was one of the team's top surprises.

Infielders are Ron Bartholomew of Allentown, Pa., Don Shook, Butler, Pa., Bill Turner, Shippensburg, Pa., and Dave Keene, Pennsville, N.S.

Outfielders include Bob Hennings of Hilton, N.Y., Everett Kaufman and Gary Krlin, both from Elmira, N.Y. and Don Kauffman of Harrisburg, Pa.

Among the pitchers are Larry Eiler, Erie, Pa., John Golden, Hendersonville, N.C., Jim Andrews, Hialeah, Fla., and John Whitman, Brockport, N.Y.

Eastern Nazarene's home games are played at its own Alumni field at the school in Wollaston, where today it plays Ricker College.

Super Bowl Film To Be Shown By Quarterback Club

The first Greater Boston viewing of the Super Bowl film, showing the New York Jets shocking the Baltimore Colts in the Orange Bowl, will be the feature attraction at the South Shore Quarterback Club meeting Monday night at 8 p.m. at South Shore Country Club in Hingham.

The meeting will have added interest for Quincy football fans, as Bob Hotin, majority stockholder of the Lowell Giants of the Atlantic Coast League, will speak on the proposed relocation of the team to the South Shore. There are reports the Giants will play in Quincy next fall.

Other highlights of the monthly meeting will be the films of Boston Patriots action and Ed Philipett, Patriots' linebacker, offering commentary on the Jets' upset win. A buffet will follow.

There will be no charge for any of the activities and the meeting is open to the public, but reservations must be made in advance by calling Charlie Lowe at 335-5039, Don Baltucci, 749-4454, or Phil Farina, 749-1720. Ladies are invited as are sons of members.

North Baseball Team Has New Coach, High Hopes

North Quincy's baseball team has a new coach this spring but several familiar faces in the lineup and the Raiders are off to a great start.

Following two straight wins, North played yesterday at Malden and Friday will be home to Chelsea at Adams Field. Next Wednesday the Raiders will play Somerville in a 10:30 a.m. game at Adams Field. All the Greater Boston League games.

Monday the Raiders opened their league season with a resounding 13-3 win over Revere at Adams Field as Steve Brustin paced North with four for four.

North scored early and often against the Patriots and combined a heavy hitting attack with good pitching and tight defense.

"This was a fine all-around performance for our league opener and I was pleased," said the new coach, Charlie Bunker. "If the boys continue to show the same kind of desire and hustle, we should do all right."

Last week Bunker, former B.C. ace and a fine Red Sox minor league prospect before his arm went bad, made his debut as North's coach and it was a successful bow as North edged Abp. Williams, 4-3.

The Raiders scored all their runs in the fifth inning and had to hold off the Bishops, who scored once in the fifth, again in the sixth and added one in the eighth.

Craig Bogosian, Gary McGrath and Frank Costa held Williams to four hits. The trip struck out 10 while walking five.

Jim Alberino had a double and single for North; while Tom Flynn, Jim Broderick, Jim Donovan, Steve Tomasetti and Gary Watson each had a single.

Quincy Next Foe

Raiders Open Track Season In Easy Romp Over Revere

North Quincy's track team faces cross-town rival Quincy in its first Suburban League meet Tuesday at 1 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium following a runaway win over Revere Tuesday at Cavanagh Stadium.

The Raiders romped, 93½-28½, over a weak Greater Boston League foe and second year coach Ralph Frazier saw a lot to be happy about.

"This was a pretty weak and inexperienced team we faced and I know we will be up against a much stronger team in Quincy," Frazier said. "But some of our times and distances were heartening today."

North swept the javelin with Roger Conboy winning with a good toss of 186 feet, 7 inches. Don Polvere was second and John Hemphill third.

John Panarelli won the shot put while Butch McIver took the discus with Steve Dieso third.

Bill McCall and Dick O'Hanley tied for first in the high jump and Dave Haight for third.

North's outstanding performer, Paul Affsa, won the long jump with Cahill third. Mike Noonan was the two-mile winner in 10:58, with Pat McCormack third. Lou Trubiano won the low hurdles with Bobby Sleeth second. Conboy was second and Jackie Yee and Bob Hale tied for third in the 440, and Larry Frechette was second and O'Hanley third in the high hurdles.

In the 220 Affsa won, Steve Poore won the 880 in 2:10, Polvere took the 100 with Johnston second and Don Meyer third. Strungis was second and John Cavagnaro third in the 880, while Bruce Healey won the mile with Yee second.

Affsa anchored the relay and won a fine leg to give North the win. Meyer also ran well on the third leg, trailing when he took the baton but pulling ahead by several yards. Conboy ran the first leg and Sleeth the second.

"Affsa is our outstanding trackman and did a great job, while Conboy, Poore and Meyer all did well," Frazier said. "In fact, everyone did a good job and I just hope they continue to show the same drive."

North Golfers In 37th Year

Donahue Expects Another Good Season On Fairways

North Quincy is starting its 37th successive year of golf and, with a fine nucleus, veteran Coach Jack Donahue expects another good season.

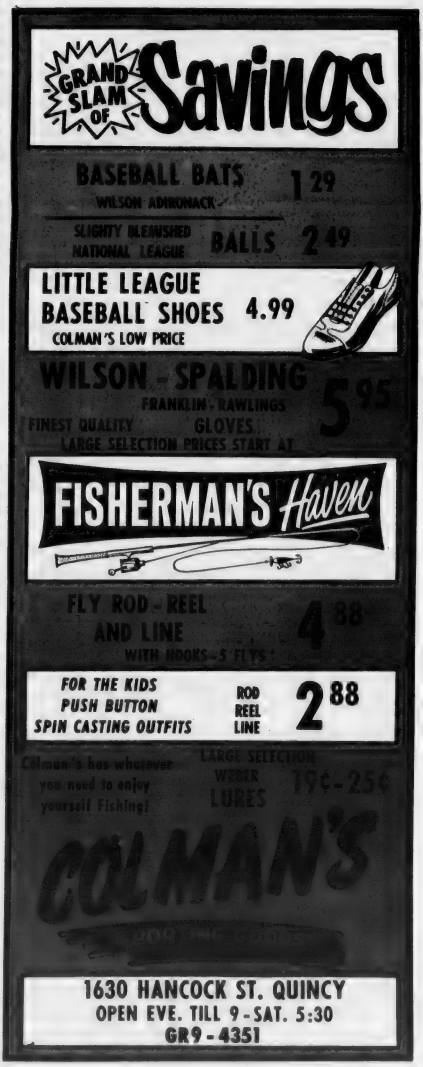
Jack has four returning players and several other promising candidates.

The returnees are John Meehan, Mike Zalrewski, Brian Killeen and Ken Kline.

Other promising candidates are Wayne Fick, John Moran, Bob Pierce, Bob Richardson and Steve Starsiak.

"We are again members of the Massachusetts Coast League which includes Quincy, Boston English, Boston Latin, Hyde Park and Boston Tech," Donahue said. "We will also play Hingham and Braintree for a schedule of 14 matches."

North has had a team ever since it began in the spring of 1933 and every year Wollaston Golf Club has allowed the Raiders the use of its course with no greens fees.



North twice won the state championship, once at Kernwood Country Club and the other time at Furnace Brook. Last year the team finished second in the league with a 7-2-1 record.

North was given permission by Furnace Brook to use its course for practice.

"It looks like a promissing season but I know nothing about our opponents and I look for good competition," the veteran skipper said.

One of North's players, sophomore Fick, last year won the Boston Globe tournament's 15-year old championship at South Shore Country Club in Hingham.

North opens on Tuesday at Boston Latin and will play Quincy at Furnace Brook on the 25th.

Mechanic St. Parking Proposal Set For Public Hearing Monday

A public hearing on the proposed Mechanic St. parking area will be held at City Hall Monday at 7:30 p.m.

As many businessmen as possible have been urged to attend the hearing and record themselves in favor of the proposal by the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

The additional parking benefits to downtown merchants were stressed by Chamber executive vice president William A. O'Connell. The plan is part of a long-range Chamber plan to create additional central parking for off-street areas and for "downtown" storefront renewal.

The proposed landtaking for the area on the east side of Hancock St. and south side of Revere Rd. would pave the way for a 140-car parking area.

The project is viewed by businessmen as a first step in the master plan to revitalize the general main shopping area.

Some opposition to the plan is expected by at least two Hancock St. businessmen who will lose a portion of their property under the parking expansion.

The latest expansion proposal has the strong backing of Mayor James R. McIntyre who has called on the City Council to act in support of business interests. The Mayor's backing emphasized the importance to the city of halting any possible exodus of businesses similar to the departure of Sheridan's Dept. Store.

O'Connell has been a strong proponent of an extensive face-lifting for the main business district to allow the area to compete with mushrooming suburban shopping centers.

ENJOYING EARLY AMERICA at an early age are these youngsters examining the flax spinning wheel in the John Quincy Adams House. The famous Quincy landmark is now open for the tourist season. The young callers are, from left, Louria Nolan, 8; Jay Nolan, 5 and Cynthia Nolan, 7, of Braintree, children of Mr. and Mrs. William Nolan. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Bizzozero of 52 Roberts St., South Quincy.

Picket Threat Grows

Police Wage Talks Hit Deadlock Over Seniority Issues

The Quincy Police Association remained firm in plans to throw a picket line around city hall following a break down in key salary and seniority issues.

The police rejection of the city offer Monday set up an impasse between the two sides and reinforced police promises to back up contract requests with a picket line.

City negotiator Atty. Sanford A. Kowal called the rejection "a totally irresponsible act."

Police union president Carmen DiRamio counter-charged city officials with the responsibility of breaking off the talks. The police union has appealed for resort to state arbitration to resolve the deadlock but the city is unwilling to enter into a fact-finding agreement. DiRamio charged.

In a public appeal for support, the Association stated:

"The Mayor has already indicated unwillingness to effectuate state law to resolve the current dispute even though he voted for this very legislation."

Charges and counter-charges swirled around the growing controversy with both sides imputing "tantrums and irresponsibility" to opposing negotiation teams.

Negotiating for the city are Police Chief Francis X. Finn, Kenneth G. Gardner and Atty. Kowal, city labor negotiator.

Atty. Kowal pointed out that Mayor McIntyre has not participated in the negotiations.

Separating the city and its police department are differences mainly seniority-involving the following city offers and police requests:

City offer:

*Step raises from $7700 to $9200 by July 1, 1970

*Time and a half for overtime.

*A minimum rate of $24.00 at $6 per hour for guard duty at construction sites or department stores.

*Payment of $200 per year for an associate degree in police science.

*For a bachelor's degree, $400 per year.

*Tuition payment for police officers attending colleges and other academic institutions.

*Establishment of a new differential between ranks of 16 per cent.

*$400 per year for ambulance and wagon drivers.

*Purchase of all uniforms.

*Payment of $27.60 for police officers called back to work.

Police seek:

*Strict seniority to eliminate "political influence."

*Time and a half for court time.

*$300 more than the city salary offer to begin on Jan. 1, 1970

*Fair compensation to officers for advanced educational courses in law and or law enforcement.

It was apparent that the major issue concerned the seniority

Quincy High Students 'Demonstrate' For Pony

More than 20 Quincy High School students participated in a mock demonstration Wednesday afternoon in front of the "Appeal to the Great Spirit" statue at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

The Westminsters, a Quincy High service club, organized the demonstration to create and center interest on the "Pony Campaign Week: April 28-May 2" to be held at Quincy High.

The purpose of the campaign is to raise funds to help in the restoration of the school symbol, the Pony, which was destroyed by vandals last year.

During the demonstration students paraded at the Museum and carried placards expressing their desire for the immediate revival of the Pony.

Traffic Lights (Finally) For Furnace Brook-Adams Street

The Metropolitan District Commission has awarded a contract for the installation of traffic lights at Adams St. and Furnace Brook Parkway, Quincy.

The John J. Botti Company received the contract for the work on the four year-awaited lights. The firm's bid was $44,290.

The introduction of the very much needed traffic signals will mean the reduction of the high accident rate which has been prevalent at the intersection in recent years.

Installation will begin in about two weeks.

Morrisette Post In Tribute To World War I, Charter Members

At a recent social meeting of the Cyril P. Morrisette Post, West Quincy, members attended a dinner in honor of the Post's World War I and Charter Members in observance of the American Legion's 50th Anniversary Year.

Third Vice Commander Lareto Bersani with the assistance of Post members prepared the dinner.

At the meeting 50 new members were initiated. Past Commander Paul Hunt was Master of Ceremonies. Speakers included Past Commanders Francis Mullen, Gino Giorgi, Paul O'Neill, Robert Petitti, Alfred Peruzzi, and Commander Nicholas Malvesti. Chaplain J. Henry Sullivan described the legion seal to the new members.

Joseph Riordan, senior surviving past commander of the Post, was presented a special plaque, and each World War I and Charter member was presented a lapel pin.

Rep. Joseph E. Brett presented Commander Malvesti with a plaque on behalf of the State House of Representatives to the Morrisette Post.

Among the guests attending were Mayor James R. McIntyre, Norfolk County Commissioner George B. MacDonald, Councillor Albert R. Barilaro, Rep.-Councillor Clifford Marshall, State Department Commander Vincent O'Connor, State Department Adjutant John Swift, Norfolk County Commander Maurice Ronan, and Robert Leo Eng, candidate for State Legion Commander.

First Vice-Commander Florentino M. Campitelli closed the social with a request for a continued membership growth.

Social Welfare

Dr. Charles Djerf To Moderate Panel At S.S. Conference

Dr. Charles Djerf, of Quincy, will moderate a panel discussion at the second annual South Shore regional conference of the Massachusetts Conference on Social Welfare.

The conference will be held at the Mayflower Inn, Whitehorse Beach, Manomet, May 15 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The morning panel session chaired by Dr. Djerf, Quincy pediatrician, school committeeman, and Quincy Sun columnist, will discuss "The Youth Service Board – Can It Do The Job?"

"Rebuilding the Establishment" is the theme of the conference. Four concurrent afternoon workshops will explore "Youth and the Educational Establishment: A Search for Relevancy," "Dimensions in Reaching and Strengthening the Family," "Stereotypes of Welfare: Fact or Fiction?' and "The Adolescent and the Establishment."

Mrs. Robert Legg, South Shore Council of Campfire Girls, Inc., 10 Industrial Park Rd., Hingham may be contacted for reservations.

Sunbeams

You could say Dave Garroway is another Quincy boy who made good.

It might be stretching the point just a little. But Garroway, who returns to television April 28 with a new local show on Ch. 7, lived in Quincy Point as a youngster.

He lived at 66 Ruggles St. in 1924--but not for long. Records show he attended the Thomas B. Pollard School for 33½ days between September and November of that year. He came to Quincy Point from Brookline and moved from here to Belmont.

During his brief stay here, he used to go down to the Fore River Shipyard (now General Dynamics Quincy Division) to look at the ships because he wanted to be a sea-captain when he grew up.

Although his stay here was short, Garroway still has fond memories of Quincy and pronounces it Quin-zee like a true son.

His Quincy days came to light in 1953 when he had the "Today" show. At that time, people were picked out of the crowd outside the studio to appear on the program.

Gilbert L. Crofts, recently retired General Secretary of the Quincy YMCA, and his son, Bruce, were standing in the crowd one morning and suddenly found themselves on the show.

During the interview, Garroway casually asked Crofts where he was from. Crofts replied, "Quincy, Mass. about eight miles south of Boston", giving the location figuring Garroway probably hadn't heard of Quincy.

But Garroway commented: "Good old Quincy. I used to live down on Ruggles St."

Later Garroway recalled the exact house number and remembered vividly the home of Mrs. Roy Dieterle at 70 Ruggles St. as "one of the prettiest houses in the world."

So if you happen to see a fellow who looks like Garroway driving or walking around Quincy Point, one of these days chances are it will be him--catching up with some fond boyhood memories.

IF MAYOR James R. McIntyre doesn't seek a third term this fall it would mean one of the hottest mayoralty races in recent years. Among the strong potential contenders:

Council President J. Vincent Smyth, Councillor John J. Quinn, Rep.-Councillor Walter J. Hannon, Rep.-Councillor Arthur H. Tobin, Asst. Dist. Atty. Richard W. Barry.

Smyth, as council president--the second most powerful political post in the city--would be a logical candidate but whether he would run remains to be seen.

The council presidency has long been considered the springboard to the mayor's office. Yet only six council presidents since Quincy became a city in 1888 have turned in their gavels for the chief executive's chair. They were: Charles M. Bryant, Joseph L. Whiton, Thomas S. Burgin, Charles A. Ross, Amelio Della Chiesa and McIntyre.

SPEAKING of former Mayor Burgin, he just turned a very young 67. Looks like he's still in his 50's.

• • •

RONALD ORCUTT, president of Local 5 shipyard workers at General Dynamics' Quincy Division, is back to work. Orcutt collapsed during around-the-clock bargaining sessions with management and federal mediators for the new five-year work contract. Co-workers gave him a big "Welcome Back".

• • •

CREDIT QUINCY'S Dick Sutherland with an "assist" in the Boston Bruins' 5-0 romp over the Montreal Canadiens in the third game of the Stanley Cup finals playoffs. After the two setbacks in Montreal, the Bruins decided to "get away from it all". Sutherland took them on an eight-hour fishing trip in Boston Harbor aboard his charter boat "Irene". Apparently just the relaxing tonic they needed. Maybe they should go fishing more often.

• • •

WELL, QUINCY now has its own Joe DeMaggio. A son, their first child, born to John and Marie DeMaggio of Dayton St. Mom formerly worked in the Assessors' office at City Hall and Dad is a mechanic at President Chevrolet.

• • •

INCIDENTALLY, Mrs. Barbara Cristina of the City Tax Collection Department has a couple of new tax exemptions of her own. Twin boys, John and Joseph.

SOMETHING TO THINK about: The Quincy YMCA sends along a little publicity item that starts like this:

"In the year 2,000--not too many years from now--it won't really matter what my bank balance was today, what kind of car I drove or what sort of house I lived in. But the world could be a little better because I was important to the life of a boy . . . my boy."

The item calls attention to the "Y" Indian Guides program that furnishes "Dads and Lads with the kind of fellowship, adventure and understanding that can only come at a time when a boy thinks his father is the greatest man in the world."

It consists of "tribal meetings" at which six to nine fathers with their sons participate two hours monthly in programs geared to their interests.

If you're interested, call the YMCA: 479-8500. It could be quite an investment in your son.

Brett Honored For Conservation Help

Rep. Joseph E. Brett of Quincy was recently awarded an inscribed trophy for his legislative efforts in behalf of the cause of natural resources conservation.

The presentation was made at the fourth Annual Conservation Achievement Awards Program held jointly by the Massachusetts Wildlife Federation and the National Wildlife Federation in Saugus.

Representative Brett has long advocated the preservation of open spaces from indiscriminate and unwise development. The award offers statewide recognition of his efforts in the field of conservation.

'Girl Friday Of The Year' Sees Big Need For Medical Secretary

(The following article is written by Miss Grace L. Giunchiglia, medical secretary to Dr. Edward Fitzgerald of Quincy, selected as "Secretary of The Year" by the South Shore Chapter, National Secretaries Association.)
By GRACE L. GIUNCHIGLIA

GRACE GIUNCHIGLIA

Are you looking for the ideal secretarial job – the one which begins at 9:00 A.M., allows a half hour for coffee, one hour for lunch, another half hour for coffee in the afternoon and turns off the electric typewriter promptly at 5 P.M. DON'T, by any means, pursue the medical profession for your career!

But, if you are looking for the very special secretarial job - that which offers you an opportunity to help people who are truly in need, one which never has two consecutive days of the same routine – by all means find a busy doctor who needs a good secretary!

The job description said "to begin at 10 A.M., with an hour for lunch and to finish a short time after visiting hours are completed". But, it didn't say anything about what time visiting hours finish – and there are somedays when my boss could stand a good pair of roller skates! As could most every doctor in this day and age!

Do prepare yourself for the "panicky" days when the doctor is delayed by an accident case at the hospital or an emergency operation – and thy waiting room is filled to seating and standing capacity with very anxious patients. Prepare yourself also for the heavy amount of paper work involved with insurance forms – Blue Shield -- Medicare – Medicaid – Welfare -- Consultation reports – and on and on.

Know full well that your desk will never see the light of day - as a matter of fact it sometimes looks rather "messy" to put it mildly. Be prepared for thy comment "Was your phone off the hook? I've been trying to reach you for over an hour!"

Coffee at the desk - well almost never, unless some very thoughtful patient remembers that neither doctor not his secretary have gone out for a quick lunch! And, how nice it tastes - even when it is between telephone calls, pulling folders, making appointments.

But, then on the plus side - realize that on occasion there will be some very sincere messages of thanks - from the mother whose child was treated immediately after arriving at the Accident Room or from the patient whose surgery was 100 percent perfect, and the person who needed six copies of the bill for various reasons, or the patient who was put at ease while she waited to see for the first time the new doctor.

The requirements for the position of Medical Secretary are basically the same as for any other secretarial position, with the added (and very special) requirement, some knowledge of medical terminology. Also very important is the pleasant personality and the ability to get along well with persons whose problems may make them irritable, not too friendly, or very nervous.

Twins On Honor Roll At North Quincy High

It's pretty easy to get a little mixed up over twins.

The Quincy Sun did last week.

The name of Bryan Sandberg was listed among the 10th grade honor roll students at North Quincy High School. But the name of his twin brother, Andrew, also a 10th grade honor student was inadvertently omitted.

The boys are the sons of a very proud mother, Mrs. Freida Sandberg of 22 Clive St.

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

School Phobia

There is a common psychological disturbance which is passed over lightly as if it were not too serious. I am referring to fear of attending school.

The child may flatly refuse to go or require virtual dragging to attend. He may appear to leave for school dutifully but return mid-morning. Mother may accompany him to the school door where he balks. Many throw-up, which is enough to upset anybody, especially a parent or any othr onlooker. It is pretty hard to suppress your own nausea when someone is vomiting. Hence the children have learned subconsciously to use this technique, or maybe nature is the clever culprit using this subtle means to alert us to a more serious underlying problem.

With reassurance many children realizing their parents' true concern for them or a patient sympathetic teacher's encouragement surmounts the fear which is behind the symptom. It obviously isn't the school itself or the difficulty in learning. These are average children showing an emotional inadequacy-school merely being a discipline which evokes the disturbing unrecognized symptom.

One thing is certain, that any child with a persistent fear of school not solved with kindness, sympathy and the cooperative support of teacher and parents has a problem needing a psychologist's investigation. The investigation diagnosis and revelation of the causes is a must or the youngster will have far more serious symptoms and signs of maladjustment in later life.

It is certainly easy to understand that to try to unearth the nature of a disease-complex in early childhood is far more soluble than to attempt to unravel the mixed-up, even delinquent, of sixteen years of age.

If we seriously and unemotionally observe our children as small ones, portraying the kinds of adults they may be, many distortions will be apparent. Take simple signs as delayed toilet training, holding on to the bottle up to five, nail biting (of course I mean to the quick), thumb sucking (a young lady I knew caught her boss with his thumb in his mouth and strangely lost her job), persistent masturbation, hair pulling, day dreaming, nightmares, temper tantrums at the slightest provocation, setting fires, stealing, lying, crying for no apparent reason, the over reactor, the fidgeter, failure to achieve commensurate with ability, inability to get along with peers (children of the same age), delay in speech, etc.

Every Pediatrician's office should have a psychologist on its staff or ready accessability to one. It is the little things which if seen and considered as the beginning evidence of later trouble and properly evaluated which may make life a more tolerable experience with harmony for the individual and him immediate family, notwithstanding society as a whole.

A patient, alert person dealing impersonally but constructively, can establish rapport (a oneness with the child) and result in the child's understanding and acceptance of himself. This is the psychologist's job-not tranquilizers which come in the form of pills or things. Love for children is not manifest only in caresses but in our admission that others who can help are also needed too share in the unexpressed depths of love in the subject under investigation. Depths hidden and suppressed by fear. All nail biters are not disturbed, after all, I am one too.

There was an error in my last article. The statement read, "Yet, listen to this-In 1964 about a quarter of a million mothers developed defective babies". The original statement, quoting Dr. Rusk, was that there were about 10% or 20,000 children with visual or cardiac defects, with or without mental retardation, in this epidemic. I regret the error because every statement I make is based on statistical or clinical material unless it is an opinion of mine from my own experience. Sorry!

Police Threaten To Picket

demand and the charge by the Association of alleged "political influence" in promotions.

The union seeks establishment of a three-member probationary board to evaluate the merit of promotions based on strict seniority. The board would comprise three men of patrolmen rank to whom promotion judgments would be referred by department superiors.

The board would receive information from department officers on promoted police officers during a three-months probationary period.

The board, according to the Association plan, would "eliminate politics".

The failure of a seniority plan for promotion has contributed to a state of "poor police morale," DiRamio claimed.

Atty. Kowal said that police base pay demands amount to a 40 per cent hike in present salaries. Requests include other benefits not given to other city employees such as longevity pay amounting to $100 per year for every five years of service, a premium pay of $500 for detectives and $600 for mechanics and $1,000 terminal leave maximum.

"The demand by Mr. DiRamio that seniority be a sole test for job assignment will prevent the Chief of Police from professionalizing the department," Atty. Kowal said.

"How can the taxpayers of the City of Quincy be asked to respond favorably to a demand for an increase of $60.00 per week when they already face a possible $20.00 increase in the tax rate for 1969 alone."

Police requests rejected by the city amount to only 35 cents on the tax rate, according to an Association statement.

Association spokesmen compared the tax costs to the MBTA tax impact on the city to date of $2.25 per thousand.

"What will it be when the wheels begin to roll?" the statement queried.

Police union spokesmen said they "always stand ready to negotiate with the city, no matter what." They urged municipal negotiators to "get back to the bargaining table."

With the picket possibility looming large, Chief Finn urged police against action that would "blacken the name of Quincy and the Police Department."

DiRamio said Association members were strongly in favor of dramatizing grievances via the picket formation. He did not say when--if it does become a reality--picketing around city hall would begin.

In a public statement by the Association, the Police Department was termed "the thin blue line against total anarchy". The official statement of the Association position was the first step in a campaign to organize public support for the police requests.

The physician and his medical secretary are a very closely-knit "team" and it is most important that there by loyalty, trust, cooperation and thorough understanding between them. The secretary is, on most occasions, the first person that the patient meets when he visits the doctor's office and the pleasant atmosphere of the waiting room, in addition to the gentle and calm atmosphere of the Consultation Room, makes this "team" important to the patient!

I cannot praise the medical Secretary's job enough -- I truly believe that there is a big need for medical secretaries to assist the very busy doctors of our age.

Central, Wollaston In Hoop Tourney Finals Showdown

Central and Wollaston have advanced to the finals in both the senior division and the junior division of the 17th annual city wide playoffs of the Quincy Park and Recreation Board basketball tournament that involved 35 teams and more than 350 players.

In senior division action 6-4 Charlie Holmes of Central dominated both offensive and defensive boards as two time defending champion Point was upset 78-66.

Pacing Central scoring were Holmes with 29 points and Tom Flynn and Bill Weed with 14 each. Bob Walker had 21 and Bob

Raiders Veto Presidents

N. Quincy Trackmen League Threat

QUINCY HIGH VARSITY tune in on Coach Bob Basiliere for valuable diamond tips during a recent baseball workout. (Quincy Sun Photo by Robert Leo Eng)

North Quincy's well-balanced track team, following two one-sided wins over Greater Boston League foes, stamped itself as a solid threat in the Suburban League Tuesday when it romped over cross-town rival Quincy by a surprising 81-50 score at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

It was the opening league meet for both teams. Quincy had dropped its non-league opener to Abp. Williams.

North's strength in the weights played a key role in the win as the Raiders swept both the discus and javelin. Quincy took the high jump, which pleased Coach Tom Hall.

Each team had a double winner. North's Roger Conboy won the shot put, breaking the school record with a toss of 48 feet, and also captured the 440. Conboy also holds the school's javelin record. John Panarelli, in finishing second, also broke the old shot put mark.

Quincy's Kevin Luggelle won the low hurdles and high jump.

Quincy's Ken Prouty upset North's Paul Affsa in the long jump as Joe Goguen of Quincy was third.

North's Panarelli was second to Conboy in the shot put and Quincy's Jim Buccineri was third; Quincy's Charlie Cooper did 10 feet to win the pole vault with North's Davis second and Jerry Mulcahy third; Quincy's Bob Walker and Kevin Johndrow followed Luggelle in the high jump; North's Butch McIver, Steve Dieso and Balzan were 1-2-3 in the discus; North's Rich Marinic, John Hemphill and Don Polvere were 1-2-3 in the javelin; North's Lou Trubiano was second to Luggelle and Prouty third in the low hurdles.

North's Larry Frechette was first, John Dempsey of Quincy second and North's Dick O'Hanley third in the high hurdles; Joe Lane of North topped Quincy's Larry Finneran and Petrilli in the 100 and Affsa won the 220 with teammate Don Meyer second and Quincy's John Bonfillio third. North's Charlie Potter and John Hacunds of Quincy followed Conboy in the 440; Steve Poore of North won the half mile with teammate Jeff Strungis second and Hacunda third. Quincy's Pat Grimes was the mile winner followed by North's Bruce Healey and O'Hara, and Quincy's Peter Laing won the two-mile with North's Pat McCormack second and Mike Noonan third.

The relay was one of the year's best with only inches separating each runner. Trubiano started for North and led Finneran by inches. Meyer kept a slim lead over Bonfiglio, Conboy and Prouty were neck and neck and Affsa barely nipped Luggelle for the win.

"I couldn't be more pleased," North Coach Ralph Frazier said. "It is always nice to beat Quincy and I was surprised at the score. Everyone did well but I was especially pleased with Conboy, Trubiano for his strong second in the hurdles and his relay leg, Davis in the pole vault, Meyer for an important second in the 220, Panarelli, Joe Lane for a real fine effort in the 100 which started Quincy's downfall, Affsa and Meyer in the 220, Frechette in the high hurdles and sophomore Jeff Strungis who ran a fine half mile to finish only two seconds behind Poore. Also, this was our best time in the relay. All in all I was very pleased with the overall performance."

"Luggelle again did a wonderful job, said Quincy Coach Tom Hill. "Cooper did a fine job in the vault and didn't try to do better than 10 feet to save time and Prouty was great in the long jump, beating Affsa. Also, Grimes ran a fine mile and Laing an excellent two-mile. Sweeping the high jump was also satisfying. I was disappointed in our performance in the 100 and 220, as I expected to do much better."

Last Friday North breezed to its second easy win over a Greater Boston League foe as it trampled Malden, 94-28, at Cavanagh Stadium.

Affsa broke North's broad jump record with a jump of 21 feet, 10½ inches. Paul also won the 220 and again anchored the winning relay team.

Conboy won the 440 and javelin and led off the relay. Frazier lauded three sophomores, Panarelli, Jeff Strungis and Richie Yee for their performances. Panarelli won the shot, Yee was third in the 440 and mile and Strungis was third in the 880.

Other North winners were Lane in the 100, Poore, 880; Noonan, two-mile; Bill McCall, high jump; McIver, discus; Trubiano, low hurdles; Frenchette, high hurdles, and the relay team of Conboy, Meyer, Bobby Sleeth and Affsa.

Saturday both teams will have entries in the Eastern Mass. relays, Quincy in Class at B.C., North in Class B at Xaverian High. Tuesday North will be home to Cambridge Latin and Quincy will be at Weymouth in league meets.

Duff Spins One-Hitter

Quincy In Big Win Over Strong Malden

Quincy's baseball team remained on top of the Greater Boston League with a thrilling 1-0 win over Malden Monday and yesterday strived to stay there when it played at Everett. Friday the Presidents are home to Chelsea in a 10 a.m. game at Adams Field and next Wednesday will be host to Boston Tech in their only non-league game of the season. Quincy has a 3-1 league record.

Quincy's win over Malden was a big one as the Golden Tornado is rated one of the top teams in the league and boasts one of the outstanding pitchers in Cully Mugica.

Mugica was the loser when he gave up a home run ball to Steve Carrera in the fifth inning, a long blast to left field. This was the only run of the game, although the Presidents had several scoring opportunities.

"We had the bases loaded with no outs in the third and couldn't score," Coach Bob Basiliere said. "We did have one hard shot to center field which was hit so hard, the runner on third had no chance to score. We had other chances, also. I consider this a very important win, especially beating a pitcher like Mugica."

Quincy had five hits off the Malden ace, who had to take a back seat to Paul Duff, who pitched brilliantly, holding the losers to one hit, a line shot to left in the third inning. He struck out nine and walked three, while Mugica had 13 strikeouts and also walked three.

In addition to Carrera's game winning homer, Steve Sullivan, Ed Hutchins, Ted Meyer and Duff had singles.

Following its impressive opening day win at Somerville, Quincy dropped a 5-4 squeaker to Revere as a three-run rally in the eighth inning just fell short.

Wildness hurt Quincy's cause as four walks forced in two runs in the third and a walk started a three-run fourth. McDevitt had a double and single and Bruce Carlson a three-run triple for the Presidents, who were held to five hits.

Last Friday Quincy bounced back against Medford, 3-2, with McDevitt again the key man. Steve, senior right-hander, pitched and batted the Presidents to the win, as he scattered eight hits, struck out 11 to raise his total to 20 in two games and didn't issue a walk. He singled and scored the winning run in the eighth inning.

Rich Pettiti and Paul Kaplan had two hits each, Kaplan driving in the winning run, and Ted Meyer hit a long triple.

"McDevitt is superlative," Basiliere said. "He's as good as there is, not overpowering but plenty of guts."

North Tennis Team Off To Fast Start

Bill Willoughby's North Quincy tennis team is off to a fast start with a 4-1 win over Abp. Williams and it looks as though the Raiders might be in for a good season.

Among those playing for North are Steve Howe, Jim Machado, Steve Stasiak, Tom O'Malley, Roy Doherty and Pete Davis.

Monday North plays at Quincy and Wednesday will be at Weymouth while Quincy is home to Brockton.

N. Quincy Girl On Television Sunday

Marie Nestor, nine-year-old daughter of Quincy Police Lt. and Mrs. Paul Nestor of 98 Glover Ave., North Quincy will appear on Community Auditions Sunday at 11 a.m. on Ch. 4.

Marie, a student of Miss Anne's School of Dancing, will perform a modern jazz number.

Meet Charlie Bunker

Red Sox Loss Is N. Quincy's Gain

By Tom Sullivan

CHARLIE BUNKER

If his arm hadn't gone bad while in spring training with Seattle in 1965, Charlie Bunker today might be pitching for the Red Sox or at least in the high minor leagues instead of coaching the North Quincy High school baseball team.

The new North coach, following a brilliant schoolboy career at Dorchester High, went on to become one of Boston College's outstanding pitchers.

Upon graduation in 1962 the flashy southpaw was signed by Neil Mahoney, then director of the Red Sox minor league system and now director of player procurement and scouting.

Charlie started his professional career with the Pocatella Chiefs of the Class C Pioneer League.

He moved up the next year to Winston-Salem in the Carolina League, then advanced to Reading of the Class AA Eastern League.

Following his best season, a 7-1 year with Reading, Bunker went to spring training with Seattle, then the Red Sox Class AAA team, its top minor league club.

It was there he came up with a sore arm which nipped a promising careen in the bud.

"The arm never did come around and, frankly, I can now throw better right-handed than left," the North coach admitted.

"Charlie was an excellent prospect and it was a shame his arm went on him," Mahoney said. "He was as fine a college pitcher as I had seen and I saw a rosy future for him."

According to his college coach, Eddie Pellagrini, he was one of Boston College's best pitchers and Eddie, a former Red Sox star himself, expected big things from his star southpaw.

Bunker joined the Raiders' junior varsity and this spring took over as head coach, succeeding Vin Moscardelli, who took an administrative position.

Charlie has made some adjustments in his coaching philosophy since becoming a high school coach.

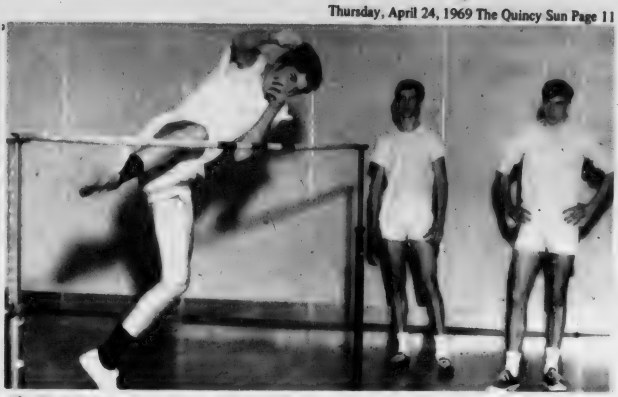
"When I started coaching the junior varsity two years ago I expected too much from the kids," he said.

"I guess I still expect a lot from them but not as much as I did before."

Charlie was accustomed to playing with people who were good enough, or nearly good enough, to play in the majors and it was only natural that he would expect quite a bit from high school players.

"At the beginning of practice we worked a lot on the pivot at second base for the double play," he added. "But I learned that it is pretty tough for high school kids to make the double play. Maybe their arms are not strong enough or maybe they just don't get the ball away fast enough. For one thing, they haven't matured as much as they will and kids that are a bit older, 17, 18 or 19, are ready to go for the double play. I also used to expect the kids to be able to throw out a runner from deep in the hole, but that is the exception rather than the rule."

Bunker's first North team got off to a great start with a 4-3 win over Abp. Williams in a non-league game, and a 13-3 romp over Revere in its Greater Boston League opener.



The Raiders then were held to one hit, a single by Steve Brustin, who had four hits in the romp over Revere, and they were thumped by powerful Malden, 11-0.

In their latest game against Chelsea, North breezed, 8-0, as junior Craig Bogosian hurled a one-hitter, losing a no-hitter on a bloop single in the eighth inning. North had seven hits in the victory.

Bunker is pleased with the 3-1 record. "These kids are hustling all the time and I am pleased with their attitude," he said. "I think we can give most of the teams in our league a real battle."

North was home to strong Somerville yesterday, will play at Medford Friday at 1:30, will host Everett Monday and entertain Abp. Williams in their second non-league meeting Tuesday. All home games are played at Adams Field.

In Bunker, the Red Sox lost a good pitcher, but North Quincy has won a good coach.

A Slow Start

Eastern Nazarene College Having Diamond Problems

Eastern Nazarene College's baseball team is having its troubles trying to equal last year's 12-4 record with which it barely missed out on the NAIA playoffs.

Following a 6-3 opening day loss to SMTI, Nazarene lost to Ricker College, 5-1, then lost to Husson, 5-3.

In the Ricker game Weymouth's Doug Von Idersteing scored Nazarene's only run as the team was held to five hits.

In the Husson game 15 Nazarene batters went down on strikes at the hands of Bob Soucie. ENC scored twice in the third inning for a short-lived 2-0 lead as Von Iderstein came through with a two-run single. The Weymouth star also tripled home the final run in the seventh inning.

Tourney Finals

Vincent 18 for Point. In matching Central's win Wollaston defeated Atlantic 69-50 with Phil Kenneally, 26 points and Sam Abraham, 17 points, the games high scorers.

In the Junior division Wollaston beat Squantum easily 63-36. Peter Bellotti, son of the former Lt. Governor, shared scoring honors for the winners with Peter Quinn. Each had 16 points. Brian McMahon of Squantum was high for the game with 18. Paul Varney, brother of Harvard's Pete Barney, had 24 points and Ken Marsters had 19 as Central after trailing by four points employed a field court press to blow open the game with Point 70-43.

Beechwood Knoll's defending champions were hard pressed by improved Montclair before pulling away to win 26-18. Mark Reale with 11 points and Bill Carpenter with nine were the big guns for Beechwood Knoll.

The tourney is the culmination of a 25 week winter program that involves more than 2000 boys.

Brian Buckley, a senior at Archbishop Williams and William Walker, a Northeastern University Co-op student are the coaches of Central and Wollaston. Tom Turner, a candidate for a Ph. D. at Boston University, coaches Snug Harbor and Charles Alongi, a recreation major at Northeastern coaches Beechwood Knoll in the elementary division playoff.

Bethany Church Launches $120,000 Fund Campaign

"Project: Advance" has begun at Bethany Church.

The general fund-raising campaign has been initiated to raise from church members and friends $120,000 for building renovations for a Protestant Home for Boys, and for various activities of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference's "Mission: Advance".

Mr. and Mrs. Heslip E. Sutherland were hosts to more than 80 people who attended the initiation dinner of "Project: Advance." Mr. Sutherland is Major Gifts chairman. Solicitation for advance gifts began following the dinner, and it is hoped that the canvass will be completed in early May.

A large turnout is expected for the Congregational Dinner on May 1, at 6:30 o'clock. Dora Ferguson Caterers will serve the beef dinner. The program to follow will feature a movie of areas involved in the proposed renovations and a filmstrip on "Mission: Advance". The movie which was made at Bethany Church was composed and compiled by meteorologist Don Kent.

To aid in the fund-raising processes of "Project: Advance", the Executive Committee has organized a Congregational Gifts Committee, composed of 10 captains and 40 workers.

The committee which will be in charge of all intra-Church solicitations is chaired by Mrs. Herman M. Noyes and Russell D. Hodgkins.

Captains are: Charles R. Irving, James W. Trethewey, James W. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Miller, Jr., A. Warren Goodnow, Graton C. Howland, Merton Pomfret, Archie Sanchez, Douglas S. Gordon, Mrs. Reginald Trethewey.

Workers serving on the 10 teams are: Mrs. Kathryn L. McDougall, Mrs. George H. Ryder, Miss Bernice M. Reed, Mrs. Milton E. Kelsey, Miss Robina L. Purdon, Mrs. Robert P. Nordstrom, Mrs. Edward J. Cosgrove, Miss Gloria Morgan, Mrs. George J. Tompkins, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Howe, Miss Cynthia Crofts, Miss Clarissa Peirce, Mrs. Elsa McCormack, Miss Ruth M. Stevenson, Mrs. Everett Nightingale, Mrs. Harry G. Brown, Miss Mary McIntosh.

Also serving on teams: George E. Morey, William J. Erickson, James W. Havens, W. James Crothers, William G. Walsh, Carl E. Siddens, Donals Sargent, Thomas E. Roberts, Albert C. Riddick, Howard S. Willard, Kyle C. Coburn, John A. Laukkanen, Oscar F. Frisk, Clayton E. Simpson, Stephen N. Roberts, Ronald K. Pulsifer, William H. Best, Carl A. Bohlken, Jr., Lloyd S. Thompson.

By Rep. Joseph E. Brett

"Beware of False Prophets, who come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly are like ravenous wolves." Such are the words of Matthew, taken from the New Testament. They are particularly apt to the subject I am about to discuss . . the proposed reduction in the size of the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

So . . . I repeat . . . beware of the false prophets who cunningly proclaim that a reduction in the size of the House from 240 to 160 members will result in better state government. On the contrary . . . to lessen the number of the people's representatives could be a dangerous and disastrous mistake by making our state government more susceptible and subservient to powerful lobbies of the vested and special interest groups who do not always promote the best interests of the citizenry as a whole.

Time after time, in smaller legislative bodies, we can see the course of legislation altered by the switch of two or three votes as a result of pressure from the governor's office, powerful lobbyists, and other outside influences. In the larger House, such deceptive maneuvering cannot succeed because of the large number of members.

Though there has been a great mass of propaganda disseminated throughout the news media, both written and spoken, in favor of reducing the number of representatives, there has not yet been offered a single bit of proof or evidence that a smaller number of legislators will be any improvement over the present 240.

The "reformers" main thrust seems to be in the use of such meaningless platitudes as "greater responsiveness", "more visibility", "increased efficiency", "more effective", "stronger", without a scintilla of evidence to substantiate such theoretical promises.

Neither is the oft-stated bromide that the Massachusetts House is the second largest among the 50 any criteria that our state government would be any better off with a smaller House. As a matter of fact, in the ratio of the number of persons represented by each legislator, Massachusetts stands almost exactly in the middle of the 50 states, with 26 having a higher number of citizens per representative and 23 states having a lesser number.

Historically, the size of the Massachusetts House of Representatives was established at 240 members in 1857. The population of the state at that time was 1,140,000, a ratio of 5,000 citizens per representative. Today, 112 years later, our state's population is more than five and a half million, a ratio of more than 22,000 persons per representative, nearly four and a half times as many.

Oddly enough, for well over a hundred years, during which the Republican Party maintained control for the Massachusetts government, never was heard any great demand for a reduction in the size of the House during all of those years.

The question naturally arises . . . are the motives of today's "reformers" as truly altruistic as the purport them to be?

Under the present system, your legislator is as accessible as "the guy next door". To remove state government farther away from the people could be a tragic mistake. The legislature is the citizens' safeguard of their lives, liberty, and pursuit of happiness. It should not be tampered with in any way which might lessen the power of the citizen's voice in his government.

Men's Badminton Tourney Starts May 17 At 'Y'

The Quincy Y.M.C.A. has announced plans for its coming Men's Open Badminton Tournament next month.

The tournament is open to all men 18 years of age and older who are interested in competing in formal competition. Mr. Phil Keller, Associate Physical Director, suggested that novices consider the tournament as an opportunity to learn more about the game.

The tournament will be a single elimination best two of three games per match. The first two rounds for singles are scheduled for Saturday, May 17, 2 and 5 p.m. with the final matches Sunday afternoon 2 and 4 p.m. The first two rounds for doubles are scheduled for Saturday May 17 at 5 and 8 p.m. with he final matches Sunday afternoon 4 and 6 p.m.

Registration fee is two dollars plus one dollar for singles play and a dollar for doubles play. Deadling for registration is May 8. Trophies will be awarded for first and second place in singles and doubles. Entry forms may be obtained at the front desk of the Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Keller announced that the tournament is not a sanctioned event. Four courts will be used for play. Plastic birdies will be used. Men interested in playing doubles, but unable to find a partner may request the Tournament Committee to assign a partner. Spectators are invited to attend the tournament. A small admission will be charged.

Togetherness....

OFF ON STROLL are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Olsen of Germantown who have clocked some 3,000 miles on foot since 1967, averaging 30 miles a week. They think nothing of walking from Quincy to Brockton or Boston for the fun of it.

[Quincy Sun Photo by Robert Leo Eng]

Quincy Couple Clock 3,000 Miles Walking

By Marion Andrews

They claim they are not out to make or break any kind of record, but Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Olsen of 72 hodgkinson St., Germantown are setting some sort of one for walking—if not for the general public, surely for senior citizens.

The couple has walked 3000 miles since Jan. 1, 1967. Mr. Olsen is 72 and Mrs. Olsen 65.

The zest for walking began six years ago when Mrs. Olsen, confined to bed with a back ailment, was advised by her doctor to get out and walk to strengthen her back. What began as prescribed medicine has become a favorite past-time for the couple.

The energetic Mr. and Mrs. Olsen have set a goal of 30 miles a week for themselves. This often leads to "casual" walks to Dedham, Abington, Boston or Hingham.

On one occasion the decided to walk to Brockton. This latter destination has become an annual stroll for them. It is the longest walk in distance and time that they have undertaken to date. They covered the round trip of 30 miles in 10 hours stopping only for meals.

The Olsens are year 'round walkers. Only heavy snow or rain, extreme cold or heat will stop them from their daily walks.

Both have noticed changes in their health since undertaking their daily exercise. Mrs. Olsen points out that she no longer has backaches and Mr. Olsen has no difficulty in keeping his weight where he wants it.

Mr. Olsen claims to be the better walker of the two when it comes to the straight-away but that the petite Mrs. Olsen outshines him on the inclines.

Although walking is the couple's main hobby they both enjoy other interests. Mrs. Olsen enjoys reading, she has a library of 2,000 books, while Mr. Olsen has for quite some time enjoyed skindiving. Both enjoy fishing and taking their 13 grandchildren on rides along Quincy Bay in their 16 foot outboard motor boat.

Mr. Olsen is a retired electrician. Prior to his retirement in 1962 he was employed for 21 years by Proctor and Gamble Company. He is an active member of the Quincy Power Squadron and has been teaching celestial navigation for that group for the past five years.

For Better Protection

21 Appointments Beef Up Police, Fire Departments

Appointments and promotions of 21 men will be made Friday to beef up and step up the efficiency of the Quincy Police and Fire Departments.

The 21 men-representing the largest single change in personnel for the two protective branches in recent years- - will be sworn in Friday at City Hall.

It will give both departments more man-power and flexibility and bring into existence a police Narcotics Division to fight the ominous rise in drug abuse especially among Quincy teen-agers.

Major promotion is that of veteran Fire Capt. Thomas F. Maguire to the rank of deputy chief to serve as administrative assistant to Fire Chief Edward F. Barry.

In addition to Maguire, the promotions involve a new fire captain and two lieutenants,three new police lieutenants and three new sergeants.

Appointments include eight new patrolmen and three new firefighters.

The Fire Department appointments and promotions will become effective Saturday and the Police Department's May 19,said City Personnel Director Kenneth G. Gardner.

Mayor James R. McIntyre who made the appointments and promotions said:

"They are needed and will increase the efficiency of both departments giving Quincy a first class line of defense against both fire and crime."

Chief Barry said new Deputy Chief Maguire as administrative assistant will take charge of fire department personnel and administrative detail. During Barrys absence at any time in the future, Maguire will serve as acting chief

"It will greatly increase efficiency in department administrative matters," Chief Barry said.

Maguire, Barry noted, has been serving in an administrative assistant capacity for a year.

A 22-year veteran, Maguire who lives at 54 Williams St., joined the department as a permanent firefighter July 27, 1947. He was promoted to lieutenant in 1955 and to captain in 1958.

Drops Residential Route

Mayor Seeks Alternate Road To New West Quincy Dump

Mayor James R. McIntyre will seek an alternate access road to a proposed new dumping area to keep refuse trucks from traveling through residential West Quincy areas.

The Mayor said he was 'deeply impressed and concerned by arguments from residents opposing two other proposed access roads to the Cashman's Quarry area.

He said he will reject these two road proposals despite the fact engineers recommended them because of road grades and closeness to water service in case of refuse fires.

McIntyre said he instead will go back to the original planned use of a private way known as Burnham Drive which is off Willard St. and away from the residential areas.

The dirt road, he said, would be widened, paved and extended to provide access and to the planned new dumping site in the Cash man quarry area.

The Mayor said he will ask City Council President J. Vincent Smyth to withdraw from council consideration two landtaking orders designed to provide the two access roads now being abandoned.

He said he will ask the council to approve an original order dated Sept. 16, 1968 to take the Burnham Drive private way.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Quincy Sun

May I ask that the taxpayers and rentpayers of Quincy be furnished the answers to the following questions by either the Mayor or the Taxpayers Association before anymore tax valuation is taken off the tax rolls.

1. How much taxable valuation has already been lost by the city because of the MBTA?

2. How much more taxable valuation is anticipated to be lost in the future because of the MBTA?

3. How much taxable valuation will be lost by the taking of all the houses on the easterly side of Upland road?

4. How much taxable valuation will be lost because of the proposed Mechanic street parking lot?

5. How much taxable valuation will be lost because of the new roads leading to the proposed West Quincy dump?

6. How much taxable valuation will be lost by locating the proposed new courthouse on Chestnut street?

7. How much taxable valuation will be lost because the above properties are not allowed to be developed normally?

In my opinion, a conservative estimate of the loss of taxable valuation will be in excess of $10,000,000.

Based on the estimated tax rate of over $100. this means an annual loss to the city of more thant $1,000,000.00.

Incidentally I would like to ask how many people have already or in the future will be put out of their homes?

How much can the taxpayer and rentpayer afford?

T. Russel Bates.

Dante F. Mastro, II Elected Secretary Of N.H. Education Assn.

DANTE F. MASTRO

Dante F. Mastro II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dante F. Mastro of 11 Rosemary Lane, West Quincy, was elected State Recording Secretary of the Student New Hampshire Education Association recently.

A major purpose of the Association is to "encourage and support classroom teacher participation in the formulation and implementation of educational policies in local, state, and national professional associations and in all educational enterprises in which classroom teachers are involved."

Dante, a 1968 graduate of Quincy High School, is a Freshman at New England College, Henniker, N.H., and is majoring in Elementary Education.

Sunbeams

The sudden death last week of George Swartz, co-founder and president of the "Hundred Club of Massachusetts" stunned and saddened his many friends in Quincy.

George, despite heart surgery some years ago, never slowed down, living every second of his life to the fullest--most of it helping others.

"We Care For Those Who Care For Us," is the motto of the Hundred Club". And the club's members--including 24 Quincy businessmen--have lived up to those eight little words by deed.

Under George's dynamic leadership, the club's membership--originally set for 100-- grew to 1,100.

And since its inception in January, 1961 the club has given approximately $365,000 to financially aid the families of 132 police and firefighters who gave their lives in the line of duty.

To make this possible, each of the club's members contributes $250 a year.

Within hours after a policeman or firefighter has been killed, a $1,000 check is presented to his family to ease their immediate financial burden.

Later, the club follows that up with a contribution up to $10,000 to pay off the mortage on the home.

Money, of course, will never bring back a loved husband and father. But it does help ease the financial pain.

And, as George used to make perfectly clear:

"This is not charity. This is our privilege because your husband gave his life to protect our lives and property."

George is gone now. But the club members are determined to carry on their humane project in his memory.

Among them are Denis J. Donoghue and Ernest J. Montilio, who organized the Quincy group, and the following Quincy members:

Larry Antonelli, Chester O. Bennett, Sr., Gary Blake, Joseph F. Cahill, Paul V. Colletti, Joseph Coppleman, Robert C. Costello, Leo Darr, Martin DeMatteo, Jr., Dr. Charles Djerf, Thomas P. Doyle, Francis Duggan, George A. Goodhue, Thomas Hanlon, Leo J. Hannon, Jr., William F. Judge, Cornelius V. Keohane, James F. McCormick, Sr., Joseph A. Papaz, J. Vincent Smyth, John Ucello and C. M. Woodbury.

MENTIONING Dr. Djerf in the list of ONe Hundred Club members, reminds us he was presented the Certificate of Achievement Award by fellow Quincy Rotarians, and cited for "giving service above self."

And those aren't empty words either. He's one doctor who still climbs out of bed in the middle of the night to tend to a sick child. And he has helped many other people in many different ways which he never mentions but a few close to him know about.

One interesting fact brought out about him during the presentation of the award is that in his early days he played in the Barnum & Bailey Circus Band.

Maybe his days with the circus gave him that common touch that he has never lost.

SENATOR James R. McIntyre has been named to the Benevolent Committee of the Massachusetts Legislators Association by President Harold E. Rosen.

AND, if McIntyre is as active with that committee as he is as chairman of the joint legislative Transportation Committee, things should be humming in the association.

In his recent Quincy tour, Sen. President Maurice Donahue took a look around at all the activity involving the MBTA rapid transit extension--including new road and bridge construction--and quipped: "Until now I thought the President of the Senate had influence."

REP-COUNCILLOR Clifford H. Marshall is the latest to join the "Kick The Nicotine Habit" battle. Has been off cigarettes a few days. They've been long, long days, though.

IT'S ALL QUIET on the Quincy political front this week, or seems to be anyway. Only note is from Louis Caruso saying he will run again for the Ward 3 City Council seat. Everybody else seems to be sitting back and waiting for someone else to make a move.

Hold this circle to your face and blow on it. If it turns green, call your docktor. If it turns brown, see your dentist. If it turns purple, see your psychiatrist. If it turns red, see your banker. If it turns black, call your lawyer and make a will.

If it remains the same color, you are in good health, and there is no reason on earth why you should not be in Church next Sunday morning.

Second Parking Hearing To Be Set Monday

Proponent...

FRANK E. REMICK, prominent downtown businessman, urges approval of the Mechanic St. parking area as an economic necessity.

STANDING ROOM ONLY was the scene in the City Council Chamber this week at a public hearing on the proposed 140-car Mechanic St. municipal parking area. The session, with both proponents and opponents having their say, lasted two hours. [Quincy Sun Photos by Robert Leo Eng]

Opponet...

LAURENCE J. CURTIN, president of Quincy Citizens Association, speaks out strongly in opposition to the proposed parking area.

The City Council will set the date for a second public hearing on the proposed 140-car Mechanic St. municipal parking lot at its regular meeting Monday night.

The second hearing, Council President J. Vincent Smyth noted, is necessary because of opposition to the proposal registered at a two-hour airing this week.

Proponents argued that the planned project is necessary for the "economic vitality" of not only the downtown business district but the city in general.

Opponents countered that the problem is not one of a need for more parking but one of relieving traffic congestion.

Both sides appeared in the Council Chamber armed with petitions to augment their verbal ammunition.

William A. O'Connell, executive vice-president of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce presented in behalf of proponents petitions bearing an estimated 5,000 signatures of persons favoring the proposed parking project.

Atty. James F. Reynolds presented for the opposition forces, a petition containing the names of 690 persons against the parking proposal.

The "in-person" scoreboard at the hearing showed 54 persons favoring the project and 36 against.

The 54 in favor included 14 speakers and 40 persons who recorded themselves with City Clerk John M. Gillis.

The 36 in opposition included 15 speakers and 21 persons who recorded themselves.

Frank E. Remick, owner of Remick's of Quincy, kenoted the feelings of the proponents who represented a good part of the downtown business area.

He warned without more parking, Quincy could "forfeit its dominant position in the South Shore."

"The MBTA," he declared, "will be accompanied by a stimulus of the local economy and construction of office buildings and these developments must be accompanied by adequate parking."

Arguments in favor also cited:

–Beneficial effects on small business with city-provided off-street parking.

--Creation of jobs with improved business.

–Greater turn-over of parking spaces to accomodate more shoppers.

–Blight that lack of proper parking planning could bring to the downtown area.

But Laurence J. Curtin, president of the Quincy Citizens' Association who spearheaded the opposition labeled proponents arguments "the same old propoganda".

He cited as evidence of Quincy citizens' opposition to municipal parking areas a 1966 refrendum which killed a planned southerly extension of the Ross parking area.

The actual problems of the downtown area are traffic jams and not lack of parking, he claimed, and asserted that merchants should provide their own parking areas.

Curtin and several downtown businessmen who lined up with the opposition forces called for a more long range and "sensible" planning in curing downtown parking problems.

Bar Association Holds 'Law Day' Ceremonies

"Law Day, U.S.A." will be observed this morning, Thursday, with Quincy Bar Association exercises at the Quincy District Court.

The program will begin with a flag raising ceremony at 8:30 a.m.

Participants will then march into the courtroom including, court officers, color guard, chiefs of police, chamber of commerce representatives and Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, superintendent of Quincy Schools. Also participating will be members of the School Committee, Clerymen of all faiths, Stephen T. Keefe, Jr., president of the Quincy Bar Association, Mayor James R. McIntyre, Norfolk County District Attorney George C. Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue will offer the invocation. Mr. Keefe will then submit a Law-Day motion.

The Rev. Elden D. J. Zuern of Quincy Point Congregational Church will lead the gathering in a prayer.

Dist. Atty. George G. Burke, Judge James A. Mulhall, and Jeffrey Hughes will address those in attendance.

The program will conclude with a benediction by the Rev. John Curley, St. Francis of Assisi Church, Braintree, who is one of the Catholic Chaplains, District Court of East Norfolk.

Firefighter Cited Given 2 Days Off For Quarry Rescue

A Quincy firefighter's heroism in rescuing a 13 year old boy from Swingle's Quarry won him a citation from Fire Chief Edward F. Barry and a two day hero's holiday.

Edward P. O'Toole of Rescue One was commended for his rescue April 22 of George Sharpe, 406 Willard St. The youngster was pulled to safety after he had become marooned at the bottom of the dangerous quarry.

In awarding Firefighter O'Toole two days off, Chief Barry also commended the other firefighters who provided rescue assistance.

The citation read, in part:

"On April 22, 1969 at 4:06 p.m., Box 4321 located at Willard and Douglas Streets was pulled for assistance for George Sharpe, thirteen years of age, of 406 Willard Street, who had climbed to the bottom of Sqingles Quarry, but was unable to return.

Rescue 1 in charge of Captain Joseph Jackson and Firefighter Edward O'Toole was special called to the scene by Deputy Chief William Barron.

Firefighter O'Toole upon his arrival and without any hesitation or regard for his own personal safety, attached a life line to himself and volunteered to be lowered down the steep ledge of the quarry--a distance of over two hundred feet. He descended to the bottom and attached a life line to the boy and gave instructions to the officers and firefighters hauling on the life line until they were both hauled to safety."
